Bordeaux Jail Prisoners Stage Four-Hour Riot

Four Injured, Damage Estimated at $50,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's riot-starred Bordeaux Jail was grave scarred by more trouble today when guards began the job of moving 400 rebellious prisoners back into their own cells.

The prisoners, who staged a wild, four-hour New Year's Day riot, may be in a sour mood after spending a cold, wet night in the wreckage of two cell blocks where they were herded.

Supt. Leon Lambert, acting governor of the 750-man jail, says he expects "more disturbances" when the guards face the prisoners today. He estimated damage in the two prison wings where the riot centred at $50,000.

Four men, Firemen Robert Way, and three prisoners, were injured, none seriously. Way was struck by a piece of metal thrown by a prisoner.

Col. Lambert said the cause of the injuries to the prisoners—they walked to the ambulance which took them to the hospital —could not be determined immediately.

THROW OUT NAKED

They probably got hurt fighting among themselves, he said. One prisoner, thrown naked from his cell, was bleeding from cuts over his whole body. Apparently, he had been clubbed viciously with broken glass.

Cause of the riot was attributed to the decision "to do away of goofballs — barbiturates — smuggled into the prison. Col. Lambert said some of the men "looked drunk," probably from barbiturates.

The uprising began with grumbling shouts among the prisoners, then two wings of the jail at 2:30 pm. EST. It burst into a major riot two hours later when prisoners from the "trial block," where those awaiting trial are held, overpowered a supper of roast beef to fellow prisoners.

Lambert said "trial prisoners" are habitual trouble makers. Bordeaux, on the outskirts of Montreal, is crowded in the north end, contains only sentenced prisoners serving two years or less.

WEDGE DOORS OPEN

Jail Controller J. A. Pilon said cell doors were wedged open but they wouldn't shut tight by the time guards got there; they set out to serve the meals.

When the ruckus began, there was a complete power failure which Rogey Grothe, the prison's maintenance director, said could only have been caused by deliberate short circuit. It appeared a fire was the thing was planned, he said.

Complete power wasn't restored for two hours. "The main trouble was that we couldn't see what was happening after the lights cut the power," Col. Lambert said. "Also, we could getthe open nor close the automatic doors on the cells without electricity."

Police moved in with tear gas, headed by police forensic expert Leo Plouffe, but hadn't to use it because "we couldn't tell exactly how it would affect these prisoners." Many could have died from an overdose of gas, he said.

There was also no power to

Pack of Stray Dogs Kills Little Girl

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A six-year-old girl was killed and wounded by a pack of stray dogs Sunday.

Deborah June Richards was attacked about 1?9 yards from the community hall at Auden, after being let out of her father's small truck to attend Sunday school.

The father, Gordon, operator of a saw shop at Auden, 200 miles northeast of here on Lake Nipigon, had driven his daughter to the hall. But classes were cancelled as the hall could be decorated for a New Year's Eve party and the girl began walking home.

The family owns a German shepherd dog which usually waited for Deborah outside the hall. But because it had scratched the hall door during recent Sunday, Mr. Richards decided to take it home.

The Richard's dog frequently fought with a pack of six to 10 stray dogs from the nearby Indian village of Onabika. As Mr. Richards drove home, the pack of strays followed him, attacking at the German shepherd in the back of the truck. When he got home they turned back and met Deborah.

Police believe the strays, worked up by their chase, attacked the girl because they smelled the scent of the German shepherd on her.

HUNT ATTACKERS.

The fatal attack shocked the 200 residents in the company town and police authorized two men to track the animals down.

Five dogs from the pack of strays had been shot by Monday night. Several others were still on the loose.

"Anybody you talked to had tears in their eyes," said Const. B. E. Dorigo of the local Provincial Police, who helped investigate the incident.

Const. Dorigo said the dogs were attracted to the community in search of food. The pack usually congregated around the cookhouse of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company, which owns and operates Auden as a wood-cutting centre.

William Poli and Jack Adderly, foreman with Abitibi, were given authority to hunt the animals. Police permission is needed because Auden is in a game preserve and there is a ban on the carrying of firearms there.

Triplet Girls Born in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—A 31-year-old Ottawa Technical School teacher, the father of the first triplets born in Canada in the last Monday he now has a basketball team in the family.

The trouble is, it will be a mixed team with the three baby girls joining a brother, Randy, 4, and a sister, Susan, 2.

The triplets were born to Mrs. John King, two months premature in Grace Hospital. Dr. Donald Hyndman prescribed oxygen and ordered them into incubators.

The hospital said the mother and babies were doing "as well as can be expected."

The father said he was "bearing up fine under it all."

SCHOOL TEACHER, 15-YR.-OLD GIRL FOUND IN CAR

Man in Custody For Abduction

CAYUGA, Ont. (CP) — A 15-year-old girl is charged with abducting 11 days ago were found, by police Monday, huddled beneath a blanket in their car parked in the seven miles from the girl's home.

Charles Richeson, 20-year-old teacher at a two-room Roman Catholic "separate school," was brought to jail here. He is charged with the abduction of attractive Susan Vermette; with fraud in connection with the purchase of a car; and with detention of his 17-year-old sister and their six-weeks-old daughter.

The hunt for Richeson and the girl had spread across Canada and into the United States.

The couple apparently went to Florida and were en route to Hamilton, 20 miles north of here, from Jacksonville when their car ran out of gasoline near Caledonia.

HUDDLE UNDER BLANKET

Provincial police constable Bruce Wilson found them in the car. They had apparently huddled under a blanket for more than three hours to keep from freezing in the 15 degree weather.

Susan, scffed oldest of seven children, was last seen alive by her when she got into a car and disappeared. She was a pupil at Hagersville McCaffrey School where Richeson taught. The tiny school is closed now for lack of a teacher and is not likely to reopen until next year.

Police said they had had no money when found. The car contained a suitcase, food bought at a grocery store, a woman's white overcoat, two pairs of shoes, a top panda and several bills from Miami motels.

Susan's brothers and sisters gave her the Christmas presents with the dolls and the family celebrated both Christmas and New Year's.

"It's the best New Year's gift I could have," said Hubert Vermette, their metalworker father. "We're glad to have her back."

Mrs. Vermette said "trial prisoners" are habitual trouble makers. Bordeaux, on the outskirts of Montreal, is crowded in the north end, contains only prisoners serving sentences of two years or less.

FIRST NEW YEAR BABY at Belleville General Hospital was a bouncing baby boy born to Mr. and Mrs. William Post, 95 South John Street. Mrs. Post is seen holding the still un-named new baby—a brother for three-year-old Max at home.

Three Boys and Girl Born In Hospital New Year's Day

The boys had it three to one as the New Year arrivals checked in at Belleville General Hospital.

The first New Year's baby at the Belleville Hospital was a bouncing big boy born to Mr. and Mrs. William Post, 95 South John Street, shortly after six o'clock Monday morning. It was the second child for Mr. and Mrs. Post, who have a three-year-old son, Max, at home.

Other New Year arrivals at the Belleville Hospital were a boy, born to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Moorcroft, of Madoc, a boy to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Reddick, 161 Station Street, Belleville, with the lone baby girl being born to Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Bean of, Tweed.

They said more than four babies had been born at the hospital in one day, but yesterday's crop was the biggest for some years for a New Year's Day.

Even at that there was almost a fifth New Year baby at the hospital. But what would have been a fifth was a few minutes late and instead arrived early this morning.

World Leaders Express Hope For Peace in Coming Year

LONDON (Reuters) — World leaders exchanged messages 1962 Monday that contained a mixture of hope and foreboding for the new year.

"There is no doubt that on the state of affairs in Soviet-American relations depends very much whether humanity will go forward next year or," the Soviet message said.

Prime Minister Macmillan told Khrushchev he shared his hope 1962 "may bring some progress toward a peaceful and satisfactory solution of the problems that confront us."

French President de Gaulle was among the statesmen who were more concrete. In a new year's order of the day to his land forces, de Gaulle said they "must essentially prepare themselves in Europe for the great warrior actions which could be imposed on the nation and on her allies."

Sukarno Says New Guinea An Indonesian Province

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno has proclaimed Netherlands New Guinea a province of Indonesia. He also has ordered a special military command set up to direct any invasion of the Dutch territory but announced no date for the invasion.

Indonesian military leaders favor postponing an invasion until the late year, when their forces will be strengthened by ships and planes now on order from Communist countries.

Netherlands New Guinea — 156,000 square miles of jungles, mountains and swamps that are some of the Second World War's hardest fighting — has been claimed by Indonesia ever since it won independence from The Netherlands in 1949.

The Dutch say the Papuans in the disputed territory have no ethnic relationship to the Indonesians and are only beginning to learn self-government under Dutch tutelage.

Status of the Papuans is a major matter of concern in the Dutch parliamentary debate on New Guinea opening in The Hague today. The Labor party opposition is pressing the government to announce it is willing to relinquish the territory and then to negotiate on some autonomy for the Papuans. Previously the government has demanded self-determination for the Papuans.

Foreign Minister Subandrio recently said Indonesia might

World Rings in the New Year With Celebrations and Hope

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The world rang in the new year with gay celebrations, putting aside thoughts of the troubles 1962 might bring.

Revellers in Paris were too busy kissing girls on the Champs Elysees to notice the explosions of three small plastic bombs in gardens near the avenue.

In London, about 130 high-spirited celebrants jumped in the fountains in Trafalgar Square and cheerfully paid fines of 20 or 30s ($2.80 to $4.20) in police court Monday.

Most Americans were glued to their television sets for the big weekend football matches but in Philadelphia big crowds turned out to watch a traditional Mummers parade Monday featuring 15,000 costumed marchers.

In Italy, New Year's Eve celebrations brought death to three people and injured hundreds. Fireworks caused most of the casualties, but two of the deaths resulted from wild pistol shots fired by celebrants.

In Palm Beach, Fla., President Kennedy cheered by the pace of his father's recovery, took a New Year's Day break from golf to attend the Tuesday Night Club dinner dance, a fancy-dress party for 300 at the Everglades Club.

Kennedy and his wife spent a quiet day with their children and relatives, heartened by evident improvement in the condition of the former ambassador, 73-year-old father, Joseph P. Kennedy was reported "resting well" in hospital bed Sunday for the first time since he suffered a stroke Dec. 19.

Revolt Crushed, Portugal Hunts Rebels' Leaders

Band of Forty Fails To Seize Army Barracks

BEJA, Portugal (AP) — The band was ordered today for political associates of Manuel Serra who tried unsuccessfully to seize a military barracks and touch off a revolution against Premier Antonio Salazar's government.

Capt. Joao Mari Paulo Varela Gomes, an army officer turned political opponent of Salazar, led the Beja hospital. Manuel Serra, a former Roman Catholic youth leader, in the authorities said shared leadership of the uprising with Gomes. Serra died while heading for the Spanish border with four heavily-armed companions.

Between 40 and 50 persons, most of them workers, were involved in the band that engaged Salazar's troops in a three-hour gun battle Monday at the barracks of the 3rd Infantry Regiment. Officials at first announced 11 had been killed or captured.

But so far the government has announced only one rebel killed, two wounded and 30 others captured. It appeared Gomes was still be at large, although the rebel casualties were believed to have been greater than that the government said.

Government officials said the insurrection of the Beja district, said in a radio interview that some of the rebels were in army uniforms and quoted Gomes, Reuters reported.

The Portuguese national radio also said several Communists were among those held. Government Fracous said a plot had come from outside the barracks and only two officers were involved, operated with them, Reuters said.

The government tightened security precautions after the uprising by placing the entire area in military units in a "state of prevention." There was no general alert, but a huge military parade scheduled for Wednesday night was cancelled, officially in mourning for da Fonseca.

Salazar was to have addressed the rally to mobilize support for policy for 1962 following a year of painful social agitation and setbacks ranging from the seizure of the liner Santa Maria on the

HEALTH SERVICE PREMIUMS FIXED FOR TWO YEARS

Sales Tax Revenue Will Be Used

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Roberts says the provincial sales tax imposed in Ontario last Sept. 1 will help the government hold down premiums for hospital insurance.

Announcement on plans outlined in his broadcast New Year message, Mr. Roberts said the government is to collect imposed the new tax to help meet growing costs in such fields as health and education.

Revenue from the sales tax will help the government freeze health service premiums for two years while meeting the cost of a hospital expansion program.

Mr. Roberts said Ontario has engaged in a program that will add nearly 2,000 hospital beds during the next two years to the present total of more 80,000 beds in the province.

He said the additional revenue also is needed for expansion of school facilities, such as a $200,000,000 vocational school building program now under way. He noted that Ontario's school population is growing by 70,000 annually and that the enrolment in university students in the province is expected to double in this decade.

SALES TAX MORE

But the premier added that, despite the need for more revenue, the government plans to exempt more products from sales tax. He mentioned "certain educational supplies" in his speech and in addition listed for exemption vitamins, saccharine, sucaryl and "such dietary foods or adjuncts as liquid diets."

Mr. Roberts announced on provincial funds is in the construction, improvement and maintenance of provincial streets and roads, he said. A total of $1,000,000 is estimated $7,200,000,000 required for roads in the next year period ending in 1977 will be met from provincial revenue, he said.

Mr. Roberts said he available for municipal roads with the construction of Highway 401 and the Ontario section of the Trans-Canada Highway in 1963, he said.

"Once they are complete we will be able to develop a continuing program of aid to the municipalities," he said, mentioning particularly such projects as municipal highways in Metropolitan Toronto.

Gets $1,000 Bill Back From Store

TRURO, N.S. (CP)—Lawrence MacGillivray of Spencer's Island, N.S., has his $1,000 bill back after several days of anxiety.

He passed the bill at a local hardware store for a $2 note and has his change without noticing it. The experience, Gerald Quigley, the store proprietor, did not notice it either until later.

Quigley kept the bill, expecting the passer would come to advertise. MacGillivray did, identifying the bill by serial number. A few days later he had his $1,000 back.

Kennedy Wants Control Over Income Tax Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration is reported to be seriously considering asking Congress to give the president authority to increase or reduce income tax rates by a hedge against inflation or recession.

Although details were withheld, the plan was said to provide for presidential authority to cut the basic 20-per-cent tax rate by possibly 15 per cent for a limited period only — perhaps, for six months — with the cut subject to congressional veto at any time.

Many economists have urged that device on grounds the government needs a more flexible anti-slump weapon than now available.

On the other hand, a tax increase could help brake any serious inflationary situation. He said in his weekly radio address Sunday that if every home owner set aside just one project for the winter months it would make thousands of work opportunities available.

Capital Murder Charge Laid in Woman's Death

GALT (CP) — Mrs. Shirley Coleman, 23-year-old divorcee, was charged with murder after a charge of capital murder was laid against Rodney Simmons, 20.

Simmons was remanded to county jail for a week.

They said they received a call about 1 a.m. in the home of the victim's parents on Concession Road on the northern outskirts of the city.

Mrs. Coleman was removed by ambulance to hospital where she died about two hours later.

An autopsy was performed at 10 a.m., but details were not released.

London Freezeup Stops Trains, Slows Buses and Cancels Flights

LONDON (Reuters) — London, caught unprepared by a record snowstorm three days before the New Year, was slowly recovering today from the freezeup which stopped trains, slowed buses, and put London airport out of action.

Temperatures gradually rose above freezing point at noon and frozen snow and slush began to disappear from the main traffic routes.

Subway and suburban railroad services, paralyzed on the first day of the "little blizzard" were also gradually getting back to normal, although often well behind time.

But at London airport, while foreign planes landed and took off again on snow-clear runways, British European Airways cancelled 18 services to points in Europe in addition to nine already grounded.

"We are finding it almost impossible to get aircraft de-frozen quickly enough," an airline official said.

Two Youngsters Saved But One Is Drowned

KESWICK, Ont. (CP) Two youngsters pulled themselves from the frigid waters of Lake Simcoe Monday by clutching a jacket thrown to them over the ice, but a 16-year-old boy was drowned when he could not reach the shore.

Brian Bartlett, his sister Lana, 14, and Fred Hughes, 16, all of Toronto, ventured far out off nearby Snake Island and fell into water less than an inch thick.

John Parrens, 17, of Toronto, who was checking the ice to see whether it was safe for ice-fishing, rescued Lana and Roy.

Just One Entry Filed to Date In Stork Derby

TORONTO (CP) — One completed entry and several inquiries have been received in Toronto's third stork derby. Deadline for the derby entries is Jan. 10.

The derby is the third of four, each worth $2,500 in legacies provided by the will of former Toronto mayor Thomas Foster, who died in 1954.

The will, leaving an estate of more than $1,000,000, set up the stork derby in four 10-year periods. The derby awards prizes to Toronto mothers who have borne the greatest number of children in 10-year periods ending in 1956, 1966, 1976 and 1986. Top prize is $1,250. Second and third places in the derby are worth $800 and $450.

An official of the trust company managing the derby said today only one completed entry has been received but that more are expected before the deadline. He said several steps had to be taken before the process of entering the derby could be completed.

In the 1959 version two women each qualified with nine children and split the first and second place money. The $800 award was divided among five mothers with seven children each.

Dredge Towed Into Halifax By Ocean Tug

HALIFAX (CP)—The trouble-plagued dredge Cartagena reached Halifax harbor today barely in time to escape getting caught in a northeast blizzard.

The $4,000,000 dredge, owned by the Standard Dredging Company of New York, tied up alongside a salvage pier after the Canadian tug Foundation Vigilant brought her into port in a snowstorm that struck the Nova Scotia coast this morning.

For 2½ days the Vigilant had struggled in heavy seas to tow good spirits and smiling faces 300 miles to safety.

The Cartagena's troubles began Christmas Day when she broke away from the Vigilant while being towed from Quebec City to Baltimore. The two vessels were then about 200 miles south of Halifax.

The dredge's 10 man crew abandoned the following day and was taken ashore by United States coast guard vessel. Two days later four crew members from the Vigilant managed to board the dredge and Saturday the tug got a line on her and started towing her to Halifax.

A spokesman for Foundation Maritime Limited said that Vigilant made fair progress until late Sunday, when she struck strong headwinds and began taking "quite a beating." Weather trouble continued Monday.

An RCAF Search and Rescue spokesman said an air force plane was dispatched to the area Monday night to give the tug her exact location after rescue headquarters here picked up radio reports indicating she was having trouble with her direction-finding equipment.

U.S.Ambassador Meets Gromyko On Berlin Issue

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Llewelyn Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko conferred for 2½ hours today in what is seen as a new attempt to find a mutually satisfactory basis for negotiating East-West problems on Berlin.

Thompson, asked if there would be more sessions, said "I suppose so but I do not know when."

Emerging from the foreign ministry building, he seemed in good spirits and smiled briefly. But asked how the session went, Thompson replied "I would not want to say."

He declined to go into the substance of what he and Gromyko talked about except to say it was "a useful discussion."

Gromyko was accompanied by Ivan Ivitchev, a Soviet foreign ministry official who was formerly ambassador to East Germany.

Thompson said he would brief the British and French ambassadors here on the conference.

FOLLOWS AGREED PLAN

The allied approach to the Russians through Thompson was agreed on by the Western Allies, at a meeting of the U.S., British, French and West German foreign ministers in Paris last month. It was later approved by the NATO ministerial council and by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan at their Bermuda meeting.

The sounding-out approach was decided on after French President de Gaulle refused to enter into formal negotiations with the Russians on Berlin, unless they took concrete decisions to remove the tension which resulted from Soviet Premier Khrushchev's attempts to end the allied occupation of West Berlin.

The Russians appear anxious for negotiations with the West on Berlin. Thompson's task now is to find out whether they are willing to relax their demands sufficiently to show some promise of a Western-Soviet agreement which would safeguard the Western presence in West Berlin.

SUKARNO SAYS

Sukarno, however, gave no hint of conciliation after a meeting with his military advisers at Bogor Palace. Asked by reporters what was discussed, Sukarno shook a clenched fist and said: "We discussed this."

Then he issued an order declaring that Dutch New Guinea is "the Indonesian province of West Irian, the Indonesian name for the disputed territory. "Therefore," he said in his reply, once is to have a Papuan government, a move apparently aimed at Dutch public opinion and educated Papuans.

Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, security minister and army chief of staff, said in a news report that Sukarno's army is ready to invade New Guinea "during the rainy season" if starvation, the risk of hardship, or evidence of genocide, even the risk of death."

Military preparations say Sukarno, by the end of the year, will be able to send a naval flotilla across the Dutch military base quarters at Biak, while jet bombers will be operating from bases in Indonesia.

Sukarno has ample ground forces—40,000 troops hardened fighting at Java's border in Celebes and 200,000 experienced soldiers and militia—but his air power is the major question.

The navy recently announced it will buy submarines, destroyers and frigates from Italy and Poland. An Indonesian navy is reported to be training in the Soviet Union to bring home a Soviet - built cruiser.

Indonesia also expects additions to its MiG jet fighter squadrons and more than two dozen jet bombers later this year under an arms agreement with Moscow.

Soviet cargo transports from the United States are being used to train paratroops, and U.S. landing craft also have been added to the navy.

Hasty Pees, Legion Mark New Year's

SOUND THE ALARM

The uprising began New Year's morning. Witnesses gave this account:

The rebels burst past the guardpost at 1 a.m. Gunfire smashed into the officers' quarters, killing them and several others. But two junior officers managed to escape to another strong point. They sounded the alarm and resistance was organized.

The rebels were pinned down in the officers' quarters by machine-gun fire. Their radio was demolished. Then the defenders started to arrange a surrender, at the cost of his own life.

The shooting of the undersecretary of war aroused the loyal troops and panicked the rebels. A number of them attempted to escape by seizing army vehicles and driving from the barracks. All were captured, and resistance crumbled.

The unwounded rebels were put in the Dilli Jail, to be quickly gathered to demonstrate in opposition, shouting "Death to the friends of Nehru." Police eventually dispersed them.

IS CONFIDENT

Nehru said in a statement that the revolt was crushed by loyal troops and police "in a few hours" and that "the situation is under control."

He said he is confident the people of Goa will support India's action.

Nehru said the rebels were led by Indian nationals who had been living in Goa for some time.

Probe Charges Sub-Standard Meat Is Sold

TORONTO (CP)—In the wake of reports that meat fit only for manufacture into pet food has been sold for human consumption in a number of Canadian centres including Toronto and Ottawa, the Canadian Association of Consumers today called for more rigid food inspection.

The federal health department, food and drug directorate and the RCMP have been investigating for six months and charges are expected to be laid against "a considerable number of people" under the Criminal Code and the Food and Drug Act, Toronto Star said the association said here today.

Mrs. Ellen Hosmer, president and starved animals were being sold in most of Canada's provinces, she said.

She said 80 per cent of the meat sold in Canada was inspected but the remaining 20 per cent was giving cause for great concern.

Although there was a tendency to accuse small rural packing plants of selling the unfit, nearly all the blame could not be placed on them.

"This business appears to be surprisingly well organized," she said.

N.Y. Market Experienced First Billion-Share Year Since Big 1929 Depression

By AL COLLETTI

NEW YORK (CP)—The stock market in 1961 experienced its first billion-share year since 1929 and the stock price indexes ended the year near record highs, leaving Wall Street certain of good things ahead in 1962.

The so-called "golden sixties" arrived a year late for Wall Street, but what a fabulous year it was for brokerage warehouses. More than 1,015,000,000 shares were traded on the New York Stock Exchange alone, compared with 760,000,000 in 1960.

Turnover for the first six months of 1961 actually was greater than in 1929. Trading simmered down thereafter.

Many Wall Streeters predicted prices would increase in 1962 before any major change or "correction" they call it—in the bull market occurs.

GREEN SIGNS

But there were some grey signs. Higher interest rates by banks and better returns in the bond market could mean greater competition for the investment dollar at the expense of common stock.

Wall Streeters were wary of the implications of the current government investigation into exchange practices. Should any major unsavory manipulations be turned up it could shake public confidence in the stock market—something Wall Street has worked hard to build up—and lead to stricter regulations.

Business leaders saw many encouraging signs in the U.S. economic picture which would be a boon to a continued bull market. The economy had regained its health after the recession and business at the year's end was brisker in most lines, but not in all.

NO RUNAWAY BOOM

Wall Industrialists held the general feeling that there would be no runaway boom in 1962, the promise of increased government, and consumer, spending. A small increase in corporate profits and more jobs and less unemployment helped paint a rosy picture.

Leading industrialists a few weeks ago were here and generally agreed that there would be a continuation through 1962 of the business upswing that began in the spring of 1961, provided there isn't a steel strike.

The Gross National Product—total value of goods and services—may be running at the annual rate of $580,000,000,000 by the end of 1962, compared with the annual rate of $540,000,000,000 in 1961's last three months.

The auto industry planned to build more cars in the first quarter of 1962 than in any single 1961 quarter, convinced that the average person in the U.S. is going to spend more next year than in 1961.

Industrial production climbed to a record in 1961 and the general public found a lot of extra cash to put into the stock market.

The get - rich - quick fever swept Wall Street in the spring as science stock prices—and in others—grated dizzily upward, then cooled off—with some folks nodding by in the ride.

The momentum of the advance was so great that two stock splits were made by Chrysler, president of the New York Exchange, studied the advance only temporarily.

A $750,000 investigation was started in Washington to see if the average investor was adequately protected and whether reforms were needed in the securities market place.

Edward T. McCormick, under fire from some brokers for alleged laxity in administration, resigned his $75,000-a-year job as president of the American Stock Exchange. It was the largest in the U.S., and a committee of brokers called for an overhaul of exchange machinery.

TEMPORARY TOP

Even as signs of economic recovery were growing, the market itself showed a temporary top June 6 and then stock prices began to slide.

The traditional "summer rally" was launched near the end of July when President Kennedy called for billions of dollars more in military spending—no increase in taxes.

The taking of tax losses by traders and year-end switching began early and this led to an irregular trend for much of the fall.

But early in November a strong new advance began when General Motors declared an extra 30-cent dividend which had a highly psychological effect on the stock market.

The big institutional investors such as mutual and pension funds concentrated almost exclusively on "blue chip" issues. This led to new highs for GM, American Telephone, Standard of Oil of New Jersey among others.

For the year as a whole, the most striking gains were made by radio and television stocks, food packing, liquor and insurance issues.

On the downside were such groups as aluminum, printing and publishing, transport, agricultural equipment and cement.

This is indicated by weather statistics from the local pumphouse which show a mean temperature of 25.5 degrees, as compared with the 10-year average of an even 25 degrees.

Maximum temperature for the month was 51 degrees compared with 54 in December 1960, also the ten-year average for December.

The ten year average for December is 1.63 inch of rain. 14.2 inches of snow and a total precipitation of 3.05 inches.

Queen's Finds Enrolment Increase High

KINGSTON (CP) — The principal of Queen's University said today increases in university enrolment across Canada indicate "the pressure of numbers will come sooner and be more severe than has been expected."

In his first year-end review as principal, Dr. J. A. Corry, said the increase in enrolment at Queen's—four per cent more than anticipated—is right along with a decline in quality.

"The average quality of Queen's students is continually improving," he said, adding the increase in honors courses, students was twice the general increase and that the university's scholarship standing is high in relation to its population.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Department

In this article we will deal briefly with an amount shown in the "Box H" on the T4 slip, identified as a "Lump Sum Payment". This type of income or payment received has been one of the most confusing items both to the taxpayer receiving it and the persons who pay these amounts.

Some employers who pay a bonus at the end of the year to employees will show such bonus in this box on the T4 slip. It is true that a bonus is a lump sum payment, but for income tax purposes, it is considered strictly as salary or wages. The employer who pays a bonus should issue an additional T4 slip and show the amount paid to the employee in "Box H". The T4 slip should be for the following types of income:

(a) Refund of pension plan contributions.

(b) Payment of profits sharing funds accumulated to an employee.

(c) Payments on retirement to an employee for long and faithful service.

(d) Payments on retirement in respect to loss of office (dismissal, redundancy, etc.)

(e) Payments as a death benefit to a widow of an employee.

Any income received in a lump sum under the 5 conditions listed is taxable at a special rate, if it is to the taxpayer's benefit.

Regarding the lump sum payments to a widow of an employee, there are certain exemptions. Section 27 (1) (e) (ii) will continue paying the deceased/employee's salary to the widow for a certain period. In such cases the widow is not paying tax on the amount as less they exceed the deceased person's salary for the year of his employment, providing his salary or wages did not exceed $10,000. Any amount in excess of $10,000 paid as a death benefit would be taxable at the special rate of tax.

Question: I received a lump sum refund of my pension plan contributions when I left my employment. I did not cash the cheque but endorsed it over to my new pension or savings plan. It shows on my first employer's T4 slip as a lump sum payment. Do I pay tax on this amount, and can I deduct it as a contribution in my new position?

* * *

Answer: You are not taxable on this lump sum. You should not deduct it as it was not paid into the new plan. You may not deduct it is a pension contribution as you have already it as a deduction with your first employer, when you were contributing to it.

* * *

Question: My husband died last year and his employers continued his salary to me for six months. Is this taxable income to me?

Answer: No, providing it did not total more than $10,000.

A Firm Foundation

There appears to be a definite swing to a much greater emphasis on technological education, according to reports from educational circles. In the Province of Quebec an intensive program is apparently underway towards the establishment of more technical schools and a gradual accumulation of control of education by the laymen rather than the clergy. The latter, quite naturally, emphasize a classical rather than a technical education.

It also appears that we can expect a greater emphasis on technical training in Ontario as well. This will undoubtedly be a good thing as long as it is not overemphasized. There is still a need for persons with a classical or academic education, perhaps more so now than ever before in mankind's history.

Man himself is still the major cog in any society and it is perhaps because man has yet to get to know himself that the world has so many problems today.

Man is unique in that he is blessed with the facilities to create. With his hands man has wrought many material wonders. With his mind man has conceived and evolved many philosophies, both good and bad. It has been these philosophies which have directed man's hands.

Under some philosophies many beautiful and enduring benefits have been created. Under others, however, much destruction and pain has resulted.

It is, therefore, most essential, especially in our society, that everyone receive enough sound classical education to understand our way-of-life; how it evolved, how it must be maintained and how it can be improved for future generations.

It is the responsibility of both the individual and the school to get as thorough an understanding and appreciation of our philosophy and our moral set of values as is humanly possible. If we fail in this our society will have but feet of clay and must inevitably crumble.

Technology, maintains and advances the material side of society. The humanities maintain and advance society itself. It is best that man never forget this relationship.

We welcome the trend towards making better craftsmen of our citizens but we would also welcome an even better trend towards making them better men.

We would strongly recommend that at the same time a greater emphasis is being put on technical training at the secondary school level that the greatest emphasis be put on instruction in the humanities and in our moral and philosophical foundations at the primary school level.

This latter aspect will have to be stressed so that our citizens learn as early in life as possible just what they have to live and strive for later in life. This would cure the major ills and deficiencies of our society.

A Link With the Past to be Severed

Advertisement, in The Ontario Intelligencer, of the cancellation of Canadian National passenger service between Belleville and Peterborough, Lindsay and Toronto will stir memories amongst some of our older citizens.

There was a time, long since past, when the railway provided the fastest and most convenient method of journeying between this city and Peterborough or Lindsay.

It is, we suggest, to the credit of the community that no loud outcry has been raised against the abandonment of this service. If this statement gives surprise, that such recognition of well-known facts should be lauded, it but provides additional proof that Belleville, as a railroad town, is attuned to the changing needs and roles of this method of transportation. There are other centres which have loudly bemoaned and vigorously opposed the loss of services no more frequently used, though it must be admitted that in many cases they have not been blessed with the excellent service on other routes which Belleville enjoys.

What's That Again?

Dr. R. Gordon Bell, medical director of the Donwood Foundation, last Thursday addressed 290 delegates to a provincial youth conference on the alcohol problem. He said: "It's a crime when a physician has to stand here and speak on the basis of clinical impressions unproved by research."

Thursday it was announced that the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation will distribute a half-million educational comic books to "make known the truth about liquor."

We suggest that these educational comic books might well include the two reports mentioned above. Read together, they ought to be both educational and humorous enough.

Hear Ye Say Quit NDP

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — As if things already weren't more than uncertain enough, the New Democrats — now there are shades of unsteadiness in the ranks.

The best assets any political party can have is a well-knit shop-up.

For in these days of the personality cult, a party is best known not by its policies or platform, but by its men, often simply just the man who leads it.

Voters identify the Conservatives through Prime Minister Diefenbaker to the whatnots almost as any other of the party breed.

With the Liberals, it's Mike Pearson — not alone the sole star in the garish glare of the Dief and the Tories — but together with his signaling Paul Martin, John Pickersgill and Lionel Chevrier.

And now that M. J. Coldwell left the House of Commons after defeat in '58 never to return, even as a spectator, he has sworn! Hazen Argue has been Mr. CCF.

It has been Hazen Argue, with a very able assist from Douglas Fisher of Port Arthur, who almost alone has saved the Socialists from the fate that, at least in the House of Commons, has overtaken Social Credit.

And now the whispering is that Argue, sick of the party's ingratitude and stubborn stupidity in refusing to follow him, will shortly take a walk.

BEEN DONE BEFORE

As another observer noted CCF Parliamentarian did, Hazen Argue may follow Ross Thatcher, now Saskatchewan Liberal Leader, across the floor of the Commons.

And while he probably never would go to the extremes set by leader, he almost certainly could count on becoming a member of the Cabinet — very probably Agriculture Minister — if not Deputy Premier, and manage to recapture Federal power.

If Hazen Argue were to leave the New Democrats, they would be given a fur worse bit than they got when they lost the Saskatchewan by-election in Prince Albert recently, the provincial seat that was so long the almost private political property of Tommy Douglas, the new leader for whom they next aside and kowtow.

It seems that there has almost been a conspiracy against Hazen Argue in the Party itself.

He was obviously their appeal-to to M. J. Coldwell, but there simply was no way he contrived to rob him of his rightful political birthright.

First they prevailed on Coldwell to retain his leadership two years longer than he intended, while they did their best to get him "fix" in against Hazen Argue.

Two years ago he beat them. At the last convention, when he was to hold, he won the leadership despite their best efforts to prevent him, and they are so keep this party prize on the ice so that our citizens learn early in life as possible just what they have to live and strive for later in life. This would cure the major ills and deficiencies of our society.

Well, after all the hard, lean years, it could have been expected that the New Dems just might have been decent enough — and it would have been nearly too, for Hazen Argue is an able man, an agricultural specialist, and a consistent election winner — to have given him the party's No. 2 spot.

He could have served well as Douglas' deputy.

But instead, that post will go to some pet un-named Quebecker.

As things stand now, Hazen Argue couldn't even count on a Cabinet appointment, should the politically unlikely of all things happen, and the new Dems suddenly find themselves in the East Block, seat of Federal power.

So, understandably, Hazen Argue is thinking of making a change. After all, he once was Rose Thatcher's room-mate in the House of Commons, and knows that the Liberals are smart enough to offer more than to mutual advantage, even if the CCF-NDP obviously is not.

Oversight Proved Fatal

Financial Post

Here is a very comment on the save-your-own-skin philosophy that underlies shelter building. It comes from Britain's New Statesman:

"Had, before the Second World War, Lord Stamp, wish that prevision which rarely distinguishes economists, had provided for himself at his London house a super-shelter, it was deeper and any more comfortable than to penetrate at the time and decorated, to his cost here, in a style something like the interior of the old Cafe Royal. Deep and luxurious, indeed, was this provision banker's hideaway. Alas, it wasn't proof against the waters of a flooding sewer that had been punctured by a bomb falling nearer the surface. Lord Stamp was drowned".

Letter To The Editor

Alcoholism Both Sin and Sickness

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

Some time ago there was a dispute in this column whether alcoholism is sin or sickness. Personally I believe it is both, perhaps it is sickness due to sin. The important question is how to get rid of it.

In the current issue of the "Readers' Digest" "Alcoholics Anonymous" gives a good answer to this question. Another good answer can be found in Dr. Billy Graham's pool "Crusade for Christ In Europe". There he gives many examples: where "hopeless alcoholics" were completely set free from sin and sickness on the same day they attended the crusade and today they are useful and respected members of our society. Here is a case in which there is a way."

Baby - Sitters

Woodstock Sentinel - Review

Back in the so-called good old days, the family's baby-sitter was usually one of the older children, and in some cases it was difficult to tell the sitter from the sitter.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BREAK OR GET BROKEN

How do we forsake sin?

We forsake it by putting it behind us. When Jesus was tempted by Satan his answer was simply "Get thee behind me Satan." Toward the close of his ministry Jesus encountered a temptation in Peter's suggestion that he bypass crucifixion and become the world's king by an easier fashion. The Lord's words on that occasion were "Get thee behind me Satan; thou art an offense unto me: for thou savourest not the things that be of God but those that be of men."

One reason why good resolutions often turn out to be pretty weak sisters is because such resolutions involve no action. There is no definite putting behind one of something which is presumed to have been forsaken "So help me, from now on I am off this habit." "I mean to resolve today not to smoke for a month." "Beginning tomorrow I will get up on time to make that train and not run the risk of breaking my neck getting down the steps at the station."

Commendable. All to the good it would seem. Yet on coming for the train involved action. If we are really going to give up something we must be resolute — no looking back as Lot's wife did to gaze fondly at the burning city from which she had fled.

Make a clean break — if you are going to make a break at all. And if it is something really wrong get it behind you. Make a break before it breaks you.

Strictly Personal

Churchly Antics With Semantic

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In a pungent and amusing article in a recent issue of The Episcopalian magazine, Bishop Gerald Kennedy, formerly of California offers readers "A Handy Guide to Parish Phrases."

His article is a kind of ecclesiastical version of Sidney "Antics with Semantics." Bishop Kennedy begins by observing that "One of the most confusioning experiences in the world is to hear laymen tell what they think we said in the pulpit on Sunday morning."

He admits, of course, that part of the problem is the evil habit in all professions including the ministry, of using a professional jargon that is hopelessly obscure to the layperson. Much of the religious illiteracy of our time," he says, "is due directly to the failure of preachers to speak our plainly."

But the fuzzing problem is not always the fault of the preacher, Bishop Kennedy goes on, there is a special vocabulary that laymen develop in speaking to, and about, their pastors. As a help to young ministers, he then sets down a few of these phrases and their definitions for whatever guidance they might provide. Here, then, are some of his characteristic "Do's and semantics" so that young preachers may not have to be laid to rest in the future by them:

"He is a spiritual preacher" means "He never disturbs me."

"He is a spiritual preacher" means "His message is too relevant."

"He brings politics into the pulpit" means "I do not agree with him."

"He speaks out with courage" means "I agree with him."

"He is a prophetic preacher" means to criticize the status quo."

"His attitude will hurt church finance" means "I will cut my subscription from 50 cents a week to 25 cents."

"He is a boring dissension" means "Some people are willing up."

"He must consider his position" means "I want an emasculated citizen in the pulpit."

"He has a great future" means "He is a politician."

"He lacks judgment" means "He takes Jesus seriously."

"He neglects the substantial members" means "The church is beginning to recover."

"He plays up to the new members" means "He is bypassing the rank and file we set up."

"He disturbs me" means "I am beginning to grow spiritually.

"He upsets my faith" means "My prejudices are taking a beating."

"The whole church is upset" means "I am causing all the trouble I can."

To Your Good Health

Children Must Learn To Beware of Bullies'

"Dear Dr. Molner: We have a neighbor who has boy, 6½, who has been beating three 4-½ children's boys, aged 2½, 4 and 4½ the last few months. His mother never comes out unless a bigger boy bits his son; if we mothers come out, she argues with us.

"One day this boy had a broken bottle and went up to my son and was going to kill him. A neighbor took the bottle away. But when I told his mother, she wouldn't listen.

"Do you think something is wrong with the boy? His mother and father are always hitting him in the face or head. — Mrs. R.E."

I don't know whether anything is wrong with this battling child, but something is wrong with his parents. This is one of the many meanings that can be read into the Biblical warning that "the sins of the fathers (or mothers) are visited upon the sons."

A child of 4½, frequently called around by his parents but defended by them when he gets somebody else, or protected when he is tackled by a bigger child, can be blamed for coming to the conclusion that it is all right to hit others. He can hit without being clobbered in return.

I'm sorry indeed for the child. With this sort of training drilled into him, what chance does he have of growing up to be a normal boy and then a man?

Naturally, I am also sorry for the children he bullies, but it will have no deep effect on them, other than to teach them to beware of bullies. If the child has not yet progressed far enough from the jungle, this is a lesson all have to learn.

Your youngsters may be learning things in a hard way, but they are learning. The aggressive child next door is learning all the wrong things. He will pay and pay and pay, all his life. He will never know why, later in life, he is an outcast. What a tragedy!

Since the ill-bred child respects nothing but force (what else can he been taught; a conscience?) I can suggest only that he be told that as long as he behaves that way, he will have to stay at home; that he mustn't go into your yard.

Your boy, for their own safety, might as well be told to stay out of his yard.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My lips are badly chapped and I am quite dry both summer and winter. I thought they might be due to lipstick. I have changed to various brands, including non-allergic ones, but the condition remains. I have also tried various salves, but they didn't help either. Is this dryness due to something lacking in my system? — Mrs. G.A."

I doubt if it's a lack of anything. Try going without lipstick or salve for about four weeks. If that helps, you may have a real case — allergy.

• • •

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has been running around the room and is wondering what is the cause of it. — H.L."

What could cause it? Seeping discharges from hemorrhoids or the rectum, perhaps. Or excessive bowel activity. Or, in rare instances, emotional tension has been known to do it.

Examination would quickly tell what is the cause. There are no disease accounts for it, the trouble is often solved or greatly eased by keeping the area both clean and dry, by using moist, soft tissue paper, by using paper, drying carefully, then placing a small pledget of dry cotton at the opening, to absorb moisture.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If you have these symptoms, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Ontario Intelligencer, Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Peterboro, Ont., requesting a copy of my booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c in coin to cover handling.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In a wayside restaurant over the holidays there was a scene when a party of four of these emancipated youths with those spaghetti-pot haircuts, long hair and leg-tight pants entered the place to exhibit to the humdrum citizens themselves occupied with their meals the principles of their freedom which they assume the straight-laced bourgeoisie are privately longing for.

Maybe they had had a few drinks of tepid wine out of the fancy shaped bottles that go with the Bohemian life. At any rate, their wee sap-heads were unabashed. They chuckled a few times, put cigarettes behind the chin as they made for a an empty table, and a lardy silence slowly gripped the restaurant, making their contribution all the more impressive.

From one of the tables near the back, a lumpy, beefy young man of about 240 pounds got his feet.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he announced in a voice that, at least at the back of the head, "I beg you to excuse these young gentlemen their rudeness, and I am sure you will grant my request, too, to excuse me if I am unable to exercise self-ignorance." With which he advanced on the disturbers, and you never saw four freezes, fledglings skedaddle the heck out of there with less dignity.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EMPTY HOURS

There is nothing that so contributes to unhappiness and discontent as empty hours filling it with you unprepared to climb into them and ride them to their end.

Empty hours cause more heartaches than anything else. We are always least unhappy when busy. And we are most happy when we are working toward some object of happiness for someone else.

Restless people are those with nothing definite and useful to do.

Robert Louis Stevenson once said that the joy of a happy person into a room was "as though another candle had been lighted."

When you put happiness into an otherwise empty hour, you place another star in the high sky. You get close to heaven. And God steals behind you and whispers His love into your heart.

Empty hours fling cold into a heart. Any hour that they do not have some love poured into it is empty hour—hard and solid gold.

When you are alone and can reach to the shelves of memory, where beautiful words and deeds are stored, then you have found one of the great arts of living.

There is so much to put into hours that none should be allowed to escape empty and neglected.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

What's Ahead Around The World in 1962

What's ahead around the world, in 1962? The Associated Press, asked that question of its foreign correspondents in key centres of world news.

They reported, among other things: Canada's move to join the Common Market may prove more important than the Berlin crisis, 1962 may be a year of decision in South Africa, and the Congo will remain Africa's No. 1 headache.

Commonwealth

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON (AP)—For the first time since the middle age Britain expects in 1962 to become a truly European nation.

This would come with the expected entry of Britain into the European Common Market—action bound to set off an almost limitless number of economic, political and even social changes in the country.

Some predict say Britain's entry into the Common Market could be more important historically than the East - West wrangle over Berlin.

Some Commonwealth countries, Canada in particular, view these developments with concern—think Britain, by moving toward the Continent in a psychological way, will drift apart from the family of nations developed out of the old British colonial empire. Macmillan denies this.

France

By RICHARD K. O'MALLET

PARIS (AP)—France enters 1962 in the roar of plastic bombs as right-wing extremists wage their clandestine battle against Algerian independence. The rebellion for freedom in Algeria drags on, and the government is fighting a rising discontent on the economic front.

The 71-year-old president had high hopes of ending the Algerian rebellion this year, but multiple factors stood in the way. The rebels seemed always to pose additional requirements before talks should begin. A shakeup in their own command slowed the wheels.

A free Algeria linked with France is de Gaulle's dream. He refuses to retreat from it, and his persistence may yet reap a reward.

In addition, de Gaulle is odd man in the Western Big Three on Berlin. He refuses to negotiate with the Russians under threat.

Elsewhere in Europe

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BERLIN (AP)—The threat of war in Europe may reach a new danger point in early 1962 over Berlin.

East-West negotiations are expected but a breakdown is possible. At that point, the Soviet Union may exert new pressure on Berlin and run into Western military determination not to give ground.

Russian pressure on other sensitive European spots also is a possible to halt the trend toward West European economic and political unity under the European Common Market.

Stirrings already has heard Soviet threats. These may be renewed as a warning to Sweden, Denmark and Norway all of which are discussing either full or associate membership in the European Economic Community.

Militarily, neutral Austria's relations with Russia also may be strained if she also seeks associate membership in the Common Market.

The booming economies of West Germany and Italy are expected to keep climbing, but at slower rates. Italy's progress could be checked by a growing crisis within the governing Christian Democratic Party.

In Communist Eastern Europe, Poland hopes a Berlin solution will allow it to restore economic friendship with the United States. President Tito hopes the Moscow-Peking ideological split will mean more freedom for individual Communist parties and more of a role for Yugoslavia within world communism.

Africa

By ROBERT N. LINDSAY

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—It's a dead certainty that The Congo will continue to be turbulent, Africa's most difficult problem.

The new year may well bring the United Nations the most serious test its authority has yet faced. Africa's independent states, whose confidence in the UN has been seriously shaken by slowness in pacifying the former Belgian colony, are likely to clamor for resolute UN action.

Their most immediate demand will be for firm suppression of Moise Tshombe's secessionist government in Katanga and control of that province by the Congolese central government.

The world may face a similar, if less serious, situation in Kenya. The Africans there, under the leadership of Jomo Kenyatta and Tom Mboya, are likely to intensify their demands for full independence.

Many whites are not reconciled to that.

Soviet Union

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has three major problems in the coming year—Red China, and food.

There seems a fair prospect that some advance may be made on settling the dispute with the West over Berlin and Germany during 1962. Both sides have moved to negotiate although neither has given much ground.

The problem can be overdimplified, but in essence the Chinese feel the Soviet Union is playing along too much with Western powers.

Despite a 44-year struggle, the Soviet Union has not made a success of its farm program. Basic foods have been close to the subsistence level in the last three years.

Southeast Asia

By EARL McCLURE

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—For sprawling, steaming Southeast Asia, 1962 may well be a year of decision as communism — Asian style — continues its drive for mastery of the southeast.

Many Western diplomats already have written off the 1961-62 Geneva Laos truce. Under its estimated 2,000,000 inhabitants. Even the Reds do not take over completely under left-list - leaning neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, an anti-Western government likely will prevail.

What happens in South Viet Nam may decide the fate of the rest of populous Southeast Asia.

Indonesian President Sukarno has been busily beating the drums for Dutch New Guinea (West Irian). A question arises whether Sukarno is only talking of fighting the Dutch to divert Indonesians from their internal woes.

South Asia

By HENRY BRADSHER

NEW DELHI (AP) — The world's biggest elections in India and the return of constitutional government in Pakistan are the most important events foreseen in South Asia for 1962. Unscheduled happening might include more trouble in India's Himalayan territory — Red China's latest acquisition — will grow and could lead to bigger clashes than the patrol clashes of the past.

Relations with the West, damaged by India's grab of Portuguese Goa will be cooler.

Mohammed Ayub Khan faces rising middle class resentment against his martial-law rule of Pakistan. The constitution he has promised in a few months will be rejected by many only as a way of ending his complete control. There will be further efforts to share power.

Trouble is brewing in Ceylon. Labor unions, worried by rising living costs, are trying to kick over the state of emergency under which the tropical island has been ruled since April.

Latin America

By TOM MASTERSON

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — From their bridgehead in Cuba, the Communists were mounting a massive push to outflank the United States in Latin America of 1962 got under way.

The new year could decide whether Moscow and Peking can ever take over these lands of turmoil.

Communists, followers of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, leftists, Yankee-hating nationalists and plain Latin Americans fed up with poverty are fomenting economic, social and political unrest in many of the 20 countries.

President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress—an ambitious $20,000,000,000 aid and self-help program—looms as the big United States weapon to combat poverty and political disturbances.

Jerry Giesler, Noted Lawyer, Dies in Sleep

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jerry Giesler, the lawyer time after time called on when in trouble, died in his sleep Monday. He was 74.

Giesler had been in hospital several times since 1959 for a heart ailment but finally succumbed his death at his Beverly home.

Despite illness, Giesler continued to mastermind important cases. An associate did the courtroom work, but he called signals in his last major case, the defence of Carole Tregoff in the three Finch murder trials.

For more than five decades he was a leading light in the realm of criminal law. His clientele included Charlie Chaplin, Errol Flynn, Robert Mitchum, Lana Turner, Mickey Cohen.

He handled divorces for Zsa Zsa Gabor, Barbara Hutton, Marilyn Monroe, Bette Davis and Shelley Winters. He represented Marie McDonald when her story of being kidnapped prompted a police inquiry.

Though he spent his life among the glamorous, no glitter rubbed off on him. He was bald and paunchy, spoke and lived quietly.

But in court he was dynamite. His forte was cross-examination, but he said his real secret was in planning. He prepared both sides of every case.

CASE SETS PRECEDENT

The Alexander Pantages case was his first big one. The theatre magnate was accused of raping a 17-year-old girl. She began her testimony wearing shorts and a schoolgirl costume. Giesler won a ruling that she testify in garb she wore the night of the alleged attack — slinky, low-cut red gown, make-up, sophisticated hairdo.

Giesler's attempts to show she had a dubious past were blocked, and Pantages got $0 years. But Giesler cited the blocked questions as the basis of an appeal, and won.

The case set a precedent: That in rape cases, the pattern of the girl's conduct was relevant. Thirteen years later Giesler made use of it in defending the late Errol Flynn against two counts of statutory rape involving girls under 18.

He bought up lurid details of the girls' pasts, and it was Flynn's word against theirs. Dashing Errol went free.

Perhaps his most sensational case was the Mann Act trial of Charlie Chaplin, then movieland's master comic. The prosecution said Chaplin took 24-year - old Joan Barry across state lines for immoral purposes. Giesler had Chaplin sit alone at a big table, feet barely touching the floor, a wistful look on his face. On the stand he was humble and meek. He got off.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

QUICK CLAY

Solid areas of the quick clay can suddenly turn into a flowing mass of mud, carrying along houses, trees and fences. In the past such disastrous movements have taken a heavy toll of life and property.

The quick clays are marine glacial deposits, and there is ongoing research as to why they will suddenly begin flowing, whether from shock or other causes.

Similar clay formations have been reported in Quebec, northern New York and Maine, says Dr. Paul F. Kerr, Columbia University mineralogist who has just received a sample of quick clay from southern Norway. The sample was shipped to him with careful instructions not to turn or shock the copper tubes filled with the strange material.

TERMITE SECRET

Entomologists have turned up a secret which may prove a death sentence for destructive termites.

Out of wood decayed by fungus infection, they've isolated a chemical which attracts termites. This offers the possibility of using the chemical as a method of locating the feeding grounds of termites, or using it as a trap to decoy them.

PILLS FOR PLANTS

In a promising new experiment, plants are being fed fertilizers wrapped in plastic capsules. The capsules dissolve slowly for steady, long-term release of the fertilizing nutrients, rather than delivering one single jolt early in the growing season.

Fertilizers covered with both wax and polyethylene coatings have successfully slowed the release of nutrients into the soil, report scientists of the University of Wisconsin.

SOVIET VIEWS ON MARS

A Soviet astronomer believes that yellow fogs observed on Mars represent only dust, mainly from an iron oxide known as limonite.

At Mars has little water, products formed by decomposition of rocks are unable to cement into clays and remain instead as loose dust, says Prof. Vsevolod Sharnov of Leningrad University. He disagrees with scientists who think the fogs could be due to sand.

rise, the prison water pumps, City firemen arrived with hose couplings that didn't fit prison hydrants, and there was a scurrying hose to city hydrants outside the prison. In some places a distance of two miles.

"But we didn't have to use the hoses on the men," said Mr. Pilon. "When they saw the hoses, they got scared. They didn't want to get wet. The pressure hoses were used to extinguish fires set in blankets and mattresses.

Col. Lambert said the riot was not an attempt by prisoners to escape. "When men want to escape from jail, they have better ways," he said. Earlier reports that some prisoners had fled were disproved.

Nearly 200 municipal and provincial policemen and firemen swarmed into the gray - stone jail, which has a six-wing main building and auxiliary buildings within an hour after the rioting broke out. Reporters, who stood for three hours outside the gates in biting cold weather, were prevented from entering the prison by six burly policemen.

Both Mr. Pilon and Mr. Grou, the were surprised that the riot should take place. "We made a tour of the institution Christmas Day, shaking hands with all the prisoners," Mr. Pilon said. "They were cheerful and happy. After all they had turkey for dinner on Christmas and on New Years, and roast beef for supper. What else could they ask!"

IS NOTORIOUS

Bordeaux gained notoriety in the last decade as a favorite ally-run jail. Poor meals had been one of the chief complaints. Prisoners also complained of sanitary conditions and treatment.

The last serious disturbance occurred last August, when 25 convicts refused to return to their cells from the exercise yards. A dozen of the prisoners were injured before order was restored. A series of riots in June and August, 1953 caused $2,000,000 worth of damage.

Last September, Quebec Attorney - General Georges Lapalme made a second tour of the jail to investigate conditions. What he saw prompted him to call for a complete reorganization of the jail.

Weddings

ROWAN — REID

A lovely candlelight wedding was solemnized on Saturday, December 23rd, at 7.30 p.m., in the First St. Andrew's United Church, London, Ontario, when Dr. Angus McQueen united in marriage, Margaret Anne Reid of London, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Robert Reid, of Belleville, to Wayne Clarence Rowan, also of London, son of Mr. and Mrs Gordon Rowan of Toronto. White chrysanthemums and fern adorned the chancel rail, and white satin bows marked the guest pews.

Mr. Stephen Day, of London, Ontario, was guest soloist, and sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and, during the signing of the register, "O Lord Most Holy."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Robert Reid, the bride was radiantly lovely in an original bridal gown of imported white peau de soie, fashioned with fitted bodice having a scoop neckline; lily-point sleeves, and full-length bell-shaped skirt accented by an overskirt which cascaded into a chapel train. Her double-fingered fingertip veil of silk illusion tulle, was held by a tiny seed pearl crown studded with brilliants, and she carried a single red poinsettia set in white baby 'mums with trailing ivy.

Mrs. Philip Bleeks, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, was her matron of honor. While Mrs. George Ketteringham of Toronto and Miss Janet Reid of Winnipeg, both sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. All were gowned alike in moss-green velvet featuring scoop necklines and full skirts. They were matching shoes, white satin petal hats, and carried cascade bouquets of white baby chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert Hugill of Ingersoll attended the bridegroom, and the guests were ushered by Mr. George Ketteringham of Toronto and Mr. Philip Bleeks of Winnipeg.

The reception was held in Hook's English Room, London, Ontario, where the bride's table was appointed with the traditional white damask, and centred by a three-tier rose-decorated wedding cake topped by a cluster of pink Sweetheart roses. The bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

Receiving the guests was the bride's mother, wearing a champagne brocade sheath in street-length, with fitted bodice and stole, matching accessories, and corsage of salmon-pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted in the receiving line, wearing a slate-blue sheath in double-knit, with matching hat and gloves, and corsage of yellow carnations.

The bride, prior to her marriage, was entertained at a miscellaneous shower held by Mrs. Bruce Aylet and Mrs. George Ketteringham in Rexdale, Ont. Also a shower-reception of oven and service-ware was held by Mrs. John Given and Mrs. Harry Crellin of London, Ont. A miscellaneous shower was also held by Misses Wilma Latta and Mrs. Maurice Comfort, of London.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowan are residing at 434 Tecumseh Ave., London, Ont.

United Church Women Will Take Greater Part

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new, short form came into being with the new year in the women of the United Church of Canada.

It is UCW—initials for United Church Women.

Probably the ladies will take some time becoming accustomed to its use in everyday conversation since they've been saying WMS and WA for years.

But they have a whole, new more, time than the men of the church spend getting used to the new role of women in the church.

More women are to be active as members of church boards and a new board of women becomes a part of the over - all United Church governing structure.

In the past the woman's groups have worked parallel to the church, not as an integrated part.

On Jan. 1, the WMS (Woman's Missionary Society) and the WA (Woman's Association) went out of existence, along with the Woman's Federations that had sprung up in recent years in local congregations where one group was set up to handle the tasks of the WMS and WA.

NEW PARTNERSHIP

Mrs. R. S. Patterson of Toronto, president of the WMS Dominion Board, has said the move brings "a partnership of men and women such as we have not known before."

Members of the United Church have worked towards this for eight years, albeit with some misgivings. They have been spurred on by a feeling that local women's groups were growing into something of a church in themselves.

The Woman's Missionary Society and Woman's Association between them have grown to about 300,000 members who have raised and allocated $7,000,000 a year for work in missions at home and abroad and for local church purposes.

The WMS has been organized at the national level since the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational denominations united in 1925. The WA was formed nationally in 1920.

Members from both now are expected to participate actively with the United Church Women, and the functions they supported financially in the past are expected to get the same support in the future.

LESS CONTROL

However, the women won't have quite the same direct control over their finances as they had under the old arrangement. Part of the money raised by United Church Women will go into the general council treasury where there now are to be at least eight women on the finance board which previously had none.

Integration of the women's work comes under three new boards authorized by the church general council — the Board of World Mission, which combines WMS and Overseas Missions Board responsibilities; the Board of Home Missions, combining WMS and previous Home Missions Board work, and the Board of Women.

Women will have increased representation on the missions boards and the men will have representation of the Board of Women.

The United Church Women will function at the conference (provincial), presbyterial (district) and congregation (local) levels, with the pastor becoming responsible for active leadership of congregational groups.

Inaugural meetings of local groups are being held in January, district groups in February and conference in early March.

Queen One of 1961's Top Women in News

By TOM MITCHELL

NEW YORK (CP) — Queen Elizabeth, who logged close to 30,000 miles on three royal tours during the year, was one of 1961's top women in the news.

With Prince Philip, the Queen visited India, Pakistan, Nepal, Iran, Turkey, Cyprus, Italy and Ghana. The Queen left on the Indian visit Jan. 20 and returned the following month after stops on the homeward leg at Iran, Turkey and Cyprus.

Although there were some protests from Indian factions who complained that the tour was too expensive, the royal couple received a warm welcome. There were some protests in Britain, too, when the Queen and Philip went on an Indian tiger hunt but there were no untoward incidents.

The visit to Italy, from April 29 to May 8, also brought some protests following a private audience granted the Queen by Pope John. Some objected that the Queen, as representative of the Anglican faith, should visit the Roman Catholic pontiff. But Italians turned out in huge numbers to shower friendly greetings on the Britons.

Ghana was the scene of an autumn visit by the Queen and her husband. It was held despite fears before the visit that groups opposed to the Ghana government might stage demonstrations.

COLORFUL VISIT

The trip proceeded without incident and Ghanaians gave the royal visitors a rousing, drum-beating welcome. During their stay, the Queen and her husband saw the gaily-dressed "market mammies" in Accra's open-air market, a tribal celebration with foot - stomping dances and races of the strongly armed canoe teams that ferry cargo from ship to the shore at Accra.

The Queen's cousin, Princess Alexandra, also went on tour — to the Far East—and drew warm welcomes.

Princess Margaret made news by staying at home. She gave birth May 3 to a six-pound, four-ounce boy. He was christened David.

Just a month before the child was born her husband, former society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones, was given a title, the Earl of Snowdon. The baby born Viscount Linley and is fifth in line of succession to the throne.

In the entertainment field, actress Elizabeth Taylor came down with a severe case of pneumonia and just pulled through. She was still recovering when she was picked as the best actress of the year for her role as a party girl in Butterfield 8.

Two of the entertainment world's comedy figures died during the year. Marian Jordan, who was the Molly of the Fibber McGee and Molly radio program from 1935 to 1956, died of cancer. Joan Davis, 52, a star of many movie comedies, died of a heart attack.

TEACHERS GO HOME

CAIRO (Reuters) — The authoritative newspaper Al Ahram says 73 French teachers will return home following the Egyptian take - over of three French-run schools in Cairo, Mabdi and Alexandria.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

All it takes to spoil an evening is one soggy bid "wet blanket." Are you "it"? Answer Yes or No to the following:

1. As you're going out the door, do you suddenly tell your husband that his shirt and tie are all wrong with that suit?

2. If your husband can't get a cab, do you constantly nag at him to "do something?"

3. If a favorite restaurant, do you resist trying a new dish and insist on having a hamburger?

4. If the waiter is busy, do you fume about the "awful service" all during the meal?

5. At a party, do you sit on the sofa and refuse your hostess attempts to introduce you to people?

6. Are you openly critical of what others are wearing or saying or doing?

7. Do you greet all attempts at conversation with a curt yes or no or merely a grunt?

8. As soon as you see your husband enjoying himself, do you immediately say it's time to go home?

9. If the evening is young and the group you're with wants to go dancing, do you still insist on calling it a day?

10. Do you rant all the way home that the evening was dreadful and the people all bores?

Scoring:

All Yes — You're inconsiderate, self-centered and deserve to drown in a sea of loneliness. The Fiber McGee and Molly party.

Half and Half — You're still a bit wet around the edges, but show signs of drying up.

My mother doesn't let me dress the way the other girls do and my father supervises my mental outlook. I'm not allowed to look at most of the TV programs everyone enjoys, only the "educational" ones. My parents are also strict about hours, dating, etc. They want to know everything that goes on everyplace I go. I'm becoming a regular freak among my friends.

Mrs. L.T. — We feel we allow Shirley more liberty than a lot of girls have, considering she is the type of girl who wants to overdo everything.

We think Shirley needs a little more sympathy and encouragement in doing the things she wants to do. If she wants to wear makeup, her mother should help her use it properly. Eye makeup, for example, has been so heavily advertised that it is hard for a young girl to be unresponsive to the pressure.

Mrs. L.T. should give an interest in some of the techniques for applying this makeup so she can help her daughter use it more discreetly.

Shirley thinks overemphasize cheap literature and bad TV programs simply because they have all the glamour to be "forbidden fruit." But if her parents placed less emphasis on this, she might quickly tire of it. Her superior mental capacity would enable her to seek new forms of interest.

We think Shirley needs a slight letup in parental pressure. If her home environment includes better books, music and genuine interest in culture on the part of her parents, she will eventually gravitate in that direction.

Did You Gain Weight Over The Holidays?

By Mary Moore

On the day after New Year's are you doing about reducing? You know you must take off those pounds or so that you gained in the last couple of weeks. But how? Yogurt? Steak? Liquid diet? or just plain starvation?

In my opinion none are the total answer but what is practical for all the reducing-minded is simply reduce the amount of your servings by one-third. And another thing, if you are reducing don't make it a taking point when you are a guest. Your hostess has prepared delicious meal for you so taste everything but don't gorge like Morgan le Fey. One more point of reducing etiquette: don't force your diet on your husband unless he asks you to.

In September Darlene S. asked me to give low-calorie desserts "Because my husband has a sweet tooth and I would like to help him control his weight without depriving him of too many sweets."

All you need to harden your heart to calorific food is the gratifying sight of that needle on the scales edging down one more pound twice (or even once) per week or your straightening silhouette in the mirror.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Homemade Soup; Chicken Liver Omelette; Generous Tossed Green Salad; Oven Roast; Mince Tarts; Cheese; Tea.

LOW CALORIE DESSERTS: GRAPEFRUIT AMBROSIA:

This is my standby. To serve four peel 2 chilled grapefruit deeply, cutting through white membrane. Cut into natural sections leaving no white membrance attached. Dissolve 3 envelopes tablets in one tablespoon boiling water and pour over. Add 2 cup flaked coconut and gently stir in. Serve in stemmed glasses.

COLD COFFEE SOUFFLE:

1½ tablespoons plain gelatin, 1½ cups water, 1 cup milk, 8 macaryl tablets, 1-3 cup water, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons instant coffee, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, whipped topping.

Mix the gelatin with the water, milk, salt and instant coffee. Dissolve the macaryl tablets in the 1-3 cup boiling water and add. Heat in double boiler until mixture is scalded and gelatin is dissolved. Add 3 slightly beaten egg yolks and cook until mixture coats a silver spoon. Remove from heat, add vanilla and chill until it begins to congeal. Fold in the 3 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into individual stemmed glasses or glass serving bowl and serve with whipped topping made according to directions on package.

Antagonism in Russia Towards Americans Slowly Increasing

BY PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — This snowy capital enters 1962 in a sombre mood about foreign and major domestic questions, but relatively relaxed and easy about the future of Soviet-U.S. ties.

Right now a "hate America" campaign is being whipped up which finds expression not only in governmental actions and in the unveiled purges but in the worried public attitude toward Americans. The last is hard to document, but ordinary Russians themselves now say that the trouble with the United States is deeper - seated than they believed even a few months ago.

Antagonism toward Americans is slowly increasing. Once again this is sensed by Americans here, there are rarely any antagonistic acts against Americans as such.

The attack of the two cosmonauts, Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov, are kept almost constantly before the public either through reports from visits abroad or frequent appearances at public meetings.

HAPPY THEY'RE AHEAD

The Russians are happy they're ahead in the space race and they have supreme confidence they can beat big achievement in this field will be Russian, not American. It might be a flight around the moon or three men in orbit around the earth. In many happy conversation among Russians and permits sharp jibes at American failures, such as carrying a teasing American monkey cosmonaut.

Here and there are a few complaints that the space program is costing billions of rubles which might be better spent on housing. There is a new apartments and rooms show up. A year ago it was only statistics, now they saw anyone who knew somebody who had moved into a new apartment. Now, occasionally, you do.

TOPS IN TRACK

And in sports the Russians feel they are leading the world. Valery Brumel has high-jumped his way into world record history. Soviet track and field teams have beaten the United States although it's women athletes who pile up the deciding points.

The Russians can't play top-calibre tennis and there isn't a golf course in the Soviet Union, but they are tops in such devotional sports as gymnastics and weightlifting. Their soccer teams rampage around Europe, Asia and South America and they frequently win.

Buffer life remains drab for most Soviet citizens. Theatres and movie houses are everywhere and they're jammed. There are queues for rickets. They talk more about foreign movie stars than about Russian ones.

There were 1,300 new plays produced last year throughout the Soviet Union: Mikhail Sholokov, author of "Quietly Flows the Don, said most of them were dead on arrival.

MR. K. WELL LIKED

Then there is Khrushchev. The Soviet premier may not be to liked in the United States, but he is well liked here. Yet he raised old and partly dormant fears when he talked openly about the crimes of the late premier Stalin.

Many Russians somehow felt it was "normal" that Mrs. C. Stalin, who was killing all those people.

To lay the murders at the door of a man so long held up as a major national hero has caused shock.

"We talk about that a lot now," said one Russian, who conceded the Russians don't even trust each other.

One thing persists. The average Russian feels that somehow there won't be a war. They can't imagine that the United States would risk war in the face of the certain destruction that Khrushchev guarantees. It does not seem true they believe the U.S. can hit back as hard.

NO FALLOUT SHELTERS

Unlike people in the U.S., nobody here seems agitated even in the slightest about fallout shelters. They are not building any, not even for school children.

However, there is another worry: Crops are bad and have been for three years. Poor food is relatively plentiful but good food is becoming hard to get. Meat is scarce and often as poor as on the cheapest bazaar markets of the Middle East. People are beginning to suspect that the farm system isn't good. Here is much talk about more consumer goods but they continue in limited quantity and poor quality.

REAL SPEEDSTER

COWANSVILLE, Que. (CP)— Ed Zokrowski has built his own car that reaches 135 miles an hour. The further 1958 Triumph TR-3 motor has been souped up to 140 horsepower in a fibreglass body with all the safety necessities, but it doesn't intend to race it. He wants to sell it.

326,851 Cars Produced in Past Year

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian motor-car industry, battered by 1961 production ahead of 1960, finally made it in the passenger car category in the last week of the year.

The Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce estimate 1961 production of 326,851 cars compared with 326,282 in 1960 and truck production at 62,834 compared with 71,000, a total production of 389,685 units compared with 396,322.

Gordon E. Grundy, president of Studebaker-Packard of Canada and president of the Canadian Automobile Chamber, said there was a substantial increase in sales of Canadian-made automobiles over the previous year.

He predicted record sales in 1962, with Canadian - produced cars taking 32 per cent, even larger share of the market. He estimated that 436,000 new passenger cars would be sold in Canada in 1961 of which European-made cars accounted for about 23 per cent of the market compared with 28 per cent in 1960.

Sports Snapshots

VANCOUVER (CP) — Babe Pratt was wondering why some hockey players these days rebel against their coaches.

"Maybe television is the culprit," he suggested. "Could be it's becoming too many prima donnas who are more concerned with acting the part than playing the game.

"The players of my era would never think of questioning the decisions of the Smyths, Selkes, Patricks and Rosses.

"We roared, we rollicked, but we always had respect."

Pratt, a National Hockey League defenceman with New York Rangers, Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins from 1935 to 1947, made the comments in a weekly hockey column he writes for the Vancouver Province.

He said he'd met with former Rangers Alf Pike, Clint Smith and Neil Colville awhile ago recalling the old days got to talking about the problems of coaches at current NHL teams other than Montreal Canadiens and Toronto.

RIDICULED PIKE

One name that came up was that of Pat Sullivan who is Ranger captain told a hockey writer that Pike, then New York coach, couldn't "build a fire in a furnace, let alone fire up a hockey club."

"For the record statement," Pratt said, "the Rangers made Sullivan a player-coach of their No. 1 farm team in Kitchener, Ont., handling young players. It will be interesting to see how Sullivan handles players like Sullivan when they have something to say to the press about the coach."

Pratt recalled another incident.

"... Dutch Hiller talked back to Lester Patrick in Detroit after a game New York lost. Lester left the dressing room, returned five minutes later with the statement: 'Mr. Hiller, you are now the property of Detroit Red Wings.'"

NOT SO GENIAL

Pratt said that when Detroit Red Wings start to look bad, the not so genial GM, Jack Adams, takes over from coach Syd Abel and steps on a few of the malcontents."

"Syd Abel tells a story about Bill Rookie defenceman Howie Young, who takes far too many cheap penalties.

"In the last few minutes of a close game with Montreal, Detroit leading 3-2, the Red Wing defence was very weary.

"Abel cautioned the rookie Young, who had been riding the bench all night, to get out there, release, don't take any more allies. Young promised.

"Soon after the restart, Young had a two-minute penalty for tripping, five minutes for brawling and a dismissal misconduct.

OUTDOORS
with John Alden Knight

What Prompts Outdoor Vandals?

What is it, we wonder, that prompts so many people to use private property for rifle ranges and shotguns? For example, consider highway signs and farmers caught by any farmers hunting country. The great majority of these show evidence of having been used as targets by hunters.

Such scene is in Lycoming County of Pennsylvania, good hunting country. The State Police tell me that an average of 400 signs must be replaced annually because of gun damage. Signs which are not replaced soon are repaired, to go into the hundreds. And this just in one county. What the statewide damage is, is a topic for anybody's guess, but it is large.

Now the Department of the Interior reports an outbreak of vandalism in the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge in Oklahoma. Curve and stop signs were ignored. "Books at Your Own Risk" signs were torn down; "Yield Right of Way" signs were torn down or riddled with bullets; the wooden box that contains sensitive scales for weighing fuel moisture sticks was shot up; glass windows in the box itself were shattered by gun fire.

But gun fire does not tell the whole story. There also is the steel panel. This business of painting name and messages on rocks and monuments is not about as senseless as vandalism is.

And, as always, the misdeeds of the few reflect themselves on the group as a whole. Larry Stotz finishes his message this way:

"When all who hunt realize that this right to own and to use firearms is a great privilege denied to all but the military in many countries, they will guard it zealously and strive to remove from their ranks the careless and irresponsible."

That, we suppose, is asking for Utopia but it does make a great deal of sense.

KNOW-HOW PAYS OFF

Here and there about the country careful record is made of daily catches when fishing "man-hours" on certain experimental bodies of water. These studies reveal much interesting and useful information for use in fish management. But one item turns up consistently in these progress reports — always a small percentage of the fishermen catch a very high percentage of the fish.

In our Fishermen's Paradise here in Pennsylvania this master of "know-how" shows up consistently. Several anglers will be fishing same pool; yet one will take as high as five to one over his competitors. An alone of the group seems to have the knack. Goose, call it what you will.

On my desk is a report which brings out this very thing quite strongly, this from the Bulletin of the Sport Fishing Institute in Washington, D.C., an organization designed "To Help Shorten the Time Between Bites."

A creel census on Rock Creek, east of Missoula, Montana, showed that 75 per cent of the rainbow trout in that stream ought be caught by 25 per cent of the anglers. The same 25 per cent caught one-third of the total.

The same thing holds true in the crowded streams of New Jersey. There 86,000 anglers fish their limited fishing in about 700 miles of five-fishing water. Creel Census show that 10 per cent of the anglers caught half of the trout taken last year, while a little more than one-third of the fishermen caught 90 per cent of the total. Some, as might be expected, caught no fish at all.

NEW FLUSHING BAR —

For a great many years much damage was done by birds and small animals by the cutting bar of a mowing machine when a field was being cut for hay. A great many farmers, with this in mind, have installed "flushing bars" on their mowing machines.

This bar, moving near the ground ahead of the cutter, frightens wildlife away from danger. Just the sound of the bars' motion — made film in nine years.

What has he been doing in that time?

"Working my head off," he said. "I've done a great deal of spray work, summer and winter, gear with Teahouse of the August Moon, Beg, Borrow or Steal and Jolson in two smash-hit movies.

Parks was in town for a holiday visit with his family and 3 year old son, Christopher Allen. Then he had to return to Munich for the finish of Freud, his first picture — made film in

"And I build apartment houses."

Builds them and operates them. He wouldn't say how many there were, but he admitted he had put up seven apartment houses since last March.

Parks said he got started in the building business back in 1960, when he came home for an acting job that disappeared. He and other out-of-work friends put up a house in Burbank.

MAKES $132

"Sometimes we'd have to walk down the street to see how a real carpenter put in windows and other things," he said. But they got it built and Parks made $133 on the deal.

Building business was side-tracked for his movie career, which flourished and waned. When the drought set in, he and his partner Lewis Mendelsohn began building apartment houses.

"Actually putting up buildings is a great deal like making movies," he said.

"But there's a difference. You can always change your mistakes in a building; you can't in a movie. Another thing: You're pretty sure of getting your investment back on a building — you can lose everything in a movie."

LAST DAY AT BELLE — Lawman John Wayne, suspiciously eyes Stuart Whitman, a reformed gambler, who has fallen in love with the daughter of an outlaw chieftain, in "The Comancheros" 20th Century-Fox outdoor adventure, in Color by De Luxe and CinemaScope, playing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre. Ina Balin co-stars in the new action story.

AT THE PARK — Diane Jergens and Jimmy Clanton, who stars in the title role as "Teenage Millionaire", enjoy themselves at a dance party. Scene is from one of 20 musical numbers in the comedy showing today and Wednesday at the Park Theatre, through United Artists release. On the same program "The Explosive Generation", starring William Shatner, Patty McCormack and Lee Kinsolving. Both features are first showings.

Larry Parks Has Business Deals as Well as Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—He appeared a different Larry Parks—bearded, serious, mature. But behind the sober look was the same Parks who in the past portrayed Al Jolson in two smash-hit movies.

AT THE PARK — Patty McCormack and Lee Kinsolving "go steady" in "The Explosive Generation," showing today and Wednesday at the Park Theatre through United Artists release. In the same program "Teenage Millionaire," starring Jimmy Clanton, Rocky Graziano, Zasu Pitts and Chubby Checker. Both features are first Belleville showings.

Whip Trappers, Hull

Beavers Fatten Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jack McCartan's stellar goaltending was a big factor over the ice, holiday weekend when Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers fattened their lead atop the Eastern Professional Hockey League standings.

McCartan, property of New York Rangers, blanked North Bay Trappers 3-0 Saturday night and on New Year's Day turned in a brilliant performance when Beavers downed third-place Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 6-4.

The two wins, both on Kitchener ice, left Beavers with 42 points, three more than second-place Kingston Frontenacs who dumped Sudbury Wolves 6-4 triumph over Sudbury Wolves Saturday night at Kingston.

In the only other weekend game, Cliffs Bay defeated the Thunderbirds 6-3 at Sault Ste. Marie Sunday and moved into a fourth-place tie with Sudbury.

She has been hostess for the last eight months on the weekly Like Young show on the privately owned Montreal TV station CFCF-TV.

June is also writer, producer and hostess of a nightly radio version of the show on CFCF.

The hour-long television show has a live audience of about 80 high school students and features dancing to rock 'n' roll records, interviews, fashion tips and school sports and news reports.

Other accomplishments include commercial modelling, acting in movie shorts, appearances in a variety of radio dramas from Hansel and Gretel to Little Women, a chair as solo flutist with the Montreal Junior Symphony Orchestra and theatre repertory work.

Last fall she began a foreign-language course at Loyola College. She also takes an evening German course at Sir George Williams University and together spends 20 hours a week at school, paying for her tuition with the money she earns as an actress.

PARENTS INSISTED

"There is nothing more important for a teen-ager than going to school—at least high school," June said in an interview.

"My parents stepped in twice to make me finish high school. At the time I thought they were all wrong but the whole world was against me. I see now they were right they were."

June was born in New York City and moved to the Montreal suburb of Westmount when she was a few weeks old. Her father is a retired stock broker who lives in Westmount.

Five years ago she lived in Winterhaven, Fla., for 18 months and returned to Canada with a poor impression of American education.

"I hardly studied and walked off with 99 per cent. But when I came back to Westmount I found school difficult."

June started on radio at age eight as a panelist on the weekly Kids Say the Darndest, a CBC show from Montreal to the network. She appeared on the show regularly for two years.

DATES ARE RARE

At 12 she was featured on Fun Times, a CBC-TV show on which she once had to "eat hot dogs in till I was sick."

Her ambition is to become a big-time actress. "I would like to go to Hollywood and see what's there, but I think I can be a good actress anywhere. When my finance comes I'm going to jump at it."

Described by attractive brunette acted her first adult role as the lead in Loyola College's production, Of Mice and Men.

Her busy career leaves little time for dating. "I don't feel I'm missing anything though. I used to go out a lot but now I accept a date only about once every two months. I want to concentrate on my career now, but I do hope to get married and have children."

Eight Second TV Stations Mark Changes in Canadian Radio, Television System

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian radio and television system put down roots of change in 1961.

Greatest impact on many TV viewers was the birth of second stations in eight large cities where the CBC or its private affiliates had held monopolies as far back as 1952, when TV first entered Canada. The private CTV network was created.

Other large cities may soon get an alternate Canadian TV service. The Board of Broadcast Governors has said it is willing to accept new-station applications for areas where channels are available and the market is big enough. One of the first to benefit is expected to be Quebec City.

Timed for this influx of stations independent of the publicly owned CBC was the BBG's requirement, effective last April 1, for four-per-cent Canadian content in TV programming, with British and other Commonwealth shows to be counted as one-half Canadian.

CHANGES IN '61

I had little effect on TV fare. The CBC's 21 stations and the 13 French-language private stations met the BBG quota with room and some to spare. It was a tougher chore for the 23 English - language second private stations, and even for the 65 privately owned outlets affiliated with the CBC; but the rule was met.

The stiffer test of program resources and ingenuity comes April 1 when the BBG requirement rises to 55 per cent. Board chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart said the governors would be meeting second - station operators and the networks to explore ways the board can help them meet the rule and improve program quality.

Meanwhile, the board reported it has not find the proper way to impose a Canadian-content demand on radio. It settled for annual reports from the country's 283 CBC and private AM (standard-band) broadcasting stations on use of Canadian talent, and on experimentation in local programming by private stations.

AM RULES CHANGED

Also aiding the standard-band AM stations were more flexible BBG rules that in effect liberalize moving the hourly limits on commercials while at the same time allowing a flat five per cent reduction in advertising content.

Watching from the sidelines, almost penniless but confident, were Canada's 32 FM (frequency Modulated) radio stations, operating in an interference-free band where the first and others are as holding the stations in expectancy crowding in the AM band.

Relatively few Canadians have FM receivers—fewer than 15 per cent of the population, say, in Toronto. Thus FM fails to attract many advertisers and the result is unprofitable FM operations in most cases the stations are owned by AM operators, using their AM profits to write off FM losses. In many cases FM stations broadcast the same programs as their parent AM stations.

Aiding promotion of FM were transport department regulations, published last fall, allowing for the first time in Canada stereophonic FM broadcasting. The system where an FM station can broadcast two stereo signals on the same channel for the use of high-fidelity equipment to unscramble them.

FM ENCOURAGED

The BBG encouraged more stereobroadcasts in the FM field. But it warned that AM applicants will be expected to do separate FM programming that they will be "significantly different" from the usual AM fare.

And that FM must continue with fewer commercials than AM.

One of the greatest public rows in broadcasting history occurred when the CBC, celebrating its 25th anniversary, fought the battle of what corporation chairman D. Alphonse Ouimet called "network, network, who's got the network?"

It happened when "second" station CFTO-TV Toronto outbid the CBC for the rights to Eastern Football Conference games which was denied CBC-owned network access if to privately owned CBC - affiliated stations bid.

The CBC, meanwhile, had bought the Hockey Night in Canada rights and broadcast games on all western TV cities. But no-one, not even the sponsors, was seen in the East or vice versa, and network league games could be supplied only to Montreal-Toronto-Ottawa-Montreal hookup of independents stations.

At the year-end, the BBG said it was in the best interests of the public and broadcasters that would be kept more in mind in future network policy decisions. It appeared to exercise such authority as it has to ensure this result," the BBG said.

Football, Auld Lang Syne, Parades Over for Last Year

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a rough weekend for TV television fans who can take football or — preferably — leave it alone.

Screens were awash during the long weekend with gridiron warriors. Eight or nine televised bowl games, often competing all three network channels, somehow managed to squeeze in.

For spectacle lovers, there was the Pasadena Tournament of Roses procession Monday. A few floats could go a long way, but that's where the fun for the lucky handful of viewers with color sets, it was a handsome show.

Another major effort of TV's was the Lawrence Welk New Year's Eve gala start. This involved the usual orchestra music and those ups of ladies and gents in funny hats swaying at the camera.

Football, Auld Lang Syne and parades behind us, we can now all settle down and see what the international situation again.

Looks as though The Untouchables will be around for still another season. Producer said that the show would be continued if star Robert Stack, who was making discontented noises about quitting his Eliot Ness role . . . would sign for another season of gangbuster episodes. Apparently he has agreed.

Add shows reported to be shaky: Hazel, starring Bob Newhart — the latter admired for the most sophisticated humor put out broadcasting the big audiences.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Well, as the chief official of the Rose Bowl Classic between the Golden Gophers of Minnesota and the Bruins of the University of Southern California said to the teams' co-captains of the teams prior to the kick-off, ". . . And a Merry New Years to yez . . ."

But the gridiron gullies of Gotham were dark and silent. For up in the ice-bound tundras of Wisconsin their proud Giants, champions of the eastern conference had been crushed, humiliated and beaten to the ground by a steamroller that wore cleats and the football habiliments of the Green Bay Packers.

The Packers team.

It seemed hard to believe the strange sequence of events that unfolded on the living room private eyes of the eastern machine of Youthful Al Sherman, named the coach of the year, failed to withstand the mighty onslaught of a dedicated Packers' team.

Perhaps it was the icy virus of the Wisconsin frost needles that lashed them into almost immobility. The stout defence of the Gotham club could do little or nothing against the dashing line-rending attacks of the Packers' offence. They were as inert as a deflated balloon.

And the Green Bay and Wisconsin faithful from the black-ties in the poshest nighteries to the lonely cabins in the northern pines were singing the praises of a couple of Packers named Hornung and Starr.

"Oh! what a wonderful Hornung. Oh what a beautiful Starr," they gurgled into their hot toddies. Hornung who now drives an army jeep for Uncle Sam was brilliant on offence. He set a scoring record of 19 points, smashing through for a touchdown, kicking three field goals and adding 4 extra conversions.

Bart Starr, the Packers' versatile quarterback tossed three touchdown passes as the bulldozer line of the Packers, manhandled, mauled and mobbed the Giant defence and completely bottled up their offensive tactics.

It was a dry cry from the bottle-nippers on the City Stadium fifty-yard line to the warm comfort of the living room private eye's centre stripe. When the Giants trio shivered, shivering in their blankets it was five above zero, but later it warmed to twenty above.

"What are you guys yelping about," jeered an unkind Packer fan. "Yesterday it was ten below here. You arrive in the middle of a heat wave. It's summertime here in Title Town."

The Minnesota Gophers weren't bothered by the Rose Bowl heat and rolled over the Bruins of UCSA. Alabama's Tide washed back the Razor-backs of Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl. Texas crashed mighty Mississippi and Penn State scored a stunning upset, defeating Georgia Tech.

Gordie Howe celebrated the New Year in flashing style, scoring a hat trick and treating fans to the rare sight of a goaltending home in a playoff game. Howe's hit high gear last night, blanking their Stanley Cup foes from Montreal, while another weekend highlight was the absorbing of Litzenberger of the Wings by the Maple Leafs.

New Year's Eve-wise Ed Sullivan's "Twisters" nearly shook the tubes out of the family TV, but later the grand music of Guy Lombardo brought everything back to normal. Times Square had over 300,000 roaring celebrants, the announcer said between snowflake and firecrackers. And it looked that way from where we sat.

Howe's Hat Trick Hockey Highlight

Hawks Blank Habs 2-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League had a full round of six games during the holiday weekend and what did it prove?

In the series of back-to-back games, every team except first-place Montreal demonstrated in the child win just as easily as lose to its opponent.

The Canadiens tied the fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks 4-4 in Montreal Saturday and lost 2-0 in Chicago Monday as the Hawks' goaler Glenn Hall turned in one of the weekend's most spectacular performances.

Detroit's Gordie Howe, the NHL's top all-time point scorer, got three goals when the Red Wings defeated Toronto 4-2 Sunday in the second of their weekend encounters. The Maple Leafs had won 6-4 Saturday.

In the other set the last-place Boston Bruins split on a home-and-home series with the Rangers. They won 4-2 Saturday in the Garden but dropped a 3-0 decision Monday at the Boston Arena.

Hall's sparkling 32 - save performance and his record - shutout string of Stan Mikita, broke Chicago's string of four straight ties Monday.

HALL BLANKS HABS

Hall, a 30 - year - old veteran who has never won an NHL game since he joined the league, was given little support as he chalked up his fourth shutout of the season, tying Detroit's Terry Sawchuk for second place behind leadership.

Mikita whacked at a puck that had bounced high in the air and deflected it into the Montreal net early in the final Chicago needed to win. Then he left a neat drop pass for Ken Wharram in the wide open and from 15 feet out to cinch the game.

Mikita also had a hand in two of his team's goals Saturday in Montreal. The two were his 30th and 31st of the season.

Montreal had fought back from a deficit produced by McDonald, Bobby Hull and Wharram, getting two goals from Bobby Rousseau and one each from Don Marshall and Claude Provost. There were 12 seconds left and Chicago on a man short when McDonald's second goal tied the game.

RINKS FATALITY SHOT

Howe's one - man uprising included that NHL rarity, a penalty shot, awarded to Detroit when Bobby Baun of Toronto fell on the puck in his goal crease.

Howe's three goals won the game and left him all alone in front of reach. Dave Keon and George Armstrong scored for the Toronto in the second period to give the Leafs a brief 2-2 tie.

It had been a different story the night before, when old rivalries flared and Bert Olmstead scored two goals each to lead the Leafs to a 6-4 win.

Keon tied the score and Dick Duff got the other goal.

In Boston Monday, New York defenceman Ivy Spencer came up with his first goal of the season to win the game for the Rangers. Other New York goals were by Al Langlois, Andy Bathgate, and Camille Henry. Dave Dryden and Charlie Burns got Boston's goals.

Bathgate and Pat Hannigan had given the Rangers a 2-1 lead by the second period. Jerry Toppazzini had scored for Boston — when the Bruins took off with five straight goals.

Bathgate scored his second of the game, but Burns put the Bruins ahead for good shortly after the third period opened.

Henry finished off the scoring.

The league has a breather today. Montreal goes to Toronto Wednesday and New York is at Chicago.

Litz Fits, Punch Hunch

TORONTO (CP)—Centre Edson Litzenberger made two weekend appearances in a Toronto uniform, neither of them memorable, when a deal Saturday in which the Maple Leafs acquired him from Detroit Red Wings for the $20,000 National Hockey League waiver price.

Litzenberger was on the ice Saturday night when Detroit, getting only one unsuccessful shot on goal, won 6-4. Sunday night in Detroit he centred the line of Frank Mahovlich and Bobby Nevin, replacing injured Red Kelly, as the Leafs lost 4-2.

Leafs' coach Punch Imlach said, 194-pound centre and got him Saturday afternoon after Boston, New York and Chicago, all of which had prior call, passed up the chance to claim him.

Litzenberger scored eight goals and assisted on 12 others with Detroit this season.

Leaf manager - coach Punch Imlach said he neither knows nor cares why Detroit dropped Litzenberger.

"It's what the dogs now that I care about."

Asked why three clubs lower in the standing than Toronto had passed Litzenberger up, Imlach replied.

"The other guys are convinced that he's finished, that's all. I don't believe in that kind of judgment. I want to see for myself."

Mary Stewart Breaks World Mark

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mary Stewart, 16-year-old, 98-pound swimming sensation, established a world record of 59.9 seconds for the women's 100-yard butterfly at the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association's time trials here Sunday.

Registrar J. T. Kelly of the association says the mark, which shatters one set in 1960 by Nancy Ramey of Seattle April 15, 1960, likely won't be recognized as world records are only accepted if set in approved pools with electric timers.

Miss Stewart, selected Canada's female athlete of the year last week, turned in her performance in a 20-yard pool.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Howe, Detroit's veteran right winger, had his first three-goal game in five seasons during the holiday weekend and, as usual, Howe was an assist-less took over second place in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Howe has 18 goals and 23 assists, nine behind leader Andy Bathgate of New York, who picked up three goals and an assist, increasing the Rangers' leading assists total to 34 and his total points to 50.

Chicago's Stan Mikita made a big move, getting a goal and two assists, to tie Claude Provost of Montreal for third place.

Alabama Defeats Razor Backs

Gophers Roll To Rose Bowl Win

By BORIS MISKEW

NEW YORK (CP)—Top-ranked U.S. college football players Monday had their final chance of the current season to display their talents.

Four bowl games of which the Rose Bowl classic was keyed by Minnesota, climaxed a weekend of college contests across the United States.

Minnesota, guided by all-American quarterback Sandy Stephens, rolled to a decisive 21-3 victory over UCLA in Pasadena, Calif., before nearly 100,000 spectators.

Acclaimed the game's most valuable player in a across box ballot, Stephens, a 212-pounder, scored two touchdowns as Minnesota of the Big Ten gained revenge for a 17-7 loss to Washington in the 1961 Rose Bowl game.

It was UCLA's fifth Rose Bowl failure in as many trips. In other New Year's Day games, Alabama, sporting a flawless 10-0 record and voted top college team in the Associated Press poll, defeated Arkansas 10-3 in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans.

Texas, a 3½-point underdog, beat Mississippi 12-7 in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas and Louisiana State University rolled to a 25-7 victory over Colorado in the Orange Bowl in Miami.

TRAMMEL IN CHARGE

Quarterback Jerry Tramm ell and the bone-crushing line play of Billy Neighbors and Leroy Jordan were the keys to Alabama's victory.

Alabama scored only one touchdown marching 79 yards in the first quarter. Trammell went over from the 12. But the big gain was a 43-yard sprint by Mike Fracchia, who played with a broken leg.

Tim Davis kicked a 22-yard field goal for Alabama in the second quarter and Mickey Cissell booted one for Arkansas from the 23 in the third quarter. No team had scored against Alabama in its five previous games.

Before the Rose Bowl game Monday, Syracuse and UCLA were on the Minnesota six. Fullback Bobby Smith, after being thrown for a 12-yard loss, kicked a 25-yard field goal on fourth down. The 3-0 lead finished the UCLA scoring.

Minnesota got its first touchdown early in the third quarter, recovering a fumble on the UCLA 14. Stephens went over from the one.

The other two Minnesota touchdowns came along drives. Bill Munsey plunging over from the three and Stephens from the one.

Texas stymied Mississippi's aerial attack by intercepting five passes and turning one into a touchdown.

Scores Upset Chess Win

VANCOUVER (CP) — Elod Macskasy, a Vancouver mathematics professor, scored an upset victory over Winnipeg lawyer Abe Yanofsky in only 30 moves in an exhibition chess game here Saturday.

The win came in the last of an eight-game-series to prepare Yanofsky, Canada's No. 1 player, for an international tournament in Europe next year.

Macskasy, Canada's third-rated player, played black and took only 40 minutes to tear Yanofsky's offence to pieces. Yanofsky's moves took two hours.

Yanofsky had clinched the series Thursday. The final score was 5½ games to 2½ games. Macskasy, 21st

It was the third straight win for Bearcats in trophy play and one of their best games on their current Europe an tour. The Bearcat defence was solid, leaving goalie Bob Kilgour with only a handful of routine shots to handle. Steve Hyrmniak was a standout on the Port Arthur defence.

About 4,000 fans were on hand and enjoyed the fine play shown by Port Arthur.

Maxwell scored both goals for the Canadians, banging in his own rebound at 7:43 of the second period and tapping in a neat corner pass from right winger Ernie Paulin at 16:03 of the last.

Leksand, a first-division club, scored twice in the first, matched Maxwell's second - period goal and scored in three more in the last period.

All eight penalties went to Port Arthur.

Marshall Pots Three For Bears

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Hershey Bears had two Willie Marshalls, they probably would be at the head of the American Hockey League today instead of panting along behind Springfield Indians.

Marshall came up with his second three-goal performance of the season Monday night and his production spelled the difference in Hershey's 6-4 victory over Pittsburgh Hornets.

Marshall has scored three goals in one game 15 times in his career and holds the AHL record in that department.

In other games, the Cullen brothers—Barry and Brian, scored Buffalo's last three goals in the final period as the Bisons tied Cleveland Barons 4-2 and Providence Reds defeated Rochester Americans 6-4.

In Saturday battles, the Bisons shut out the Americans 4-0, the Hornets downed the Reds 5-3 and Quebec Aces, in last place in the Eastern Division, pulled a surprise 3-1 victory over the league leading Bisons and Bears fought to a 1-1 overtime tie.

The Bears tangled with the Bisons Sunday and emerged with a 6-4 overtime triumph. The Reds edged the Aces 4-3 and the Indians beat the Americans 5-4 in overtime.

At Hershey Monday night, Barry Cullen's goal at 2:22 of the first period and Lee Duff each chipped in with a goal to support Marshall and the Bears, who trail the Indians in the Eastern Division by nine points. Gene Fiorasco scored twice for the Hornets while Jim Logan, Gene Tardiff and Bo Elik added singles.

Sets Mark in 37-0 Victory

Hornung, Packers Humiliate Giants

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packers, National Football League champions, have settled down against a long, cold winter protected by the glow of success — their resounding 37-0 triumph over New York Giants.

The Packers also are snug in the high temperatures of prosperity, their individual shares of $5,185.44 from the receipts of Sunday's game.

The new crown is the seventh championship for the Packers and the first won at home since the club entered the league as a charter member in 1921.

The title was the first for Green Bay since beating the Giants in New York in 1944, and it was the climax of a rebuilding job started three years ago when Vince Lombardi quit as a Giant assistant coach to become coach and general manager of the Packers.

Lombardi came on a combination of a faltering Packer defense that created opportunities and a sparkling offence that cashed in on them.

GIANTS SHACKLED

The Packer defensive unit held the New Yorkers to 31 yards rushing, 119 in the air and six first downs, grabbed four Giant passes and recovered one New York fumble.

The Packer offence, directed by quarterback Bart Starr and sparked by halfback Paul Hornung, did the rest, producing 181 yards rushing, 280 passing and 164 in the air. Starr passed for three touchdowns.

Hornung, the league's most valuable player in 1961 and its scoring leader for the last three years, carried 20 times for 96 yards. He scored 19 points, setting an individual title game record, on one touchdown, four converts and three field goals to break the old mark of 15 set in Cleveland, Browns.

GIANTS FALL APART

The Packers humbled the Giants for 24 points in the second quarter, a pass interference play gave Green Bay the ball on the New York seven-yard line and Hornung promptly went over the top.

Intercepting by Ray Nitschke and Hank Gremminger set up the next two touchdowns, produced on Starr's passes for 19 yards to Boyd Dowler and 14 to Ron Kramer. Hornung kicked a 17 - yard field goal.

A Giant fumble led to a 22-yard field goal late in the third quarter and a roughing penalty against the Giants started the Packers on their way to their final touchdown, scored as Starr passed 12 yards to Kramer.

Jesse Whittenton's interception and Taylor's 32 - yard run moved Green Bay into position for a last 19 - yard field goal by Hornung.

LOWER TIGER FENCES

DETROIT (AP) — American League home run sluggers won't have to swing so hard when they play at Detroit's Tiger Stadium next season. Tiger Vice-President Rick Ferrell has announced that the temporary screen in right field is coming down and all remaining outfield fences will be leveled to a uniform height of nine feet. He said the screen took seven homers from the Tigers last season.

DEAFNESS NO HANDICAP — Nine-year-old goalie Bruce Belford shows the form that carried him four shutouts in eight games of play in Toronto's East York Squirt League. His calm confidence in the nets is such that few spectators realize he is a deaf mute. The coach gives him signals with a series of numbered cards. (CP Photo).

Goalie Has Four Shutouts

Deaf Boys Love Hockey

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Belford, a top goalie in Toronto's East York Squirt League, and Brian Grundy are hockey-playing nine-year-olds with a lot in common.

Bruce has been deaf since birth. His speech is limited to sounds only his mother can understand. Brian is also completely deaf and almost completely mute. He plays defence in the Little Toronto Hockey League minor-atom section.

When Bruce approached coach Joe Decem three years ago, it posed a problem in communication. Decem devised a set of visual signals. Whenever Bruce lets a shot go by him during Saturday morning games, he looks toward the bench to see what he is doing wrong.

The coach answers by holding up one of a set of seven numbered cards about eight by 10 inches. The numbers mean:

1. Stand up; 2. Watch the puck; 3. Keep your stick on the ice; 4. Keep your legs closed; 5. Clear the puck to the corner; 6. Stop the rebounds; 7. Cover the corners.

FOUR SHUTOUTS

The system has worked so well that in eight games this season Bruce recorded four shutouts. Only eight goals were scored against him, five in one game.

Bruce's parents feel hockey has given him confidence. His splomb on the ice is such that few spectators are aware of his handicap.

"Mostly, I think his improvement is in understanding. During a game, there's no use in any of his mates yelling at him. But they've learned to nudge him to get his attention, and to point when they want to show him something."

Sloan, Robertson, McLeod

Terriers Add 5 Players

BOSTON (CP) — Five players have been acquired by Galt Terriers for the defence of Canada's world amateur hockey championship.

The Terriers announced Sunday they have acquired former Toronto Ted Sloan and Bobby Robertson, both reinstated as amateurs, goalie Gord Dibley of Winnipeg Maroons, defenceman Harry Smith of Trail Smoke Eaters and right winger Jacklo McLeod of Moose Jaw Platers.

Sloan, a centre with the Stanley Cup champion Chicago Black Hawks last spring, was reinstated during the weekend along with Robertson. Both live in Toronto.

Galt, leaders in the Ontario Hockey Association's senior division and winners of the Allan Cup last season, will defend the title won by Trail last year. This year's championship is March 8-18 in Colorado.

Dibley joins Galt regular Harold (Bear) Hurley in a two-man goaltending platoon. Smith and McLeod were outstanding with Trail in the 1961 championships in Switzerland. McLeod also had 11 years in professional ranks.

The Terriers will carry from eight to 10 members of their regular roster and are expected to announce additional acquisitions soon.

Signs Contract Under Goal-Posts

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Several teams in the American Football League may not be faring well in their fights with rival National League clubs for top Dulled States college players, but San Diego Chargers are more than holding their own.

Charger end coach Al Davis handed Lance Alworth, flashy halfback with the University of Arkansas, a contract under a goalpost at the end of the Sugar Bowl game between Arkansas and Alabama Monday. Alworth signed it.

As Davis walked away, Red Hickey of the NFL's San Francisco 49ers, looked dejected. He had reached Alworth first as the 178-pound halfback walked off the field. The 49ers picked Alworth in the first round of the NFL draft.

Alworth said he picked San Diego because "The AFL is a new league. I'll have a chance to grow with it."

He became the second No. 1 choice of the NFL to be signed by the Chargers, who two weeks ago got Kansas quarterback John Hadl, a selection of Detroit Lions of the NFL. Hadl was picked the outstanding player in Saturday's East-West game, his last star game at San Francisco.

Davis said terms of the contract will not be released.

Western Hockey

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The defending champion Portland Buckaroos recorded their first victory of the 1961-62 Western Hockey League season Monday night, beating Spokane Comets 5-3.

In Saturday action, San Francisco Seals beat Los Angeles Blades 5-3 and Vancouver defeated Portland 6-4 and Seattle overpowered Spokane 10-2.

At Portland Monday night, Ron Matthews beat Spokane goalie Eddie Johnston to break a 3-3 tie going into the third period and went on to record the victory before 2,500 fans.

Matthews and Art Jones scored two goals each for Portland, Jack Blonde added a single. Bev Bell, Max McMillan and Gord Stratton scored for the Comets.

The Stamps' win before 2,243 fans in Seattle moved them out of a second-place tie with the Totems in the Northern Division. Pitstone and Norm Johnson accounted for the Calgary goals.

Woodstock Scalps Indians

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Woodstock Athletics celebrated New Year's Day with an 8-4 victory over Kitchener Indians in the only Jan. 1 Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game.

Sunday, Windsor Bulldogs defeated Chatham Maroons 3-2, breaking a three-game Chatham winning streak and Stratford (C) trounced Waterloo Tigers 5-2.

Tussie Dunham, Jack McCarthy and Don Emms each scored twice Saturday night to lead Strathroy to a 7-4 victory over Exeter.

Don Myers paced Woodstock in Monday's victory with two goals. Stratford suffered from a breakdown on defence. Four Woodstock goals were scored on ups on which goalie Ron Sellick didn't have a chance.

Jerry Theberge, George Assenis and Wayne Littgus netted the other Woodstock goals. Stratford scorers were Ron Stewart, Mickey Roth and Bill Flick.

The Windsor victory moved the Bulldogs within five points of the league-leading Galt Terriers.

Teepees Defeat Petes, Habs

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Teepees had themselves a ball during the New Year's weekend, ringing out the old year with one victory and ringing in the new in even more decisive style.

The Teepees took a firmer hold on third place in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A division with a 6-3 win over Peterborough Petes Saturday night and a 7-3 decision over the league - leading Montreal Canadiens Monday.

The only other holiday weekend action was Peterborough and Guelph Royals play to a 3-3 tie Monday.

The Monday game in St. Catharines was also rewarding financially. The contest drew 2,150 paid fans, the largest crowd for a junior game there since the 1960-61 playoffs.

Saturday, Cullen and Chichi Farenzena scored two goals each and Standing, their Hamilton, got one. Lachowich rounded out the Teepees' scoring.

Green Bay Stages Wild Wing-Ding

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packers' 37-0 trouncing of New York Giants in Sunday's National Football League title game set the stage for one of the wildest New Year's Eve whoopings in the history of the city.

Fans who poured out of city stadium after the final gun went off ripped the goal posts from their moorings, carried them downtown and joyfully dragged them up and down the main streets of Green Bay.

Others were followed by a stream of cars, horns blaring in an impromptu victory rite, with people hanging out the windows and hollering the Packers' praises.

The cars filling the streets of the town were emblazoned with gleeful signs such as "Walton the Giants" (with "We did!"

Storms Disrupt Soccer

LONDON (AP)—Barrow, English Fourth Division soccer leader, suffered seven point Monday — thanks to a homemade snow plow fashioned out of old ladders.

Centre-forward Jimmy Kendall and his assistants nailed five lads at a logging yard, dragged them back and forth across the field to clear several inches of snow that threatened to force cancellation of the game. When Kendall finished, the referee decided the game could go on.

Barrow defeated Doncaster Rovers 4-1 and moved up four places in the division.

Two other Fourth Division games were called off because of frost and snow.

In Scotland, the big freeze-up ruined most of the traditional New Year's Day soccer program. Two games were played out of the scheduled nine in the Scottish First Division, and five out of nine in the Second Division.

Rugby League and Rugby Union games were completely frozen out Monday.

42 CALLED OFF

The Englishmen started Saturday when 42 English and Scottish league games were called because of ice, snow, frost and floods — the biggest disruption in the history of British soccer.

Soccer pools were declared void for the first time Dec. 31, 1960. In the English League, only 12 of 45 games were played and half the Scottish program of 18 games was frozen off.

A thaw in the south of England saved some games but on other fields wise, was trapped on top of frozen grounds, making them look like lakes. In the English First Division only one game could be played.

Helped by three goals by Cliff Jones, his Welsh international winger, Tottenham Hotspur trounced Chelsea 5-2 and moved up to second place in the standings, one point behind leader Burnley.

Bottom-of-the - table Chelsea held its London rival to 1-0 at the interval, but succumbed in the second half.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Study situation from all angles. You could come up with valuable answer out of "left field". Trust hunch. But remember to check facts thoroughly. A change indicated.

Aquarius (Jan. 2 to Feb. 19) —Saturn enters your sign today. A good time to begin program which reserves health, strength. New work load possible. But you gain by doing, giving. Avoid loose strife.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)— Analyze reason for restlessness. The real reason may be that, actually, you need more rest. Best not to accept invitation for social evening which keeps you out very late.

If born today . . . prepare to work hard during coming year . . . a year which could see you take major step toward fulfillment of ambitions. April should be outstanding month. Attend to details.

General Tendencies: Indications today are that men and governments look toward outer space. All signs, however, advised to keep feet on ground. Best attitude is one of frankness. Trying to cover up errors only compounds mistakes today. Re-read interpretations for all signs today.

Science Now Shrinks Piles
Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time, Science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

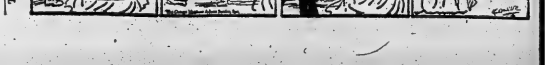
Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.



to study radioactivity in Quebec waterways. U.S. scientists have found that radioactivity in water is not dangerous but in fish and mollusks the "concentration often is high.

Even then, however, it isn't dangerous to human beings since the radioactivity emanates mainly from phosphorous.

Dr. Prevost says contamination comes from nuclear plants such as the one at Chalk River, Ont., as well as from fallout in nuclear tests. Chalk River is on the Ottawa River which flows along the Quebec-Ontario border.

By GERRY McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — After a lonely 20-year crusade by a few men, there is a broad sudden awareness of the water pollution problem in Quebec province.

The Quebec water purification board, somewhat surprised, finds itself getting help from all sides in its effort to cleanse lakes and rivers.

"Industries and municipalities have come to us in some cases," Dr. Gustave Prevost, the chairman, says happily. "About two-thirds of the population already have shown an interest in what we are doing."

Item: It costs us millions a year in property devaluation, water treatment costs, health and other effects. It ruins beaches, kills animals and sometimes causes a bad odor in a whole area."

Since summer, the board has helped about 60 municipalities make plans for sewage treatment plants. It has also inspected 800 Laurentian cottages and recommended repairs or changes in 164 septic tanks and cesspools.

"In three years we hope to clear the water in the area between Ste. Agathe, watershed for the Montreal area, and St. Jerome."

MANY WITHOUT SEWERS

The 30-year-old biologist says the extent of the pollution is surprising, even to those who have been interested in the problem for a long time.

"Many small municipalities have no sewers — the sewage runs in ditches that children play alongside. We didn't think there was this much pollution."

Pollution was particularly dangerous in lakes where it creates algae that ruin beaches and boating.

As a sideline the board plans to study radioactivity in Quebec waterways. U.S. scientists have found that radioactivity in water is not dangerous but in fish and mollusks the "concentration often is high.

Even then, however, it isn't dangerous to human beings since the radioactivity emanates mainly from phosphorous.

Dr. Prevost says contamination comes from nuclear plants such as the one at Chalk River, Ont., as well as from fallout in nuclear tests. Chalk River is on the Ottawa River which flows along the Quebec-Ontario border.

Queen's New Year's Honors Made Baronets of Two Poor Boys Who Became Tycoons

LONDON (CP)—The Queen's traditional New Year's honors list made baronets of two poor boys who became business tycoons and granted lesser awards to hundreds of the humble.

The list of 2,200 names leaned heavily toward the men and women in politics or big business.

No new dukes or earls were created, but there are four new baronets.

Sir Leonard Lord, who recently resigned as chairman of the vast British Motor Corporation, builder of Morris and Austin cars;

The new baronets are Sir Harry Jephcott, who started as apprentice in a corner pharmacy and heads the Glaxo group of companies, and Isaac Wolfson, who started at 14 in a factory on wages of five shillings (about 70 cents) a week.

Today, Wolfson heads Great Universal Stores Limited and values his time at 30 shillings (more than $4) a second. He was an established millionaire at 45. Now 65, he has given away millions to charity and received his reward for philantropic services.

ONCE FRIEND OF ADENAUER

Among the new knights is Brig. John A. Barraclough, who as British commander in the Rhineland in 1946 once sacked Konrad Adenauer from his job as mayor of Cologne. The British then felt that the man who has since become chancellor of West Germany was not getting on with reconstruction fast enough.

Another knight is Leon Bagrit, who pioneered automation in Britain. He has been managing director of Elliott - Automation Limited since its formation in 1957.

Also knighted were Laurence J. Menzies, a Bank of England official who for three years acted as secretary to the government's export credit guarantee department, and Professor Nevill F. Mott, an atomic physicist.

Miss Elizabeth Brennan, deputy canteen manager for the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority, was listed for the British Empire Medal.

Maj.- Gen. Sir Julian Gascoigne, governor of Bermuda, became a Knight Commander of the Order of Saint Michael and Saint George.

ALBERTAN HONORED

Air Vice-Marshal Sidney Nelson, principal medical officer in the RAF Bomber Command and native of Ponoka, Alta., was made a Companion of the Order of the Bath.

A commandership in the Order of the British Empire went to Miss Joyce Gutteridge, legal counsellor of the British mission to the United Nations.

A knighthood was awarded to Learie Constantine, the West Indian cricketer now turned politician and diplomat, while an equivalent honor—Dame of the Order of the British Empire—went to top ballet teacher Marie Rambert.

Officerships in the same order were bestowed on opera singers Parry Jones and Anna Pollak.

Top Australian cricketer Richie Benaud also won an OBE. Other OBES included Idris Davies, trader convicted and sioner for Alberta and the Northwest Territories at the British government's board of trade.

There were a number of awards for persons in the newspaper world. Capt. Colin Coote, managing editor of the London Daily Telegraph, was knighted. A commandership in the Order of the British Empire went to Edward W. Davies, recently retired general manager of the Press Association, a domestic news agency.

MBE FOR WOMAN

Miss Margaret Alice Hine, assistant secretary of the Commonwealth Press Union, became an MBE. Another MBE went to Claude Llewellen Cook, chief representative of the South African Press Association in the Rhodesia - Nyasaland Federation.

Dermot MacDermot, British ambassador to Thailand, became a KCMG. Another distinction in the same order, Knight Grand Cross, was bestowed on Hong Kong Governor Sir Robert Brown Black, host to Princess Alexandra recently.

The exclusive award of Companion of Honor was conferred on Very Rev. W. R. Matthews, Dean of Saint Paul's Cathedral here.

Coming Year Could Be One Of Danger and Catastrophe

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Just as those Hindu astrologers have predicted, 1962 could be a year of danger and catastrophe — disregarding their relation to the course of planets as the guide for their prophesies.

Sixteen years ago, war-weary countries set up the United Nations as an instrument of world peace. Membership grew as colonial yokes were lifted. During 1961 the UN added another five members, bringing the total to 104.

But growth in membership seems to weaken instead of strengthen UN ability to keep the peace. Now it stands on the threshold of bankruptcy and there are some major countries in Europe and behind the Iron Curtain that probably wouldn't lift a finger to prevent its collapse.

SAME OLD TROUBLES

While many a leader talks of peace, trouble spots of 1961 are still there to greet the world of 1962: Laos, Berlin, The Congo, Algeria, Cuba; tensions in the Middle East; the dreadful cost of Communist expansion; the shadow of the nuclear bomb.

While the two nuclear giants, the Soviet Union and the United States, talk of disarmament the arms race between them quickens. And that great moral persuader, India, now has fallen from grace by using military strength to occupy tiny Goa.

And so those hundreds of millions of persons who pray by the Jumna River at New Delhi have reason to worry though they see the dawn of a different light. They fear catastrophe because the planets will be in the sign of Capricorn next February. Terrible wars ravaged India the last time such a combination occurred—3,000 years ago and 800 years ago.

BLESSINGS, TOO

But amid the gloom, the Western world can count its blessings. Western larders are bulging with food. Europe is growing more economically and economically, Canada and the United States are showing signs of recovering their prosperity.

While critics in Europe, British and American, may heap new abuse on the UN, the U.S. government likely will agree through once more to provide more financial aid even if congress berates the UN for showing paralysis in Goa and questions U.S. support of the UN action in The Congo.

French President de Gaulle pledges to settle the Algerian situation and give that sizzling torn state independence. And West German Chancellor Adenauer predicts there will be negotiations with Russia on Berlin and that there will be no war.

Cobalt-60 Beam Therapy Unit Best Revenue Producer For Crown-Owned Agency

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP)—The lives of hundreds of thousands of people in all parts of the world will be prolonged and in many cases saved as a result of the efforts of a corps of Canadian salesmen.

They have made the world their oyster in a search for markets for Canadian-made atomic machines for cancer treatment; isotopes for use in industry, medicine, agriculture and research; and equipment for collecting various materials in gamma radiation.

The sales staff of the commercial products division of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited also is proving to Canadian industry that it's possible to sell in export markets in the face of the stiffest competition.

The main revenue producer for this crown - owned agency is the cobalt-60 beam therapy unit, a machine developed in Canada in 1951 to treat cancer patients. Cancer growths are attacked by powerful rays shot from cobalt-60 isotope.

The division at one time had a waiting list of 16 for its first of these machines. It now must compete with 20 products located mainly in the United States, Britain, Italy, Japan and West Germany.

SALES RISE

Despite this competition, the division's annual export sales have risen steadily. They are expected to exceed $4,000,000 in the fiscal year ending next March 31, compared with $3,401,371 in the previous year and $418,000 in the division's first year of operation.

Products of the division now are being sold in 17 countries, including five members of the Communist bloc. Sales contacts are maintained through agents in more than 100 countries. Sales staff travel upwards of 600,000 miles a year in their search for markets. Air travel alone has travelled 75,000 miles last year.

During the first eight months of the division's current fiscal year 35 therapy units were sold in 14 countries, including Russia.

Since its establishment in 1952, the division has sold 250 therapy units in 36 countries. Other products and services of the division have been marketed in another 18 countries.

U.S. BEST MARKET

The United States is the division's best customer for therapy units. Since 1952 American institutions have bought 92 machines followed by Italy with 28, Canadian institutions with 26, Japan with 14 and Brazil with nine.

The Communist countries which have purchased units are China, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Poland and the Soviet Union. The Chinese have bought seven, the Soviet Union two and Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Poland one apiece.

The eight types of therapy units produced by the division are capable of giving about 25 treatments a day. As most cancer patients receive an average of about 12 treatments, this means that one machine can treat two people a day.

In one year the 250 machines marketed so far can provide treatment to 196,000 cancer patients. In five years patients treated will exceed 1,000,000.

R. F. Errington, manager of the division, says his 6-man sales staff is making an extra selling effort to offset growing competition. Part of this effort will be centred in South America where Canada is in a highly competitive position that is not found in most other countries.

Mr. Errington says that while competition is tough Canada will continue to be a leading exporter of therapy units because of the quality of the Canadian equipment and the service customers receive.

TUG RESCUES VESSEL FROM PACIFIC FURY

Will Try to Put Experts on Board

VICTORIA (CP) — The RCAF helicopter was to make a bid today to put two salvage experts aboard the wave - swept deck of a crippled Greek freighter wallowing in mountainous Pacific seas.

The attempt could climax a night of waiting for the 27 crew members of the 10,000-ton Olafkos, surrounded by jagged rocks about 95 miles north of here on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Reports indicated the vessel was being held in the middle of "a nest of rocks" by her anchors and a towline from a tug at the stern.

Another tug, the Sudbury, won the first round of the battle when it dragged the Clarkfield from a pinnacle of rock which ripped the ship's bottom plate Monday.

At a critical moment just before dark Thursday, when the tug finally pulled the vessel free, the light towing tackle parted. The vessel drifted toward the rocky shore until its crew members managed to drop anchor.

CABLES HOLD

The anchors bit into the sea bottom at 28 fathoms and the straining cables held the vessel under the pounding of the seas until a line was put aboard. Darkness and hidden reefs made the operation dangerous.

The Glafka was inward bound for Vancouver in ballast from Japan when she struck a reef at George Island, near the entrance to Uclulelet Sound.

The ship is without power, lights or radio communication and is reported to have a flooded engine room.

Rough seas prevented transfer of emergency pumps to the ship and hampered efforts by salvage tugs to put heavy towing gear aboard.

Dutch Concession Is Given Cold Shoulder by Indonesia

At the same time, Foreign Minister Subandrio apparently turned a cold shoulder to a Dutch concession aimed at getting negotiations to reach a peaceful solution to the fate of the disputed territory.

Subandrio said that judging from reports of the Dutch statement he doubted that the new position "can become the basis for a solution to the Indonesian-Dutch dispute."

A broadcast of Sukarno's proclamation said the Dutch, held territory is about to become Indonesian.

The new province was named "Irian Barat" (West Irian) and the capital of Hollandia was made "Kota Baru" (New City).

The proclamation said Sukarno will appoint a governor and members of Parliament for the province and define their powers.

The announcement came on the heels of Dutch Premier Jan De Quay's statement that the Netherlands was willing to talk his insistence that self-determination be the 130,000 natives of West New Guinea must be a factor consideration in any talks with Indonesia.

In announcing the policy switch, de Quay also indicated the Dutch expected Indonesia to give up its claim that any negotiations proceed from the assumption of a transfer of the territory to the Jakarta government.

De Quay said he did not envision two - way negotiations with Indonesia, but discussions "within a wider framework," involving a third party or power.

Subandrio, however, said de Quay's statement seemed to be a mere formality because the Dutch leader at the same time emphasized that self - determination for West New Guinea was still the basis of Dutch policy.

Subandrio said Indonesia did not object to the bilateral negotiations for the purpose of transferring the administration of West Irian to Indonesia."

But it could be of no avail "if negotiation is to be used as a tactical device to prolong the Dutch colonial administration in West Irian. It might even make the situation worse."

Subandrio said that if the territory were transferred to Indonesia, its people would get the fullest autonomy possible within the framework of the republic and the United Nations charter.

The Dutch officials announced Tuesday that Indonesia had officially broken off telegraph communications with the Netherlands, following the severing of telephone traffic Dec. 30.

Indonesia was announced as preparing to mobilize all aircraft.

Diplomatic forces have already been mobilized and soldiers ordered "to stand by your posts and be fully mentioned" to take over New Guinea.

OFFICER RANK STRUCTURE WILL BE OVERHAULED

Army Put on Level Of Navy and RCAF

OTTAWA (CP)—An overhaul of the officer rank structure in the Canadian Army is approaching as the army acquires new weapons and equipment, information says.

Such a revision would put the army on the same level as the navy and the RCAF in which the rank structure is based more on weapons and equipment commanded than on the number of men who operate them."

One instance cited by a navy or RCAF squadron concern the number of ships or planes in that squadron. But references to an army battalion concern the number of men in it, not the number of weapons, vehicles and so on.

THE ARMOURED CORPS

The army's motorized infantry brigade group and the RCAF's air division in Europe each has about 6,500 men. The brigade is commanded by a brigadier, the air division by an air vice - marshal, one rank higher than brigadier.

However, the brigade's firepower—and that of the army—is increasing immeasurably and will be increased by a dedicated Honest John artillery rocket. The Honest John battery comprises only 200 men but it is capable of firing nuclear weapons.

A brigade area now covers at least twice the territory than it did in the second world war. But there has not yet been any change in the rank structure to coincide with this increased responsibility.

TOWARD AUTOMATION

What the army foresees is an automated battlefield in which dispersed groups smaller than battalions would have much greater mobility and firepower than present units and possess all kinds of new machinery for surveillance and electronic equipment capable of almost automatic response to any given situation.

This increased responsibility for largely independent groups operating over a large area would require, the army officer sources feel, in an overhaul of the rank structure in which rank will be related to the number of weapons and machines, not men, it is said.

Work Will Cost Twelve Million Over 10 Years

Will Replace Railways With Two New Locks

TRENTON — A ten - year program, involving an estimated outlay of approximately $12 million, is to be launched by the Department of Transport to bring the Trent Canal up to required standards, it was announced yesterday by Mr. Lucien Grilla, M.P. for Hastings South.

Mr. Girlia made the announcement on behalf of Hon. Leon Balcer, Minister of Transport. Representation from the Trenton Council, Trenton Chamber of Commerce, the Trenton Legion and other organizations in the Trent Valley had considerable to do with the government decision to bring the Trent Canal up to the standard required for tourist and boating traffic.

The program is being undertaken because of the phenomenal increase in boating traffic on the system, coupled with the fact that for many years the Trent has undergone no major improvements and existing facilities are no longer able to cope with the demands for service.

HAS DETERIORATED

Over the years, there has been a deterioration in the canal's facilities through age and usage, to a point where a major program of rehabilitation is now a necessity. The Big Chute and Swift Rapids marine railways are no longer able to cope with the public demand for their use, from both the point of view of equipment and hours they can handle per day and the limitations their dimensions place on the size of boat that can be transported. The marine railways cannot handle a yacht of more than four feet draft, though the limit through out the rest of the Trent system is six feet.

During this time, the public trend toward boating as a pastime has seen traffic pressure mount to an unprecedented degree. In 1954, for instance, craft recorded by the various lockmasters totalled 23,165. By the end of the past summer, the figure had approached to a seasonal total of 85,752.

TO BUILD LOCKS

Major item in the program will be the construction of locks to replace the present marine railways at Swift Rapids and Big Chute, on the Severn River near the Georgian Bay end of the system.

Lengthy engineering and economic studies including traffic projections have convinced the

No Change in Red Position On Berlin Comes From Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preliminary reports indicate Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko did not offer any new Kremlin position on Berlin in his conference with U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, informed sources say. But a sudden change had not been expected.

The officials said they expect Thompson will be instructed to report to Washington fairly soon in an effort to find a solution to the problem.

President Kennedy, who was kept informed in Palm Beach, Fla., of the Moscow developments, was described as believing it important to keep open the diplomatic contact with the Russians.

Thompson's first dispatch was said to have been a brief resume of Tuesday's initial conversation. A lengthier account was expected to be available today.

CAN VIOLATE RIGHTS

The Western powers have contended that Soviet Premier Khrushchev's plan to sign a peace treaty with Communist East Germany could violate their rights in Berlin.

While the treaty itself is not of paramount Western concern, Western officials are concerned over Khrushchev's implications that under the treaty the Communist East German regime—which the West does not recognize — would be given control over access to Berlin.

Gromyko reported reiteration of the Kremlin line on Berlin did not come as any big surprise here.

The pattern of discussions with the Soviets in the past is that at the outset both sides expound their known positions.

Thompson himself was under instructions to repeat the West's ten demands to stand firm on its rights in Berlin.

CP Will Drop Atlantic Runs Next Winter

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited will drop its North Atlantic passenger runs next winter and use the vessel for holiday cruises, it was announced today.

The line has scheduled three sailings of its Empress of Britain this winter from Saint John, N.B., for Britain.

Two other Empress—England and Canada—are being used for winter cruises.

It was reported that diminishing passenger trade was the reason for cancelling next winter's passenger runs.

CPS has run regular passenger services, except for the Second World War, between Canada and Britain since the end of the First World War.

Recount Gives Etobicoke Cocktail Bars

TORONTO (CP)—Judge Robert Forsyth announced today that suburban Etobicoke will have cocktail bars.

After recounting 40,000 votes cast Nov. 25, the judge found that 80.54 per cent had voted approval. This reverses an earlier count which defeated bars by less than one per cent. Dining lounges were approved at the original vote.

Airplanes Unfrozen From Ground But Ice Still Grips British Roads

LONDON (AP)—Ice and snow maintained a stranglehold over most of Britain today despite the weathermen's promise of a thaw.

For the third day in a row transport struggled at a snail's pace across rail, roads and waterways. The only sign of faster traffic was at London and some other big airports where planes were unfrozen from the ground and started flying almost on schedule.

Thousands of miles of highway still were coated with hard-packed ice on which motor vehicles slithered in cautious convoys.

The switchgear on railroad tricks jammed tight again almost as soon as defrosting crews had turned their backs. In some places fog added to the hazards.

The weather bureau said the thaw it there predicted for today might now be delayed some days. It was awaited with trepidation by those whose overtaxed and often antiquated plumbing systems when snow melts. More floods were expected to gush forth as flood when melting time arrived.

Heavy snowfalls in western Austria, coupled with mild temperature started rising and warnings went out of avalanche danger.

Southeastern France also had heavy snow and ice. About 1,000 cars and trucks were blocked in the region around Dijon. Light rain fell on the snow and quickly iced over.

In Paris, the temperature was near freezing but the sun was bright.

Castro and Officials Under Papal Excommunication

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Vatican prelate said today that Fidel Castro and certain officials of his government have been placed under automatic excommunication.

Archbishop Dineo Staffa, a leading expert on canon law in the Vatican, said the penalty of said excommunication had been incurred by Castro and all Cuban officials responsible for "impeding and improperly" Roman Catholic bishops in Cuba.

The statement by Archbishop Staffa was not a formal announcement but was given in reply to a newspaper reporter's question.

Archbishop Staffa, who is secretary of the Vatican's Sacred Congregation of Seminaries and Universities, said the excommunication had been incurred without formal announcement by the Vatican.

He said announcement of excommunication in these cases is normally made by the Pope himself. Vatican sources speculated that Pope John had made

It said recent secret contacts between the French and the Algerian rebels may bring about a "new Evian" in several days or weeks."

Bigtime Crime Leaders Hit In Bankroll Claims Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of Robert F. Kennedy's biggest satisfactions in his first year as attorney - general came from hitting the operating expenses of organized crime in their bank roll," he said today.

The bankroll, he emphasized in an interview, consists of receipts from gambling.

In a year-end report to President Kennedy, the attorney-general listed a number of new anti-racketeering legislation and the creation of an intelligence unit within the organized crime division as major developments in the fight against crime.

One of the new laws makes it a felony to transmit bets by interstate wire. Kennedy said this forced the majority of leading race wire services—basic to the operation of gambling syndicates—to close down.

Lord Privy Seal to Give Report on Common Market

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government gets a first-hand report today on Britain's momentous negotiations to enter the European Common Market.

British Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath, who arrived Tuesday night, was scheduled to meet this afternoon with four Canadian cabinet ministers to discuss the Common Market question — one in which Canada's export trade is vitally involved.

Mr. Heath, the British minister in charge of Common Market negotiations, told an airport press conference he hopes the discussions will "create a fuller understanding both of what is going on in the negotiations and of the Canadian views about them."

The four - man cabinet committee comprises External Affairs Minister Green, Trade Minister Fleming, Trade Minister Hees and Agriculture Minister Harkness.

Mr. Heath arrived three hours after a colleague, British Air Secretary Julian Amery, who will hold talks with the air council today and visit a number of defence installations.

Connecticut Birth Control Law Test Looms as Pair Are Convicted

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Two officials of a planned parenthood centre have been convicted of violating Connecticut's 83-year-old birth control statute.

Dr. C. Lee Buxton, chairman of the obstetrics and gynecology department at Yale Medical School, and Mrs. Estelle W. Griswold, executive director of the Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut, were fined $100 each in circuit court, Tuesday.

Police raided the clinic Nov. 10 and it has since been inoperative.

The clinic was deliberately opened to challenge the 1879 statute, which the U.S. Supreme Court last year called merely "dead wood."

The tribunal refused to rule a the law's constitutionality on the grounds that no one was being prosecuted under the 1879 statute. The league, which opposed the law for 20 years, was forced to close its last clinic in 1940.

Judge J. Robert Lacey said the evidence is clear and conclusive to the court that there was a violation." He said there was no doubt that Dr. Buxton and Mrs. Griswold had given advice on the use of contraceptives.

The law forbids both the sale of birth control devices and distribution of information about them.

Miss Catherine Roraback, defence attorney for the league's appeal the conviction to the appellate division of the circuit court.

The league has said it would carry the case right to the U.S. Supreme Court, again if necessary. The Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors has upheld the law in past test cases.

Mrs. Griswold, 61, is executive director of the Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut, and Buxton, 57, is medical director of the birth control clinic.

Buxton contends the law prevents him from carrying out his physician's duty to give birth control advice to women whose health might be endangered by another pregnancy.

Woman Found In Bathtub Beaten to Death

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (AP)—Police sought clues today in the mysterious slaying of pretty socially-prominent mother who was brutally beaten in her $100,000 home and then stomped into a watertub.

Mrs. Doris June Bowman, 32, blood-spattered mother of three was found dead Tuesday. She was the wife of Dr. Frank Potter Bowman, 36, medical director for the Southern California Edison Company.

Investigators reported these findings:

Bloodstains were not ransacked. Bloodstains and fragments of teeth found in the house showed that Mrs. Bowman had battled for her life. Bloodstains on the bathroom door indicated the killer took time to wash before fleeing.

There was speculation that Mrs. Bowman may have surprised a prowler bent upon burglary and that he panicked, killed and fled.

Girl Stabbed While Resisting Sexual Assault

Officers said the return of a Canadian hockey player, Andre Drolet, may have saved the life of Penny Moore, 21-year - old Greensboro, N.C., girl who was an ice - skating instructor for the Christmas holidays. She was reported in satisfactory condition after surgery.

Police identified Joel Lee Saye, 22, a neighbor of the wounded girl, as the assailant. He was named in warrants charging first - degree burglary, punishable by death, and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Police said they thought he might have fled the state.

Four persons attended the party, police said, but Saye was not one of them. He had lived next door to Miss Moore for about two weeks but they were not acquainted, they added.

Detective Robert Hinson said Drolet, 24, of Quebec City, a member of the Greensboro Checkers hockey team, returned to Miss Moore's apartment about 3 a.m. and found her bleeding from three stab wounds in the chest and one in the stomach.

Salazar Says Portugal May Quit UN

LISBON (Reuters) — Premier Antonio Salazar said today his government refuses to accept Indian occupation of Goa and suggested that Portugal may quit the United Nations.

Salazar made his first address to the National Assembly since India occupied the Portuguese enclave last month.

The premier said that "in the same way that there has been no surrender of forces of banishing over of ships, (to the Indians) there cannot be re-establishment of sovereignty of the Indian union over the Portuguese territories in India."

He said Portugal will "have to wait for the international community to redress the offence done to Portuguese sovereignty and restore it to its legitimate rights before a normal situation can be re-established."

Turning to Portugal's relations with Britain, Salazar said his government "does not have to see what 'positive content' is left in the Anglo-Portuguese alliance, and base its future attitude to treaty obligations with Britain on this."

He said the British government had refused a Portuguese request to use some airfields "needed by Portugal for connections with Goa."

Portugal and Britain have a long-standing mutual defence pact. At the time of the Indian invasion of Goa, Britain said there could be no question of fighting another member of the Commonwealth.

no announcement in an effort to avoid further strain in relations between the Vatican and Cuba.

Archbishop Riello and his bishops had been impeded in their work in Cuba and had been imprisoned, he said, but he declined to give details.

Bishop Eduardo Boza Masvidal was expelled from Cuba along with 131 priests in September. At the time Vatican sources said Castro and his officials might have incurred automatic excommunication.

Archbishop Riello said the excommunication was under a provision of Roman Catholic canon law imposing automatic excommunication upon any person who, directly or indirectly, impedes a prelate in the performance of his duties.

Reports of excommunication, briefly, are loss of the sacraments of the church and, in a broad sense, ostracism from the church and any person so punished. Pardon for this type of excommunication can be given only by the Pope or his delegate.

New President Kiwanis Club Is Installed

The 1962 executive of the Belleville Kiwanis Club was installed by the district lieutenant-governor, Evans Blackler, of Kingston, at yesterday's regular weekly dinner meeting at the Kiwanis Centre.

Before the ceremony Mr. Blackler conducted the Belleville club on having a very active membership and went on to the members of his own club, the West Kingston Kiwanis Club, in actively supporting his program and work for this year.

Mr. Black stressed the importance of Kiwanis International's slogan for 1962 — "Freedom — Our Individual Responsibility." He said that it was important to realize and support the many small things which make up freedom in a democracy. Also stressed was the importance of Kiwanis attaches to the religious aspects for establishing a sound basic relationship in their work and projects.

He noted that Kiwanis International had earned the top award for service clubs in North America in the past year.

Installed as president was Stanley Tozer. Other officers inducted by the lieutenant-governor were Dr. Bruce Bonisteel, past president; Ralph Graham, Q.C., vice-president; Will Mills, secretary, and Hal Fleck, treasurer.

Past president Gerry Wishart introduced Lieutenant - Governor Black to the club and Kiwanis Club of Kingston thanked him for his remarks.

Second Special Training Course Is Oversubscribed

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's second special militia training course has been oversubscribed by more than 50 per cent as of yesterday afternoon Major Alex. Cunningham officer in charge of the course reported this morning. More than 300 applications have been received with only 200 billets allowed plus a surplus enrolment of 35 applicants to allow for the minimum of the 200 to complete the six-week course.

These applications are now being selectively processed and successful applicants will be receiving their uniform and kit this week. The course itself will move right off on next Monday and will conclude on February 16th.

It is hoped that some of the applicants will still be available for the third of the four courses scheduled. This course will commence on April 2nd and run through to April 13th before the Easter break.

Transportation for out-of-town members of the course such as Madoc recruits during the first course has also been withdrawn due to a lack of qualified drivers be advised. This curtailment of facilities will mean that regiment's vehicles which has been utilized for this purpose will be used in the normal course of training Major Cunningham said.

It is expected that recruits from the Madoc district will organize group transportation facilities privately on a pool basis and report to A/Sergeant themselves, he commented. No transportation allowances have been allowed by the government.

C of C Is Not Opposed to 401 Service Centres

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce will not oppose the plan of the Ontario Department of Highways to install service centres on 401 highway centres along 401 highway.

This was the decision of the local chamber yesterday evening when they considered a resolution to be forwarded to the Lions Hope and Cobourg are opposing the setting up of such service centres on the ground that they would effect the business of garages and restaurants already operating in these centres.

The resolution asked that instead of full fledged service centres, small attractive buildings providing only telephone and washroom facilities, be installed.

The Belleville Chamber is opposed to the Port Hope resolution and will draft a recommendation of its own establishing the support of the local Chamber on the matter. The resolution will be drawn up and forwarded to the Ontario Chamber of Commerce for discussion at its annual meeting.

State Secretary Won't Comment On Report

QUEBEC (CP)—State Secretary Noel Dorion declined Tuesday to comment on newspaper reports concerning a copy of a 1956 letter signed "Noel Dorion" banking certain aspects of former Quebec Liquor Police force for election campaign services.

In Quebec Crown prosecutor Jean Perrault said neither he nor Crown authorities are Quebec City are interested in the letter.

The Crown prosecutor said he had seen such a copy but, when the prosecution case was made last summer against three former Liquor Police accused of fraud the document was not used as evidence.

"I did not produce this document because it is unnecessary to burden proceedings with material not useful to the case," he said.

Mr. Dorion was the victorious Progressive Conservative candidate in Beauharnois riding in 1956. None of the evidence linked Mr. Dorion personally with the work of the police.

Jacques Marquis, chief organizer for Mr Dorion, said Tuesday the Quebec Liquor Police was never asked to come into Beauharnois County during the 1958 federal election campaign.

"If some of the police were in the riding at the time, we had nothing to do with it," said Mr. Marquis.

Britain to Reject Guatemala's Honduras Claim

LONDON (AP) — Britain is planning to reject Guatemala's formal rejection of Guatemala's claim to British Honduras—coupled with a public offer to discuss a solution of the century-old territorial dispute.

Informed sources said the British offer to talk is intended to counter moves by President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes to break diplomatic ties with Britain and to have all British nationals unless the Guatemalan claim to British Honduras is recognized.

So far the foreign office has received only the first part of formal comment on Ydigoras' warnings. Guatemala's envoy presented the belief that the Guatemalan leader has revived the territorial issue to divert the current attention from domestic difficulties.

Ydigoras said he would take the drastic step of breaking with British Honduras as a result of progress towards self-government. Britain has announced that no offer to negotiate was made by London two months ago and it still has not been made by Guatemala.

British Honduras, a colony of less than 9,000 square miles with a multi-racial population of 90,000, has been a source of dispute with its neighbor to the west since 1859 at least.

Guatemala has the only country claiming the timber-rich region which is a British colony on the eastern seaboard of Central America, Mexico, to the north, tacitly accepts British sovereignty but has insisted that it will not recognize it as long as part of its country if there is any change of ownership.

Sharpest clash with Guatemala in 1958 were the first to settle what long was a British-Spanish Pirates and loggers later frequented the wild coast.

Folk-Singers Refuse to Sign Loyalty Oaths

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Broadcasting Company said Tuesday night it has barred a folk-singing quartet from appearing on the Jack Paar show because its members had refused to sign loyalty oaths.

The quartet, The Weavers, said it had unanimously declined when approached by NBC and asked to make statements that they were not members of the Communist party.

Fred Hellerman, spokesman for the quartet, said: "We feel very strongly that in private business establishment such as NBC has the power or the right to require proof of a citizen's patriotism."

Paar was on vacation and was not available for comment.

Wills advised the youth to seek legal advice during this period. Mennie has been charged, along with Donald Blascowetsky, 17, with 11 offences, including three charges which involve incidents which occurred in the village of Frankford. Robert Anderson and Edward Berry, charged with being in unlawful possession of property of scrap copper, pleaded guilty to the charges and were given two months each in jail.

Humphrey Sees Fight on Trade In the Making

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota predicted in an interview today that the battle shaping in the new session of Congress will come over international trade.

Humphrey, assistant Senate Democratic leader, served notice that he is not satisfied with the way things are going now in United States' dealings with the Common Market.

"I don't think the state department experts are protecting the agricultural interests of this country," he said. "The French and the Germans are getting together on everything to keep U.S. exports out of the market. Our farmers are getting dealt out."

Humphrey said that products which may be shut out of the Common Market unless some steps are taken swiftly include rice, vegetable oils, feed grains, wheat, citrus fruits and poultry. He noted that U.S. exports of farm products to western Europe reached $2,000,000,000 last year.

Lebanon Revolt Linked to RN Ship Movements

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Interior Minister Kamal Jumblatt, a disciple of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, charged today that last week-end's unsuccessful rightist uprising in Lebanon was linked to British fleet movements in the Mediterranean.

Jumblatt let expressed views similar to those published in Cairo, Baghdad and other Middle Eastern capitals. The pilotless opposed Nasser's pan-Arab nationalism and favored a "terrible crescent" around Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Iraq, Palestine and Cyprus.

"The authors of the attempt went into action only after having made sure of the end of Dec. 30-31 (the dates of the British fleet movements) unconnected with events now unfolding elsewhere in the Middle East."

The only unusual movements by British warships noted by observers in the Middle East were those by a fleet dispatched from Africa's east coast to the Kuwait area after new threats by Iraq against Kuwait. They steamed into the Persian Gulf but did not come near the Mediterranean.

British governments today announced that six members of the nationalist Social party were killed while attempting to evade a roundup of persons involved in the coup.

Security forces meanwhile continued to round up suspects. A communique said 1,195 had been arrested, but the armed forces met with resistance in occupying two mountain strongholds of remnants of the rightists. Tank and jet were used to rout them, the communique said.

The Lebanese radio said the army also had seized a supply of arms and two truckloads of documents in eastern mountain strongholds of the extreme right wing Popular Social party. Virtually all those arrested were believed to be members, and the government dissolved the party.

The weapons seized included 300 machine-guns, 200 rifles, 300 sub-machine-guns and 14 cases of ammunition.

INDUSTRIALIST DIES

County Clerk-Treasurer, E. S. Denyes, Dies Suddenly

Prominent in the municipal, political, civic, social life of the city and County for many years, Erle Stuart Denyes, Hastings County Clerk for the past 27 years and Clerk-Treasurer for ten years died suddenly of a heart attack late Tuesday afternoon, while proceeding from his office to his home. In the death of Mr. Denyes, the County and in fact the Province has lost a citizen learned in municipal law and one of the most able county Clerks in Ontario.

Mr. Denyes was born at Zion's Hill in Thurlow township, 69 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robinson Denyes and received his early education at Zion's Hill school, the high school in the area and at Albert College. As a young man he took up farming and established one of the best farms in Thurlow township and continued in that occupation until his appointment to the clerkship.

On the outbreak of hostilities of the First World War he was active in the affairs of the Services to his country and became a Lieutenant in the 254th Battalion. He has always been active in the Canadian Heavy Siege Battery and served with distinction in that unit until the battery was finally gassed.

At Wicklow Mr. Denyes discharge he returned to his native County and immediately took up his civic duties in the township of Thurlow council in 1930 and served for three years and was then elected Reeve and continued he held for two terms. In 1934 he was appointed Clerk of the County and was suggested to that position with distinction to himself and to the entire county until the present time.

He never lost his interest in agriculture and was always a prominent figure at meetings where agriculture was discussed. To Young's board, natural residents, Mr. Denyes endeared the directorate of the Belleville Fair Board and was honored with the position of president. He served in that office ten years and under his direction the fair went forward by leaps and bounds. He relinquished his post but was appointed a director, a post he held at the time of his death.

ACTIVE IN LODGES

In the fraternal life of the community he took an active interest. Mr. Denyes was a life member of Stirling Lodge, A.F. and A.M. He was a member of Prideliield L.O.L. No. 179 and the Fusiliers of the Sea Preceptory No. 382. In all of these lodge he was a regular attendant and was a faithful fellowship of the assemblies. In his younger life he was a member of Bridge Street United Church and a regular attendant at the services. He was active in the work of the congregation. In the 1925, the present church of the church, he took an active part.

Mr. Denyes was an ardent sportsman, a keen lover of hockey and baseball and was a most active supporters of the Maple Farlands, a baseball team that won the Allan Cup and the world championship. He was acquainted with the Mack to Kelowna and with the same team when it went to Europe on the trips he was the life of the party. He continued to be a keen follower on the squad and his advice was frequently sought on personal problems.

In politics he was a member of the Conservative party and was active in the party affairs. With his appointment as County Clerk he took a less-active part, but when elections were in progress he was generally the first man down to the election intelligence office to get the returns and they came in over the teletype system. A keen student of the major parties were usually present and good-natured banter was generally the rule and Mr. Denyes thoroughly enjoyed his evening. He was a kind and loyal husband and a firm friend to a wide circle in every walk of life. He enjoyed home life and ship and was never happier than with his friends discussing the various topics of the day.

ABILITY DEMONSTRATED

His administrative ability was demonstrated in many ways in County elections and he always kept the members well informed on municipal law. He was an avid reader of the statutes and would quote the law on almost any question being discussed.

Aside from municipal interests, Mr. Denyes took an active interest in conservation matters and was the first secretary of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Along with the late Col. Rosco Vandervaeter, Mr. Denyes was mainly responsible for the formation of the Moira Authority in 1947 and at its inaugural meeting was named secretary pro-tem.

He retires at the close of 1947 he was named secretary for the next year, a position which he has turned over to Col. Vanderwaker.

WARDEN'S TRIBUTE

His worth in county council circles has been well stated by the warden.

"Mr. Denyes' death has been a tremendous shock to us," Warden Leigh Hamilton this morning. "He was an able administrator of county finances and it will be difficult for county council to replace him."

Warden Hamilton noted that with the 1962 inaugural session in two weeks' time, Mr. Denyes' organizational ability will be particularly missed at this time.

It will be difficult for another man to take over Mr. Denyes' position," he said.

Mayor A. W. Haig on behalf of city council and the city of Belleville, extended "deepest sympathy" to Mr. Denyes' family, the county council and the county as a whole.

"At city hall we had the utmost respect for Mr. Denyes as clerk of the county Mr. Denyes was in with many county committees on official business frequently."

Surviving are his wife, the former Bessie Winnifred Sills, two sons, Thurlow Reeve Forrest City Manager and now with Northland Construction Company Limited and Dr. John Sheffield; three brothers, Kenneth Denyes of Hallowayy, Fred Denyes, Brighton; Rev. George Denyes of Winnipeg, Man., and one sister, Mrs. Ethel Bowerman, Jeffrey of Wallbridge. Also surviving are seven grandchildren.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from R. Bush Funeral, Home with interment in Zion's Hill cemetery.

WORK WILL COST

Department that only construction of complete new locks would be adequate to give the public the service it expects. Other alternatives considered would not be able to handle future traffic growth and would reach capacity and become a bottleneck in a few years' time.

It is estimated that about a year will be required to complete plans and model testing before construction starts. Actual building of these locks will require two years. Estimated cost will be upwards of $3 million. It is expected that construction of the locks will boost operations in the system to new levels of importance for the many communities that are vitally concerned with the boating trade and the tourist industry.

Other lock projects will range from the complete replacement of old locks 33 and 34 at Fenelon Falls by a single lock, which is now underway, to restoration of entrance-piers and lock walls at some of the locations. Major work of this nature will be carried out at Lock 19, Peterborough; Locks 28 and 32 at Burleigh Falls; Lock 30, Lovesick and at Lock 31, Buckhorn. The lift locks at Peterborough and Kirkfield will be rehabilitated under the same program. The other locks will have operational equipment electrified.

REBUILD 11 BRIDGES

In the long run it is also contemplated that bridges will have to be either replaced or rebuilt during the 5-year period. Some of this work already been undertaken. Where a concrete bridge has been taken out of service and only a high level highway bridge, the Ontario Department of Highways, with the assistance of Parks has contributed toward the cost of the new structure. In addition to work on the 14 bridges mentioned, 10 other bridges will need their mechanical equipment electrified.

Necessary building projects related to the improvement of the Trent system will include provision of new structures to replace the present shops building at Peterborough; replacement of the residence and provision of 15 watch houses at lock stations.

Approximately 30 dams will undergo retsoration. When all the 5 year improvements have been completed, it is estimated that the system should require no further major capital expenditures for the following 10 to 20 years.

SET AIR SAFETY MARK

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. scheduled airlines achieved in 1961 a flight safety record better than ever before since flying began, the Civil Aeronautics Board's bureau of safety, reporting this Tuesday, said figures indicated a fatality rate on the U.S. international airlines of 0.29 deaths for each 100,000,000 passenger miles. Passenger deaths on scheduled flights totalled 150, including one person on the ground struck by a propeller.

Plenty of Snow In Wellington Since Friday

WELLINGTON (Special) — Somewhere under 23" inches of snow on the level and 33 inches of the drifted state is the shoreline that marks the wedding of this village and Lake Ontario.

Flat-roofed buildings resembling huge cakes squat under an icing of two feet of snow.

Villagers scrounge for shop and post office trudged through corridors of snow lined with banks four and five feet in height.

The village sagged under the heavy fall that submerged the district under a heavy blanket last Friday. Picton, and other landmarks of the diagonal snowbelt had over two feet of snowy mantle.

In some places stalactites of ice hanging like huge spears reach from house eaves to the ground.

Departmental snowplows have cleared highways leading to and from the village as well as the main thoroughfares. Village plows have cleared sidestreets.

Snow is being trucked from Main Street to facilitate through traffic from Picton to Trenton.

And villagers are bracing themselves for more snow. It was falling here steadily this morning.

The fall was the heaviest since that of 14 years ago. Then the village was practically isolated. It was cut off from the outside for three to four days as plows fought to clear roads.

on Anglo-Canadian relations.

Almost all Canadian exports to Britain, totalling more than $900,000,000, enter Britain free of duty. The government has said 70 per cent of them would be seriously affected by Britain adopting the Common Market tariffs.

Mr. Heath told reporters there is a continuing exchange of information with Canada on all diplomatic levels about the Common Market negotiations.

The next round of British negotiations with the Common Market at Brussels Jan. 18 and 19 will involve manufactured products—a field in which Canadian exports to Britain have been rising sharply in recent years.

Mr. Heath indicated Britain is seeking to cut down some Common Market tariffs.

He referred to his proposal in October for tariff-free entry of five industrial materials of prime interest to Canada—aluminum, woodpulp, newsprint, lead and zinc—and added that Britain also has asked for similar tariff treatment of 19 other products.

He declined to identify the 19, but said they were of special interest to Canada as the other British request was being studied by the Common Common Market committee.

Made No Deal With Guatemala Says Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department denied Tuesday that the United States made a deal with Guatemala on British Honduras in return for Guatemala's help in last spring's abortive invasion of Cuba.

Press officer Lincoln White issued the denial following reports that Guatemalan President Miguel Ydigoras, a free-wheeling radio-TV New Year's Eve speech.

1. Said, according to a New York Times dispatch, that in return for Guatemalan help in providing training sites for Cuban invasion forces the United States agreed to use its good offices in settling the Guatemala-British dispute over British Honduras.

2. Admitted for the first time that Guatemala trained anti-Castro exiles for the Cuban invasion.

3. Indicated President Kennedy had decided to take action against Cuba's Castro regime.

Guatemala long has sought British Honduras, a neighboring Central American territory the Guatemalans call Belize. The British first settled there in the 17th century and recently have been moving it toward independence.

White declined general comment on Ydigoras' remarks on grounds a full text was not yet available here.

Let Us Have a Quinte Park

The report from the Tweed Forestry District of work underway at Bon Echo Provincial Park, on Highway 41 at Lake Mazinaw, makes interesting and encouraging reading.

This past summer only fifty campsites were available at this Park, which enjoys an unexcelled location. Next summer the camp will be expanded to include 400 campsites, which would appear to be close to the maximum desirable size. There is little to be gained from making a camping area so crowded, or so commodious, that it approximates a small city.

The Bon Echo Park is by no means the first of its kind in the region in which Belleville and district residents customarily find their summer fun. Despite the considerable distance which separates us from Algonquin Park, many here have long been in the habit of enjoying this wilderness area. Presqu'ile and Outlet Beach provincial parks provide a different atmosphere for campers who like to remain closer to residential areas, or who desire to enjoy camping while the bread winner still attends to his duties, both being within easy motoring distance of Trenton and Belleville.

With all these well-planned, properly supervised parks, one might imagine that this district should be considered well served—and so it is, for the present. The same, though, will not hold true for the future, unless prompt action is taken to provide additional sites against the day when steadily growing population makes present camping sites inadequate.

It would appear highly desirable that not only local residents but the general public should be provided with an opportunity to enjoy camping beside one of the province's most beautiful bits of water—the Bay of Quinte itself. With both Trenton and Belleville now constructing sewage disposal plants, we ought to be able to look forward to the day when the Bay will regain all its old attractiveness for vacationists. When this time arrives, there ought to be ready for development some public site on its shores which will provide the public with easy access to its enjoyment. The time to acquire the necessary land is now. There are many private areas which the government could purchase for a reasonable sum, having regard to the natural assets of the area.

Highway 401 Service Centres

Zone 2 of the Ontario Development Association, meeting at Port Hope, has passed a resolution asking that only rest centres with telephone booths be established on Highway 401.

This is a disgraceful resolution to emanate from an organization which should be primarily interested in serving the best interests of the public as a whole.

We commend Mr. Jack Ireland, local director of the LODA, for his attitude towards the resolution, which will be discussed at a later meeting of Zone 2, and hope that his reasonable outlook is shared by others who will attend this meeting. Mr. Ireland's view is that it is inevitable that some service centres should be established on this highway, which will span the province from Windsor to the Quebec border. Of like mind is Mac Smith, a local member of the Garage Operators' Association, which has not yet discussed the matter. Naturally Mr. Smith and his colleagues in the Association are not overjoyed with the prospect of losing business to new service stations on this through highway; nor should we expect them to be. But there is a vast difference between enlightened self-interest and support of a resolution like that approved by Zone 2 of the LODA.

It might be added that a logical appraisal of the situation would suggest the limited type of rest centres proposed at the Port Hope meeting would benefit only a fraction of the service stations and restaurants on centres lying just off 401. What would inevitably happen would be that the major portion of the trade would go to those business places located nearest to the highway. Only a few through travellers, forced off the highway in search of gasoline or food, would proceed to the business districts.

The resolution adopted by Zone 2 of the LODA, besides being indefensibly restrictive of free enterprise and unconcerned about the convenience of motorists, thus has the additional flaw of being useless as far as preserving for its sponsors that business which they appear to believe is theirs by divine right, in perpetuity.

The British not only prepared their colonies for independence in five and ten years' time, they even built hotels in time for the independence celebrations to house the guests.—President Bourguiba of Tunisia.

Wants 401 Service Cars

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Before too long Highway 401 will stretch across Ontario, including our district. One of its special features will be the absence of the service facilities we have come to take for granted almost everywhere.

It may well be expected that in time there will be a good deal of pressure applied to permit setting up such establishments along 401, and it may be well to review some of the reasons against them, reasons which are particularly important in the Cornwall area.

Along the 401 route, once on this new road, the great majority of motorists will tend to push along at the pace they can. That may be a bit foolish in a lot of cases, but nevertheless it's a common human tendency.

As things stand, about the only way Cornwall and the communities along Lake St. Lawrence can hope to gain patronage for such amenities as service garages and motels already built in this area is to ensure that such places will not turn from Highway 401. We have a great many local and area businessmen would object to any change of plans in this respect.

* * *

Along a stretch of highway near London, the provincial government has established some objections by some motorists. We hear that the matter of gasoline or run into tire trouble, but putting on patrol cars with supplies of gas, oil and materials for minor repairs. The patrols pass every point at intervals of two and a half hours. This might be a long wait under some circumstances.

In the United States, many throughway roads have a compromise plan with special service facilities every 25 miles or so. But so far as we know there was no particular interest there in diverting people into tourist areas, and so forth. The Canadian idea was to make it get people from one point to another in rapid fashion.

That's isn't the sole objective of Highway 401 and we hope the province will continue to resist pressure from commercial interests, many of whom would probably welcome an opportunity to take on the fuel and accommodation business of 401 travellers.

* * *

In due course we might expect patrol cars will be placed in service on Highway 401 in this part of the province. The limited access highway now runs from Ingleside. We learn of a great many local and area businessmen would object to any change of plans in this respect.

Because of the great influence that scientists through science, have had on the course of events, and because people speak with great authority on matters within the scope of science, it is sometimes thoughtlessly assumed that they speak with equal authority on almost any subject.

When scientists speak with great authority on subjects other than science, perhaps on political issues, they are speaking with an authority derived from experience and knowledge of quite a different kind by their knowledge of science.

All of us would decry the ascription to scientists of an authority that they do not possess.

It doubt if we publicly state our disapproval of an unearned special authority with sufficient frequency, clarity and vigor.

Limitations Of Science

By Polykarp Kruch, Columbia University physics chairman

The lack of a sharp awareness of the limitations of science may be downright dangerous for the layman.

Bombarded as he is with news of the triumphs of science he may feel that science will solve all problems.

He may think that science can produce any miracle necessary to solve a problem, and he often attributes to science a quality of wisdom that is wholly outside of its sphere.

There are limitations of science that should be within the knowledge of every man who participates in the life of a science-conditioned world.

It is for example foolish to engage in a public policy that increases the radioactive burden of man's natural environment in the belief that science will inevitably find a way to protect man's genetic heritage from irrevocable damage from radiation.

I do not assert that science cannot do this, I do assert that it is not foolish to assume that science can do this and that we must not proceed under the assumption that it can.

Although science contributes knowledge of great importance in making value judgments, the excellence or a course of conduct or the excellence of a policy are not wholly determined by a framework of knowledge.

It would be dangerous to assume that science alone can produce the kind of wisdom, or that it can point to the right course of action in a way that as it can predict the occurrence of eclipses of the sun.

The belief that science can generate the wisdom to solve every problem that confronts leads man to abdicate his own responsibility in forming his world.

Finally, science alone cannot yield the good life; it alone cannot lend grace and power

Prove Apples Cut Illness

Philadelphia Inquirer

"A stitch in time saves nine"—has this proverb been modified? "A rolling stone gather no moss — not even a wee bit? Hard to prove. But a red apple a day keeps the doctor away—here's a test that science says it has now filed down a fact.

It appears that up at Michigan State University a research year experiment has been carried on which tends to prove that an apple a day really does keep the doctor away.

Records of the 1,300 university students show that those who one apple a day showed one-third fewer calls at the university health service, and complain about upper respiratory infections than the group on non-apple eaters. Also they had vastly fewer tension-provoked troubles (whatever that is) than non-apple-eating students.

It is a coincidence, of course, that this test was made and was sponsored by the National Apple Institute and the Michigan State Apple Commission.

We're content to accept the result because we like apples. But if the Maine or Idaho potato growers or the Florida orange growers want to get in on the health sweepstakes let them hire their own press agents.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY
DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
NOW IS THE TIME

"Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them."

Thus begins the last chapter of the Book of Ecclesiastes. Many have judged the writer of this book to be a cynic. The truth is that he was a realistic idealist. He looked life full in the face. He saw both its advantages and its disadvantages. He knew there was evil among men that the passing centuries had not eliminated. He was conscious of injustice in the world. He saw many things in human life to love and admire and many things to criticize and denounce.

But his summing up of the whole matter was an appeal to have faith in God the Creator.

The author of Ecclesiastes believed that there was much vanity in the futility in life but his conclusion of the whole matter was: "Fear God and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man."

The truly religious man is always realistic. He is conscious of the sin and injustice which characterize human life. But he believes in the power and overarching love of God. No matter how much he has to take of pain, disappointment, frustration, and hateful treatments of harmful men, nevertheless his faith remains firm in God.

"Remember," he cries, "Remember now thy Creator." The word "now" is important. The future is fraught with uncertainty.

Children's Laughs Show Their Feelings

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Most people, including parents, don't know much about a child's feelings until the child begins to cry; but much more is revealed by what the child laughs at.

I thought of his at the circus the other week, Mischief Barbara found some of the clowns fairly amusing, but the one that convulsed them was a tall man called "baby" — whereupon he would roll and fall down, and then inflated cinder pigeon with one hand, Michael and Barbara howled with delight.

Finally, when he could no longer endure the attentions of the fawning adults, the clown baby snatch a ferocious cigar in his mouth, lit it, and blew huge noxious fumes in their faces. Our kids died at that one.

What broke it up, of course, was this vivid exchange of their own repressed feelings. We tend to forget what small and helpless children are subjected to, being mauled by well-meaning strollers — but they do not forget.

They are treated like things: chucked under the chin, smacked by wet lips, tickled, patted and petted and prodded and put through their paces, quite irrespective of their own needs or desires.

We "mean well" of course, when we fuss over a baby or a small child, but there is still a hair's violation of the child's individuality. We treat him like a little toy, designed for our amusement and edification, and the child feels somehow used, even though he can't.

The baby clown was doing exactly what Michael and Barbara, and countless others, used to do when they were quite young — namely, to strike back at the fussing adults by a disguised them as wind-up dolls or grown-up clowns, and the latter, and on by a twist of the wrist.

It is a dangerous illusion to believe that a child can forever walk or talk is somehow devoid of a sense of interiority. This is inborn in all of us. The infant, like the adult, resents portraying roles and being judged in their own tears of disapproval, ing to moist affection when it is not in the mood, rolling over and playing dead when it wants to sleep or sulk or suck its thumb.

Children laugh at aggressiveness not because they are young savages, but because they are the only way they can express their repressed urges to hit back at an adult world that is rarely content to leave them alone. They are, indeed, at an early age, to resist the impulse to strike; but no training can keep them from fighting unconsciously when a Biggie falls on a banana peel or is hauled on the nose with a bladder. Laughter has always been the revenge of the weak upon the strong.

There Are Limits

The U.S. State Department is urging U.S. diplomats to use short, Anglo-Saxon words in their reports. It is excellent advice, applicable to many others besides the men who represent the U.S. in foreign lands. But the state department should be prepared to recognize that there are two short, Anglo-Saxon words which no diplomat can be expected to utter under any circumstances: "yes" and "no."

To Your Good Health

Spurs on Heels Are Common, Just Need Time to Adjust

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our son, 9, has spurs on his heels. What are they?

"Our doctor prescribed shoes that have a gouge in the inner heel and the heels are built up an extra ½ inch. The boy is taking no medicine but is walking better with these shoes. However, when he walks on concrete for a long time, he complains of the pain. — Mrs. L.M."

"Spurs" in the heel are fairly common. They are painful but they may not. But let me explain what "spurs" are.

When there's an injury to the body, even a cut finger or something like that, calcium in the body moves to the injured spot to help heal it. After a wound, you have a scar. After a broken bone, you have a thickened area where the bone "knit." There's calcium there!

So when, for one reason or another, there is irritation of the strong tendon which is attached to the heel bone, calcium gathers there to repair the damage. That is a "spur." What these spurs look like on the heel need is just what a wounded finger needs: Time and relief from irritation while nature adjusts the trouble and restores comfort. Give the heel rest a sore finger. We just would not do that. We would not so easy to rest a sore heel — or two. Because we walk every day.

So the gouge inner heel makes the heel more comfortable and a slightly built-up heel may help, too, depending on circumstances.

There could be some structural defect in the feet which puts added strain on the heel. This is often the case. In such instances, special shoes may be required to support the arch or in some other way take the strain off the irritated heel.

"Dear Dr. Molner: If one has hemorrhoids, or piles, is it safe to put in the bathwater either bubble bath, or bath salts, or perfume? I should you put baking soda in the water? — Mrs. B.

None of the things you mention will either help or harm the hemorrhoids. A hot tub will help, due to the heat, but not due to what is in the water — except, of course, you.

"Dear Dr. Molner: For curiosity's sake, I would like to know the following about syphilis.

"In some doctor books I have read that the first one of this disease appears four weeks after exposure, six weeks after, and twelve weeks after. In accordance with the above sequence, the limits for one after exposure would a Wassorman or Kahn test show a positive reaction? — Mrs. F.

Sir, I am delighted that this is just for curiosity's sake. Healthy services are decidedly alarmed about the increase in this dire disease. There is a large and, of course, dangerous.

To answer your academic question, the first sore or chancre in the vast majority of cases appears three to four weeks after the exposure or infection.

The Wasserman or Kahn test usually becomes positive after the sore has appeared. The most common time for the Kahn test to become positive is in the fourth or fifth week after infection.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is little hope of us solving many of the major problems confronting mankind until we have dealt with innumerable petty irritations in nature. For example, why do the women who insist on getting first aboard a bus or streetcar never open their purses to grope for their fare until they have blocked the entrance?

Can anybody tell me why they don't do their groping out in the street as they stand in line and see the bus or streetcar approaching?

You think there are not many of them? There are hundreds of them. Any streetcar or bus driver can tell you that he has never taken a run that some woman, with eyes like marbles and an expression about lively as a plaster statue, didn't block the step at the top of the stairs, ahead of half a dozen or a hundred others, and, once face to face with the fare box, laboriously twiddle open her purse and start groping, while the lineup clings behind her.

I am not referring to the people who hasten first aboard and then proffer a $10 bill to the driver. No, it is the ladies with their cavernous handbags groping for the ticket or nickel they are sure they have there a non half an hour ago!

TODAY'S TALK

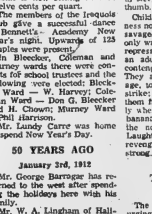
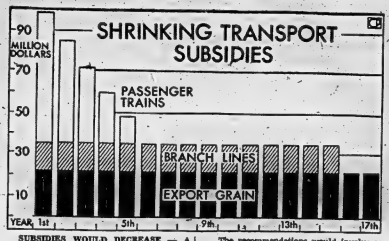
RARE PEOPLE

Every once in a while — often only after ten or twenty years — you run across somebody whom you can't account for. somebody whom you just like and know you like, but don't know why.

Rare — very. But what an event!



I have never liked explaining people. I always feel that they are apt to forget to mention the things that later I might discover to their disadvantage, and when I would be disappointed. And I don't like to be disappointed in people.



But if they are of this rare type, I can forgive much because they are rare and because I love to give anything!

When you read the lives and works of such people as Poe, Hudson, Shelley, Byron, and many others who died laughed in their own tears of disappointment, you feel a kind of warm glow in your heart. You feel that you are associating with those who loathed pity, but who craved understanding and sympathy and appreciation. Rare people!

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

SUBSIDIES WOULD DECREASE — A new system of federal subsidies to help railways meet automotive competition was recommended in the first volume of the Macpherson Royal Commission on Transportation.

The report was submitted last April. The second volume is expected shortly.

The recommendations would involve major cuts in passenger services and branch lines which lose money.

Graph shows portion of subsidy for major items and how they would decrease from $97,300,000 the first year to $22,300,000 in the 17th and following years. (CP Newsmap.)

U.S. Will Post 2 More Battle Groups in Reich

WASHINGTON (AP) — The posting of two more U.S. army battle groups in Germany will provide the makings of an air-transportable brigade that could deal with trouble in the Middle East, Africa or elsewhere.

The army high command has wanted for some time to create independent brigades in West Germany and on Okinawa for such a purpose. The Okinawa-based brigade would be intended for use in the Far East and Southeast Asia.

The Pentagon Tuesday announced that three battle groups of the 4th Infantry Division, totalling about 6,000 men, will be airlifted to Germany for a NATO exercise from Jan. 16 to Feb. 12.

Two of the infantry battle groups will remain there after the end of Operation Long Thrust II for additional training as elements of the army strategic reserve in Europe. The third will return to Ft. Lewis, Wash., following the exercise.

After several months, the two battle groups will be rotated back to the United States and replaced by other units of the 4th Division. In all, the 4th Infantry has five battle groups.

The defence department said these combat elements would be available for use in an emergency.

Funds for two independent trouble - shooting brigades are said to be included in the new defence budget soon to go to Congress.

Army leaders have been thinking in terms of paratroop units for such an assignment.

Sources indicate the battle groups to be sent to Germany later this month might be used as an interim "fire brigade."

They noted that although there are conveyed infantry they can be lifted quickly over thousands of miles.

About 100 transports will fly the 4th Division troops from Washington state to Europe. The battle groups will be accompanied by artillery, armor and other support elements.

PRINT HIROHITO POEM

TOKYO (Reuters) — A Tanka - style poem recalling the visit to Japan last November of Britain's Princess Alexandra was composed by Emperor Hirohito after her visit and published Tuesday. Tanka poems date back more than 1,000 years and are limited to 31 syllables. An unofficial translation read: "Receiving a young princess from England, we talked of happy journeys I had when I was young."

No Information Can Be Given At Checkpoint

BERLIN (Reuters) — West Berlin police said Tuesday the Western allies have forbidden them to divulge information on incidents involving Russian personnel at checkpoint Charlie.

Police said the order was given following a police report early Monday that U.S. military police turned back a Russian car when the occupants refused to identify themselves.

An American spokesman said at the time that the United States did not turn back the car but inspected it to see whether Soviet Berlin commandant Col. Andrei Solovjev or any of his political aides were inside.

The car returned later and passed into West-Berlin, the spokesman said.

The U.S. has barred Solovjev and his political aides from entering the U.S. sector. This is in retaliation for an East German ban on civilian aides of Maj.-Gen. Albert Watson, the American commandant, entering the Communist sector without first showing identification papers.

Progress Made Toward Common Market Accord

PARIS (Reuters) — The French and West German cabinets headed into meetings today to discuss Common Market negotiations at Brussels in the wake of a French report of "important progress."

French Agriculture Minister Edgar Pisani announced the progress Tuesday after meeting Premier Michel Debre and other key ministers.

He gave no details on the progress except to say it had been made, "both on the French side and on the side of the other Common Market members."

Cabinet ministers from the six Common Market states will resume talks in Brussels Thursday aimed at getting agreement on a common agriculture policy so that the market can move into its second stage — already delayed past the scheduled Jan. 1 date.

France has insisted on sticking to the letter of the 1954 Rome Treaty which set up the market in refusing to agree to passage into the second stage —which involves heavy tariff cuts—until agreement on a farm policy.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Tuesday heard a report on the Brussels negotiations from Agriculture Minister Werner Schwarz and Alfred Mueller-Armack, secretary of state at the economics ministry.

A government spokesman said the talks were "simply stocktaking" in preparation for Friday's meeting.

One of the major barriers to agreement on a farm policy has been the differences between West Germany and France, with France anxious to find export markets for its agriculture surplus and Germany equally anxious to protect its own farmers from cheaper foreign products.

The Experts Say

Business Girls Should Look Well-Groomed

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP) — Fashion arithmetic for girls in business: consists of simple addition and subtraction, say Anne Balsaves, a 36-year-old makeup artist from Sydney, Australia.

Anne is one of a staff of five at a training centre for bank employees in Toronto. The centre was opened in December and the bank plans to open similar centres in other parts of Canada.

New employees are given a five-day course that includes customer relations, telephone courtesy, makeup and grooming, and banking. Girls already on staff will be given shorter courses.

Her quick coure in fashion arithmetic includes the addition of a simple lapel pin to a two-piece suit, a light cologne, a bright belt or purse and shoes to enliven a dark outfit.

AVOID GAUDY DRESS

On the subtraction side are an uneven hemline, swirls of crinolines, stockings in dramatic colors and with uneven seams, "poor hair or extreme hair styles, noisy bangles, dangling earrings, colorful dresses without jacket, low necklines and clothes that are too snug — in short anything that isn't absolutely and unquestionably flattering."

She says the essentials of a well-groomed look are: A Daily bath, use of a deodorant daily, frequent use of a depilatory, regular shampoos, clean and neatly pressed clothes, shoes suitable for business, polished and in good repair, and stockings in a neutral shade.

Makeup should match the skin tone and be smoothly blended. Hands should be smooth and well cared for with nail polish unchipped and not too brilliant in color.

TELEPHONE COURTESY

Business and industrial executive consider courtesy telephone contacts important since they are often a customer's first dealings with the company. Miss McCleer said.

Common speech faults were talking too quickly or in too high or too low a voice, and speaking with gum or cigaret in the mouth.

The telephone should be answered promptly and the conversation terminated as quickly as possible since a busy line was often a liability in business. The person who answers should identify himself immediately.

"Make the person glad he spoke to you," Mrs. McCleer said. "Then allow the caller to hang up first."

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's current cold snap sent shares in firms specializing in home heating equipment up by more than £1,500,000 ($4,200,000) on the London Stock Exchange Tuesday.

Transport Companies Hold Parties

Saturday, December 16th was a "first time" for Smith Transport and Toronto and Peterborough Transport when an extra-big Christmas party for the children of the employees was held in the afternoon. Mrs. Wallis entertained the children with slides of wild life, and stories about the animals.

The highlight of the afternoon was a visit from Santa with a gift for each child. Cookies and chocolate milk brought the party to a close.

Later, the same evening, a party in the form of a dance was held for the employees and their wives. Charlie Kamuzer and his orchestra supplied the music and delight. A delicious buffet luncheon was served after which Mr. Jack Rabotte, T.P.T. manager thanked the committee for a most enjoyable day and compliment ed them on the success of a very well done. Mr. Jack Boyle, Smith Transport supervisor, expressed the appreciation of each and everyone present.

Mr. E. Whiteman, of Smith Transport, concluded with thanks to each person who worked so hard to make the party a success and asked for the co-operation of all the employees in making this an annual affair.

Women's Institute

BETHEL-ZION W.I.

The regular meeting of Bethel-Zion W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Ray with a large attendance.

The president, Mrs. Roy Sills presided and opened the meeting.

The roll call, "A two-minute number by each member pertaining to Christmas, was well answered.

Business was dealt with. The report of the 'meat course' was given by Mrs. Ralph Sills, it was decided to withdraw the regular February meeting in order that all members could attend the Summary day at Trenton on February 8 at 1.30 p.m.

At this point, Mrs. Tufts presented a reel of films from the plowing match. This was most gratifying.

A report of the area convention was given by Mrs. R. Robson and a report of the Girls' Work was given by Mrs. E. Tufts.

Especially enjoyed was the Christmas story composed by Mrs. Nicholls who was unable to be present. This was given by Mr. Nicholls.

A medley of carols was sung by the ladies with Mrs. A. Lott as pianist, and Mrs. Doug Sills as song leader.

Mrs. Percy Ray, demonstrated the making of mints. This was most interesting.

After the meeting closed, the hostess and her assistants served lunch and a social half hour followed.

Christmas Concert

EGGLETON CHURCH S.S.

MADOC JCT. — On Sunday afternoon the combined Christmas church service and the Sunday School White Gift service was held at Eggleton United Church.

The Sunday school superintendent, Mrs. Verda Stapley, presided over the special program that had been printed for the White Gift service, and opened with quiet music played by Mrs. Murray Martin, and the singing of the carol "Silent Night! Holy Night!"

The selected Scripture readings were given by members of Mrs. Maurice Clancy's boys' class: Gerald Stapley, Billy Stapley, Lloyd Clancy, Lin Stapley, Wayne McMullen and Keith McMullen.

At the close of the service Mrs. Bruce Stapley, on behalf of the Sunday school presented the superintendent with the new English translation of the New Testament, for which Mr. Stapley expressed his thanks.

PRESIDENT TO VISIT

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy will visit Mexico sometime this year, the White House announced Tuesday night. No date has been set.

Mrs. Bertha Mom Whyte Opens Home in Africa

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte, whose home for unwanted children in Canada was closed because of health regulations against overcrowding, has opened a new home in the heart of Africa.

A report to the Peterborough Examiner says the home, in Ijeda, Nigeria, incorporated as Whytebehaven Nigerian Mission, already harbors 25 homeless children.

It says Mrs. Whyte's venture is launched wholeheartedly by the Nigerian health department. Her lessons on hygiene, given to native girls, prompted one department official to comment: "We can learn a lot from you."

Mrs. Whyte was censured by the Ontario health department because of overcrowding at her mission near Bowmanville, Ont. But she says she does not intend to abandon her vow "never to turn anyone away from my door."

On her arrival in early 1961, Mrs. Whyte planned gardens on donated jungle land that she cleared with a machete. Although the poverty-stricken district's only agricultural implement is a hoe, and in spite of heavy rain and blight, she has managed to provide enough vegetables, cocoa and pineapple to feed the children.

HUSBAND GOING

When her husband Bert joins her they will expand into a large farm to supply food and work for natives, Mr. Whyte remained in Bowmanville pending sale of the 35-acre farm where hundreds of children were cared for in past years.

The ministry of planning and development and the western regional council of Nigeria are underwriting Mrs. Whyte's project.

She has been joined by Ingrid Carlson and Val Swan, both of whom she taught in her Bowmanville home.

"The housework here is quite a change from Canada," said Mrs. Whyte. "I cook in a clay pot, over a little open wood stove on the ground. I'm trying to change the menu from the usual pounded yams dipped in a community pot of reptile soup."

She says that although she knew two-thirds of the world's population went to bed hungry, "until you have had a tiny African boy take your cocoa cup into the kitchen, pour hot water into the few drops left and share it with three boys, you do not realize the gravity of the situation."

Wife of Union Chief Pillar Behind Man Who Leads Coal Miners' Fight

By IRA DEYDEDALE

NEW WATERFORD, N.S. (CP)—Women have not been left entirely out of the struggle to keep coal mining alive in Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Bill Marsh, wife of the union chief of the province's 7,000 coal miners, is proof of this.

In her quiet way the 38-year-old mother of four is a pillar behind the man who has led the miners' fight. And it hasn't always been easy for her.

For Bill might be called underground anytime. Or he might have to take off quickly for talks with government or company officials in Halifax or Ottawa. Mrs. Marsh is left alone a lot.

Interviewed in her rose-colored home within sound of the whistle of New Waterford's three mines, Mrs. Marsh said: "Bill hardly has time for anything now, recreation, home life or hobbies. It's an endless round of meetings. I can never plan anything."

MAY TUBERCULOSIS

Bill, a New Waterford native who began mining after finishing high school, became president of District 26 of the United Mine Workers of America (Ind.) three years ago. Bill is a year older than his wife, the former Helen Sarah Bryenke of Glace Bay, another Cape Breton Island coal town.

Mrs. Marsh, dark-eyed, brunette and quick to smile, doesn't dwell on complaints. She's conditioned to having things tough from time to time.

In 1948 tuberculosis sent her to the sanatorium in Kentville, N.S. That was when their only son, Billy, was six and their oldest daughter, Valerie was two.

"Bill had it pretty hard then with the children and all. I was in the sanatorium for 21 months."

The two other Marsh children are Ramona, 7, and Brenda, 10.

CAMPING IN SUMMER

Mr. and Mrs. Marsh do get time to bowl. They won a league championship last year. And in summer the whole family goes camping.

"We do this every vacation. The children get a big kick out of it and I didn't get much chance to camp out when I was little so I like it, too. I like to swim but don't do much of that now since I've had the treatment."

In their tidy home, Mrs. Marsh does all her own work. She admits her husband makes a little more money now than he did as a miner, but adds that because of the demands on him they haven't anything more.

Not that she would want things any other way. She was 18 when they were married and even then, Bill was involved in union work.

"He likes to try for better working conditions for the men —that has been his fight—and I'd rather see him do this than anything else."

Dr. Asselbergs Unsung Hero Of Kitchens

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Ed Asselbergs, an unsung hero of Canadian kitchens, is working towards the day when busy housewives will be able to prepare a variety of tasty meals with a few minutes' work.

His laboratory has already turned out a half-dozen successful formulas for instant food and has more on the way.

A year ago the 34-year-old agriculture department scientist came up with the first Canadian technique for making instant mashed potatoes. It was a commercial hit.

Since then he has arranged the process to fit meat, fish, turnip and pumpkin mixes. The latest was an instant form of flapjackes, combining potatoes and fish.

Key to Dr. Asselberg's success is a machine he invented which cooks food in a three-like sheet of cryacals. A revolving drum squeezes and rocks up the prepared food, then exposes it to heat and steam pressure.

The dry product emerges from one end much like paper out of a type-writer. Then it is crumbled into a powder.

Dr. Asselbergs says the mix lures will keep on the shelf for a year without refrigeration.

Graceful Wedding Dress

By ALICE ALDEN

Fine fabric cut on gentle, flowing lines, discreetly but effectively trimmed, is the trend for the bridal gown this season.

This wonderful wedding dress is of a glowing silk-type fabric and has a removable chapel train. Re-embroidered Alecon lace with pearls and crystal beads adorns bodice and skirt.

The long, pointed sleeves, the arched hemline and the wide cummerbund complete this lovely bridal dress.

FIND 63 BODIES

BOMBAY, India (Reuters) — The bodies of 63 persons have so far been recovered from Banko Creek, 115 miles south of Bombay, where a passenger launch capsized Monday, the government announced Tuesday night. The number on board when it turned over was not known but the death toll was not expected to exceed 70.

CZECHS FREE YANK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Czechoslovakia has released Forrest Avery Shaver, an American citizen, after holding him in prison for nearly 18 months, the state department reported Tuesday. His release Dec. 30 was effected about 2½ months before he had completed a 20-month sentence imposed for "illegal border crossing."

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

His Lies Are Just Tall Tales

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—The letter from the lady who claimed her husband was a chronic liar resembles a case I have in mind.

The man's so-called lies constitute the only phase of his life over which she has failed to gain domination. Should anyone else say the same things as her husband, she would laugh her head off and praise them for their sense of humor.

If this case is like the one I am thinking of, the man has never told a lie to his wife or anyone else in his life. His tall tales, which are so popular with his friends, mean only frustration to his wife, who apparently cannot develop the ability to compete with them.—A LIAR.

DEAR LIAR:—(That's your name for yourself — not mine).

You have a point there. Just so long as your Tall Tale Teller makes sure folks recognize his fabrications for what they are,—I am right with you. In such a case, Wifey would do well to join in the chorus.

DEAR DORIS:—I must challenge a statement made in your reply to Not a Steady. You say: "But for casual friends, impersonal gifts are best. Candies, homemade cookies, a book—these are safer."

I must point out that a book, far from being impersonal, is more personal than any gift which might be given. One would not give a comic book to a professor of history any more than one would give a copy of the history of the Peloponnesian War to a kindergarten student. It is as important to match the book with the personality as it is to match the colors on a lady's gown.—R. B.

DEAR R. B.:—I was thinking more of the impropriety of giving that lady lingerie to match, for instance!

(Do something about what's troubling you. A letter to Doris can get you some help).

Popular Line

By VERA WINSTON

A handsome dress of worsted crepe, designed for daytime use, has both the new "A" line and the belted waistline which so many of us prefer.

The front panel, accented by wide silk braid, starts from a broad shoulder line, narrows towards the waist, then flares out again towards the hem.

Buttons and belt are also of black braid.

Shared Special Recipes

By Mary Moore

For weeks some of the good and generous cooks in our audience have been sending in tested recipes that they treasure. Some feel that they should give something in return for favors asked. This is not one bit necessary for it is our aim to serve, but if is heartwarming. I am giving two today, that are prized by the senders.

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD
(Courtesy Mona McG.):

Makes 2 loaves. Scald 2½ cups milk (powdered reliquefied skim is fine), 4 tablespoons honey, 3½ teaspoons salt, 4 tablespoons oil. Remove from heat and cool to lukewarm. Transfer to large bowl. In a small bowl put ½ cup warm water, 2 teaspoons sugar (I often use brown sugar or honey), and stir well to dissolve, then sprinkle on top 2 packages dry yeast. Let stand until well "risen — about 10 minutes. Stir and add to milk mixture. Now add 2 beaten eggs and stir in. Stir in 4 cups whole wheat flour and beat until smooth and elastic. Now add 2-3 cups more whole wheat flour (about). Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth. This kneading can be done right in the bowl. I add more flour if it seems sticky. Place in greased bowl, turn over so top of dough will be greased. Let rise well protected from draughts, standing bowl in warm water and let rise until double — about 1 hour or more. Turn out on floured board and knead 5 minutes. Divide in two, put in greased loaf tins 9 x 5" and let rise until well risen. Use finger dent test. Bake at 400 deg. for about 25 minutes and then 375 deg. for balance of time (about 50 to 55 minutes in all. Do not overbake. Mona McG.

SALMON LOAF OR SOUFFLE
(Courtesy Mrs. Wm. J.):

One 7½-oz. tin salmon (skin bones, juice and all) finely mixed with ½-teaspoon prepared mustard, salt, pepper, yolk of 1 egg, 1 cup cracker crumbs and 1 cup milk. (If salted crackers are used do not add free salt.) Beat the whites of egg stiff and fold into this mixture. Drop the whole business into a buttered 1-quart casserole, with cover, being careful not to press it down or spread it — simply drop it in. The underside of the casserole lid should be buttered too. Cover and bake about ¾ hour in moderately hot oven (375 deg.) and do not remove lid until you are ready to serve it (which should be at once.) Mrs. Wm. S.

My thanks to both of you good cooks.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT MAKES A GOOD SECRETARY?

I have received a letter from the secretary of a minor executive of a publishing firm. In it she complained about the fact that he wants her out of the office on personal errands, and asked whether or not this is bad business etiquette.

"I am well aware," she wrote, "that I was hired to take care of his business affairs and to run the office for him, but I feel he's asking too much when he expects me to run his personal life, too."

After reading her letter, I immediately polled a number of secretaries I know, and was surprised to learn that one of their major resentments — when they had any — was the personal assignments their bosses gave them. A good handful, I might add, had no complaints on this point.

However, the young woman asked for advice, and aside from quitting her boss for another man who has no personal life, I would suggest that she take a hard and honest look at herself and at her job.

It's true that the only thing many secretaries have to do for their employers is take dictation and type their letters. However, the degree of formality or informality would seem to depend greatly on the personality of the executive and the type of post. Jon he holds, rather than on the existence of any so-called etiquette rules.

A good secretary, in my opinion, is one who takes her job as she finds it and does it to the best of her ability. Her interest in her job and her boss should make her want to be as helpful as she has it in her nature to be. The more helpful she is, the more appreciative her employer will be.

No "secretary's manual" that I know of either forbids or recommends that a secretary buy socks for her boss (and remember his foot size!); deliver a package to his brother's office; make a bank deposit for him; get him coffee; keep track of birthdays, anniversaries, and special personal dates for him; do his Christmas shopping; pay his bills or press his wrinkled tie.

Many secretaries do these and other personal chores as "part of the job." But there are others who get distressed each time they get a request that's even slightly off the beaten business path.

Perhaps the minor executive's secretary who considers her boss as ill-mannered Simon Legree may see things in a different light if and when he tapers up in the business world—and takes her along with him.

CARS IN GERMANY

With a population of 54,000,000, West Germany had 4,000,000 motorcars registered in 1960.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Sandra J. — I won't apologize to Mabel.

James J. — She should do it for Arthur's sake.

* * *

Sandra J. — My husband and I have been having a serious disagreement because of our relationship with another young couple.

Arthur has been my husband's closest friend since boyhood and I think he's just wonderful guy, but neither Jim nor I can stand Arthur's wife. She's a dreadful snob, and is very nasty in her talk about everybody.

The last time we saw them Mabel had the nerve to give me a vile piece of gossip about a friend of mine. I told her off in a way she'll never forget. It almost came to blows and Arthur and Mabel left our home in a huff. Now Jim wants me to apologize because he doesn't want to lose Arthur's friendship. I don't want to go down on my knees to that creature when I haven't even the one in the wrong.

* * *

James J. — I don't care for Mabel any more than Sandra does, but I've done my best to be nice to her for Arthur's sake. Frankly I feel sorry for him being married to a woman like that. I think he needs friends.

Aside from that, I don't think Sandra should have blown up in the home. No matter what Mabel said, she was our guest and should have been treated with courtesy. I've never known Sandra to act like that.

Frankly, I've been feeling for a long time that Mabel has been trying to provoke an argument. She is jealous of all Arthur's friends and has gradually gotten him to break off with a lot of them. I have warned Sandra not to fall into Mabel's trap. She's not worth all that fuss.

* * *

The Council: We agree that Sandra should apologize for having blown up as a guest in her own home. This is a terrible breach of behavior — no matter what the provocation.

As for future policy in regard to Arthur and Mabel, it's hard to draw up a plan. If Mabel is really as bad as Sandra and Jim describe it may be simply impossible to keep up a friendship.

Jim should recognize that his wife is more exposed to Mabel's shortcomings than he is. While he is engaged in masculine talk with Arthur, Sandra must have chitchat with Mabel. She can swallow her feelings occasionally for the sake of the men's friendship, but she can't do it all the time. Apparently her big blow-up was the result of too much repression of her real feelings.

A man like Arthur is indeed in a dreadful position. Friends and family will fall away from him, all fearing the tongue of the viper he has made his life partner. The more kindly may try to forgive all for his sake, but there are few saints among us. We all want respect and friendliness from others and shun uncomfortable situations. So Arthur is caught in a trap with his "helpmate."

The only suggestion we can offer in a case like this is that Jim try to see Arthur from time to time on a purely man-to-man basis. Perhaps they can get together for lunch, or an occasional sports event that doesn't include the women. It's not the most favorable condition for a friendship, but may be the best possible under the circumstances.

Castro Parades Soviet Bloc Weapons and Jet Fighters in Revolutionary Celebration

HAVANA (AP) — Backed by modern Soviet - bloc weapons and Latin America's fastest air force, Fidel Castro says his armed forces await any new invasion "with a smile on our lips."

The Cuban prime minister showed off his new military equipment Tuesday at a parade. He said that "Yankee imperialism" was the sole reason for Cuba's rearmament.

Highlights of the parade were three Communist-made MIG-19 jets which swept overhead with a flight of 18 older MIG-15s or MIG-17s.

The three sweeping MIG-19s are the fastest planes known to be operating in any Latin American air force. A ripple of applause and excitement swelled through the crowd as the jets roared over Hav a na's Jose Marti Square and disappeared into the overcast skies.

Castro said his forces have been much improved since they defeated the invasion of Cuba last April.

'WE AWAIT'

"We are not a warmonger," he said. "We do not want to use these arms . . . but we shall fight if a t t a c k e d with a fierceness unimagined by our enemies. We will exterminate them . . . we await the invader . . . will s mile on our lips."

The Cuban leader also as. sailed his critics in other Latin countries, especially Presidents Romulo Betancurt of Venezuela and Alberto Lleras Camargo of Colombia, whom he c a l l e d "Murderers of workers, peasants and students." Addressing himself to fellow Latin - Americans, he said:

"Brother - republics against any eventuality. The stumbler they (the United States) set, the faster the hour of liberation approaches.

Celebrating the third anniversary of his victory over Fulgencio Batista's dictatorship, Castro said Cuba never would pose a military threat to any other nation.

But he said peoples of the hemisphere would not regard another attack on Cuba "with quilty."

Castro issued a call for a national assembly of the Cuban people beginning a mass meeting in Havana on Jan. 2 as an answer to the Organization of American States foreign ministers' conference opening that day in Uruguay.

Charging that imperialists were mobilizing puppets against Cuba, he said the assembly will "show the imperialists our decision to fight and show the puppets that this is a decisive and heroic people."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba sent the United States a note Tuesday protesting "scores, hundreds" of violations of Cuban air space and waters it said had been committed by U.S. planes and ships.

PEKING (Reuters) — Chinese Communist Foreign Minister Chen Yi said Tuesday night that imperialism and c o l o n i a l i s m will not fall unless hit.

"He spoke at a reception to mark the anniversary of the Cuban revolution.

Girl Remanded For Sentence On Fraud Counts

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Marjorie Grace Stone, 20, of Windsor, caught in a London department store in December, appeared in court Tuesday while evidence was heard on 17 assorted charges.

The girl earlier pleaded guilty to charges involving cheques, bonds and money orders, some stolen and some forged, with a face value of $12,000. Miss Stone received only $6,700.

The charges were laid in London, Aylmer, Owen Sound, Windsor, Galt, Dundas, Brantford and Exeter.

Two cheques, both for $1,850, were forged on cheque forms of Weimi t a Ltd., Township and cashed at Brantford and Hamilton under the name of J. D. Coleman. Miss Stone posed as Mrs. Coleman.

She also passed $1,200 cheques at London, Owen Sound and Aylmer between April, Once, she passed a $500 savings bond, using an identification a liquor permit she had bought the same day.

Her system was the same with all the larger amounts After establishing identification, the loan manager would ask the value of the cheques and took the remainder in cash.

Miss Stone cashed in London bonds stolen in Elmira and Kitchener and traveller's cheques stolen in Stratford.

Sydney Papers Devote Front Pages to Crisis

SYDNEY (AP) — Sydney newspapers devote all their front-page news space today to the crisis over West New Guinea.

The sun, across the top of its front page, says: "Indonesia, for the first time, today displayed official anti-colonism towards Australia as crisis over West New Guinea swiftly developed.

The Sun s a y s officially: "Asia is rising up on us" and points out that if West New Guinea passed to Indonesia, Australia will have a land frontier with an Asian country. The Guinea borders on the Australian - administered part of New Guinea.

"Irrespective of rights and wrongs, the Goa and West New Guinea affairs reveal clearly the uneasiness of Australia and New Zealand in the Pacific and Southeast Asia.

"Britau, F r a n c e, Portugal have gone or all but gone from Asia and Holland, it seems, may go fast after them.

"Nothing is clearer as we move into 1962 than we are on our own."

COMPARES TO HITLER

Meanwhile, Arthur A. Calwell, leader of the Labor party Opposition in the federal Parliament, said Indonesian President Sukarno's "s a b r e - rattling speeches" were reminiscent of those made by Hitler at the time of Munich.

Calwell declared in a statement on Sukarno's speech Tuesday night that the Indonesian president "had demonstrated how useless his promises were by threatening to use force after having promised not to do so."

The time had more than arrived, Calwell added, for the Australian army battalion in Malaya to be brought home.

JAILED FOR LETTER

VIENNA (Reuters) — A 27-year - old Hungarian has been sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment for attempting to smuggle a letter to a friend in Canada saying Hungary is "being trodden in the dirt" under communism, it was disclosed Tuesday. The Communist party newspaper Zalai Hirlap said the Hungarian, Jenoe Kiss, tried to "illegally" send a "defamatory" letter to his Canadian friend — who was unnamed — by giving it to a foreign motorist.

Rescuing Hapless Vessels Routine for Tug Sudbury

VICTORIA (CP) — Rescuing helpless vessels from the stormy Pacific is getting to be routine for the tugboat Sudbury.

The veteran salvage tug plucked another prize when she pulled the 10,000 - ton Greek freighter Olympic Grace to safety west coast of Vancouver Island Tuesday night.

The Sudbury and the Island Challenger, another tug owned by Island Tug and Barge, Limited, were battered by heavy seas as they tried for 10 hours to get the stricken vessel and her 27 crew members off the pinnacle. The G l a c e s ran aground Monday night, holing her engine room.

The Sudbury s t a r t e d after the Greek freighter Andros Leader and was drifting 2,000 miles west of Vancouver Island. The Andros Leader, a 10,000 - ton freighter, lost her propeller in 1960 and drifted at the mercy of the waves until the Sudbury came on the scene.

The ship's crew honored for sea triumph." "Sudbury races to aid of stricken vessel" and "Valiant tug crew hailed home today" are headlines to which Victoria newspaper readers have become accustomed.

Research Council Taking Major Step to Aid Industry

OTTAWA (CP)—A major step has been taken by the National Research Council, in co-operation with industry, to help it increase industrial research.

The council announced the appointment Tuesday of a 14-m e m b e r industrial advisory committee composed of representatives of top management and government. Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, NRC president.

Government participation in recent months have said Canadian industry spends too little money and effort on industrial research.

The council said the committee will have three objectives: To b r i n g management into closer contact with the work of NRC, to keep NRC informed of the problems of industry and generally to consider ways of encouraging research in industry.

Its establishment follows an informal meeting here last fall of representatives of government and industry. The committee will meet several times a year to exchange views on industrial research. It will re-establish a procedure for the exchange of research information by industry.

Its membership includes Dr. B. G. Ballard, vice-president (research) of NRC, said Canadian companies represented on committee include both large and small industries. Canadian - owned firms and subsidiaries of industries in the United States and Britain.

Industrial representatives include A. J. Dugas, Imperial Oil Limited; W. N. Hall, Dominion Tar and Chemical Company Limited; E. H. Higgins, Canadair Limited; D. N. Kendall, Hunting Associates Limited, W. F. McLean, Canada Packers Limited; W. A. Montgomery, John Inglis Company; Peter Munk, Clairtone Sound Corporation; Dr. Hugh S. Spurgeon, Shawinigan Chemicals Limited and Dr. J. H. Shipley, Canadian Industries Limited.

Egg Producers Want Vote on Marketing Plan

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Egg producers in Ontario will petition the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board to hold a producer vote on an egg marketing plan.

Thomas Robson, chairman of the Ontario Poultry Producers Association, said Tuesday the board will be asked to conduct the vote by April 15. At least 15 per cent of the producers would have to sign the petition.

A feature of the proposed plan is sale of eggs by auction through a teletype system, similar to that used for the marketing of hogs.

Farmers and egg producers would continue to deliver eggs to packing grading stations. Station operators would be paid an agreed fee for grading and handling eggs.

Producers would be charged a percentage of the selling price of the eggs which Mr. Robson estimated at 1 1-2 per cent. He denied that such funds would be used to take surplus eggs off the market.

MAIL PACE SLACKENS

LONDON (Reuters) — First signs of a slackening in the pace of Britain's mail load since phone services because of a post office workers' slowdown appeared today, about 112,000 postal workers began a go-slow at midnight New Year's Eve in protest against the postmaster - general's refusal, in effect, to sign the government's "pay pause" austerity drive, to meet their wage demands.

No Settlement Seen in Strike

TORONTO (CP) — A companies' spokesman said Tuesday night an early settlement appeared unlikely in the four-week strike against 10 car-hauling firms by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Ind. Union, Indust., issuing a press release from the car carriers group of the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, said "any hope for an early settlement seems futile".

The statement said the companies were surprised that the union rejected the proposals and added that the group has "already gone beyond the limits of their financial ability" in offering salary increases.

Votes cast by union members in Oshawa, Windsor and Toronto rejected the proposal 335 to 225.

No further negotiations have been scheduled.

Given 30 Days

BOSTON (AP)—Federal Judge George C. Sweeney Tuesday sentenced Mildred Paperman, 42, to 30 days in jail for mailing letters to millionaire industrialist Bernard Goldfine in the Danbury, Conn., federal correctional institution.

Miss Paperman and Goldfine, whom she served as secretary for many years, last Dec. 4 admitted an illegal exchange of letters while Goldfine was serving a year's sentence for income tax evasion. She was charged technically with violation of probation.

India Will Use Force to Remove Chinese Troops

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Indian diplomat said Tuesday night India will use force if necessary to remove Chinese Communist troops from India's territory.

Sriish D. Kalelkar, chief of the information service of the Indian embassy, made the statement during a 90-minute radio debate with Bernardo Tedeiera, a member of Portugal's delegation to the United States.

Asked why India had moved into the Portuguese colony of Goa first before tackling Chinese Communist troops who have pushed across India's northern frontier, Kalelkar said "In Goa people are concerned while in the Chinese case the territory is there in other hands. Had an 14,000 to 17,000 feet."...

Tedeiera cut through them out in one day. If takes time for preparation. We have served notice we will not tolerate the Chinese to remain on Indian territory. We will drive them out if necessary."

Tedeiera contended that India had used brutal force and followed the practice that you have the strength, impose it"— in seizing Goa from Portugal.

Kalelkar contended that Portugal had held down the 650,000 people of Goa by force and "we had to use force to liberate our own people."

"But we went in with a sad heart," the Indian conceded.

Kalelkar contended that the Portuguese in Goa were in the position of an unwelcome intruder who occupied the bedroom in a mansion and would not leave without being forcibly expelled.

Tedeira argued that "it is not so happens that Portugal occupied the three states for more than 400 years—long before the mansion was built."

Contract Expires Between INCO And Employees

SUDBURY (CP) — A three-year contract between International Nickel Company and its employees o f f i c i a l l y expired Tuesday but, operations continued pending settlement of a complex inter-union battle.

The terms of the three-year contract covering 1959, 1960 and 1961 remain in force under provincial law while a new one is being negotiated.

Negotiations opened in November between the company and Local 598 of the independent Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Work e r s. The talks broke off as the Mine-Mill leaders fought to retain bargaining rights for the 17,000 members here in the face of a takeover bid by the rival Uniteg Steelworkers of America, affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress.

The union negotiating committee, headed by Local 598 President Ben Gillies, voted unanimously against suspension of the talks and applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for conciliation. The labor board also has before it a Steelworkers' application seeking certification as bargaining agent for those workers.

Negotiations on a new contract are expected to be delayed until the power struggle between Mine-Mill and the Steelworkers is resolved.

Printer, Stockbroker Hope Tory Machine Will Founder In Toronto Beaches Riding

TORONTO (CP) — A young printer and a middle - aged stockbroker are convinced for different reasons that the Tory political machine will flounder on the Toronto Beaches riding this month.

Printer Stanley Bullock, 35, is representing the New Democratic Party and stockbroker Donald MacGregor, 53, is Liberal party candidate in the Jan. 18 byelection for the Ontario legislature seat. Each is confident he will win the southeast Toronto district.

Conservative candidate Jack Harris, 47, refuses to be "pilloried" by opposition claims in the three-cornered contest but declines to be labelled by a political history that shows Beaches as a Conservative stronghold for all but three of the last 36 years.

"There's no such thing as a safe Tory seat in politics any government candidate, an auto w e s s o r i e s sales manager for a Kalelkar contended that Portu- Scarborough department store, said.

SEEK DIRECT CONTACT

All three men are working at the old-world level to reach 25,400 voters by direct, personal contact. All three agree that major political issues have not figured in the campaign.

The Beaches byelection, one of five in Ontario the same day, results from the death last March 7 of Provincial L i q u o r Commissioner William H. Collings, who held the seat for almost 10 years.

Mr. Collings in the 1951 Ontario election restored a tradition of Conservatism to Beaches following a switch three years earlier that sent 21-year-old Reid Scott to the legislature for the CCF party.

The late Conservative member won again in 1953 and 1956, polling 7,294 of the 15,891 votes at the last Ontario general election. Runner-up in the 1956 election was Mr. Bullock, with 4,402 votes. The Liberal candidate, Ronald Pickering, polled 4,195 votes.

Tory Harris, out to retain Beaches and preserve a 13-year unbroken record in byelections for the Ontario Conservatives, believes the character of the lakeside riding is shifting.

Beaches, which includes rows of working - class dwellings as well as upper - middle class homes no longer is a stronghold of the old English-Orange Tory, Mr. Harris says.

He estimates 15 per cent of the voters are post-war immigrants and about 20 per cent of the population is new to Beaches since the 1959 election. He has kept his campaign on a personal level after hours in the hotel early at doors and street stops chatting to voters.

ISSUES LEAFLETS

Mr. Bullock's 253-strong organization is the only one which has issued campaign leaflets in Italian Polish and Ukrainian to go with the newcomers' more English-speaking.

The NDP candidate has been campaigning since his nomination last spring. "We knocked on every door before Christmas and we'll cover them all," says Mr. Bullock, a married man with one child.

Liberal candidate MacGregor started greeting voters on doorsteps only after Christmas. He feels every body knows him after 40 years living in the riding. "I'm Mr. Beach and my name is Mrs. Beach," he says.

All three parties also are contesting the other byelections, in the Toronto riding of Eglinton, in Brant, Kenora and Renfrew South. The Social Credit party has entered no candidates.

Ottawa Mayor Wants Govt. to Pay Full Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Charlotte Whitton Tuesday night suggested to city council that it might consider making council terms three years instead of two. She said the present council took office one year ago.

Miss Whitton also said the federal government should pay full property and business taxes on all buildings and lands in Ottawa.

She also had a complaint against the province regarding inspection of milk and egg products used in prepared food plants. The city health department, she said, has been receiving increasing complaints about intestinal upsets which were traced to the packaged mixes, particularly cake mixes.

"The province will have to exercise greater control of the milk-and eggs at the processing centres, which are beyond the jurisdiction of our inspectors," she said.

Two Youths Killed in Car At Brantford

BRANTFORD (CP) — Two youths were k i l l e d Tuesday night when their small European car collided with a slow-moving CNR diesel at a level crossing in downtown Brantford.

He was not immediately identified.

Firemen and police used backsaws and hydraulic jacks to pry apart the car wreckage. It took more than a half-hour to reach the victims.

The engine, which had been shunting cars, was travelling at about 10 miles an hour.

Gurney was married in Hamilton Dec. 8.

Kennedy Admits He Will Not Abandon Cuba to the Reds

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Guatemala's hint that President Kennedy promised a "retreat" to the Cuban invasion fiasco seems to fit in with Kennedy's own statement that he won't abandon Cuba to the Communists.

He made the promise April 20 after word reached him that the Cuban rebels had met crushing defeat in the Bay of Pigs and that Fidel Castro had emerged stronger than ever.

But there has been a lot of water under the bridge since then. Kennedy is in no rush to encourage any new onslaught by a ragged battalion of rebels, especially in the face of Castro's growing military strength.

Instead, Kennedy appears to be following the slow, tortuous path of seeking inter-American action—some form of united action by a majority of the 21-country Organization of American States. He likely will find, as in the case of Guatemala that the price of Latin friendship comes high.

Guatemalan President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes might have continued to remain silent about the part his country played in training the rebel force. Apparently he didn't get what he wanted — British Honduras — and he decided to speak.

Ydigoras is reported to have said that Kennedy promised to help persuade Britain regarding the adjoining territory of British Honduras, which Guatemala says originally was part of its own country. The U.S. state department denies that Kennedy made any commitments. However, it appears evident Guatemala didn't open its territory to the rebels out of the goodness of its heart. It expected something in return.

Kennedy may find other Latin countries in a similar mood when the foreign ministers meet in Uruguay Jan. 22 to consider what should be done about Castro.

Meanwhile senator John Sparkman, a member of the U.S. Senate foreign relations committee, suggests that as long as Berlin crisis exists, American policy on Cuba must be only a "holding" action.

CUBA CAN WAIT

"We cannot afford to be diverted from Berlin," the Alabama Democrat said. "There was a comparable situation in the last war when our Pacific forces were screming for supplies. We had to give our main effort to the war in Europe.

"In Cuba we can afford to wait."

That seems to sum up American policy. But it does not eliminate the possibility that eventually, if other measures fail, there maybe a new American-backed onslaught on Cuba.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS WE WISH THEY HAD MADE:

Doug Murray—To see that arena exit doors are open before he tosses visiting trainers out into the cruel world.

Umpire Al Kelleher—To stop making ish-ka-bobs out of his forefinger and players' eyeballs.

TV Announcers—To stop telling viewers what they are about to see before they have seen it—and what they have seen after they've viewed it.

Canadian Football League—We'll see how the fans feel about it before we adopt "Americanized" football.

Ed Sullivan—To stop calling every act "wonderful". Some of them like the Anka variety could have been tabbed "smellyful."

Roger Maris—That he won't break his 61 homer record this year. He probably won't even come close.

Garry A. and Claude T.—We won't say a word about the New York Yankees and the Cleveland Indians until world series time—if they are worth talking about when the time arrives.

"Smitty" of the Arena—I'll work bareheaded at least two days this year to prove I DIDN'T model for "Andy Capp".

Jack Dickens—And I will see that he does.

Ed Sullivan Again—"I'll have the 'singing policeman' (Mario Lanza the Second) on again soon."

Walter O'Malley—"We're going to bring the Dodgers back to Flatbush."

The Swiss—To quit saying Canada does not give a dam for them. We just sent a pair of beavers to the land of the Alps.

World Leaders—To sit around a common conference table—and keep their hands on it.

New York Yankee Fans—Not to do any boasting until the last week of September.

Montreal Canadien Fans—Ditto until the playoffs.

"The Untouchables"—That they will arrest "Frank Nitti" before the series expires.

Cigarette Commercials—That they will tell us who gets the second-grade tobaccos.

"Jackie" Kennedy—That she will learn to speak a half dozen more languages.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker—That he will not hold the election in late August. It's fair time here—and this department's vacation period.

Some Parents—That they will not interfere with minor sports coaches.

Mikita On Way Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordie Howe, brilliant right winger of the Detroit Red Wings, picked up six points last week and took over second place in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

Official NHL statistics released today show Bathgate, seeking his first scoring title, got three goals and one assist, bringing his production to 50 points. His 34 assists top the league.

Howe, winner of the scoring title a record five times, scored four goals and drew two assists for 41 points.

MIKITA ON WAY UP

He took over second spot from Claude Provost of Montreal Canadiens. Provost was held to one goal, his 21st, and dropped into a tie for third place with Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks. Each has 37 points.

Mikita had one goal and four assists to send his season total to 10 goals and 27 assists.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Canadiens was sidelined with knee injury and fell into a tie for eighth position with Dean Prentice of the Rangers. Each has 33 points.

Alex Delvecchio, one of Howe's linemates, had two goals and four assists last week and now is tied with teammate Norm Ullman, Montreal's Ralph Backstrom and Boston's Doug Mohns for 10th position at 31 points.

PLANTE IMPROVES

Johnny Bower of Toronto has allowed the fewest goals but Jacques Plante of Montreal owns the best goals-against average. Plante allowed six goals in three games and reduced his average to 2.42 for 36 starts.

Bower and substitutes Jerry Cheevers and Don Simmons have an average of 2.47. Last week Bower was nicked for eight goals in three games.

Glenn Hall of Chicago remains in Detroit and tied Terry Sawchuk of Detroit for the lead with four.

Montreal continues as the most penalized club with 406 minutes, six more than Chicago. Defenceman Lou Fontinato of Canadiens is the most penalized player with 103 minutes.

3 Teams Seek Star Quarter

NEW YORK (CP)—Montreal Alouettes, Cleveland Browns of the National Football League and New York Titans of the American Football League all are trying to sign Minnesota quarterback Sandy Stephens, the New York Daily News reports today.

In a story from Pasadena, Calif., the newspaper says Stephens, who led Minnesota to a 21-3 Rose Bowl win over UCLA, was approached by Montreal coach Perry Moss, Titan general manager Steve Sebo and Cleveland's Paul Bixler after the game Monday.

The Toronto Telegram reported earlier that Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference offered a deal "in the neighborhood of $20,000" to Stephens.

Stephens is No. 2 draft choice of Cleveland Browns.

Ernie Davis Named Back Of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Davis of Syracuse, college football's All-Everything, has been selected back-of-the-year in the annual Associated Press yearend poll.

The fleet and powerful 210-pound halfback was named by 43 of the 212 sportswriters and broadcasters who cast votes. His three all-American backfield teammates followed in the voting. Bob Ferguson of Ohio State and Jim Saxton of Texas with 34 each and Minnesota's Sandy Stephens with 29.

Next came three quarterbacks, Pat Trammell of Alabama (12), John Hadl of Kansas (12), Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State (9) and Iowa State's single wing tailback, Dave Hoppmann (7).

Stephens Takes Top Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Sandy Stephens of the University of Minnesota today swept both first place and runner-up spot for outstanding one-game performances in the annual United States college football poll conducted by The Associated Press.

The all-America signal-caller topped the balloting with 21 votes for a starring role against Michigan State. Stephens also was cited for work against Illinois and Iowa.

Alouettes of the Eastern Conference are reported interested in signing Stephens for the 1962 season. Cleveland Browns of the National League and New York Titans of the American League are also trying to get him.

Litz Slated for Edmonton

Move Spiked Wings Plan

EDMONTON (CP) — When Toronto Maple Leafs grabbed Ed Litzenberger from Detroit Red Wings on waivers they spoiled a Detroit plan to send the veteran centre to Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League, Leafs paid $20,000.

Bud Poile, Flyers general manager, said Tuesday the pact sent Nels Red Wings planned to send Litzenberger to Edmonton when they recalled centre Les Lunde late last week.

"We never expected the Leafs to pick up Litzenberger and now Detroit has to find another replacement for Lunde," said Poile.

Poile said earlier this season that the Red Wings had agreed not to call up any farmhands from the Flyers during the WHL season.

"But," he added, "when they offered us Litzenberger, we felt justified in agreeing to let Lunde go up."

Poile said the Red Wings have promised to send another player to replace Lunde with the WHL northern division leaders.

BECOMES RED AGAIN

CINCINNATI (AP) — Relief pitcher Johnny Klippstein, who has meandered around in both major leagues, is returning to the National and the Cincinnati Reds.

The Reds announced Tuesday the 36-year-old righthanded hurler has been acquired from Washington Senators of the American League in a deal in which Cincinnati sent catcher Bob Schmidt and pitcher Dave Stenhouse to the Senators in return for outfielder Marty Keough and another player.

Klippstein broke in with Chicago Cubs in 1950 and was with the Reds from 1955 until 1958.

Flyers Win

ZWEIBRUECKEN (Reuters) RCAF Flyers from this West German base defeated Scotland's Glasgow Flyers 10-2 in an exhibition hockey game here Tuesday night.

RCAF took a 7-0 lead in the first period, made it 9-1 in the second and reach club added a single goal in the final frame.

Riders Sign Mike Snodgrass

OTTAWA (CP) — Mike Snodgrass, 215-pound offensive centre guard and defensive linebacker from Western Michigan Broncos, has signed with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference.

CRASHES GOALPOST, OUT TWO WEEKS — Toronto Maple Leafs' high-powered centre Red Kelly is treated in hospital where he's recovering from a bruised knee suffered when he crashed into a goalpost in a National Hockey League game in Toronto December 30. He's expected to be out of action for two weeks. Leafs meanwhile have replaced Kelly with recently-purchased Eddie Litzenberger. (CP Photo).

Red Wings Seven Minus

Blues 13 Points Up On .61 Pace

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League swings into the second half of its 1961-62 season tonight with games at Toronto and Chicago.

How do the teams present records stack up with last season at the halfway point?

After 36 games, New York Rangers are 13 points ahead of the pace they set last season when they wound up fifth and out of the Stanley Cup playoffs for a third consecutive year. They now have 38 points.

For Detroit Red Wings, the difference after 35 games is nine seven points. They held third place with 38 points at this stage last season. Now they're fifth with 31.

Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs were one-two in the league standings a year ago. That's the way they finished and that's the way they stand now.

MONTREAL DROPS TWO

Canadiens had 49 points after 36 games in 1960-61. This season, they're down two points. On the other hand, the Maple Leafs are two up, 47-41, after 34 games.

After 35 games, Chicago Black Hawks are down one point. The Hawks were fourth with 34 points last season. They're fourth this time with 33 points.

Boston, with 30 points in last place is three points shy of its mark last season.

In tonight's games, Canadiens will be seeking their first win on Toronto ice this season. In three previous meetings, Maple Leafs won twice by 5-2 scores and came from behind to tie 2-2.

The Rangers and Black Hawks will be meeting for the fourth time on Chicago ice. The Blueshirts won the first two, both by 4-2 scores, then lost 3-1.

KENTUCKY COACH OUT

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Blanton Collier, football coach at University of Kentucky was fired by the athletics board Tuesday. The board said it bought the remaining three years of Collier's contract. The coach had compiled a 41-36-3 record with Kentucky in eight seasons.

Wins Double Award

Name G. Fullmer Fighter Of Year

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Double distinction came to Gene Fullmer from the National Boxing Association Tuesday.

Fullmer, recognized as world middleweight champion by the NBA, was voted the association's fighter of the year and also was named boxer-of-the-month for December.

Last month, the sturdy Utah fighter was voted the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as fighter-of-the-year by the New York Boxing Writers Association.

In its selection of Fullmer as the year's top fighter, the NBA cited his successful three defences against Sugar Ray Robinson of New York, Florentino Fernandez and Benny (Kid) Paret, both of Cuba.

Lone Canadian included in the list was heavyweight Bob Clerout of Montreal, ranked in seventh position.

Wolves Whip Trappers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves and North Bay Trappers fought a ragged battle for two periods Tuesday night, but the Wolves whipped up four goals in the last frame and won the Eastern Professional Hockey League contest 8-5.

Playing in North Bay, the Wolves won the battle for fourth place and broke a three-game losing streak. Before the game the teams were tied at 29 points.

In the first 10 minutes North Bay grabbed a 3-0 lead as Don McGregor scored twice and rookie Harold White once.

Sudbury scoring started late in the first period with Don Cherry's goal. Sudbury opened the second frame with three goals, from Nick Polano, Gord Strate and Ed Stankiewicz. North Bay's John Longarini made it 4-4 at the end of the period.

Baby Habs Up Lead, Beat Petes

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Junior Canadiens stretched their lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series to three points over the second - place Hamilton Red Wings by beating Peterborough Petes 5-1 Thursday night.

The loss kept the Petes in the league basement, two points behind fifth-place Niagara Falls Flyers and four down from Guelph Royals.

Montreal grabbed the lead midway through the first period on the play of Rejean Richer's two goals. Petes tied it up briefly in the second on a goal by Keith Wright, but Richer's second goal later in the period provided the winning margin.

A decision by Peterborough to pull the goalie in the game's dying moments in favor of an extra attacker backfired, Andre Boudrias scoring into an empty net.

In the Toronto Metro Junior A grouping, Toronto Marlboros tied Toronto Unionville 3-3 Tuesday night. The tie moved the second-place Marlies within two points of St. Michael's College Majors.

Wilma Gets Another Top Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilma Rudolph Ward, the women's world 100-metre record holder, has been voted the James E. Sullivan award for 1961, the Amateur Athletic Union announced Tuesday.

The award is presented annually "to the amateur athlete who, by performance, example and good influence did the most to advance good sportsmanship throughout the year." It is the AAU's most valued award.

The recently - married Mrs. Ward set the women's 100-metre record of 11.2 seconds in Stuttgart, Germany, last July 15 during a special race at the United States - West Germany track meet.

Four days earlier, in Moscow, she had anchored the United States team to a women's world record of 44.5 seconds in the 400-metre relay.

Former Sullivan winners, amateur sportsmen, sports writers and sportscasters around the country are polled to choose the winner. Mrs. Ward, a student at Tennessee State University, is the third woman to receive the award.

Durante Solves 'Dilemma' By Selling One of Houses

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene:

The James Durantes will no longer be a two-house family. Jimmy is solving the "dilemma" that has existed since he married Margie Little more than a year ago. She had a hilltop house and he had one on the flat, and neither wanted to give their house up. So they lived in both.

"We're purtin' one of dem up for sale," Jimmy reported. "Which one? Margie's, of course. After all I am still boss of de family - at least I was when I retired from de stage."

From now on Tony Curtis works only for himself — either in his own productions or partnership deals. He learned his lesson with The Lady Is, which tied him up for months and was never made by MGM.

WELL REWARDED

"Complete chaos," he says of the experience, chaotic or not, he got paid a nice $300,000 for his trouble. After Taras Bulba, he does 40 Pounds of Trouble, about a Las Vegas gambler and a little girl, and Playboy, about that massive. . . .

Catching up on the year-end attractions: The Innocents is a good chiller, excellently acted by a British cast and directed by Jack Clayton with a keen eye for scare tactics. The timing might be bad for this attraction, following so soon after the more-than-brief Ingrid Bergman TV version of the same yarn, Turn of the Screw.

Students of the Henry James book have long argued whether the two children were truly be witched or if the governess was a demented old maid who drove them to madness with her visions. As played by Deborah Kerr, it would appear that the governess' motive was dotty . . . not for children.

GREAT CONDUCTOR

Astaire's Anthology Series Short, Off-Beat Vignette

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Astaire's ABC - anthology series Tuesday night was a short, off-beat vignette with an intriguing title, The Cake Baker. It was a bad little story of a lonely, young woman, silently escaping the boring confinement of housework and child rearing by daydreaming.

She tries to get back to normal by plunging into outside work. But her husband, inconvenienced and not understanding, destroys her one chance to regain mental health. At the end, she has apparently slipped away from harsh reality for good.

Comedian Cary Morton, who must be selling something or other this week, is now to being identified as Lucille Ball's new husband, will be back on Ed Sullivan's show next Sunday . . . . There's considerable irony in the fact that NBC's Sunday night horse opera, Bonanza, is shoving Jack Benny out of the 9 o'clock hour after all these years. There are reports of Benny searching for a time-change for his comedy show.

NBC's 87th Precinct is based on a series of popular police whodunits written by Ed McBain, who is still turning out books. But 87th Man has just written one which probably never will be turned into a TV episode. The murder victim is detective Bert Klinger's pretty girlfriend, Claire, who has been in several of the TV episodes. I saw Hibernian win 2-0 at Raith.

Shelley Winters Gets $10,000 Jewelry Back

NEW YORK (AP)—Less than 24 hours after she reported to police the disappearance of $10,000 worth of jewelry, actress Shelley Winters got a plain white envelope by special delivery.

Inside the envelope she found the $5,000 matching diamond pin-and-ear earrings; the $3,700 diamond pendant and the three strait watches worth $1,300 which she had told police were stolen.

Miss Winters said the jewelry disappeared from a dresser drawer in her Central Park West apartment between Friday and Saturday nights and she had no idea whether it was taken by a thief with a conscience or a friend with a heavy-handed sense of humor.

"I see the jewelry back," she said, "and that's all I care about."

TURNS DOWN U.S. VISIT

LONDON (AP)—Arthur Rowe, 34-year-old British blacksmith who is holder of the European shot put record, turned down Tuesday an offer to compete in the United States next month because "it is too early in the season." Rowe had been asked to take part in the Amateur Athletic Union championships in Los Angeles Feb. 10 and the AAU's indoor championships Feb. 24. Rowe's European record is 64 feet, 2 inches (19.57 metres).

Set Records At Regatta

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Two United States records were set on the final day of the annual Orange Bowl Regatta Tuesday.

Don Jr. Jodicini of Miami, Fla., set an 11 - class hydroplane over a measured kilometre at 75.901 miles an hour to erase the record of 73.710 set by Bert Ross Jr. of Spokane, Wash.

The record of 146.913 set by Roger Murphy of Piedmond, Calif., was broken by Buddy Bubenzer Jr. of Columbus, Ohio, who drove his seven-litre hydroplane at an average speed of 148.151 miles an hour on the measured kilometre course.

WEATHER HITS AGAIN

GLASGOW (AP)—Ice, snow and sleet ruined Tuesday's Scottish League matches—the third time in four days that British soccer had been hit by the hard weather. Only one of nine Scottish League first division matches was played. That one saw Hibernian win 2-0 at Raith.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Recent events make it necessary for you to handle long-standing problems by yourself. That is be grateful for "expert advice, but make your own decisions. Avoid one who spreads gloom.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Other people initiate action today; they would make many fancy promises. But you are advised to keep your feet on the ground. Be friendly, gracious, willing to listen. But watch for loopholes.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Your position today is stronger than you might think. Don't be "talked" into taking backward step. Instead, go forward with confidence. Tonight, write, communicate. Express real self.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Moon in trine or favorable aspect to your Sun-sign sparks new ideas. Be independent, original. Wonderful day for creative activities. Romance department also highlighted.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): All indications point toward day which enables you to put across your point of view. Do so! Rest to stand firm in your belief. Fight for what you think is right. You can win!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Time for expansion. You can broaden contacts today, Libra. Try to be sociable, even though you may feel like withdrawing into "shell." You could meet new friends tonight. Good!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 22): Very necessary that you attend to details regarding financial matters. Choke hole in budget. Avoid extravagance. But avoid being penny-wise and pound-foolish. A good day.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Cycle at peak; regress in individuality. But be willing to see other side of question. Tonight could prove profitable materially and emotionally. Could be day of opportunity.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A so-called "closed in" feeling is one that can be overcome. You do so by taking time to be accurate, precise. Then make decisions which create healthy atmosphere of change.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Best advice comes from within; you are urged to pay heed to intuitive intellect. Size up situation; arrive at conclusion ... then act. Delay could prove costly. Be suave, confident.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): This is Scrap Age but as an individual you may have earthly problems. Today can see solution to many. Friends prove invaluable. You do not stand alone. Keep this in mind. A good day.

* * *

If born today . . . a year stressing change, travel, variety, creative activity is indicated. Months of March and December could prove memorable ones. Many burdens lifted. Room in 1962 for action, change.

General Tendencies: Signs of Scorpio, Sagittarius and Capricorn favored by lunar cycle. But Taurus, Gemini and Cancer urged to thoroughly analyze any new porposals. This is day when frank revelations could make news. Fin. for expressing ideas through written word.

ALGERIAN SECRET ARMY IS MOBILIZED

RCMP Arrest Nine For Selling Unfit Meat

Animals Dead for Days Carved Up and Sold

TORONTO (CP) — Nine persons have been arrested in Southern Ontario and charged under the Food and Drug Act for selling meat unfit for human consumption, the RCMP announced today.

RCMP said no further arrests are planned "at this time," but said it was possible that further investigation would lead to others.

The meat, fit only for pet food found its way to human consumption through meat markets and chain stores, RCMP said. It comes mostly from dead and fallen animals.

RCMP started their investigation in August of this year and estimates 75 tons of such meat a month has been sold for human consumption since that time.

Police said that while the meat was sold through legitimate outlets it could have been processed in "back door outlets with out knowledge that it was unfit.

FACE CHARGES

Edward Pascal, arrested in Argyle, Man., set at $1,000, remanded to Jan. 11; Robert C. Hooten, Robert Allen Carey, Orland C. Raymond and Charles Thompson, arrested in Brant, Ont., all with bail set at $1,000 and all remanded to Jan. 11; Larry Fritz, arrested at Hanover, arraigned in Walkerton, remanded to Jan. 11 on $1,000 bail; Gordon Cecil Johnston, arrested at Orangeville, remanded in Orangeville, remanded to Jan. 5 on $1,000 bail; George Ellis Dixon, arrested at Fergus, arraigned at Orangeville and remanded to Jan. 5 on $1,000 bail; Nick Pecoul, arrested in Peterborough, remanded to Jan. 19 on $2,000 bail.

Raymond was the only professional meat inspector to be arrested, police said. He is a veterinary surgeon with the Brant county health department.

Gibson and Johnston have been arrested, police said, as have Thompson and Raymond, and Hooten and Carey and Raymond.

DEAD FOR DAYS

Insp. D. Wilson of the RCMP said the arrests followed undercover work by two officers. They found that cows and horses, some of them dead for days and in a bloated condition, had been carved up and sold as good beef to medium-sized packinghouses. The meat was used as rolled roasts, bologna, sausages, hot dogs, stewing meat and hamburger.

The packers were duped into thinking the meat was good be cause the hampers in which it was delivered bore the stamp of approval of the Brant county health department.

Police, inspectors and others which retailed the meat were equally unaware that some of the animals were poisoned.

RCAF 'COPTER PLUCKS 22 MEN OFF GREEK SHIP

5 Remain on Board As Vessel in Tow

VICTORIA (CP) — The exhausted crew of the Freer freighter Gladiola slumbered in a hospitable village today while their vessel, which escaped a Pacific graveyard, was being towed to the safety of calm water.

The 10,000-ton freighter, freed from a maze of reefs called the Graveyard of the Pacific on Vancouver Island's west coast, was expected to reach nearby Esquimalt Harbor later today.

Towing the Gladiola along the Strait of Juan de Fuca were the tugs Sudbury and Island Challenger, which pulled her from the sharp rocks of Pandora Reef, 100 miles northwest of here, where she went aground in a howling storm Monday night.

The Gladiola, in ballast when she struck the rocks, was reported rising high after a gaping hole in her bottom and engine compartment and two of her holds flooded.

TELL OF ORDEAL

At Ucluelet, a remote village two miles from the reef, crewmembers plucked from the ship by an RCAF helicopter told of their ordeal in the wild seas that often collapsed into sleep.

Five of the crew of 27, including the captain, E. Petrelos, stayed aboard the freighter as she was towed to Esquimalt.

Flt. Lt. D. M. Campbell and Flt. Lt. Vic Hodge, hovering above the Gladiola in a dangerous wind, took the others off five and at a time and tried them to Ucluelet.

"This is the first hot food we've had in two days," said one crew member as residents fed him in the warmth of the local hotel. "Tonight, I will sleep like I am dead."

WATER FOUND IN

"It was terrible," said George Galanis, 39. "When we hit the rock the water poured in and within five minutes the engine room was full."

The men had high praise for their rescuers and Ucluelet residents who fed them and gave them free fares west to their seat.

One man, Ray Vose, plowed through 20-foot waves in a 14-foot skiff to the ship's side where the captain dropped him an empty wine bottle with a message asking for help.

LITTLE GENERAL ELECTION ONLY 2 WEEKS AWAY

Party Leaders Out on Hustings

TORONTO (CP)—With Ontario's Little General Election just two weeks away, the three provincial party leaders are either on, or preparing for, the hustings.

At stake in byelections Jan. 18 are five seats in widely separated parts of the province. The results are expected to provide a fairly accurate sampling while a test is made today with of initial public reaction to John Robarts' succession to the premiership.

All five vacancies in the legislature were produced by deaths of the members.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer was invited Wednesday night for a flight today to Ottawa. He'll leave the capital by car to Perth, 50 miles south, where farmer Leonard Quilty has the Liberal nomination.

NDP Leader Donald MacDonald, campaigning in Brant riding today, was to leave Friday night for Kenora. Premier Robarts expects to be in the same area Monday.

The premier will be accompanied by his wife on the northwestern trip and they will start at Red Lake and end Tuesday at Dryden, Wednesday.

PC and NDP interest in Kenora is spurred by the fact the seat was last held by Albert Wren under a unique Liberal-Labor banner. This time their candidates will run against a straight Liberal in 30-year-old Mayor Hubert Gibson.

Mr. Wintermeyer will meet Perth executive at a pep talk in Renfrew tonight. Friday he will start a tour of the riding with a stop at Kinburn. He'll leave Renfrew South after a Saturday - night meeting in Arnprior.

Liberal Quilty will be opposed by NDP candidate Ken Laverture, a farmer, and Conlin S. Halbrick, 36-year-old lawyer who will try to make inroads in the PC fold where it is ripe for the plucking. Three members, Mines Minister James Maloney

GOES TO BRANT

Monday night will spend the middle of next week in Brant, where manufacturers Gerard Swayze is campaigning to wrest the seat from the Conservatives. The vacancy came 40 years under former premier Harry Nixon. The late Mr. Nixon's son, Robert, 39 — his father, a farmer—has the Liberal nomination, while farmer Robert Good is running for the NDP.

Following his Kenora tour Mr. MacDonald plans to spend Thursday in Hamilton before heading for Renfrew South. He may return later to both ridings.

Mr. Wintermeyer will reach Perth Friday, returning to Renfrew South before finishing his campaign with a meeting at Perth's Brant Hotel Jan. 16.

Electronic 'Fish' to Be Used By Scientists in Arctic Area

OTTAWA (CP) — An electronic "fish" suspended from a slow, low-flying helicopter will be used by Canadian scientists next summer to chart new shipping channels in the northern Arctic.

The "fish," an aerially-borne inland waterway, now closed for the season.

Canadian government hydrographers will use it to fill have far - reaching applications in mapping the ice-choked waters of the Arctic.

"It should enable us to do as thorough a survey in the Arctic as in ice-free waters, said R. Michael Eaton, mines and technical surveys department hydrographer. "At present this isn't possible except with a submarine."

Mr. Eaton, closely associated with the development of the helicopter at the Edo (Canada) Limited plant near Cornwall, said the helicopter will fly about 25 inches above the water level, towing the "fish."

The towing apparatus consists of a raft, which skims along the surface behind the helicopter. The "fish," containing the electronic transmitter-receiver, is suspended from the raft by a wire 10 feet below the surface. It will be possible to make soundings to a depth of 300 feet.

Mr. Eaton said the 12-member air and survey crew, using two helicopters, plans to resume work in March in connection with the Polar Continental Shelf project in Penny Strait, about 100 miles north of Resolute, N.W.T.

Heath Seemingly Thaws One Chilly Area in Market Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Britain's Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath appears to have thawed one chilly area of Anglo - Canadian relations involved in the British move to enter the European Common Market.

He conferred with four Canadian cabinet ministers for 2¾ hours Wednesday, and afterwards a smiling Finance Minister Fleming told reporters the meeting held an "unlimited" exchange of information and views.

The talks couldn't have been more cordial, Mr. Fleming said —Mr. Heath, the minister in charge of British negotiations for Common Market membership, was to meet today with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and then resume his talks with the four-man cabinet committee.

The atmosphere of Wednesday's talks was in sharp contrast with relations during the early stages of British negotiations with the Common Market last fall, when the Canadian government complained it wasn't getting adequate information on the negotiations.

Last November Mr. Fleming flew to Europe and obtained publication of the previously secret statement by Mr. Heath setting out the British position at the start of the Common Market negotiations.

Mr. Heath, smiling and affable, told reporters after the Wednesday meeting had been "very valuable."

"We've had a very good talk," he said. "I have given up-to-date progress report on what's been in the negotiations . . . and we've exchanged views."

However, neither Mr. Heath nor Mr. Fleming would drop a hint of the details discussed.

Mr. Fleming said the British minister "brought us information which will be very helpful."

But he sidestepped one question as to whether the meeting had produced any reassurance that Canada's exports to Britain will expand.

British Postal Workers Slow Up Mails, Demand More Pay

LONDON (AP) — A go-slow, work-by-the-rule strike by 200,000 postal workers for better pay delayed the mails Wednesday and threatened chaos in Britain's soccer football pools.

The betting business involves the equivalent of $7,000,000 a week.

The rules require that the entries be posted in the pool promoters not later than 4 p.m. Saturday. So the day the matches are played.

A substantial delay in arrival of the entries could cause havoc with the pools, where prizes range up to £150,000 ($420,000).

Mr. Wintermeyer will meet executive at a pep talk in Renfrew tonight. Friday he will start a tour of the riding with a stop at Kinburn. He'll leave Renfrew South after a Saturday - night meeting in Arnprior.

Liberal Quilty will be opposed by NDP candidate Ken Laverture, a farmer, and Conlin S. Halbrick, 36-year-old lawyer who will try to make inroads in the PC fold where it is ripe for the plucking. Three members, Mines Minister James Maloney

British Papers Demand End Of Alliance With Portugal

LONDON (AP) — Britain's oldest foreign alliance today was looked in danger of foundering on a rising public opinion dating back almost 600 years.

The alliance with Portugal, first forged in 1373, was shaken Wednesday as Portuguese Premier Salazar rebuked Britain for failing to come to its old ally's aid when India attacked Goa.

Salazar accused Britain of waiting a week before refusing his request for arms. Then he scolded air bases to fly out rein, Commonwealth forces.

He said Portugal would have to reconsider its pact with Britain to see what "positive content" remained.

In the Portuguese parliament there were cries of "Down with the alliance!"

In the British press today, the cries were echoed.

"The alliance," says The Daily Herald, was "a historic relic which has no relevance to the present day. It should have been annulled long ago."

The Daily Sketch says:

"It has been obvious for years that the phrase 'Britain's oldest ally' has long since applied only to a regime whose colonial policies are extinct."

The British government meanwhile crisply rejected the suggestion that Portugal's transfer of Britain had used delaying tactics.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain was not in a position to grant the Goa arms the bases Portugal had asked for without permission from the host government.

Portugal was told this and was advised that an alternative route would be considered. Dec. 14 an alternative request was received, but there was nothing considered when India attacked, the spokesman added.

Where Will She Pin Her Corsage?

VICTORIA (CP)—A couple will be married in Victoria at a public colony near here this summer if they can find a minister to perform the double ceremony.

They are Albert Young, 47, and Julia Todd Woods, 46, both of Victoria, who met the "very few single members" of the Sol Sante Club.

An announcement of the wedding was made by Walter Hanaman, president of the club. He said the couple plan to hold their wedding "in the midst of July at the height of the international convention of the Sons of Solomon Sunbathing Association."

Press, radio and television representatives will be welcome to attend but the public will be admitted by "by invitation only," said Mr. Hannam.

Mr. Young is a nudist photographer and caretaker of the 178-acre nudist club. Mrs. Woods is club secretary and a free-lance writer.

CHARGE BOMB THREAT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A welder described by police as having a record of mental illness was arrested Wednesday night in connection with the planting of a bomb near the home of Rep. William J. Green (Dem., Pa.) last Dec. 14. Police said Manuel Jakubian, 37, will be charged with carrying a bomb and explosives with intent to kill and blackmail by threat.

RECORD CATTLE INCOME RETURNS SEEN IN 1961

Farmers Pocketed Over $620,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian farmers pocketed record cattle income from marketings during 1961 — more than $630,000,000—Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton says in a farewell statement today.

The previous high was $595,000,000 in 1960.

The Prairies marketed some $331,000,000 worth or $65,000,000 more than a year earlier, he said. Prairie sales expanded as drought depleted grazing resources and more cattle fed feed grain prices. However, breeding stock remains virtually unchanged.

Mr. Hamilton said the Prairie feed sales and lower grain deliveries will ensure that farm income stays up for the 1961 period despite crop setbacks.

Federal survey a indicate, however, that 1962 farm income will bemp lower, particularly immediately due to empty granaries, particularly among small farmers. Farm income is down in the majority in the prairie prov.

PRAIRIES LEAD

Mr. Hamilton said nearly 400,000 more cattle were fed in the west than in 1960. Total Canadian marketings were 3,779,000 head. Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta contributed 2,312,000 or 61 per cent.

Larger farmers might not add to herds this year but beef remains at a "steady income and source of revenue for smaller farmers and other mixed farm units, he said. The Atlantic provinces could go ahead with the problem of considering whether 1962 cereal-crops prices are bright enough to warrant carrying the cattle herds.

He said the outlook for beef growers is good on both long- and short-term. Exports to the United States from western Canada were encouraged by the depreciated Canadian dollar while U.S. beef prices provided both a floor and ceiling for Canadian prices.

Over the longer period, more production on the Prairies, certain areas of upstate Canada and in British Columbia was called for to keep pace with the expected increase in Canada's population, the minister said.

Britain Emerges From Cold Spell

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today shivered out of a record cold spell and for the first time in six days temperatures and station systems were working on schedule.

Final touches were put to a thaw Wednesday night, the warmest of the week, which sent the temperature at London airport soaring to 50 degrees F.

Dirty patches of slush were all that remained of the "little blizzard" — a freak transportation southern half of the country New Year's Eve.

Aussie Fish Swim With Heads Up In Suicidal Parade to Beaches

For five days large numbers of the northern coast of New South Wales were littered with dying fish. Many were dead, the rest dying fish. When people threw the dying fish back in the water the fish struggled to shore again in a vertical position with heads out of the water.

A reporter who sent to see in a hurry to investigate the phenomenon said later: "I saw the amazing sight of fish swimming in the shallows and gasping for breath—then dying. They swam crazily on their tails round and round in small circles—an inexplicable, spiraling death dance."

The main death area was Evans Head, 512 miles north of Sydney, but the affected area covered 180 miles of coastline.

One trawler working half a mile off Evans Head and in 180 feet of water hauled up 200 pounds of dead fish in two drags. The fish included snapper, mullet, break, jewfish, yellowtail, mackerel, leather jacket and pilchards.

Some people ascribed the mystery death wave to bombing practice by the Australian Air Force, but experts pointed out that a bomb blast would kill not only the immediate area.

A marine biologist suggested three possible explanations—chemical contamination of the sea, a sudden change in water temperature at the Australian Museum, Miss E. Pope, said the fish probably had been poisoned by "red tide"—a floating mass of organisms that consume oxygen in the water and force fish to surface.

After four days the fantastic epidode suddenly ended. Fish in the area again swam horizontally and again struggled for their lives when caught.

Europeans Told To Prepare For Fight To Finish

Terror Breeds Terror As Death Toll Mounts

ALGIERS (AP)—The underground French right-wing Secret Army Organization called Wednesday night for a general strike Thursday in Algiers to defiers for a last-ditch fight to keep Algeria French.

Terrorism mounted in the North African territory with 37 persons slain Wednesday in attacks by both Europeans and Moslems, bringing the toll for the three days of the year to at least 80 dead and more than 130 wounded.

Bandalla rallying on the settlers to prepare to fight were posted by the secret army as the latest spread and its attacks was at last, open for an agree. mass between the de Gaulle government and the Algerian rebels to end the war in Algeria.

The handbills gave no further instructions but a clandestine radio broadcast earlier in the day predicted victory for the settlers if they "fight to the finish" ically. "The cigarettes are lit."

SHOW OF STRENGTH

Terrorism surged up in most major Algerian cities. The attacks were indiscriminate and followed no particular pattern. It was believed the Moslem nationalists were making a show of strength to influence the secret talks under way for several weeks between the French and the nationalists.

The European extremists appeared trying to foster the idea that France would not enforce an independence agreement against the French settlers' determined resistance.

Most of the attacks were by gunfire and grenades and one by one side brought retaliation from the other.

Three persons were killed and 30 wounded by grenades thrown into a crowd of Moslems leaving a movie house in Constantine Wednesday night.

In the western town of Oran bands of youths savagely "killed" every Moslem they met. Moslems in separate attacks after word spread that a prominent Jewish lawyer had been wounded by a Moslem terrorist, the woman died.

BOMB EXPLODES

In Bone, a European was shot dead and two Moslems were killed when a bomb hidden in was planting in the harbor ex. ploded.

Rebel headquarters in Tunis made a conciliatory gesture in a statement Wednesday night. It said:

"The provisional Algerian government is animated by a sincere desire to achieve a realistic solution, a solution that would take into account legitimate interests.

"Independence of the Algerian people and its entire sovereignty, which is its supreme right, should be conciliated with the interests of France."

Indonesians Build Up Army Off New Guinea

JAKARTA (AP) — Indonesia stepped up its war-like bullying today off the shores of Dutch-held West New Guinea despite reports that President Sukarno's regime was ready to offer The Netherlands a compromise on the future of the disputed territory.

The army announced that 10,000 veterans of the fight for independence against the Dutch are being rearmed on Ambolna and other islands of the Moluccas ribbon on the northern side of the western tip of New Guinea.

The announcement closely followed a report from high government source that Indonesia is willing to promise West New Guinea's ethnical self-determination if the Dutch agree to let Indonesia take over the territory's administration in the meantime.

Col. Sudjiri, military commander of the Moluccs area, said the issuance of arms to the veterans and their assignment into combat units are preliminary steps to "the march forward to stop the Dutch-created Papuan State from operating and to hold indonesia's reduced white flag in the territory."

HAILS DEVOTION

President Sukarno ordered national mobilization last month to drive Dutch troops out of New Guinea unless the Dutch handed it over. He gave no indication of a time limit.

Wednesday he anticipated the "liberation" of Dutch-held West New Guinea as an Indonesian province with the name "Irian Barat" (West Irian).

But the high government source said Wednesday night that Indonesia was prepared to drop its demand for immediate possession of the primitive area and to offer the 700,000 Papuan tribesmen there the right of self-determination.

He said The Netherlands in turn would have to give Indonesia administration of the territory for a five-year period—the "most liberal stand" the government could take.

The source said that the Indonesian shift resulted from pressure on the Dutch from U.S. and Australia. Australia adjoins the eastern half of New Irian, the world's second largest.

Acting Clerk Will Be Named At Special Meet

Members of Hastings county council will hold a special session late Friday afternoon for the appointment of an acting clerk to carry the administrative duties of the county until a new permanent official is appointed.

City Traffic Lights Now Being Changed

How many local motorists have noticed a change in the operation of city traffic lights during the past week?

According to new regulations green and amber lights can no longer show at the same time. Now, regulations call for the green light to go out when the amber warning light goes on.

The reason behind the change is that in the past a small percentage of motorists took advantage of the combined green and amber signs to pass through the intersection before the green showed, whereas the amber warning light was designed to allow only cars to pass through which were already in the intersection.

The new regulation became effective January 1st and all signals in Belleville with the exception of those at Front and Bridge Streets have now been changed.

Police Inspector J. Clair Hayes said today that the change-over for the Front and Bridge Street lights was being held up due to the lack of a special type of cable.

Yule Trees No Longer Safe

Now that Christmas and New Year's are over for another year, Christmas trees are being thrown away.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance reported this morning that the Public Works had been doing a wonderful job carting the Yule trees away to the city dump.

The chief said it was fortunate this year, with the large amount of decorations and the number of trees that were put up, that not one fire had been caused by a Christmas tree.

Fire officials warn that Christmas trees are now long past the stage when they can be considered safe, and urge all citizens if they have not done so to get rid of them as soon as possible.

Brewery Men Now Demanding Four-Day Week

TORONTO (CP) — The International Union of Brewery, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers (CLC) has a meeting with the brewing industry with demands for a four-day, 32-hour week to offset increasing unemployed by automation.

The brewery workers and a Canadian Labor Congress local representing Loodon, Ont. employees of Labatt's Limited plant are expected to open joint negotiations with the industry at least two weeks on behalf of some 4,000 employees.

Last year brewery workers staged a 41-day strike against the industry on issue that included a 35-hour week. The agreement that settled the strike carried Sunday.

Vatican Will Still Accept Cuban Envoy

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church's disclosure that Fidel Castro and his senior officials have been excommunicated will not keep the Vatican from accepting a new Cuban ambassador. It also will not keep the Cuban government from sending him.

Vatican sources said today Luis Amado Blanco y Fernandez, named by Castro to the ambassadorial post vacant more than a year, would be received in the usual diplomatic protocol.

The Cuban foreign ministry said Wednesday after disclosure of the excommunication that Blanco y Fernandez, a Spanish-born dentist and journalist, would leave for Rio de Janeiro Sunday.

Blanco y Fernandez' name appears on the 1962 list of diplomatic representatives accredited to the Vatican. Sources said his name would not have been included if there were plans to reject him.

Detention Plan In Bordeaux Jail Outdated

QUEBEC (CP) — Attorney-General Georges Lapalme said Wednesday the detention system at Montreal's Bordeaux Jail is outdated and a group of experts has been appointed to find out how it can be changed.

Speaking at a press conference, Mr. Lapalme said nothing has been done to improve conditions at the jail during the last 16 years.

Mr. Lapalme's announcement came after a four-hour meeting with Lt.-Col. Leon Lambert, interim governor of the jail, in which the two men discussed the situation leading up to a riot there New Year's Day.

Mr. Lapalme said the riot could have been quelled in 10 minutes if Jean Bordeaux, deputy minister of the department had granted the prison's request for a new governor and an independent spotlight system.

Prisoners had hacked a deep hole in a brick wall at one point and cut electrical wiring. With the prison in darkness and automatic doors jammed, Mr. Lapalme said, Bordeaux was in a "veritable hell" for an hour and a half.

WILL INVESTIGATE

The attorney-general said an investigator will be appointed to the jail on a permanent basis to thwart the activities of "troublemakers."

Mr. Lapalme said he has "someone in mind" to replace Col. Lambert, a former provincial police officer, who agreed to act as interim governor of Bordeaux until a permanent appointment could be made.

He said there is no way of finding out how institutionalized the prisoners are. Most of the prisoners who took part in the riot were under the influence of "goofballs."

Nude Shots Of Liz Taylor Are Dropped

ROME (Reuters) — Shots of Elizabeth Taylor nude in a bath have been cut from the movie Cleopatra because of objections by Eddie Fisher, the actress' husband, it was reported here today.

Fisher's objections to the shots were disclosed by studio sources although the producers of the movie, 20th Century Fox, tried to play down the incident.

The studio sources said the shots were taken about two weeks ago. But they were not cleared from the set and the film was not processed in the normal developing laboratory.

But when Fisher saw the finished film he objected, the sources said, and the shots were handed over to him.

Co-ordination Council May Fold Due to Lack of Interest

TRENTON—At last night's meeting of the Trenton Community Co-ordination Council, Vice-president Art Perry, who represents the Kiwanis Club on the body, asked the members present for a serious thought to disbanding the council.

Mr. Perry said that he thought there was a lack of interest and enthusiasm in the council, whose members are drawn from various local service clubs.

"What have we accomplished during 18 months of existence?" asked Mr. Perry. The council was formed to further the betterment of the community and to act as a co-ordinating body so that clubs could hold tag days and so on without conflicting of dates. But many organizations have gone ahead and set their own dates for special events without consulting us. We have a nice name, but let's ourselves . . . what have we done?"

Mr. Perry said that council members had been subjected to unwarranted criticism and that the members who do attend meetings regularly, were "wasting their time", to a great extent.

Legion member Bill McLaren suggested that the council hold an extraordinary meeting", which all council members would be urged to attend, and decide at that time whether or not to "fold."

H. B. Smith, secretary of the body since its inception, told the members that he wished to resign and it was also announced that Mrs. Jean Constantine, Douglas Jagges, had resigned.

The council members voted to organize the annual election of officers until after a special meeting is 'called to decide that the fate of the body.

"Trenton, as in the case of most other communities, is overorganized," commented Mr. Perry. "The one thing we have accomplished is to start off an annual inter-club rivalry that others could arrange that."

Mr. McDonald read a letter from A. J. Russell, 1981 chairman of the United Appeal in Brampton. Mr. Russell had outlined the method of organizing a community chest appeal and told the Trenton council members of the pitfalls to be avoided in attempting to run such a campaign. He said that if a systematic pay-roll deduction plan were organized and carried out, there would be no need for any other sort of fund raising activity. The secretary will write to Mr. Russell and thank him for his comprehensive report.

Second Bridge Across River Hope of Mayor MacDonald In His Inaugural Address

TRENTON — The inaugural meeting of Trenton's 1962 council was held Wednesday morning in the town hall over the police station. A first in Trenton, the inaugural ceremony was taped and broadcast over radio station CJBQ at 7.30 p.m.

The oath of office was administered by clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry, to Mayor D. James MacDonald and councillors James Duncan, Duncan McDonald, Claude Graham and Ed Todd. Since Councillors Lloyd Worrall and Ross Burtt are finishing out their second year of a two-year term, they were not required to take the oath.

Rev. T. A. Delaney of the Trenton Baptist Church, told the mayor and councillors, that as elected representatives of the people, they had a sacred trust to discharge. He said that they should value excellence of character and honesty above public acclaim and that they should not make decisions "to please the crowd."

RESPECTS THE MEN

"No office in town is small enough for a small man," said Mr. Delaney, "Every public office requires a 'big' man in the real sense of the word. Remember that the crowd is not the final court of appeal. Don't sell your souls for a mess of pottage. Earn the respect of the citizens by your excellence of character and honesty."

Standing committees appointed or approved by Chairman of the general government committee will be the mayor, by virtue of his office. Councillors Worrall and Burtt will also sit on this committee Chairman of the 1962 Court of Revision will be Councillor Worrall. Heading up the public works committee will be Councillor Duncan, and he will have as committee members ,Councillors Burtt and Todd.

1962 finance chairman is Councillor Graham, and committee members are Councillors Worrall and Todd; the industrial and economic development committee, formed last year, will again be headed up by Councillor Lloyd Worrall with committee members being Councillors McDonald and Duncan.

Councillor Burtt will again head the Protection to Persons and Property committee with councillors Graham and McDonald assisting. Councillor Duncan McDonald will head the Recreation and Community Services committee. The committee members, Councillor Graham and Duncan and the Welfare and Social Service Committee will have as its committee members Mr. Todd and members Graham and Burtt.

Council's first official act was to approve a by-law by which the municipality may borrow "up to $400,000". This money will enable the town's administration to finance the town's business until such time as the first tax collections are made.

NEED NEW BRIDGE

In his inaugural address, Mayor D. James MacDonald at Wednesday's swearing - in meeting of 1962 council, said that Trenton's executive body had good possibilities," and that although the report from the traffic consultants who recently completed a town-wide traffic survey, had not been received officially, discussions with them indicated that the town should start to plan for the bridge immediately.

"The existing facilities and traffic movement generally are inadequate and breaking down. Trenton's growth, and that is growing. These problems will be reviewed in this (traffic survey) report, with recommendations for their corrections."

"Our effort to obtain new industry and assist in as well possible those we have, will be established this year," the mayor promised.

Touching on annexation, the mayor said that he believed that the Ontario Municipal Board would grant council a hearing at the "proper and early plans" in the near future.

The mayor urged all committees, clubs and citizens to co-operate to hasten the development of the waterfront beautification program for the sanitary landfill area.

Commenting that he had not attempted to outline a detailed program of work, the mayor said that he expected to be able to announce what council plans to carry out in the period.

The mayor's first official order for the year was that all citizens be granted a "Happy and Prosperous New Year," and asked for their support and co-operation for himself and council throughout the coming year.

STUDENTS WIN

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — A letter to students from the board of regents of Mount Allison University has revoked all fee increases except a $10 athletic fee to help pay for a new gymnasium. The fee increases of $16 to $41 a month, included without warning on students' mid-year bills, caused a one-day boycott of classes by the 1,000-member student body in December.

Erle Stuart Denyes

Erle Stuart Denyes, County Clerk of Hastings for almost three decades, was a public servant in the best meaning of the phrase, not only during his working hours, by virtue of his position, but during his leisure hours, by reason of his breadth of sympathy and depth of conviction.

Mr. Denyes' services to the County of Hastings, in his official capacity of Clerk, to which duties were added those of County Treasurer ten years ago, were necessarily varied and widespread. He was not only advisor but confidant to members of the County Council, assisting them in many ways to discharge their duties to the County as a whole and to their home municipalities. This, though, was not the limit of his interest. He never forgot his origin on the farm nor lost his interest in agricultural problems. This led him to attend many meetings of particular interest to farmers and to serve on the Belleville Fair Board and as the first secretary of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Mr. Denyes took a keen interest in politics and though his appointment as County Clerk curtailed his active participation it by no means diminished his interest, nor his devotion to Conservative ideals. A great lover of sports, particularly hockey and baseball, he was also interested in fraternal affairs, a Mason, an Orangeman and a Royal Black Knight. He was a member of Bridge Street United Church and an active member of its men's club. He served with distinction in the First Great War and was among those Canadians who faced the German hosts to gain Vimy Ridge.

Erle Denyes was exceptional amongst men in that he was "hail fellow—well met," as are many, but unlike all but a handful of those who make friends easily and quickly he had beneath this veneer depths whose exploration was reserved for the few who took the time and trouble to learn to know him well. He thus enjoyed the best of two worlds, an easy relationship with casual acquaintances and the comfort of a small circle of really close friends. Acquaintance and friend alike will be the poorer for his passing.

Action Needed Here

Another riot occurred at Montreal's Bordeaux Jail on New Year's Day. If the Quebec Liberal Government of Premier Jean Lesage wishes its growing reputation for prompt action in wiping out abuses of the Duplessis era to remain untarnished, this riot should be the last. Insofar as these riots have their root in indefensible conditions at the jail, these conditions should be remedied. Insofar as the disturbances are caused by unruly prisoners, it ought to be possible to tighten discipline so that the authorities still have full control of the situation within the jail.

"Last September," we are told in a Canadian Press report, "Quebec Attorney-General Georges Lapalme made a secret tour of the jail to investigate conditions. What he saw prompted him to call for a complete reorganization of the jail." We are not told, however, whether this reorganization remedied all the conditions to which he objected. If it did not, immediate action should be taken to complete the reorganization. If it did, somebody had better take a second look at the institution.

The New Year's Day riot is said to have been caused "at least partly" by the use by prisoners of "goofballs" or barbiturates smuggled into the prison. If this is true, there is something the matter with the administration. It ought to be possible to prevent the smuggling of pills to prisoners on a scale which could stir up a riot amongst 400 men.

We are also told that grumblings turned into a major riot when prisoners in the "trial block" started serving a supper of roast beef to fellow prisoners and that a prison official said "trial prisoners" (men awaiting trial) are habitual troublemakers. If this is true, why is it so? One would be tempted to say that where must be some provocation, for a man awaiting trial would, one would think, be most anxious not to get into trouble when he might reasonably expect that he might otherwise shortly be set free.

Almost certainly the nature of the jail is such that handling the prisoners with firmness but justice is made difficult. That, though, ought not to be an insurmountable obstacle to remedying the more outstanding deficiencies. There can be no defence for any contention that reform must await the provision of more modern facilities.

Have statisticians noticed that the safest means of travel is by rocket? At present the casualties per passenger mile are nil.—Letter to the London Daily Telegraph.

Conspirators Meet

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Once a month, an hour before noon, a confidential conference is quietly convened in the Centre Block on Parliament Hill.

When Parliament was in Session last September, the "conspirators" gathered weekly.

This avid assembly of the Brains Trust of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition meets in Room 409 South of the Centre Block to plot the downfall of the Diefenbaker administration.

Room 409 South is an oak-panelled conference hall (political) that seats about 30—and there Liberal Leader Pearson and his men gather around a big oblong table before a black and white marble fireplace.

Round them, on spectacular images, graven in stone, of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mackenzie King stare down.

The men around Mike Pearson—and that is the way, for the only way the Liberals want him to be known—comprise what the Official Opposition calls the Leader's Advisory Committee.

HIGH COMMAND

Not the money-men who bankroll it, but the strategists who draft the campaigning in the fact approaching battle-of-the-ballots.

. . . And just before anybody points the finger of scorn and starts crying "Shame," let it be emphasized here and now that there is nothing politically indecent about a party being financed . . . and the Conservatives and the New Democrats operate on funds contributed by their supporters.

Mike Pearson—and that's the way they want him known to the country—has around him Mr. Pearson, our Lester Bowles, nor even John Diefenbaker, specialist who this skull session of the High Command.

Around him, of course, are his cabinet colleagues. On the one and only Paul Martin, hard-hitten politician who with the soft human heart who has forgotten more about practical politics than a good many of his contemporaries will ever learn . . . Jack Pickersgill, newspaperman, bilingual Lionel Chevrier . . . then Jack Pickersgill, newspaperman, even deadly, "inside-man" who probably knows more about what goes on inside the working administrative levels of the Federal Government than any Conservative Cabinet Minister.

INNER CIRCLE

If Pickersgill didn't have his confidantes within the operating agencies of the Administration—which, with only smallest doubt he has—he would, still know what was going on politically in "The Establishment."

This could stem from instinct—and, of course, from those "inside" years he spent in the East Block at the Prime Minister's desk and frequently feared "Mr. Pat" for that. Starting with Mackenzie King and St. Laurent.

With the three Old Guardsmen still on hand—Gordon, Toronto "management manager"—and former Royal Commissioner who will move from Pearson's "Shadow Cabinet," to become Bank of Canada governor this spring.

Making it an MP foursome with Pickersgill, Chevrier and Martin. Plus Lucien Cardin, member of Toronto-Trinity, and Liberal defence critic.

Added up, the conspiratorial circle, dedicated to scheming schemes and dreaming dreams of Diefenbaker destruction are four of Mike Pearson's personal aides: Maurice Lamontagne and Allan MacEachen, both candidates in the coming campaign; Richard O'Hagen, Pearson's press secretary and trouble-shooter-at-large; and Keith Davey, the party's executive director and, the Liberals hope, their answer to the Conservative's Allister Grosart.

Strictly Personal

Greatness Comfortable If Embalmed

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There is nothing like coming down with a rare ailment for finding out exactly how prevalent it really is; it's just like hearing a new word for the first time, and then running across it again several times in the next few days.

No one is more exasperating than the individual who goes without brains — that is, the person who understands everything except what he ought to be and do.

Much of what we call "sociology" is gossip loosely stitched together with statistics.

Savages are people who kill animals only when they are hungry and kill enemies only when they are angry — in distinction to civilized people, who kill animals for pleasure and enemies for philosophical reasons they cannot remember when the war is over.

Any subject, no field of study, is ripe for a revolution when all the experts agree; in knowledge, as in weather, it is always calmest just before the storm.

The world is not divided only with a dead genius and a dead saint; we can stand greatness only at a safe distance.

Nothing, ultimately, costs more than love; we build our castles in the air, really, no matter how taxing, is never as expensive both personally and financially as fantasy.

It is hard for a woman wholly to like another woman who is pretty; unless she can find some substantial flaw that compensates for the difference in looks.

When a person says "I feel it's my duty to speak my mind about this," we may be sure it is more than a duty — it is a positive pleasure.

It's two thousand years after the founding of Christianity, and all the only people who think the other check are photographic models.

Why does the man who stands up at a meeting and begins by saying, "I'm not a public speaker," promptly proceed to prove this disclaimer at length?

Some intelligent people are addicted to putting a negative interpretation on the range of events that when a cardinal is elevated to Pope, they murmur disparagingly that he was "kicked upstairs."

The important thing to remember about the professional flag waver is that, if he had been born in a totalitarian country, he would now be waving that flag just as furiously.

'Floridation' Expensive

Fort William Times-Journal

A Toronto reporter was gathering opinion on the question through man-on-the-street interviews. One elderly individualist emphatically stated he was against fluoridation.

Asked why he disapproved he replied he didn't believe printers' ink purchased by fluoridists would only cost 50 cents per person each year. "I'm not that dumb. Nobody can tell me they can bring water all the way up here from Florida for only 50 cents per person!"

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

VALUE OF GOOD WORKS

The Epistle of James is one of the most interesting books in the New Testament. It is placed immediately after the Epistle to the Hebrews, one of the most exalted pieces of literature ever produced. It comes before the Epistles of Peter, written by the head of the apostolic group. Who James was we do not know, save that he designated himself "a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ."

The book is a study in practical Christianity. Because of St. Paul's influence, great emphasis had been laid upon the importance of faith in the Christian experience. The result was that some had grossly misused the extreme of maintaining that if they had faith they had everything. Good works were of no value. The Epistle of James is written in protest against this viewpoint. James was a firm believer in the value and power of good works. He does not go so far as to say that heaven can be purchased by good works, but he makes it plain that if good works do not accompany a life of faith, the faith is something basically wrong with that person's life. Good works and not claim of Christian faith and salvation through does not bear a crop of good and kindly works is, according to James — and certainly we of the twentieth century would agree with him — a thing of shame and false, pose.

Faith and good works belong together, and in a truly godly Christian experience they are found together.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 4th, 1942

A distinct trading lull caused by pre-Christmas and New Year's purchasing, combined by a sudden lowering of temperature resulted in the produce market being very quietly attended. Egg prices remained practically at the same level as were quoted at last week's market with Grade "A" going for 35 cents per dozen; butter sold at 40 cents per pound; fowl was very slimly offered but held at the usual figure of 25 cents to 27 cents per pound; pork and beef by the quarter was offered by several vendors on the outside market with baby beef bringing 15 cents per pound.

Competition was not very keen in this year's version of the annual New Year's Day birth sweepstakes at the Belleville General Hospital. Only one birth was registered and the lucky baby's mother was successful in winning all the ribbons. The girls had their innings at Christmas Day, however, when twin daughters were born in Belleville General Hospital.

One of the best building years in the city of Belleville was were the words of city officials this morning as the building permits for 1941 were completed. Although residential building in the city reached a new high during the past season, the actual value of buildings erected fell short of the record set in 1939. Altogether 119 building permits were issued representing a construction value of $233,050.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KNOWLEDGE

Some wise writer once said that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. I have never quite agreed with that statement.

Of this I am sure — a great deal of knowledge does not come amiss, for the more you know, the more you want to know and the more you appreciate what you do know.

I understand what an observant writer or speaker may say is to dip into a mine of great wealth, and often it means picking up valuable nuggets that somebody else has sweat and dug for.

One of the greatest of all conquerors is he who has left a great accumulated amount of knowledge.

Among the greatest of all philanthropists is he who has given away most from all that he has gathered from all corners of the globe, and from people.

We act mostly what we are, and we are mostly what we know.

One of the most important arguments in favor of the immortality of the human soul is the thirst for knowledge. And I feel that the soul in a man really is started from all corners.

From the child to the man there grows this hunger for knowledge. "Daddy, can I fly to the moon?" And such similar questions pour out of the busy brains of all children everywhere.

And I believe it was Pilate who inquired: "What is Truth?"

It is possible just to go to school to people. So, you see, you have a great University about you no matter where you go.

Raw Turnip Is Delicacy

Windsor Star

Turnip indeed is coming into its own in a year-around sense. Someone has discovered that "turnip sticks", or pieces of raw turnips are a delicacy.

That, of course, long has been known in the farm land of the past who had to turn the turnip pulper mornings and evening to chew these hard roots into cattle fodder. The only enjoyment to get out of them, after ploughing for breath, he bit into a piece of turnip.

There is nothing much nicer, indeed, than a bit or raw turnip finely flavored with salt and pepper. That is, unless one overdoes it. Then it tends to set hot on the palate.

Agriculture Grows

Farmer's Advocate

Too many people today have a tendency to think of agriculture as a declining industry. This is not so. Canadian agriculture is expanding in all but one respect — the number of people required to run the farms.

To Your Good Health

Does Pacifier Hinder Development of Teeth?

"Dear Dr. Molner: Do you approve of pacifiers for infants? Does thumbsucking or the use of a pacifier hinder development of straight teeth? — G.R.M."

Yes and no. I can't say that I approve of pacifiers, but I can't get very upset when I see a baby sucking on one.

When teething, a baby has the urge to bite on something, whether it's a rattle, a toy, a pacifier or a thumb. It assuages the discomfort, if that isn't too strong a word.

This is perfectly normal. There isn't anything for us to worry about, therefore, unless the child manages to get hold of something that will be bad for him. That's up to us, of course. The act of chewing or biting or sucking (or whatever you want to call it) is natural.

Thumb-sucking, or toy-chewing, may alter a certain length of time, depending on teeth somewhat, sometimes, but this is of no real importance.

If the habit persists beyond the age of six, displacement of the two front teeth may occur, and this may lead to the need for prosthodontic care later.

Don't worry about whatever a baby chooses, so long as it isn't dangerous. Don't try to break a baby of thumb-sucking

Before the ice breakup in June the helicopters will land on the ice and make spot soundings one-half mile apart to give a preliminary idea of the topography of the ocean bottom, and where possible shipping channels might lie.

When warmer weather comes in August the scientists plan to use the towing method for a detailed investigation of promising channels to detect shoals, reefs and ridges. In ice-free waters echo-sounding normally would be made from a moving boat but conditions in the northern Arctic are too hazardous and uncertain even for an ice-breaker to do the job.

"One helicopter can do the work of about four boats," said Mr. Eaton.

Seven Canadians Will Attend NATO Parley

OTTAWA (CP)—Seven Canadians of mixed political interests will attend a citizens' convention of NATO opening in Paris next Monday.

John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative MP for Peel, will head the Canadian delegation whose members will be speaking for themselves and not representing the government.

The idea of the Paris convention began at a meeting of the NATO Parliamentary Association in 1957, and gathered momentum last year when most of the 15 NATO countries followed a United States lead in setting up citizens' commissions on NATO.

Other members of the Canadian delegation will be Liberal Senator William Wall of Winnipeg; Alistair Stewart, former CCF Commons member for Winnipeg North; Donald Gillis, president of the Sudbury local of International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.); Toronto Businessmen Kenneth B. Andras and Siegbert B. Roman, and Patrick Nicholson, parliamentary correspondent for Thomson Newspapers.

A spokesman for the external affairs department said the government will pay $6,000 towards the delegation's expenses which are expected to be around $9,000.

Union Official Denies Man Was Dropped

SARNIA (CP) — A union spokesman denied Wednesday that Allyn Waybrant, unemployed father of seven, had been dropped from the union for non-payment of dues while in jail in 1953.

Mr. Waybrant, whose children were left homeless in a fire the week before Christmas, said in an interview last week he was not able to get work as a bricklayer because the union had dropped him from membership. He said he was unable to pay his dues while serving a two-month sentence for assaulting his wife.

Robert Ewart, business representative of Local 23 of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union (CLC), said no man is dropped in such a situation.

Mr. Ewart said Mr. Waybrant was seven months in arrears when he was finally dropped. Last summer Mr. Waybrant approached Mr. Ewart to rejoin and paid three months of his back dues and a $10 initiation fee.

"He was sent to see a contractor and was hired," Mr. Ewart said. "Waybrant sent his bills to the job but never did show up himself for work and the contractor finally hired someone else."

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: An antibiotic for plants, how a cockroach finds a mate in the dark, and frisky snowflakes.

FOR SICKLY PLANTS

Before long, farmers and fruit growers may be able to give sickly trees and plants an aster with a dose of a new wonder drug, an antibiotic for plants now being perfected by British scientists.

From a patient screenings of 8,000 soil samples, they turned up venturicidin which, if present tests prove out, will be produced as an agricultural spray. Venturicidin is an anti-fungus, although not an anti-bacterial, and seems to be harmless to animals.

So far, the scientists reported in Nature magazine, it has been found effective in stopping apple scab, barley mildew, broad bean rust, grey mould, cucumber mildew and other plant diseases.

COCKROACH ROMANCE

A Harvard biologist has found out how cockroaches find a mate, in the dark.

When Dr. Robert Barth removed a part of the antennae of the corpora allata, from the necks of female cockroaches, the males ignored them. The glands, he explained, normally produce a hormone which triggers production of a chemical, considered very agreeable by the mate. When Dr. Barth replanted new glands in the females, they mated and produced normal eggs.

SNOWFLEA FROLIC

Don't tell the dog, but there's a hardy little grey-white insect called a snowflea that thrives in sub-zero temperatures and hops with the best of them, although without accuracy they don't bother animals, but they can be pests by invading cold-water pipes in houses and sometimes finding their way into refrigerators. But the U.S. National Pest Control Association reports, such invasions are infrequent and can be controlled by exterminators.

Snowfleas are a type of springtail — that is, insects possessing a pair of springlike tails that can be tripped when quick distance is required. Snowfleas can hop as much as a foot. Trouble is, they don't seem to have any control over the direction their springs will take them.

Timber Operators in Tweed District Had Bad Season

By J. W. KEENAN

Timber operators in the Tweed District have approached their winter logging operations with considerable caution this year as a result of the spotty market conditions in the lumber industry. Many operators are still carrying a very substantial inventory of lumber on hand from last season which is moving very slowly and at a price which is generally below that of previous years. In fact several operators have commented that this has been the most difficult year which they have ever experienced —and in most cases this covers a good many years of business activity in the industry.

Those engaged in logging and lumbering face many difficult decisions during periods when the market is soft. The traditional course of operations is to log during the fall and winter and saw the logs during the spring and summer. This means of course, that decisions as to species and quantities to be operated during the year must be made at least eight months and often more before the lumber is ready for sale. During periods when the market is firm, this normally presents no great problems. The operator may contract, well ahead of the actual date of sale, for a given volume of lumber. However, where the market is slow, and many sales must wait until the lumber is actually sawn and in piles, the operator may well end up with a large volume of material for which he has no sale if he has made the wrong choice of species and products.

CREAM TAKEN OFF

This problem is particularly acute in an area such as the Tweed District where timber available for operations is generally of fairly low quality. The "cream" has been taken off the top in years past and the "skim" is frequently difficult to market. To this is added the large number of commercial tree species found in the area. The Department's records indicate that at least 20 species are cut for lumber in this district.

Fortunately, the Tweed District is very well located relative to the major lumber markets. There is also a considerable internal market for forest products. Thus the local lumber industry is able to compete to a degree which would not be possible in a less populated area further removed from the markets.

One of the major objectives of the Department of Lands and Forests in this district is to improve the forests of the area to produce a maximum volume of high quality, commercially valuable timber. The continuing large annual investment in tree planting and stand improvement operations on Crown lands in the district is made with this objective in mind.

RENPENNING — HAWKER

Standards of white chrysanthemums interspersed with ferns, adorned the chancel rail in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville, on Saturday, December 16th at high noon, and white satin bows the guest pews, for a lovely winter wedding, when Marian Ruth Emily Hawker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hawker, of Picton, Ontario, became the bride of Jacob Elias Renpenning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Renpenning, of Swift Current, Saskatchewan. The Rev. Gordon B. Woodcock, assisted by Mr. Robert Black, of Picton, officiated.

The traditional wedding music was provided by Miss Helen Spearman, of Belleville, guest organist, who accompanied the soloist, Miss Mayme Parking, who sang, before the ceremony, "Because," and "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

The radiant bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. James Hawker, wore an exquisite bridal gown of white parchment finish peau de soie cut on princess lines with high neckline, and having long, sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The graceful floor-length skirt hung in soft folds. She wore a Juliet cap of Alencon lace with seed pearl trim, and short train veil in fingertip length of hand-rolled illusion tulle, and carried a cascade of Yuletide roses centered by a cabbage rose, and mingled with tulle and ivy.

Her maid of honor, was Miss Patricia Mound, of Belleville, and the bridesmaids were: Mrs Arthur Wright, of Picton, and Mrs. Harold Creasy, of Wauppoos, Ontario. All the attendants were gowned alike in street-length gowns of deep red velveteen, cut on princess lines, with high necklines offset by three strand white necklets, three-quarter sleeves, and full skirts. They were tailored headdress bows of matching deep-red velveteen and carried semi-cascades of white Shasta 'mums and English ivy.

Mr. Ted Renpenning, of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor, where the bride's mother, wearing a two-piece gown of Wedgwood blue brocade, with flower hat in blue pastel, with white gardenia corsage, received the guests.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask linen and centred by a three-tier all-white wedding cake topped with red Garnet tea roses and fern, and misted about the base by white tulle and scattered fern. Tall white tapers and the attendants bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls the bride wore a most-proper dress in brown with China mink jacket, beige feathered hat, beige gloves and brown suede shoes and purse, with corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Renpenning will reside at 273 West Dundas Street, Belleville.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored by several showers; one given by her bridesmaids, Mrs. A. Wright and Mrs. H. Creasy, in Picton; a community shower at the home of Mrs. Eugene Vandusen in Picton, with Mrs. C. Woodley, Mrs. H. DeMille and Miss M. Dever, as hostesses. A miscellaneous surprise shower at the Picton Baptist Church and another surprise shower by the maid of honor, Miss Patricia Mound, at 39 Dunbar St., in Belleville.

Will Interest Women's Groups In Promoting Traffic Safety

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — Nell Siemens, a bit of a traffic stopper herself, has launched a country-wide campaign to make Canadian women more conscious of traffic safety.

The pretty, blue-eyed brunette, a nurse and one - time sports fashion expert, has been hired by the Canadian Highway Safety Council to interest women's groups in promoting traffic safety.

Through the women, she hopes to make more careful drivers out of Canada's men.

Miss Siemens, on the job three months, has met with women's groups in Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal. She plans a cross-Canada trip some time in 1962.

There's a lot of apathy about highway safety among both sexes, the native of Saskatoon said in an interview. She hopes to shatter this. One of her plans is for a national campaign to interest women in safety belts in automobiles.

WOMEN NEED SPUR

There are 4,000,000 passenger cars in Canada, and 3,271 Canadians lost their lives in traffic accidents in 1960. Another 90,152 were injured.

Miss Siemens hopes to help reduce the toll by interesting the 50-odd major women's organizations in promoting traffic safety for pedestrians and motorists—from the home out.

One indication of the women is the national Coral Lane Awards for safety projects launched by women's groups. Sponsored by an oil company, the awards are $1,000 for first prize, $500 for second and $250 for third.

Does she think women are good drivers?

"Generally, but perhaps their greatest fault is that they are over-cautious."

They take the family car less often than the man of the house and they haven't got the confidence or experience of a man, she says.

"They get all upset when they do the wrong thing. But they show more courtesy."

MALE PREJUDICE

The only daughter in a family of four boys, she didn't drive until she moved to Toronto. Her father, a Saskatoon trucker, felt it was a man's job.

The male opinion in the family hasn't changed much but "my mother thinks I'm an excellent driver."

TEACHES TRAFFIC SAFETY

Nell Siemens plans a cross-Canada jaunt to interest women's groups in promoting traffic safety. Miss Siemens, a native of Saskatoon, was hired by the Canadian Highway Safety Conference three months ago and has already met with women's groups in Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa. (CP Photo).

Miss Siemens says she believes women can get their husbands and children to take safety precautions, such as wearing safety belts and driving carefully, but "they shouldn't nag."

She felt women are naturally more safety conscious because of an inborn maternal instinct.

Miss Siemens has first-hand knowledge of the results of reckless driving. A graduate in nursing in Saskatoon, she was for a time head nurse of a surgical ward at Toronto's Western Hospital.

She gave up nursing to work with a Toronto department store and later took over as buyer and manager of a branch in London, Ont.

ADDED INDUCEMENT

MONTREAL (CP)—One box office manager drew eager response to his theatre with novel idea, says Mrs. Claude Beaubien, founder and director of the International Theatre here. He offered programs printed on blue silk, which could be used as handkerchiefs.

BCIVS H-S Assoc. to Hold 'Open House'

On January 8th, at 7.30 p.m. B.C.I.V.S. Home and School Association will sponsor the annual "Open House" for grades 9 and 10 and on January 15th for grades 11, 12 and 13.

Having two nights will assist those parents having more than one student at B.C.I.V.S. to be able to meet with all the teachers.

A new idea is being tried this year to aid parents and teachers. Each parent will be able to make appointments at each teacher's room ahead of time, enabling them to proceed from room to room per schedule.

The Home and School executives and staff hopes this will eliminate long lines at some of the rooms, a feature of past years. The executive would appreciate your co-operation to make the operation work. Limit your appointments to five minutes or less, be at each room for your appointed time. Then join your fellow parents in the cafeteria anytime after 8.30 p.m. to enjoy a cup of coffee and a social half hour.

Both the staff and the Home and School executive extend this invitation to you the parents of B.C.I.V.S. students to meet the staff who have dedicated their lives to the education of your child.

Tabernacle Church Women Hold Inaugural Service

Tabernacle United Church Women held their inaugural service on Tuesday evening with a splendid representation from all the groups of the W.A., W.M.S., Comrade Club and Keen Age Club. All these groups and organizations have "become one" in this great new women's organization of The United Church of Canada.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes was the guest speaker and expressed her pleasure in having a share in this inaugural service. Her theme was based on Isaiah 40:31. She pointed out the strength, comfort and assurance that are given and said, "As we think of the future and what it has for us, let us remember the promises that we will still be given strength to meet the trials and all that comes to us in the future. Let us rededicate ourselves in the service of the church. This year marks the beginning of a new way for the women of the United Church. "In unity there is strength". We are going forth as one body of women, not because the work of the church is one, but all church people to have one aim — that is to do the will of God and speed His work of love. We shall be working together in a new way. We are going to be strengthened in His unity of purpose. We are going to be conscious of the needs and opportunities and responsibilities more than ever and just as women have been capable and have accomplished great things down through the years they are going to meet the challenge of the future. We cannot escape our responsibilities

MORE CHURCH BOARDS

"More and more boards are going to be set up and women are going to have a place on all these boards There is one way that will prepare us for these great responsibilities — It is prayer — It is going to take prayer, thought and study and self denial. We are going to be ready to see opportunities as we have never seen them before. We must begin at home— We must realize the needs near at hands as well as far afield. All women have the same hopes and desires as We have.

"Our opportunity is to give these people the same opportunity that we have had and see that it come to know the love of our Heavenly Father. Together let us go forward trying...to improve the lot of our brother-man. Let us think about these needs. Together let us stretch our minds and hearts until they come nearer to their minds and hearts."

Mrs. Holmes referred to the statement made by the great preacher Carrie: "When we do great things for God then we may expect great things from God; "and so as we think of the new organization and the opportunities we should remember that this new organization is only to be as good as it is endermeated by His Spirit and as we use it for His purpose. Let us give great thought to "waiting upon the Lord".

TIME FOR CONSIDERING

"There is a great lesson for us in the hymn Take Time To Be Holy.' We women are impulsive, anxious to get things done; but we have got to take time to consider which things are important We shall need to learn the value and experience of prayer and see that one of the great needs for us to promote this new organization is to know our Bibles. Let us continue to read and study them. How the passages will light up with new meaning."

She said she hoped Bible study will be given a prominent place in the new organization.

"Prayer will be a part of our lives because the study of the Bible and prayer seem to go together just as thought and then action follows; and we will find that by prayer we are going to be filled with the urgency to do that which we have not dared to do before and by prayer we are going to 'wait upon the Lord'. We will receive this needed strength that we should have to 'run and walk without weariness' We will also find a joy in this experience of working together for our Church. Women will have a great work to do so we must give prayer then to Christian education, evangelism, missions and social affairs. By studying and being informed in these subjects we are going to be able to take our place with the men of our church. We are not going to make our only as one body of women but side by side with the men — one big Christian family.

"In this modern world as we plan our programs let us cultivate the attitude that we will ask our Heavenly Father 'Lord, what will thou have us to do?' then we will be able to carry out this project and do greater things than we ever dared or dreamed.

"Our prayer is that this new organization and this U.C.W. may go forward from this day full of the spirit and love and a sound mind in the work of the Kingdom of the Lord."

EXECUTIVE DEDICATED

The Rev. M. G. McFarlane dedicated the executive of the new organization, Mrs. Percy Kerr, Mrs. B. D. Salisbury, Mrs. Percy Ostand, Mrs. John Babcock and Mrs. Mavis Barlow repeated the various leaders parts in the inaugural Service. Mrs. Earl Stanfield and Mrs. Harry O'Brien sang the duet "Hear Us O Lord". Mrs. H. C. Barlow and Mrs. Garnet May acted as pianists Rev N. D. Patterson, D.D. pronounced the Benediction.

Following the inaugural service brief resumes were given of the activities of the Women's Association by Mrs. Roy Brickman; the Woman's Missionary Society by Mrs. W. B. May; the Comrade Club by Mrs. Errol Greenleaf and the Keen Age Club by Mrs. J. Hall.

Mrs. Lewis Andrews, newly elected president, was introduced and briefly stated that one of the thoughts from the Keswick Women's Conference was "The Church is You! It is not the edifice, this beautiful room, the bricks and the lovely rotunda, it is you and I. We, the people, are this Church. It is a great challenge whether or not we keep these bricks firm and continue to have a beautiful church and be the type of people God would have us be in doing His purpose. Let us be that way."

Distinctive Coat

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Subtle cut and shaping give distinction to a handsome coat of exquisite wool in a muted brown and gray or mustard and black plaid.

The seaming from shoulder to hem has the shape of a narrower coat. Pockets are worked into these seams.

The topper itself is considerably wider and away from the body. A matching stole with fringed ends and black or brown lining is available.

Incidentally, coats of this type give much more service than the fur-trimmed one if the coat must be used for all-around wear.

Coffee Break

by Mary Moore

The indefatigable is dearly loved by army wives who spent some years in Germany, where they had patisseurs to do the work.

When I was in Ottawa in November I heard some of these girls yearning for the time to talk over coffee in the morning. We have here for it I know a lovely Bohemian bread that you can make and serve to the delight of your girl friends. It is called Kolachky. It is a hot yeast bun topped with a cottage cheese and fruit mixture that is delicious. At Marianne's we served ours with red raspberry jelly and the combination of flavors was exactly right.

KOLACHKY:

½ cup lukewarm milk, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 package granular yeast, ½ cup warm water (about 105 deg.), 2 unbeaten eggs, ½ cup soft shortening, 3½ to 3¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour.

Sprinkle yeast on warm water and let stand 10 minutes. Combine milk, sugar, salt and shortening; stir until shortening melts. Stir yeast liquid and add beat in eggs. Add enough flour to make a soft dough (reserving any surplus for the kneading board). Beat with wooden spoon and then mix by hand and turn out on floured board and knead until perfectly smooth and squeaky. Cover in scrubbed down bowl, and let rise until well-doubled in bulk (a warm place (about 80 deg.) Punch down, then let rise again covered, until double. Pinch off pieces of dough and shape into 2" balls. Place on greased baking sheet, cover and let rise until light. With thumb make a deep depression in each and fill with a tablespoon of Cottage Cheese Filling; 1½ cups cottage cheese, 2 egg yolks, ½ teaspoon mace (or nutmeg), 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind; 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ cup seedless raisins. Combine all and mix well. Mound the cottage cheese up to prevent any leaking off on the pan. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 25 minutes. These should be served hot or while they are quite fresh to be at their best. Instead of red raspberry jelly but other good ones are grape and apple, and strawberry jam and orange marmalade.

1961 : Year Canada Took Stock

National stock taking during past year touched all Canadians — even those who overstepped the law. New Penitentiary Act calling for training programs, new institutions, is reflected in work of National Parole Board, above. From left, J. Alex Edmison, Q.C., Edouard Dion, Q.C., T. George Street, Q.C., M. Louise Lynch, Frank P. Miller.

Steady on course for the new year, Canadians can now look back over the wake left through the choppy seas of 1961. Despite the blustery months, the track across the first year of the decade is slicked with the soothing oil of calm appraisal — result of sober studies into many phases of Canadian life. Last year Canada took stock. Surveys, polls and conferences hit an all-time high. Among the surveys carried out in 1961, were: a population census, a conference on national resources for the future, a full-scale arctic expedition and a northern wildlife survey. The spotlight flashed on Canadian art, the treatment of criminals; the railways, national health, adult education, manpower and employment, mental illness and religion. The results from these searching inquiries will provide Canadians with a vivid, three-dimensional picture of the nation. Briefly, as Canadians settle down for the long haul through the sixties, they find: a better chance for keeping physically fit through the new Fitness and Amateur Sport Act, increased hope for rescuing people from mental illness by the ideas and knowledge stemming from the Third World Congress of Psychiatry (held in Montreal), plans for solving future economic problems by the Special Committee of the Senate on Manpower and Employment.

Third year of Canada's Polar Continental Shelf Project advanced the vital work of scientific research and discovery in outlying Queen Elizabeth Islands. Investigations ranged from sub-marine geology of the sea bed to insect life, studies through holes blasted in the sea ice to soil structures. Expedition's aim is to build a storehouse of arctic knowledge for Canada. Above, helicopters stand by at master Decca station on Ellef Ringnes Island.

Growing concern about improving the use of and safeguarding the future of Canada's renewable resources, drew together all eleven Canadian governments, business interests and experts for a conference. Aptly named "Resources for Tomorrow", the meeting took place in Montreal, October 23-28, may spark biggest stock taking of all time.

Population census in June meant a course of heads from coast to coast and up to the far arctic. Here, a member of the R.C.M.P. makes an extra patrol acting as enumerator to tally up northern citizens. Census covered private homes, hotels, institutions, armed services, Canadians abroad.

National Film Board of Canada Photos

Canadian Confluence of the Arts, first national meeting of artists, poets, writers and the public, drew varied reactions. John Adaskin, Canadian commentator, thought it "eminently successful". Quipped Harold Town, Toronto artist, above, "I still don't know what it was all about, but it was better than having a cold."

Congregational Meeting

WHITE'S UNITED CHURCH

WHITE'S DISTRICT — On Thursday evening members of White's Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bilham for their annual congregational meeting with the Rev. T. F. Townsend as chairman. The meeting opened with a few words for the closing year and with hopes for the year 1962 followed by prayer by Mr Townsend.

The minutes of last year's meeting were given by the secretary, Mr. Lorne Hunt, followed by the treasurer's report by Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson, auditors, Mr. Arnold Ketcheson and Mr. Cecil Jeffery were named.

Mrs. W. A. Jeffery treasurer for White's W.A., gave an encouraging report showing money was made by payment of dues, donations, collections, travelling apron, birthday box and quilting.

Mrs. Lorne Hunt, treasurer for the Sunday School, also gave an encouraging report showing a good attendance for the year. The Sunday School assisted in the Mother's Day service, in Rally Day service, and in White Gift service. A picnic was held before the church closed in the summer with a pot-luck dinner at noon and recess for all children. The Christmas party was also successful.

All officers and teachers were commended for their faithful work throughout the year. A few new officers were added. Mrs. George Bilham will look after the Communion service, and the men members of the church will take turns as caretakers.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the presentation of a hymnary to Mrs. W. A. Jeffery, pianist, on behalf of the church and Sunday School; and cups and saucers to Mrs. Lorne Hunt, treasurer of the Sunday School. Mrs. George Bilham presented the gifts and Mrs. Walter Jones and Mrs. Albert Jones read short addresses.

Lunch was served by the ladies and a social time was enjoyed.

Successful Living

Children Scared of Him!

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My husband makes a good salary but he is so mean to us all. He quarrels every day. He makes the two older children work at everything. Perhaps they should do some work, but not the way he makes them.

The children are scared of him. When they see him at night dinner, they try to tell him everything and then he goes at them and they have to be quiet. We don't eat fancy but he always complains the bills are high. The children don't have proper clothes. He drinks very heavily and is out every night.

What should I do? Take a job or leave him and let him support the children? I don't want any part of his money myself. I can work for my bread and butter as long as the children have what they need.—MIXED UP ANNE.

* * *

DEAR ANNE:—Try a counsellor first. What happened between you to produce this state of affairs? Once you were in love, remember?

Obviously your present life is intolerable—and will certainly do harm to the children, who need love and fair dealing more than anything—more than clothes, fancy food, toys!

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I am friendless. I am 26, short and fat. How can I win friends? I don't know how to dance but would love to learn.

I also don't drink or smoke but I'm afraid I will start, soon if I go any longer without friends.—FRIENDLESS GIRL.

* * *

DEAR FRIENDLESS:—Drinking or smoking is no solution to being friendless. In fact, too much of either and you'll drive away anyone who might be lurking near.

Perhaps you are short, but don't have to be fat. You don't have to go dance-less. You can have friends.

But it calls for determination. You reduce by having the backbone to refuse chocolates and things that fatten you. When you have brought down your weight, you can get a new dress for the new figure and join a group or club in your town which welcomes young ladies of your age.

And they can help you to dance.

Then you will keep your friends by being friendly. No tamper-no criticism; no selfish demands. Just helpfulness and a cheery smile.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: My husband, two children and I spend a week end at the home of friends in the country. We brought a present to the young son of our hosts. Now, I wonder, if we should send a thank-you gift, as well as a note, to the parents who were most hospitable. Would it be proper to send one present to both, or should we send each a separate token? — Mrs. C.N.O., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: A gift to the child of the house usually is a thoughtful substitute for the hostess gift. However, if you would like to send something in addition, then you might send a small token for the house and address it to the hostess. Separate presents for both parents would not be good form.

* * *

Question: My son agreed to usher at a friend's wedding, but after being fitted for a tuxedo and paying for it, the wedding was called off. The clothing firm refuses to refund the money, and the "groom," meanwhile, has not been heard from. Shouldn't he repay the ushers for the money they laid out on his behalf. — M.E., Trenton, N.J.

Answer: To my mind, he should. Or, at least, he should certainly share the loss. But if he is so ungallant as to duck out of sight and not even contact the members of his "wedding party," I'm afraid there's nothing the ushers can do but chalk the whole deal up to experience.

* * *

Question: I'm about to order note paper and informals which I'll use after my marriage next month. What initials should I use for the monogram, and in what order should they be placed? — M.L.K., Groton, New York.

Answer: A monogram should include the initials of your given name, your maiden surname and your married surname. You can use the initial of your maiden or married surname in the center: either is correct.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

S h a keapeare was right. Conscience doth make cowards of us all. Yet, do we possess conscience, and each man has heard its still, small voice urging: be more than you are!

Too often, we hear the same words from the throats of the "status-seekers." But they mean something quite different. In their world, to be more than we are, we must act as if we had more than we have. Some clever ad man has capitalized on this feeling by placing a happy family around his client's long, long automobile, and they beam proudly. The caption reads: "We're not wealthy! We just look it!"

The key to prestige in many parts of our society is held by those who make a fetish of what they have.

But the voice of conscience suggests that a man is truly measured, not by what he has, but what he is. Instead of seeking to possess the symbols which will dazzle our neighbors, we might more profitably concentrate on the possibilities of being a symbol — instead of merely owning one.

An easy test to which each of us may submit is to ask ourselves these simple questions: of what do I remind people when they think of me? What image do I invoke, when my name is mentioned by others? What symbol do I stand for?

The Israelites were not permitted to worship any image of God. Why not? To teach them that man himself was made in the image of God — man, himself, must be the symbol of all symbols. For...man was created in order to be, not merely in order to have. It is only when he is something, that he has something.

When we lose our touch with the fact our conscience, indeed like cowards of us all. We worship the Gods we manufacture, never find enough satisfaction for our unsatiated palates. We want nothing, so much as more — and more. More all the time! Truly, of human bondage to human craving there is no end.

Status, then, is not something we acquire from others, it must be something we earn for ourselves. It is not an award which is conferred; it is the reflection which we ourselves project, from our insides-out. If we know what counts — we count. But, if not, despite what we have, we are of little account.

Pity, then, those who thought they could buy happiness, like a new long-finned automobile, simply by acquiring the things that suggest comfort and ease. They will learn, sooner or later, that they can only drive one car at a time, sleep on one bed at a time. Large houses, are still not homes — not even for the "status-happy" — if they lack the things money can't buy.

Once, the students of a poet sought to discover the secret of his song. They asked permission to visit his residence, that they might watch him as he created the magical music of his words. He brought them to his little apartment and pointed to his "patch of green," the backyard where he would sit and fashion his verse. It was nothing more than a tiny splash of grass, hemmed in on all of its sides by a tall and unsightly fence.

"Is this where you find your inspiration?" one of his students asked. "It seems so incredible! Your poems have such grandeur and majesty in them — and yet, your inspiration point seems so confining and restricted."

Perhaps, my young friend," the teacher replied. "But, I think that you are looking in the wrong direction. Don't look around you — look above you. Then, you will see what I always see! Look," he concluded, pointing to the sky, "see how high it is!"

More of us need to look up and not around. We, too, might then discover what we are not, become what we should be. Instead of being tempted to want what everyone seems to want.

"Look," we should be telling ourselves, "how high it is!"

Women's Institute

FOXBORO W.I.

Mrs. M. J. Waller was hostess to the Foxboro Women's Institute for the Christmas meeting, and Mrs. Bamber was in charge.

During the business it was decided to give $10 to the Retarded Infants' Home at Pinefield. It was also decided that since a few more supplies were needed in the kitchen at the school to use the money from the euchre parties to purchase the same. Mrs. Hubble and Mrs. Johnston to purchase the necessary articles. Also it was decided to postpone the next regular meeting night for a week and meet on January 9th. There were 25 members and three visitors present.

Mrs. H. Stewart and Mrs. L. Lewis were program conveners. The motto "The Christmas Story" from St. Luke was read by Mrs. W. Rombough. The theme "Carols, Nursery Rhymes, Rose Anne LaRue, and Sandra Fisher gave a lovely rendition of "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas", with "Infant Lowly" sung as an encore. "A Christmas Card", was read by Mrs. W. L. Thompson and followed by "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" read by Mrs. H. Stewart.

Christmas customs from circle lands were read with different members taking part; England — read by Mrs. G. Schell; Poland — Mrs. V. Gray; Mexico — Mrs. M. Jahieson; France — Mrs. C. Hubble; Ireland — Mrs. J. Ewing; and Italy — Mrs. H. Beatty. "The Custom of Christmas Carols" was read by Mrs. H. Stewart and Mrs. L. Lewis read "Christmas on the Farm". The singing of three Christmas carols interspersed the program.

Following the program, Mrs. Stewart demonstrated the making of a lovely table centre. The exchange of gifts followed the demonstration.

Lunch was served buffet style, consisting of fruit jellos and quick breads and a most delightful change from the usual lunch was much enjoyed and brought to a close a wonderful evening.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Wilma J. — He'd be so attractive with a hair-piece.

Wilma J. — Bruce is only 32 but because he's lost much of his hair, and what's left is prematurely grey, he's often mistaken for my father. It ihi keeps up, the day may come when he's taken for my grandfather, because I'm not bashful about using anything on the market, to keep myself looking young and attractive.

He's a handsome man. When I met him 15 years ago he was a junior athletic councillor at camp and his shock of brown curls kept falling in his eyes. I made him get a crew cut, then. But now he won't listen to me. I want him to get a toupee. The new ones are so natural looking. But he prefers to keep trying hair treatments. What hair is he wasting?

* * *

Bruce J. — Just because women believe in all sorts of cosmetic deceptions, just because Wilma won't hesitate to try a new hair color or even a few fake curls on top of her poodle cut is no reason for me to look like what I'm not. I'm not a matinee idol.

I don't want to make Wilma feel bad, but those old bags only look older when they fight so hard to fool the calendar. Right now I'm putting up a mild fight, and using scalp and hair treatments with some new hoax, or machine. But if this doesn't stop the loss, never mind bringing my hair back, I'll settle for baldness, unless something better turns up than those "rugs"! I'm an outdoor guy and I'm not going to worry about high winds and high tide.

* * *

The Council: We don't know much about treatments or toupees, but we do know that a shiny-domed actor named Yul Brynner is currently as great a matinee idol as many of his thickly tressed rivals. Debates by heavily as to whether baldness (a la Yul) or hirsuteness (a la Samson) should be equated with virility and manly appeal.

Last our readers deem this too pitiable a topic for the Council's consideration, may we mention that the J.'s complete problem goes deep, and that it's by no means facet. If we can ease their opposing views on Bruce's appearance, we feel we may at the same time loosen other tensions.

An old movie comes to mind. The title, we believe, was "The Enchanted Cottage" and the stars were Richard Barthelmess and Barbara Bronson. Although each had a physical blemish, when they were inside the cottage they looked perfect, and indescribably beautiful to each other. Similarly, Wilma must come to see the real beauty of the man behind the crown, the man as distinguished from his looks — and cease haranguing him over a superficial issue.

We can only ask Bruce to look over the juxtaposition of the words "young and attractive." They haven't quite the affinity for each other of ham and eggs or lyre and bacon. Young is young, but attractive is ageless. Wilma may be even more attractive when she is less young!

But now to the merits of Wilma's plea. It's fairly well established that alopecia (the fancy term for baldness) runs in families. If the loss of hair causes real hardship, such as professional or social difficulties, a toupee is one answer.

Council Must Explain Word 'Overnight'

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) — How long is "overnight?" What is it? Preston Council, completely in the dark, is trying to throw light on the subject.

The matter arose after Police Chief Gordon Bogle asked council to explain what "overnight" means on the $3 tickets his nine-man force has been placing on cars for overnight parking. Some motorists had been questioning the term and he had not been able to enlighten them.

A bylaw passed in 1941 to facilitate snow removal bans overnight parking in Preston. It has never been questioned before. Works superintendent Robert Barns said that after a storm his crews need from midnight to 7 a.m. to clear the main street.

Council passed the matter over to its traffic committee and Chief Bogle said he will continue to issue tickets.

Magistrate A. D. Barron, asked whether he would continue to convict on such parking tickets, replied: "We'll take the commonsense view of the matter until it is sorted out."

Common Market Ministers In First Parley Fail to Solve Farm Products Crisis

LONDON (CP) — The European Economic Community, a unique experiment in economic and possibly political integration, faces its first and what may prove to be its severest crisis over food.

By Jan. 1 ministers from the community formed by West Germany, Italy, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg were to have adopted a common policy on farm products.

They were to have produced the blueprint for freeing trade in agriculture throughout their community and for achieving a common farm program.

They failed. And in doing so they also failed to move into the critical second or "majority rule" stage of the European Common Market's development.

They are acutely conscious that failure now or later to pass into the second stage would almost surely destroy the drive for European integration built out of the rubble of the Second World War.

MEET TODAY

Beginning today the ministers will meet in Brussels in non-continuous sessions with the avowed intention of not breaking up until agreement is reached.

This community, launched Jan. 1, 1958, was to achieve economic union in three stages of four years each. The six ministers must agree unanimously before they can move into the second stage.

The ministers' failure to agree on the farm policy—thus holding up further progress—is only partially a result of the complexities of attempting to substitute a common agricultural program for the tangle of national import controls, subsidies, "prices, regulations and other devices designed to protect each country's farmers.

It results almost as much from the conflict between each member's obligations under the 1957 treaty of Rome, the community's "constitution," and countries' old preoccupations with national interest and sovereignty.

FARM REVOLT

France, with fresh memories of the Breton farmers' revolt, is anxious to find export markets for its agricultural surplus. The West German government, prodded by a powerful agricultural lobby, is equally anxious to protect its own high-cost farmers from cheaper foreign products.

The first concrete step toward European integration was taken a decade ago when Germany, France Italy and the Benelux countries set up the European Coal and Steel Community. This grouping pooled resources of coal, steel, iron ore and scrap in a market without frontier barriers.

Its successful operation made it the pilot plant for the Common Market. In 1956 the six launched both the European Economic Community and the European Economic Community.

In doing so they tackled at last the gigantic task of uniting six national economies into one and wiping out all trade barriers among them by 1973 at the latest.

The merger is to take the form of a customs union. When the task is completed, trade is to be as free within the area covered by the six countries as it is among Canada's provinces.

Salazar's Threat of UN Pullout Is Delicate Issue

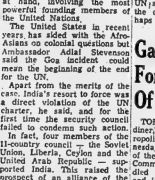
By JOSEPH McSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Premier Antonio Salazar's threat to take Portugal out of the United Nations is ominous because he is sure things are not going to get better for his country in the world body.

Salazar referred particularly to the UN's hands-off decision during India's recent conquest of Portuguese Goa but new verbal attacks are due to fall on Portugal when the 16th UN General Assembly opens Tuesday, Jan. 15.

The assembly is scheduled to debate charges against Portugal of oppression in its big African territory of Angola. Since about half the 104 UN members are new countries of Africa and Asia, a decision in favor of Portugal would indeed be surprising.

The change in complexion and size of the UN—there were only 51 members when it was created in 1945—is one reason for the recurring question as to whether the global forum will survive, and if so in what form.



CRISIS EXISTS

UN orators—imbued with this or that cause—tend to invoke the future of the UN on comparatively trivial issues, but it is clear that a real crisis does exist at hand, involving the most powerful founding members of the United Nations.

The United States in recent years has sided with the Afro-Asians on colonial questions but Ambassador Adlai Stevenson said the Goa incident could mean the beginning of the end for the UN.

Apart from the merits of the case, India's resort to force was a direct violation of the UN charter, he said, and for the first time the security council failed to condemn such action.

In fact, four members of the 11-country council — the Soviet Union, Liberia, Ceylon and the United Arab Republic — supported India. This raised the prospect of an alliance of the Soviet bloc and Afro-Asians behind a forceful solution of all colonial disputes.

COUNTRIES ALARMED

Such a course would place Britain, France, The Netherlands and some other Western countries in an impossible position. The trend of events elsewhere plains harsh criticism of the UN by President de Gaulle and British spokesmen. The French-man calls it the "Disunited Nations."

But British foreign secretary, the Earl of Home, said some assembly resolutions on colonies are "reckless and careless" and he pointed to the Congo, where "bingo" events proved inability for self-government. He castigated this resolution, passed Dec. 14, as the "inadequacy of political, economic, social or education preparation should never provide as a pretext for delaying independence."

It is an issue causing sharp cleavage and some UN delegates are "reckless and careless" — of every one members such as Portugal from the world body would be dismissed with precedent at this time.

But the majority appears to be, however, that Portugal would be unwise to leave the UN since that would solve the colonial problem but perhaps make it worse.

Gardiner Calls For Scrapping Of Commission

TORONTO (CP) — Fred Gardiner, retiring chairman of Metropolitan Toronto Council, Wednesday called for the scrapping of the five-man Toronto transit commission because it is "riddled with immature bickering" and is operating a dream factory.

He also warned in an interview that Metro Toronto is heading for "a financial crisis" because of council's refusal to build the Spadina expressway.

He said it was unlikely the provincial government would pay 50 per cent of the cost of the shorter expressway approved provincially — from Highway 401 to Lawrence Avenue — because "they won't go for six - lane expressway from nowhere to nowhere."

AFRICAN EPIC

The first expedition across Equatorial Africa was led by Henry M. Stanley from Zanzibar to the mouth of the Congo River in 1874-77.

Justice Orders Suspension of Gambling Case

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice D. R. Morand of the Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday ordered suspension of a preliminary hearing of charges in magistrate's court against 10 men accused of gambling offences.

The hearing, which opened last Thursday before Magistrate R. C. Taylor over the protests of defence lawyers, was brought off after 3½ days of testimony.

The Supreme Court order, which set the date of summonses no earlier than Jan. 19, means the hearing will start over again after that date.

Mr. Justice Morand granted a motion of prohibition of the application of Malcolm Robb, lawyer for two defendants, on the ground that he did not have enough time to prepare his case.

Mr. Robb applied for the order after Magistrate Taylor refused to defence request for adjournment and started the hearing last Thursday.

The men, accused of conspiring to operate common betting houses and to engage in betting and bookmaking, are Jack Weaver, Fred Gabourie, Harry Elstein, Arthur Lazier, Benjamin Kulkowitz, Max Silver, Hugh O'Gara, Thomas Buckley, Alexander Robinson and Phineas Goldenberg.

They came before Magistrate Taylor last Wednesday and a lawyer asked for an adjournment on behalf of Mr. Robb, who was in Florida on other business. The magistrate said the case must start the following day.

Evidence linking a Toronto company with a social club police say was a gambling centre was introduced in court before the hearing was suspended.

Crown counsel Lloyd Coburn introduced bank statements of Regents Holdings Limited and cheques showing $16,000 was paid from the company account to Eisen and Gabourie. Eisen was secretary of the Bellevue Bridge and Social Club.

Detective John F. Leybourne said Gabourie and Weaver were behind the club counter during the raids and they used a damp cloth to wipe clean a shiny tabletop, slouthful "dicks, dicks" at the same time.

Police seized betting and payoff sheets listing bets on horses and baseball games in 1961 on Toronto apartments rented under assumed names, police said.

Secretary Says She Signed Thanks Letter

QUEBEC (CP) — Elisabeth Kinsella, one-time secretary to State Secretary Noel Dorion, said Wednesday she has signed an affidavit in which she states that she, not Mr. Dorion, signed a letter of thanks to the late assistant-director of the Quebec Liquor Police for police assistance during the 1958 federal election.

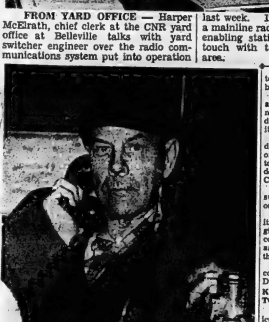
The letter, dated April 17, 1958, is on a letterhead of Mr. Dorion's law office in Quebec. It expresses thanks to Wellie Lalonde, "assistant-director of the now disbanded liquor force, for his help in men gave Mr. Dorion during the campaign for election in Bellechasse constituency.

In a television interview, Miss Parent said she signed the letter. She gave no further details. She said she would like to not recall exactly the circumstances under which she prepared the letter.

Miss Parent now is employed as a stenographer in the office of Louis Dorion, son of the state secretary.

Some Products Were Taken Off Market

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal health department has investigated cases of inferior ingredients in packaged food mixes, a department spokesman said Tuesday.



But in all cases the product was withdrawn by the food manufacturers improved the quality.

He was commenting on remarks made by Mayor Charlotte Whitton in her 1962 inaugural speech to city council Tuesday night. The mayor said there have been complaints about milk and egg products in cake mixes causing intestinal upsets.

The spokesman said regular inspections are made of food manufacturers. There had been no reports of severe stomach upsets caused by inferior foods in mixes.

FROM YARD OFFICE — Harper McElrath, chief clerk at the CNR yard office at Belleville talks with yard switcher engineer over the radio communications system put into operation last week. In February it is expected a mainline radio system will go into use enabling station operators to keep in touch with trains operating in their area.

TO ENGINEER — Up-to-the-minute orders from the yard office are being received by Engineer J. B. Faulkner over the radio communications system installed in the cab of his yard-engine. Railway officials say the system greatly expedites switching operations.

Two-Way Radio System At CNR Aids Switching Problems in Big Yard

Through use of a two-way radio system which went into use a week ago, the yard master at the local yard office is able to get instant communication with engineers on yard switching engines regardless of their position in the yard.

The equipment has a range of up to 12 miles and can easily reach engines even if they are doing switching operations at Corbyville or at Point Anne.

It all results in the expediting of switching operations and to greater efficiency and gives the same communication advantages to yard operations as are now enjoyed by most fire and police departments and firms.

The equipment in use at Belleville covers only yard operations but the near future will see all mainline trains also equipped with radio.

ALREADY BEING USED

Already in the West and in the North a mainline trains radio communication system is already in operation and the Southern Ontario area is expected to follow suit early in February.

The system allows station operators to make instant radio contact with engineers on trains operating in the area. The engineer in turn can contact the stations at the end of his train maybe a mile or so down the track.

Railway diesellization with trains getting increasingly longer has proven the worth of the radio system.

Today with diesels hauling freight trains a mile or more in length, railway officials point out that without radio an engineer can very well be "out of touch" with his conductor.

Already in Southern Ontario locomotives are equipped with provision of portable units for use in the cabooses.

DIFFERENT FREQUENCY

The yard radio systems will operate on a different frequency than those on the main lines so there will be no danger of getting signals mixed. However, at Belleville, signals from both the yard and mainline systems will go out over the same antenna atop the express office building at the north station.

Robert Dixon, communications operator for the CNR at Belleville, noted that already the yard radio system here has proven itself.

For instance just the other day a last-minute car switching order was able to be transmitted to the engineer while he was doing switching operations at Corbyville.

"The radio greatly expedites switching operations," Mr. Dixon said.

Also with the use of the radio it is possible to keep the engine crews spot ears or railway the same time and at the last minute before the arrival of trains.

KEEP IN CONSTANT TOUCH

The mainline radio communications systems were installed on trains first in the more isolated areas in what the Canadian North where it was needed most.

The need has not been so urgent in Southern Ontario with closer stations and miles of double track.

But when it goes into operation next year it will mean that station operators will be able to keep in constant touch with engineers.

It will mean that engineers will be able to be informed of the last minute car pick-ups before they arrive at the station.

And it could also progent a serious railway accident.

The radio-equipped freight train is spotted as the train approaches through each station point, the radio will mean the engineer can be informed of the trouble instead of waiting for him to be flagged down at the next station.

Board Upholds Dismissal of 20 Employees

KINGSTON (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board has upheld the dismissal of 20 Toronto - area employees of Gus Marker Block and Tile Company, the firm's lawyer, W. J. Anderson, said Wednesday.

The employees, members of Local 938 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Union, had appealed their dismissal, claiming it violated the Labor Relations Act.

The employees set up a picket line at the company's plant here Oct. 19 in what the union local president Edwin Banks, said was an illegal strike.

When the men reported for work three days later, they were told no work was available. Later the manager summoned them and dismissed them for being absent without leave and taking part in an illegal strike.

SINGER CHARGED

BARRIE (CP)—A 19-year-old rock 'n' roll singer was charged Wednesday with public intoxication in connection with a report that he had been beaten and robbed. Charged was Thomas Shields, 19, of Collingwood, Ont.

Believe Attempt Was Made By Tshombe Representative To Purchase Recognition

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman said Wednesday the state department believes an attempt was made to buy recognition for Katanga as a sovereign country and that Michael Struelens, who represents President Moise Tshombe in New York, was involved.

The official, press officer Lincoln White, did not name the country in which the offer was made, but the context made it clear he was talking about Costa Rica.

In New York Struelens issued a statement saying that "as far as the allegation by Mr. Lincoln White pertains to me, person-ally, it is without foundation.

"Even if the story were true," he added, "which it is not, I cannot understand why the United States would be so concerned about diplomatic efforts made by another government."

White, in a statement volunteered at a press conference, said he was answering press reports that "Struelens might have been involved in an attempt to purchase recognition for Katanga as a sovereign nation."

One published report (by columnist Drew Pearson) had said an investigation was under way into reports that $1,000,000 had been offered to Costa Rican officials to recognize the secessionist Congolese province. That account did not name the agents said to have made the proposition, but discussed Struelens' activities in other areas as an agent of Tshombe.

The story said the offer was indignantly rejected by the Costa Ricans, and in effect White backed that up.

Struelens, a former Belgian civil servant, is in the United States as a "information agent" for the Katanga regime. His activities have come under sharp attack from Carl Rowan, deputy assistant secretary of state for political affairs.

In a speech at Philadelphia last Wednesday night, Rowan spoke of big money spending by Struelens, and criticized the activities of the Union Miniere du Haut-Katanga, the big mining group which controls much of Katanga's revenue - producing properties.

Few Fanciful Predictions That May Come True in '62

NEW YORK (AP)—What kind of year will 1962 be?

A look in the security crystal ball discloses it will be one of the more memorable years of modern times, a mixture of national prosperity and international puzzlement.

Most people will be living more, but maybe wondering whether they are enjoying it less. Yet everybody—everybody except wives reaching 40—will find something to be cheerful about during 1962.

Here are a few fanciful predictions that may come true during the present year:

The United States will shoot a man into orbit and the Russians will immediately orbit a beautiful female spy to keep an eye on him.

The United Nations will seek to solve its financial woes by having itself listed on the stock exchanges of New York, London, Paris, Rome, Bonn and Tokyo. Shares will be sold discretely to the Russian public by clock and cloak salesmen parachuted into Siberia by the Western Allies.

Prime Minister Nehru will accept contributions from wealthy Portuguese inhabitants of Goa for a visit to the giant Alcatraz prison.

Fidel Castro of Cuba will stop out to open an upliest savings bank in Switzerland.

In a widening split with Russia, Red China will announce a massive five - year drive to grow its own industrial diamonds.

Medicine will announce anti-antidote will be developed to cure you of all the diseases you get from drinking the pure water from drugs.

Literature—A best - seller novel will be marketed containing a built-in transistor radio, so that you can simultaneously listen to baseball games as you read your way to victory.

Leisure—Atomic fallout shelters will become a popular status symbol. The latest dance craze, the Twist, will be replaced by one called the Shelter Shake.

Women's fashions — Dresses will feature the "window dining look" and will be automatically raised or lowered to leave room by a hidden drawstring at mid-lady's whim.

All in all, 1962 promises to be an interesting and surprising year. If you don't enjoy it, it'll be your own fault.

Dick Powell, June Allyson Still Married

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dick Powell says he and June Allyson have not yet their divorce become final.

The actress won an interlocutory decree last year, but it could have become final only after a 90-day period by either party.

The two have been occupying the same home and appearing in public together since Miss Allyson suffered a throat attack several months ago.

Miss Allyson, 36, won a $2,000-a-week settlement from the 51-year-old Powell and custody of their children Pamela, 19, and Ricke, 12.

Meat Only Fit For Pet Food Sold to Humans

OTTAWA (CP) — The justice department still is preparing final sentencing in breaking up Ontario sale to humans of meat ill only for food, an RCMP spokesman said Wednesday.

The federal department will instruct the RCMP in what charges — and how many of them—are to be laid against persons involved in the operation, disclosed last weekend.

A "considerable number of people" were said then to be facing charges under the Criminal Code and the Food and Drugs Act. Lawyer W. Doc Chilcott of Ottawa was named Wednesday as special Crown prosecutor to handle the pending court cases.

Ottawa, Toronto and perhaps other points will be involved.

Dr. C. A. Morrell of the food and drug directorate said he is withholding further details pending legal action, which he said he anticipates shortly.

The investigation by food and drug inspectors and the RCMP has been going on for several months and involves meat eluding federal inspection. It began on complaints from the Canadian Association of Consumers based on reports of shortage of meat for cat and dog food.

Middle Power Influence Said To Be Dwindling

TORONTO (CP)—Paul Martin, Liberal member of Parliament for Essex East and former national health and welfare minister, said Wednesday night Canada is antagonizing its allies and destroying its influence with uncommitted nations by acquiring "a reputation for unreliableness, posturing and idle threats."

The Liberal spokesman said Canada's influence as a middle power is dwindling at an alarming rate because:

1. Prime Minister Diefenbaker is replacing effective, quiet "behind the scenes diplomacy" publicity to impress voters and the rest of the world with Canada's importance.

2. Cabinet ministers, pick needless fights with their counterparts in the United States and Great Britain;

3. Mr. Diefenbaker has failed to display to foreign nations an image of Canadian unity in conducting internal affairs and facing such world issues as nuclear armament and the European Common Market.

Mr. Martin was speaking on a television CBC public affairs program, The Nation's Business. A text of his remarks was released to the press.

Not Bad in Bars Either

Elbow Football Weapon

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The elbow has become a formidable offensive weapon" in football, a doctor told United States college and high school athletic officials today.

Dr. Allan J. Ryan of Meriden, Conn., said sportsmanship, not rules, is needed to "help make the injury problem less serious."

He spoke at a meeting of the National Alliance Football Organization, made up of groups representing small colleges, junior colleges and high schools.

The text of his speech was made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Dr. Ryan, a member of the American Medical Association's committee on the medical aspects of sports, said the changing style of football has increased the injury potential."

He said two practices are being introduced by certain coaches who like to see the play a little more rugged but perhaps are not aware of the extent to which the injury potential is increased." These practices were spearing and gang-tackling.

Dr. Ryan said: "While the present helmets have made it possible to do this (spearing) without suffering concussion on every tackle when the head is driven into the ball, the chest up under the chin, both it and the neck are subjected to a severe and unnecessary strain.

He said gang-tackling, there four or five defenders try to land on the ball carrier simultaneously, also causes risk of injury.

But Not Sense of Humor

Huff Loses Teeth, Pride

NEW YORK (AP)—Sam Huff, New York's Giants' rugged linebacker, may have lost a couple of teeth and a lot of pride in last Sunday's National Football League championship game at Green Bay but his sense of humor emerged unlamaged.

The 230-pound West Virginian showed up at a press luncheon Wednesday honoring Green Bay Packers' Paul Hornung as the most valuable player in the Packers' smashing 37-0 victory, and Huff stole the show.

Huff said he couldn't understand why Hornung was receiving the sports car (from a sports magazine) for his role in the game.

"Paul wasn't the most valuable player for Green Bay—I was," he said. "I think everybody who saw the game will agree to that."

The Giant defensive star told about the eerie feeling of playing in the Green Bay stadium, surrounded by 41,000 fans, most of them hostile.

"When I got home, a friend told me he thought his television had gone dead when the Giant players were introduced," Huff drawled. "But it hadn't. When they called out our names —nothing but stony silence."

In a serious vein, Huff said he believed one of the reasons Giants took such a licking was that they had spent too much of themselves in the last game of the regular season against Cleveland Browns which ended up in a 7-7 tie.

Canadian Boating Body

Declines Harmsworth Bid

DETROIT (AP) — The Canadian Boating Federation has turned down a United States challenge to race for Harmsworth Trophy, the American Power Boat Association said Wednesday night.

J. Lee Schoenith, a Power Boat Association vice-president, said the Canadian group turned down the challenge by his group on the grounds that it was not the proper body to issue the challenge.

Schoenith said the Yachtsman's Association of America normally would issue the challenge for the Harmsworth Trophy, symbol of international supremacy in unlimited powerboat racing.

But, he said, the YAA declined to issue the challenge, Schoenith would give no reason.

He said there probably will be no Harmsworth Trophy race in 1962.

Teammate George Shepherd is slated to run in the 600-yard event.

A mile relay team composed of Doug Gilbert, Stan Worsfold, Crothers and an as-yet unnamed runner will complete Toronto's K of C entries.

Briton Wins Chess Match

HASTINGS, England (AP) — John Littlewood of Britain defeated Arthur Blaguier of New York, the United States grand master, in the feature match Wednesday of the International Chess Congress.

The Briton won in 23 moves with a polished end game in what experts called one of the best matches of the tournament to date. Blaguier opened with queen's gambit declined, to which Littlewood applied the Tchigorin defence.

Mikvail Botvinnik, the Russian world champion, continued to lead the tournament with 20 points and one adjourned game. Jonathan Penrose, the British champion, and Svetozar Gligoric of the Soviet Union follow with 4½. Blaguier is fourth with 3½ points and one adjourned game. Two rounds remain.

All-Stars Battle Aerial Tilt

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Sunday's American Football League all-star game will be an aerial battle, quarterback Jack Kemp of San Diego Chargers says.

Kemp will share hurling duties for the Western Division all-stars with Cotton Davidson of Dallas Texans.

"We'll loosen them up with our fine runners," Kemp said Wednesday. "But the ball will be in the air a lot because of the great receivers we have as targets."

The Western boys' coach Sid Gillman, will be speedy Lionel Taylor of Denver Broncos and Dave Kocourek of San Diego.

Keeping the ball in the air for the Eastern Division all-stars of coach Wally Lemm will be George Blanda of Houston Oilers and Al Dorow of New York Titans.

They'll be aiming at Gino Cappelleti of Boston Patriots and Charles Hennigan of Houston.

He Might Better Pay This One

TIMMINS (CP) — Terry Talentino is finding the job of coach of Kapuskasing Maroons of the Northland Juvenile Hockey League something less than rewarding.

Talentino, who coaches the team without pay, was fined $25 Wednesday for tossing a puck onto the ice in protest against an official call.

And his chances of appeal appear slim—the fine was imposed by league President Wilf Dupont, the assistant crown attorney for the Cochrane district.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The unbeaten Pepsi's, seeking to stretch their win string, face some rather tough opposition in the next few days. The sharpshooters of Lamirande Inc., level their sights at the RCAF Globetrotters in the Trenton Community Gardens tomorrow night in what should be an all-out battle between two fast skating squads.

Next on the hockey menu are back-to-back mielees with Les Douglas' fast-travelling Napanee Comets. The clubs tangle in Gibbardville on Monday night next and the Comets return the compliment on Wednesday.

With four-point games shaking up the league standing like a twister's torso, anything can happen to the ladder set-up.

As of now the Pepsi's are out on top of the heap with nine wins and no defeats for 20 points, one a four-point win over first Perry.

Napanee, Uxbridge and the Trenton RCAF are bunched in second place, all with 18 points. Napanee has a six-and-three record; Uxbridge seven-and-four, and Trenton Flyers six-and-six, the levelling off due to the four-point process.

The Pepsi's will have to go all out to win any or all of the trio of tilts, particularly if "Wiener" Brown and Fiori Goegan have not received the official sanction to don a uniform. While the Pepsi defence is pretty solid as it is, Goegan was missed the last time out. His both-way playing thus far has been one of the Pepsi's standout performances.

The Globetrotters, rather tough nuts to crack for the Pepsi's in their last two outings, have improved considerably and Orval Gravelle's crew should give the league-leaders a tough battle in their own backyard.

Napanee has been travelling at a rather fast clip of late and they haven't forgotten the 8-2 defeat the Lammies handed them in the opening game of the season. Douglas will have his fast-skating squad at top-flight level and it could very well be that the Pepsi's meet their first setback of the season when the clubs meet tomorrow night.

The Pepsi's have been rapping home nine goals a game on a nine-game average, having sunk 90 pucks to the 19 scored against them. They'll have to pull a "Green Bay Packer" tomorrow night if they expect to fire home nine hoot-hreels against the Comets in their hometown ballwick.

Points-wise five of the Pepsi's nominal roll have accounted for over half of the 207 points garnered by the team in the nine games played.

Davy Jones is the leading goalgetter with 14, followed by Keith MacDonald with 13. Ron Hall has slung home 11 and "Shaker" Baker 10. This accounts for 48 of the 80 goals scored. Gary Goyer has flipped home seven.

Jones also tops the "assisters" with 21 for a points total of 35. Gary Goyer has 20 for 27 points; MacDonald seven for 20 points; Ron Hall nine for 20 points and Baker 10 for the same amount. Fiori Goegan and Lionel Botly are well up in the assist department with 14 and 13 respectively.

"Wiener" Brown has played but one game but he set a league record for goals scored in a game with no less than four. Tom O'Meara has five and five and Bill Marineau four and four. Chuck Rowbotham has a games' record of three and four.

The Pepsi's, well rested after the holidays, should be in top shape for the three important tilts. They'll need to be for these Napanee and Trenton Flyers teams will demand everything they've got hockey-wise.

TRADE LAWSON

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League Wednesday night sent centre Ed Lawson, onto Maple Leafs of the NA-20, to Portland of the Western International Hockey League.

KEYED UP KEON — Toronto Maple Leafs' Dave Keon (centre) skates in on Montreal Canadiens' goalie Jacques Plante as Canadiens' Jean-Claude Tremblay attempts to check, in the first period of their NHL game in Toronto last night. Keon scored during that period to put Toronto two ahead. (CP Wirephoto).

Keon Lights Flash Behind M. Plante

Hull Helps Hawks Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal goaltender Jacques Plante must be wondering what he's like to face Dave Keon when he's healthy.

The 23-year-old Toronto Maple Leaf centre, nursing a groin injury so painful that he has been excused from practice sessions for more than a week, hobbled onto the ice for Wednesday night's game with the National Hockey League leaders.

In the first period he beat Plante for the Leafs' second goal in what turned out to be a 3-1 victory over the Canadiens.

In the second period he beat the goaltender twice but both shots hit goalposts. Then he sent a long drive at Plante that the unnerved netminder allowed to bounce in off his stick.

From a goaltender unaccustomed to such glaring miscues, there could be no more sincere tribute to last year's NHL prize rookie.

To add to the night's dramatics, the 13,86 fans at Maple Leaf Gardens were treated to their first penalty shot in at least a decade when Keon was pulled down in the Montreal goalmouth. The youngster took it, with a backhand hit the post.

HAWKS CLOSING IN

While the Leafs were narrowing Montreal's lead to two points and had two games in hand, Chicago Black Hawks stretched their unbeaten streak to six by defeating New York Rangers 2-1 at Madison Square Garden and moved within three points of the third-place losers.

Bobby Hull, celebrating his 23rd birthday, scored Chicago's first goal and then set up Stan Mikita for the other.

After Dick Duff opened the Toronto scoring with his 15th goal of the season, Keon connected with a rising seven-footer.

He was awarded his penalty shot when he was dragged down by Montreal's Ralph Backstrom while in the clear.

The only other penalty shots have been called by NHL referees since the 1950-51 season. One of these came last Sunday at Detroit with Gordie Howe of the Red Wings scoring against the Leafs' Johnny Bower.

Of the last 10 penalty shots, only three did not result in goals. Besides Keon, Ron Murphy missed for the Rangers in a game against Toronto during the 1955-56 season and Larry Hillman failed to score for the Bruins against Chicago in 1959-60.

NEARLY BLANKED AGAIN

The Canadiens' lone score came from Marcel Bonin, who sank a rebound with only 11 seconds remaining in the game. Before that they were thwarted time and again by Bower, who stopped 28 shots. Montreal was blanked 2-0 by Glenn Hall of Chicago in its previous start.

Hull came close to getting a second goose egg in a row against the Rangers. He wasn't stolen until the 15th minute mark of the third period when Earl Ingarfield scored his 15th goal on a power play.

The Leafs, showing definite signs of coming alive after an unimpressive season debut, might have run up a higher score against the Rangers if it hadn't been for goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley's fine work.

Worsley kicked out 24 shots and several of them were spectacular.

The Hawks will be seeking to gain some more ground tonight when they take on the Red Wings at Detroit in the only scheduled game.

The Wings have recalled centre Lee Lamb from Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League for tonight. Lamb has been up with Detroit before, appearing in 53 NHL games last season during which he got six goals and assisted on 12.

What's Going On?

Two Members Lark Brass Resign

MONTREAL (CP) — Two members of the Montreal Alouettes' harassed front office quit Wednesday and the Canadian Football League club issued a hurried denial that there was a hassle or that a top-level switch-around is under way.

Club President M. E. (Ted) Workman said the pair resigned voluntarily and there was no malice on the part of any of the parties.

But speculation was still rampant that there had either been a falling-out or the club had decided to pare down front office personnel and cut costs in the light of last season's $100,000 loss.

Those resigning, 38, treasurer and business manager, and Ken Brown, 35, director of development, were the two who turned in their resignations, both to take effect within a month or two.

GOES TO TV

The Wyoming - born Brown said he plans to join television station WEAT in Daytona, Fla., and Orlando, Fla., Johnston, a Montrealer, was unavailable for comment. But a statement issued by the club said he would remain associated with the Workman family business interests.

Brown, onetime radio station manager in Ocala, Fla., came to the Als two seasons ago when Sonny Homer was hired as head coach and general manager.

Johnston joined the club after the Workman grabbed up a controlling 70 per cent interest in 1953 for a reported $250,000.

No successors were named Workman said:

"That's something that will have to be straightened out later."

Meanwhile Moss and chief scout J. J. Albrecht were in Dallas, Tex., to round out University of Alabama quarterback Pat Trammell as Alouette material for next season.

NOT PAYING $20,000

They talked earlier with Sandy Stephens, the Rose Bowl star from the University of Minnesota.

It was reported that Stephens had been offered $20,000 but Workman squelched the figure, saying paying an untried rookie that much would have an adverse effect on the team regulars.

Offence and particularly the quarterback slot was an enigma for Montreal last year. The club, despite having perhaps the best defence in Canadian pro football, finished last in the CFL's eastern division.

The coaching staff processed 13 quarterback candidates in a vain bid to find an adequate replacement for Sam Etcheverry

Macs Face Gananoque Here Friday

The Belleville Macs cash with their two nearest opponents in back-to-back battles in Picton tonight and here Friday night.

Despite the fact that the Macs have won their last six games in a row, they have been unable to pull away from the Gananoque Islanders in the race for the OHA Eastern Junior league's top spot.

The Macs travel to Picton for tonight's tilt against the third-place Merchants, then come home for a big game tomorrow evening against the Gananoque crew. Tomorrow night's game will start at nine o'clock and the winner will take over undisputed possession of first place.

At the present time Belleville and Gananoque both have nine wins and two losses, good for 18 points. Picton follows with 14 points, the result of seven wins and five defeats.

Since the Gan Islanders are classed as a Junior "C" club, they and the Macs meet only twice this season, once here and once there. The Islanders edged Gordie Bell's boys in the Eastern town and if the Macs want revenge, as well as first place, they must win tomorrow's game here.

Meanwhile coach Gordie Bell is facing a rather pleasant problem these days is trying to decide which of his three goalies to use in any given game.

Sam Hamilton was expected to win the top billing but two weeks ago Gordie Parker came up with his club's first shutout of the season and then last Friday Ron Dulmage was tremendous in stopping the Kingston Frontenacs.

Bell may end up drawing names out of a hat before each game if the trio can keep playing at their present rate.

Matters are looking up in the attendance end of the game, too. Last Friday's crowd here looked to be the biggest of the season and the blue brass is hoping to match or better the mark Friday night.

With the Islanders providing the opposition, they should do it.

MONEY TALKS

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A Louisiana State University board member said Wednesday he feels the board wants to have a straightforward talk with football coach Paul Dietzel and there is still a chance Dietzel will decide to remain at LSU. Officials of the Army football team hope that Dietzel, one of the country's top young coaches, will sign a contract for five years at $20,000 a year.

Dies of Stroke at 63

Babe Dye Was Versatile Sportsman

CHICAGO (CP-AP) — Cecil (Babe) Dye, a 150-pound athlete known as the man with the hardest shot in the National Hockey League when he played for Toronto St. Pats and Chicago Black Hawks in the 1920s, died here Wednesday. He was 63.

He twice won NHL scoring honors and in eight full seasons in the NHL scored 191 goals.

He had been ill some time following a stroke last year.

An all-round athlete, Dye also played baseball with Buffalo of the International League and football with Toronto Argonauts. Later he was an NHL coach and referee before going into business in Chicago.

Dye was born in Hamilton in 1896 but his family moved to Toronto.

He learned how to skate, play hockey and pitch a baseball from his mother, whom he described this way years later:

"My mother knew more about hockey than I ever did and she could throw a baseball right out of the park. She could even cook—as a pinch-hitter."

Dye started his hockey career in 1917 with Toronto Aura Lee, champions of the Ontario league, and moved up to Toronto St. Pats, the OHA senior champions, two years later.

PLAYED ON WING

In seven seasons with St. Pats he scored 176 goals, winning top scoring honors with 37 points in 1922-23 and with 44 points in 1924-25. He was among the top five scorers in four other seasons.

He played on a Stanley Cup team only once—in 1922 when the Pats beat Vancouver in a best-of-five series. Dye said later that his biggest thrill in hockey came in the fifth and deciding game of that series when he scored four goals as the Pats won 5-1. He also scored nine of the 16 goals in the five-game series.

He was sold to Chicago in the 1925-26 season and remained with the Hawks until six.

He was sold to New York Americans in 1928 but finished the season with New Haven of the Eastern League.

COACH AND REF

Later he coached Port Colborne of the senior OHA, Chicago Shamrocks of the American League and St. Louis of the NHL. He took up refereeing and was referee in the 1938 Stanley Cup final when Chicago beat Toronto Maple Leafs.

Despite his small size — he stood only about five eight, Black Hawk officials called him the "fastest and hardest shot in hockey" in his best years.

He broke into the NHL 200-goal club in the days when the league schedules were only 36 as long as the present ones.

While playing coaching with Buffalo during the off-season in 1931, he was offered a contract by Frankie Mack of Boston's old Philadelphia Athletics, but turned it down because it conflicted with the hockey season.

Quinte Students Sweep 'Spiel'

City S.S. Curlers Win

Secondary school curlers of the city are rocking-and-rolling-away to a good seasonal start.

And Bill Spinelli, chairman of the Students' League of the Quinte Curling Club has a good reason to be proud of his 1961-62 proteges.

Four of the league's mixed rinks took part in the first district students bonspiel on Tuesday and three of them finished in the top order.

Held at the RCAF 6 R.D. curling rink, the "spiel" attracted eight rinks from the host club, four from the Trenton Town and Country, and the city rinks.

Quinte's Ron Lovett skipped the winning rink with a score of 64 points. Skip Gordon Flodder of Quinte was second with 60 and Skip Wayne Wilkinson also of Quinte was third with 56.

The results:

Lovett 64 vs McCauley 41.
Flodder 60 vs Richardson 43.
Wilkinson 56 vs McAlpine 27.
English vs Livingstone 54.

The Belleville rinks were: Ron Lovett, skip, Vicky Carruthers, Patricia Lovett and John Murphy.

Gordie Flodder, skip, Frances Sheffield, Bruce Alexander, Dorothy Adams.

Wayne Anderson, skip, Margaret Houlston, Bob Sheffield, Anne Bateman.

David Livingstone, skip, Dianne Duffy, John Smith and Patricia Houchin.

Chairman Spinelli said the Quinte Student League is progressing very favorably with all 64 members of the sixteen rinks showing keen enthusiasm in the game.

The students curl every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 p.m. until six.

Evidence of their potential and aptitude is seen in the results which wrote that the fight may be held in April at Las Angeles or New York.

Says Eddie Shore

'Pushing Canucks Around'

VANCOUVER (CP) — General Manager Dave Dolphinee of Vancouver Canucks kept the long - distance telephone lines busy Wednesday, seeking a means of severing connections with Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League which got herring his Western League team.

He said he wanted to sever all connections with Springfield owner Eddie Shore because Shore is "pushing the Canucks around."

Dauphinee placed calls to WHL President Al Leader, to Shore and to other hockey offices as he and Canuck playing coach Phil Maloney pondered the circumstances of the last-place Vancouver team.

Four of the Vancouver club's players are owned by Shore. Shore owns Canuck goalie Claude Evans, defenceman Dale Anderson, forward Murray Wilkie and utility man Frank Boggerveen. Boggerveen was ordered to Springfield Tuesday. Dauphinee's outburst against Shore came Tuesday night after Canucks had lost 6-2 to Calgary Stampeders. He said Shore demanded that Anderson be sent immediately to Edmonton for an examination of a shoulder that was injured twice earlier in the season.

"I asked him if it couldn't wait until Jan. 20 when the team is in Edmonton," Dauphinee said.

"Shore reiterated that he wanted Anderson sent now. There is no reason for it and I don't want to comply. I think Shore is just trying to push us around and Vancouver is too big a sports town for us to have to accept this kind of treatment."

Bob Cleroux Signs for Warm-Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's tough Bob Cleroux will defend his Canadian heavyweight boxing title against Cecil Gray of Halifax in Hull Que., Jan. 22 as a warm-up for a match with an undetermined outside opponent, it was announced Wednesday.

Promoter Howard Darwin of Hull said he hopes to have Archie Moore, part holder of the world light-heavyweight title, as a guest for the 12-round Cleroux-Gray bout.

Gray is the Eastern Canada titleholder and holds the No. 2 ranking rating.

Buchanan also said he has three opponents in mind for Cleroux following the Gray fight. They are British Empire champion Henry Cooper, Tony Hughes of Cleveland and George Logan of Boise, Idaho.

AT THE PARK — "Doctor" Sidney James is a little puzzled about his patients. A scene from the latest Peter Rogers comedy "Carry On Regardless" opening tonight at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville showing. On the same program "Doctor In Love". In Color, starring Michael Craig, Virginia Maskell, James Robertson Justice, Carole Lesley and Leslie Phillips.

AT THE BELLE — An amused Rock Hudson, and a surprised Gina Lollobrigida look on as Bobby Darin is on the receiving end of a bingo face-stapping from Sandra Dee. Scene is from "Come September", romantic comedy in Technicolor, in which the 4 stars headline with Walter Slezak. The happy fun hit, is playing tonight, Friday and Saturday, matinee daily, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Aiken Leads Senior Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The scoring pace of George Aiken slackened in the last week, but momentum has carried the Chatham Maroons left winger into the scoring leadership of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association.

Aitken collected four points for a total of 38. He pushed past Irwin Gross of Windsor Bulldogs, the previous leader, held to one assist for 35 points.

Aitken had moved into third place from 17th in the standings the previous week when he fired in nine goals and gained four assists in a two - game splurge.

Don Simms of Strathroy Rockets, who had fallen from the lead to eighth place, is still rebounding back. He scored three goals and an assist to move from fifth to a tie for third with Lou Berda of Bulldogs. Both have 34 points.

Harold (Bun) Hurley of Galt Terriers maintained his goal-tending leadership. He has been beaten 36 times in 22 games for a 2.64 goals - against average. Strathroy's Jim Strachan is second with 3.24; Windsor's Ross Childs is third with 3.66.

Barrie-Hanson of Windsor and Ray Moffit of Strathroy are in a class by themselves in the scoring penalties. Hanson leads with 65 minutes, Moffitt has 63. Galt's Alex Burch-Keeling is far back in third place with 46 minutes.

Pair Shares Point Race

TORONTO (CP)—Pit Martin of Hamilton Red Wings and Andre Boudrias of Montreal Canadiens were tied with 56 points, well ahead of the rest of the pack, in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A scoring race today.

League records, including games of Tuesday, showed Martin with 28 goals and 36 assists and Boudrias with 21 goals and 35 assists.

Closest to the front-running pair was Lowell McDonald of Hamilton with a total of 47 gained through 23 goals and 22 assists. Behind him was Regan Richer of Montreal with 43 and Ray Gilles and Phil Esposito, both of St. Catharines Teepees with 42.

Top regulars in the nets were George Holmes of Montreal with a 2.75 average and Rudy Blom of Hamilton with a 3.25 average. In 20 games Holmes has allowed only 55 goals and has scored two shutouts.

Janet, Tony Have Troubles Because Hubby Does Not Fly

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—As far as Tony Curtis is concerned, the Wright brothers could have skipped the whole damned thing.

Curtis recently returned from locations of Taras Bulba in Silata, Argentina. He came back the hard way, via train to Buenos Aires, boat to New York, train to Hollywood. Travel time: Two weeks vs. one day by air.

Tony doesn't fly.

Ordinarily when a person doesn't fly, nobody makes much of it. But Curtis is probably the most famous non-flyer in the world, the only thing that he is married to a flying type, Janet Leigh.

CAUSES RUMORS

"Janet flies, I don't; it's as simple as that," says Tony. "Except that it isn't that simple. Whenever we go on a trip separately — whoosh! The rumors start. We had a fight. We separated. We're getting a divorce. That's what all the columnist and gossip writers have assigned the whole damned thing.

"Janet usually arrives before I do because she flies. So maybe it's New York and she wants to see some shows, so she calls up a friend of mine to take her out. Whoosh! The tongues start wagging.

"Oh, they really had a field day when we went to Argentina. I could tell by the number of cables I got; 'Is it true you are separating?'

"As a matter of record, we are better off than we have ever been. I don't mean we don't have our differences; we do. But we've been married 10 years now, and as far as I can see, the first 10 years are the easiest.

"The rumors have died down now that we're home. But wait until we take another trip. The rumors will start again."

Checkmate Now Focusing On Having Guest Stars

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Title of Wednesday night's episode of CBS's Checkmate was A Funny Thing Happened To Me on the Way to the Game. It was an unwieldy title on an unwieldy show—but that's the way it's been with Checkmate this season.

Last year, it was a jolly, entertaining series centered on three sleuths. But now regulars Anthony George, Sebastian Cabot and Doug McClure have been relegated most weeks to playing bewildered bodyguards and the plots, such as they are, focus on a guest star.

Wednesday night, the focus was Jack Benny, playing a comedian pursued by an assassin at a New Year's Day football bowl game. Even Benny in his usual TV character, couldn't make it much of a show.

One of TV's favorite preoccupations is a device called the "spin off." This is TV's equivalent of the motion picture "sneak preview"—a chance to try out a show idea quietly. If it pleases, it may return another season as a full-bown series. If it fails, it just quietly goes away.

One such show was last week's CBS Theatre comedy starring George Gobel as a well-intentioned bungler. Probably that one—Gobel held great hopes for it as long as a year ago—will be one of the pilots best forgotten. It wasn't funny and not even George's bag of tricks could pick it up.

On the other hand, Danny Thomas' current shows have an interesting potential in some fresh characters he is developing: Sid Melton and Pat Carroll playing the nightclub owner and his wife. They are a funny pair and work well as a team.

ABC will give viewers another chance to see its recent special starring Yves Montand. A rerun is scheduled for spring.

GROUCHO SERIOUS

Veteran comedian Groucho Marx will star in his first dramatic role on CBS-TV's General Electric Theatre Jan. 14.

DO RE MI Opens In Toronto Jan. 16

The noted musical comedy Do Re Mi, starring Phil Silvers and Nancy Walker, will play O'Keefe Centre January 16 through January 27.

The original company comes direct from Broadway and follows the two-week engagement of "Leonard Silman's New Faces of 1962". It replaces "La Plume de Ma Tante" and will play O'Keefe Centre later in the Spring season.

The reason for the switch in engagements is that O'Keefe has ensured the appearance of Phil Silvers and Nancy Walker as leads, which it would not have been able to do had DO RE MI come later in the season as originally planned. The David Merrick production, will open January 16.

SCORES ANTI-SEMITISM

PARIS (Reuters) — Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion said today the world is still under the shadow of widespread anti-Semitism and racialism. "Anti-semitic propaganda has perhaps never been so powerful," he declared, and it is today, the Israeli leader said in an interview published in the Paris newspaper Le Figaro.

Former Liquor Police Officer Names Dorion

MONTREAL (CP)—Le Nouveau Journal says a former Quebec Liquor Police officer declared in an interview that he worked in Bellechasse riding in the 1958 federal election campaign for Hon. Noel Dorion, now secretary of state and president of the Privy Council.

The newspaper says the former officer, Rene Mercier, said he "saw the future member of Parliament several times."

Mercier now lives in Montreal. His name appeared in a letter signed "Noel Dorion" — the newspaper published a photostatic copy Tuesday — thanking eight men for election services.

Le Nouveau Journal reproduces the signature "Noel Dorion" from the photostat and the signature of State Secretary Noel Dorion from a letter "sent to a journalist." It says it leaves it to readers to compare the signatures and draw their own conclusions.

Mr. Dorion declines to write the letter and has said he will sue anyone who publishes it or uses it for political purposes. He also has said his secretary wrote and signed the letter when asked to do so for an unnamed person.

The newspaper says its Quebec representatives got in touch with Henry Perry and Gerard Rozer, two former liquor force members also named in the 1958 letter, and both said they ordered to work in Bellechasse riding came from Wellie Cote, then director of the force. The 1958 Liter of thanks was addressed to Cote.

Perry also said: Le Nouveau Journal reports, it was his understanding that Mercier took his orders in Bellechasse, riding from Lucien Tremblay, Union Nationale legislature member for Montreal Maisonneuve and "organizer of Mr. Dorion's campaign."

Mayors, Reeves Want More Aid in Education Costs

TORONTO (CP)—The Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves has told Premier Robarts it is disappointed that the Ontario government is not giving more help towards education costs.

Melvin L. Swart, reeve of Thorold township and president of the association said in a letter to Mr. Robarts that after a meeting with the premier, who is also education minister, on Nov. 16 hopes were high that the "government would take steps to relieve municipalities of some of the oppressive financial burdens they were carrying, particularly in the education field."

"We awaited therefore with interest," continues the letter, "to learn of the details of the new educational structure. Now, after having an opportunity to examine them, we are greatly disappointed."

The letter was made public Wednesday.

Mr. Swart says the association recognizes that the province is increasing grants each year but said that this fails to meet the problem: "the high cost of increased grants this year follow the pattern of recent years, municipal taxpayers will have to provide $20,000,000 more than was raised for school purposes in 1961.

CITES STATEMENTS

The association letter says that Hon. James N. Allan, in his budget said that a special payment under the school tax assistance program would be increased in 1962-63, from $5 to $12 per pupil of average daily attendance in elementary and secondary schools, Mr. Robarts repeated this when the association met him in November.

"However," continues the letter," the schedule now proposed wipes out this grant increase to secondary schools. The financing by the federal and provincial government of the technical and vocational school program, as desirable as it may be, does nothing to lower the high school municipal tax levy."

After repeating that rising education costs are preventing municipalities from doing more to solve sewage and road problems, the letter continues." The backlog of municipal works is due primarily to the increasing share of the municipal tax dollar that is being taken away from the municipality and channelled into the educational field. This is the millstone around the neck of the municipalities."

"With the estimated new revenue of $150,000,000 available in 1962 to the province, the association of mayors and reeves had requested that the municipalities be relieved from providing any money toward education costs. We had expected that at the very minimum the municipal tax burden would be substantially lightened.

"It is a real disappointment— and perhaps the final 'blow to the municipal financial structure — that this is not being done."

Two Rings Sold Tainted Meat For Consumption

Nearly 500 Tons Turned Over in Southern Ont.

TORONTO (CP)—RCMP said today two rings sold tainted meat for human consumption in Ontario.

A total of 27 persons have been arrested and charged with offences under the Food and Drug Act.

Supt. F.B. Woode-Johnson of the RCMP division here said today there was "no connection between the two operations," one in Southern Ontario and one in the Ottawa area.

Nine persons were arrested by RCMP in six Southern Ontario centres on Thursday and the RCMP Ottawa division arrested three persons shortly after.

Police believe the Southern Ontario ring sold from 375 to 500 tons of meat unfit for human consumption in that area from the RCMP started the investigation five months ago.

There was no immediate estimate of the amount sold in the Ottawa area.

Most meat falsies or dead animals was sold to packers who were duped into believing it was from healthy animals, the containers were marked with a "Health department approved" stamp.

Brant County lies southwest of Toronto between the Toronto area and the main city, Brantford, is 36 miles southwest of Toronto.

ARREST VETERINARIAN

One of the men arrested was Dr. Raymond Rapmund, a veterinarian with the Brant County Health Department, and director of food control and sanitation with the county health unit.

Others charged in the Southern Ontario operation were: Charles Thomas, 49, travelling butcher; Robert G. Hooten of Scotland, Ont., a butcher; Robert J. Hooten, 24, a butcher; brothers Edward and Nick Pecore of Chepstow and George Gibson and Gordon Johnston of Fergus — all licensed dealers in dead animals.

The arrests took place in Argyle, Brantford, Hanover, Orton Fergus and Peterborough.

Arrested in Ottawa area are Thursday were Berchmans and Raymond Gilbert, brothers who operate a butcher shop in the Ottawa suburb of Eastview and Jean-Paul Bourbeau, 27, of Aylmer, about 30 miles east of Ottawa.

Arrested Wednesday was Jean-Paul's father, and another of his sons, Regent, were arrested today.

Charges against them include butchering business in the they communicity. Two others have been charged jointly and all but Nick Pecoul remanded on $1,000 bail. Nick Pecore was fined $500 and was remanded to Jan. 19, Gibson's remanded to Jan. 19, Gibson remanded today for appearance in Orangeville magistrates' court. Two other others, including the Ottawa accused, to Jan. 11.

Supt. A. Murray Fraser, Brant County health unit director and medical health officer, said the meat did not exist, but would not discuss the matter further.

ARRESTS DENIED

John Pocock, chairman of the unit, said that "to the best of my knowledge there is no meat" stamp authorized by the health unit.

Supt. Woode-Johnson said investigations indicate the large

Indonesians Prepare Attack On New Guinea

MACASSAR, Indonesia (Reuters) — Indonesia today rolled ahead with its general mobilization in preparation for a possible attack on West New Guinea with this port town as the spring-board.

About 250,000 armed troops were reported standing by in Eastern Indonesia for the order to invade the big Dutch-held territory 850 miles from Macassar.

The invasion plan was disclosed Thursday by President Sukarno in a speech to thousands of cheering Indonesians at a mass rally in Macassar.

Sukarno said Macassar would be the main invasion base because it had the best harbor and the best airfield in Eastern Indonesia.

His speech left the door only slightly ajar for a peaceful settlement of the dispute over territory, which the Dutch have occupied for more than 300 years.

Sukarno said he would negotiate on West New Guinea—which he calls Irian Barat—only to arrange a Dutch handover.

But in the capital of Jakarta government sources on Thursday outlined what they described as a possible concession Indonesia might make over West Irian.

The concession would involve Indonesia suspending its seven-eighty calling for West New Guinea while actually administering the territory until its 700,000 inhabitants could vote on their future.

Request School To Instruct Domestic Help

SUDBURY (CP)—A formal request for a special school for train domestic help in Sudbury is being prepared for presentation to Premier John Robarts, sponsoring the brief will be the Sudbury Business and Professional Women's club, which feels that there is a great need for well-trained domestic workers in the district.

The club suggests that such a program would assist the National Employment office in filling the need for trained help and also give young girls an opportunity to get proper schooling in the various facets of domestic work.

Suggestions were made that the girls could be presented with a license or diploma at the end of the course to show they were qualified.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Weather warnings issued Thursday night for freezing rain in Windsor and London areas are still in effect. However, temperatures are rising. A risk of freezing rain exists for the Niagara and Western Lake Ontario regions later today. A storm centre near Lake Michigan, swings eastward along the lower Great Lakes. Snow is forecast for the region as far south as Algoma and Timagami.

The forecast said amounts are expected to be light, ranging from one to three inches, but strong easterly winds "will cause considerable drifting."

"Following the passage of the storm centre, cold arctic air will again engulf the province tonight and Saturday," the weather bureau said.

UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICES WILL BE PROSECUTED

False 'Regular' Prices Probed

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has made two investigations of "regedly tremendously "regular" prices in retail advertising and is ready to prosecute in one case, sources said Thursday.

Charges already have been laid in Toronto against Eddie Black's Limited; a large store selling photographic equipment, alleging that it misrepresented the "normal" or "regular" price listed alongside its "sale" prices in newspaper ads.

The case is scheduled to be heard Jan. 30 in Toronto. It will be the first test of the 1960 addition to the section of the Combines Investigation Act dealing with unfair trade practices.

The addition was intended to ensure when a store advertises, for example, that spats are "regular $8, now $4.95" that the normal selling price is indeed $4.95 and no less.

The clause reads:

"Everyone who, for the purpose of promoting the sale or use of an article, makes any materially misleading representation to the public, by any means whatever, concerning the price at which such or like articles have been, are or will be generally sold, is guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction."

TWO WITH DEFENCE

This does not apply to those who publish such ads in good faith.

One other investigation under this clause is under way. It is said not be learned who is involved, or where.

Informed sources said the justice department has received "not a very substantial number" of complaints, including some from shoppers.

A common complaint has been that the store misrepresented the quality of an article. Another has been that "discontinued stock" has been advertised for sale prices when in fact it was normal stock.

The law against misleading advertising sprang from a 1958 inquiry into the operations of Eaton's and Simpsons-Sears in selling at discount prices to exclusive customers of mail-order catalogues or, in some cases, over the counter. The inquiry found that in some cases the prices offers were using phoney "regular" prices in their catalogues.

Ottawa Still Fearful Cost Of Common Mart Too High

OTTAWA (CP) — Britain's chief negotiator at Brussels has assured Canada's trade ministers that it is completely wrong to think that Britain will join the Common Market at any price.

Those views became evident Thursday following two days of talks between Britain's Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath and a four-man Canadian cabinet committee.

Mr. Heath was scheduled to fly today to Washington for weekend talks with the United States administration.

The main purpose of the conferences here was a Canadian government decision to increase the scope of its trade consultations with Britain during the British negotiations at Brussels for membership in the six - nation European trade group.

At a press conference, Mr. Heath said Canada was not alone of the main achievements of the meetings.

He also said it is "completely wrong" to think that Britain will join the Common Market "at any price."

A conference communique said Mr. Heath now has a clearer Britain's efforts in the negotiations. "You can expect the essential trade interests of Canada and other Commonwealth countries."

However, Finance Minister Fleming said in a press conference declined to say whether the meeting here had increased the chances of his attaining adequate protection for Canadian interests, adding he generally decided to join the Common Market.

He said only that he is satisfied that the British "are doing everything in their power to obtain satisfactory solutions."

Mr. Fleming, who has previously expressed doubts of Britain's ability to achieve this, told reporters he is not less hopeful of the outcome.

Asked whether the Canadian government is reconciled to the loss of some of its trading position in the British market, he said it would be "speculating" to say that.

The two-day talks, held in the cabinet chamber, were attended by External Affairs Minister Green, Trade Minister Hees and Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton.

At the end, both sides denied that the common market issue has produced hard feelings between their two governments.

Mr. Fleming said that press references to a "trial" were "mischievous, deplorable and lacking in truth."

On the same point, Mr. Heath said: "I couldn't have had a warmer welcome in Ottawa."

"If there have been differences over the past few months, standings, the way to deal with them is by a frank exchange of views to a full and free hand."

Mr. Fleming replied "yes" when asked whether the talks had dispatched Canadian fears, particularly in the past, that a final entry to the Common Market would damage close ties with Commonwealth relationships.

He said Mr. Heath "has shown to the extent to which the British representatives are sensitive to needing to reconcile Commonwealth interests with British membership in the Common Market."

Expect Education Spending To Double in Next 10 Years

OTTAWA (CP) — A forecast that Canadians during the next 10 years will double their spending on education, provincially governments, possibly aided by federal grants, is given as an increasing share of the tab.

By 1970, for every dollar personal income is estimated 9.6 cents will be spent on education, which would be a total figure of 5.4 cents, says a new report on financing education.

The cost of education, it says, is rising at a much faster rate than the growth of the national economy and imposes a mounting financial burden on many municipalities and school-area authority.

"Education officials and the public they serve have, it seems, been so engrossed in the problems of growth that they have recognized the magnitude of this problem."

The 59-page report was compiled by William J. McCordie, executive secretary, Metropolitan Toronto school board, for the Canadian Conference on Education next March 4-8. It is the eighth of nine advance study papers prepared for the Montreal meeting.

"Education costs will continue to increase so long as public education is expected to widen its range of services, to raise the quality of its performance, and to serve a growing proportion of the population," Mr. McCordie writes.

The largest factor in the increased cost of education will be a phenomenal rise in school enrolment, which had jumped by almost 100 per cent since the Second World War to 4,600,000. By 1970 enrolment in elementary daily attendance had almost reached the 6,000,000 mark.

Per capita expenditures had swollen from $27 to $66; and gross expenditures from $300 million to $900.

"Policies like these are the 'insurance' which the business world has taken out against the ups through its campaign contributions," he said.

PARTY LEADERS ENTER THICK OF BYELECTION FRAY

A few hours after nominations closed Thursday for Jan. 15 byelections in five provincial ridings, leaders in three party leaders were all in the thick of the campaign.

"This byelection," he told a meeting of 75 poll workers, "is the foundation and beginning of the next Liberal government."

Mr. Wintermeyer said a Liberal government would offer the province a planned economy based on "the wise use of by, ing and highways controlled by the government." The province given all to compete "on even terms without socialism."

Tory Leader Robarts runs a helicopter shuttle service to Renfrew from Queen's Park and Malton airport also cancelled its services.

REDWOOD LACKS HYDRO

The small community of Elmwood, 20 miles southwest of Owen Sound was without hydro today after a large truck crashed into a pole carrying a 4,400 volt service and broke the line. Nearby towns of Chesley and Paisley were also affected briefly but were later given alternate service.

At Sarnia bus services were slowed and large trucks had to give up using the Blue Water bridge because their tires could not get a grip on the long slope down to the span, while motorists Port Huron, Mich. and Point Edward, Ont.

The Sarnia fire department had difficulty answering a call when the ice prevented the company for a new contract covering about 7,000 workers in 9 plants in three Ontario cities.

The negotiations aimed at getting a new contract to replace one which expired Dec. 1 have been conducted here for several weeks.

A Furd trakeman said today that they expect negotiations today and Sunday.

"Nobody seems pessimistic," he said.

Workers in Ford plants in Windsor, Toronto and Acadian North York voted last month overwhelmingly in favor of strike action if negotiations failed to get a new contracth.

Freezing Rain Brings Rash Of Traffic Mishaps

Flights Cancelled, Power Interrupted

TORONTO (CP) — Freezing rain brought a rash of traffic accidents, a few cancelled plane flights and hydro service interruptions to Southern Ontario today.

Windsor was first affected. There pedestrians tumbled on the icy streets, a school was closed when a bus could not negotiate slushen because of the icy roads and traffic was forced to move at a snail's pace.

More serious trouble was averted with rising temperatures.

Trans-Canada Air Lines reported that flights out of Windsor and London were operating about 30 or 40 minutes late today as a result of heavy icing. No flights have had to be cancelled so far but a caution of "abnormal flying conditions" has been posted for the day for flights originating from Chicago and Windsor.

Nordair, which operates to Southern Ontario and Quebec was forced to cancel two flights today. A flight originating in Montreal and stops at Ottawa, Toronto, Kingston and Montreal was called off as was the counterpart flight originating in Montreal. Later flights were expected to run as usual.

Pegasus Helicopters runs a helicopter shuttle service to Toronto's downtown airport to Malton airport also cancelled its services.

Ontario Hydro reported that slowed and large trucks had to give up using the Blue Water bridge because their tires could not get a grip on the long slope down to the span, while motorists Port Huron, Mich. and Point Edward, Ont.

The Sarnia fire department had difficulty answering a call when the ice prevented the flames from destroying the building.

A rural school bus in the nearby community of Bright's Grove skidded into the ditch. None of the students aboard was injured.

At Forest in the northern section of Lambton County road crews gave up trying to keep their cars and skated down the ice-filled streets to work.

JOINT CONNECTIONS

The Bell Telephone Company reported that all its lines were operating normally today. Forest said connections were noisy.

Believe Killer Belongs to Weird Fertility Cult

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) Police were assigned to the mysterious stabbing of a pretty young mother explored today the possibility that the killer belongs to a weird Polynesian fertility cult.

They said to consist mainly of odd-ball students and thrill-seekers, worship the god Tiki—represented by a grotesque wooden idol. Police learned that various members had visited the victim's home.

Mrs. Maureen Dutton, 37, was found dead Dec. 20 with 14 stab wounds in her upper abdomen.

Noting that the date was two days before the full moon, detectives decided that it might have been a ritual killing, since worshippers of Tiki make sacrificial offerings at certain times of the year.

As a rule the ritual killings of Pagan cult detectives were told, and disciples sprinkle the bones with the victim's blood.

Worshippers were said to have a symbolic insignia tattooed on their chests.

Mrs. Dutton was the mother of two small children.

Ford Workers Set January 12 Strike Deadline

TORONTO (CP) — The Ford Motor Co. of Canada and Auto Workers (CLC) today set a strike deadline of midnight Jan. 12 in the event of failure with the company for a new contract covering about 7,000 workers in 9 plants in three Ontario cities.

The negotiations aimed at getting a new contract to replace one which expired Dec. 1 have been conducted here for several weeks.

A Furd trakeman said today that they expect negotiations today and Sunday.

Drizzle, Freezing Drizzle, Snow Can Be Expected Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor and London areas, However, it said, temperatures will change to rain.

There is a risk of freezing rain for the Niagara and western Lake Ontario regions later today as a storm centre near Lake Michigan swings eastward along the lower Great Lakes. Snow forecast for regions as far north as Algoma and Timagami.

The forecast said amounts are expected to be light, ranging from one to three inches, but strong easterly winds "will cause considerable drifting."

"Following the passage of the storm centre, cold arctic air will again engulf the province tonight and Saturday," the weather bureau said.

Cultural Gap Is Complex Problem in Educating Metis

EDMONTON (CP)—A culture lag and an inherent inferiority complex are the key problems of Canada's Metis, but there is no precedented move to educate Metis children in regular public school classes.

Metis comprise 76 per cent of the public school population in the vast northland school district of Alberta, covering half the physical area of the province.

"These children do not have the same opportunity to come in contact with books, newspapers, radio, television and movies which help prepare children in southern districts for school," said A. L. Peterson, superintendent of schools for the district.

Mr. Gue said in an interview Thursday this produces what teachers call a "readiness gap" which places Metis children entering Grade 1 about 1½ years behind their counterparts in populated southern centres.

Metis also generally understand English when they enter school, how have ever seen a book and have little or no preparation to such an extent their social background. It is much lower than that of the Negro in the southern states, he said.

They include picturing blonde-haired, blue-eyed children plant gardens, and encouraging these children, he said. It makes the teacher's task of winning Metis children's confidence more difficult and is one reason Alberta is co-operating with other provinces in attempts to have pupils from reserves mix with white and colored children rather than whites.

Until Dec. 31, 1960, Metis children received their education in the federal school at all—in mission schools.

Last year schools throughout the northern half of the province were brought under the jurisdiction of the Alberta School Act. Attendance was compulsory under threat of imprisonment and loss of family allowance benefits.

Attendance reluctantly rose to 80 per cent from 50 per cent under the mission system; school officials said. Last fall the northland school division was formed and the more efficient administration of the teaching, improved standards and school visiting and better supervision raised attendance to 90 per cent.

Macmillan III

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan is suffering from a heavy cold and on medical advice will stay indoors during the weekend, it was announced today.

Unofficial sources said the indisposition was not expected to affect Macmillan's visit to Bonn Monday for talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

PARTY LEADERS ENTER THICK OF BYELECTION FRAY

Five Ridings Will Elect New Members

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A few hours after nominations closed Thursday for Jan. 15 byelections in five provincial ridings, leaders in three party leaders were all in the thick of the campaign.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer, speaking at Renfrew Thursday night, saw the Renfrew South byelection as itself providing a barometer of Ontario political elements.

"This byelection," he told a meeting of 75 poll workers, "is the foundation and beginning of the next Liberal government."

Mr. Wintermeyer said a Liberal government would offer the province a planned economy based on "the wise use of by, ing and highways controlled by the government." The province given all to compete "on even terms without socialism."

Tory Leader Robarts runs a helicopter shuttle service to Renfrew from Queen's Park and Malton airport also cancelled its services.

European and Moslem Extremists Continuing Eye for an Eye Rampage

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Fresh violence erupted in Algeria today as the bloody day of a bitter "eye for an eye" rampage by European extremists and Moslem insurgents.

French police used tear-gas grenades in dispersing a demonstration by Moslem prisoners in Barbarousse civil prison, Algiers, after they threw a threatening rash out of the windows.

Moslems in Oran, western Algeria, threw grenades at soldiers and 28 wounded Thursday, a 15-year-old Moslem boy was shot dead today by a Moslem.

The total casualty toll Thursday of the "Bloody Thursday" was given by military officials as at least 13 dead and 46 wounded.

In Wednesday's fighting 36 persons died and 61 were injured. But Algerian Nationalist insurgent leaders in Tunis claimed this actually 127 Moslems were killed.

In France two Algerians were reported killed and two seriously wounded in three separate attacks by Moslems in Lille area Thursday night.

In Paris an unidentified gunman machine-gunned the headquarters of the French Communist party, wounding a watchman.

The worst violence was in Oran where Moslem insurgents fired on a mid-town cafe, wounding a French soldier.

Heavily panicked and French security troops cornered the insurgents in a house and killed them. Police armored car rumbled up and fired into the home, killing one insurgent. The other eight surrendered.

Thousands of young Europeans shouted "kill them, kill them," as police led the prisoners off. Police used their rifle butts to hold off the screaming mob.

Earlier the demonstrators went through Oran streets shooting at Moslems from speeding cars. Six Moslems were wounded there and around Algiers in tommy-gun attacks on Moslem cafes.

Spokesmen for the larger supermarkets and grocerteria chains issued immediate statements saying they had bought their meat from packinghouses under federal government supervision.

RCMP SUTE MEAT

Two RCMP undercover officers were among the buyers of the cassee. They found "there was no shortage on a cash — and-carry basis." Reg. Cpl. Fred Fraser of the RCMP criminal investigation branch here said:

"Two RCMP men paid 25 to. 30 cents a pound for the meat they had paid eight cents a pound for dog food.

"We are basing the conviction could run to about $80,000 a month. The most ever paid for a single sale was $2 and, in some cases farmers were glad to get the meat right away to save disposal costs and trouble. The carcasses were sold to Mrs. Agnes Walker, Mrs. Helen McQuorodale, Mrs. Kae Pinder and Mrs. Ruth Smith as shills. The executive of the Women's section selected the skips and shills and allowed them to select their own players. The players were selected for their ability to play the position they were placed and it was certainly a well balanced team. The combined scores of the rinks count in each match and the winning rink gets one point for each of the three games played.

In the first match at ten ends on Country Club entry and won by a score of 23-13. Mrs. Smith's winning 10-6, with Mrs. Smith being ahead 13-4. The Trenton rink got back into the competition with Mrs. Acton winning 13-6 while Mrs. Smith lost a close 8-7 battle. In the final game the Quinte rinks met the new Kingston Caterpul Club and Mrs. Acton won by a score of 10-8, while Mrs. Smith added to the total with a 13-3 victory.

In conversation with the rinks today it was pointed out that the Brockville Club had excellent ice prepared for the matches and that the hospitality could not have been more hearty than that received by the visiting curlers. "It was a most delightful day" said one of the rinks. "We'll try again next fall to win the district playoffs for the home club."

Witness Says Car Did Not Stop for Sign

Mrs. Bernice A. Fox of Belleville faced a charge of careless driving in city magistrate's court this morning after Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Mrs. Fox pleaded not guilty to the charge.

The charge was laid in connection with an accident which occurred on Bridge Street in October, when a R.C.I. student, Gordon Hall, 14, was struck while crossing the street at the intersection of Bridge and Ann Streets. Royal received a fractured leg and a dislocated hip.

Evidence was that Royal had stopped at the curb and the school guard walked out into the crosswalk, which is painted, to stop the traffic to let two boys get across to the south side of Bridge Street.

The school guard said the traffic proceeding east had stopped when he put up his sign and walked into the crosswalk.

A witness said he observed the accident and said she noticed a green car coming from the east. He said the car did not stop, and struck the boy.

The case was enlarged to Monday, January 15.

Rev. R. Synder Will Conclude Pastorate Sun.

Rev. Robert Snyder completes his duties as full time pastor of the Parkdale Baptist Church this Sunday. He is starting full time evangelistic and missionary work for his denomination, the Conservative of Evangelical Baptist Churches, in eastern Ontario.

Rev. Snyder came to Belleville in 1957 to pastor what was then a mission of the Bible Baptist Church at 260 Coleman Street. The congregation has since moved to its present building at 514 Sidney Street and has taken the name, Parkdale Baptist Church. In 1957 the membership in the church was 20, and the Sunday school attendance was 15. During the month of December, 1961, the Sunday school had a total of 138 and the membership now stands at 65. The budget for this year is $9,700.

Mr. Snyder was ordained in 1931 in Brockville, Ont. He graduated from London Bible Institute in 1947, and has attended the Gordon College in Boston, Mass., University of Toronto, and Queen's University. He has served on various committees in his denomination being the president of the Fellowship Baptist Young People's Association for two years.

Mr. Snyder and his family will be staying in Belleville and carrying on his work from here. In order to establish the new work that he will be doing he will be associated with the Accidental Life Insurance Company of California as a life underwriter.

Snow also added to the danger in the area north of London. Highway 81 was affected by light to moderate drifting. In the Windsor area snow was falling and cutting visibility.

The Dominion public weather office in Toronto reported temperatures were rising in the Windsor and London areas and that the sleet would change to rain later today.

The Forecasters said a risk of freezing rain would continue in the Niagara and western Lake Ontario regions late today.

Ward Maracle Freed of Charge In Police Court

A charge of break, enter and theft at the Shannonville cane riding factory was dismissed against Ward Maracle of Shannonville in county magistrate's court on Thursday afternoon. He was charged with stealing an electric drill.

Maracle, appearing before Magistrate T. Y. Wills, pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was defended by Tom Lelly.

The charge was laid against Mr. Maracle as the result of a statement which was given to Ontario Provincial Police on a 16-year-old, Keith Hill, of Shannonville, who was also charged with break, enter and theft, in connection with the same incident.

Hill was charged with stealing an electric drill from the Shannonville factory valued at between $35-$40. Hill pleaded guilty to the charge and was given a suspended sentence.

Evidence was that Const. Ken Williamson proceeded to the residence of Maracle after obtaining a further statement from Hill.

Const. Williamson said when he went to Maracle's home he asked him about the drill and Maracle went to his truck and gave it to him.

Maracle said that Hill was working for him on his farm at the time of the theft. Hill admitted that entry was gained through a rear door.

Mr. Maracle told the court he was working on his wood shed drill one day and remarked that his little drill wasn't doing much good. Hill said he told him he had a drill and would get it for him. He denied ever driving Hill to the cane bottoming factory in his truck.

Maracle told Hill in his remarks that he believed Hill had told the truth but that wasn't good enough. He said he had to be satisfied beyond all reasonable doubt before he could make a conviction.

He told the court he could see nothing in view of the circumstances, but dismiss the charge.

Evidence in the case was heard previous to today.

Unborn Baby Can Call Help On Telephone

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A Marquette University scientist announced today perfection of a device by which an unborn child can call for help by remote control on a telephone setup.

The breakthrough in the new field of biochemical engineering was announced by Dr. Saul D. Larks, professor of electrical engineering at the university.

Dr. Larks said that he and his associates had developed a system which, through telephone lines, for the transmission of a fetal electrocardiograph.

The technique opens vast new horizons in the field of prenatal care and treatment of unborn children whose heartbeat indicates fetal distress, Dr. Larks said.

The scientist said his laboratory can receive electrocardiographs sent on special equipment tied to telephone lines at Milwaukee hospitals.

The first successful trapsmission of heart beats was completed Tuesday between Milwaukee County Geiferal Hospital and Dr. Larks' laboratory at Marquette University.

The impulses picked up by small metal attachments to the mother's stomach were converted to an FM signal and transmitted to the laboratory extension at Marquette. At the receiving end the signal was reconverted on an oscilloscope and charted on a permanent recorder.

Say Clay Wants Freer Hand For U.S. Command in Berlin

An AP News Analysis
By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay will fly here from West Berlin this weekend to confer with President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk on Berlin problems.

Presumably one purpose of the conference is to discuss reported operational differences between Clay, U.S. commander in Berlin, and policymakers in Washington.

Clay is reported to have objected last month to instructions that sharply limit the U.S. command in Berlin in dealing with a possible East German threat along the Berlin wall.

High U.S. officials claim that any differences between Clay and the administration are relatively minor in comparison with the full accord in principle apparent among Clay, Kennedy and Rusk on U.S. policy in Berlin.

Other high-level authorities confirmed, however, that some differences do exist. Specifically, they say Clay feels his strongly Washington cannot authorize all possible emergencies that may arise and authorities on the scene should have power of action in such cases without waiting for decisions from Washington.

DECISIVE ACTION

From the administration's point of view, informants said, the problem is partially one of deciding what action might be taken to serve long-range U.S. policy purposes. Moreover, officials said there is a constant need to consult with the NATO allies and thus make sure of a co-ordinated response to any Communist challenge. A new Communist challenge.

Clay is Kennedy's personal representative in West Berlin. State department officials said he has been in Berlin a week and he had been planned for a week or more and was not related to the publication Thursday of reports that he had objected to instructions which in his view limited too severely the freedom of action of the U.S. military command in Berlin. Gen. Albert Watson, Jr. (Ret.), spokesman for Clay commented that the report of the protest was "ridiculous."

New Television Service Pleases People of Eire

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Ireland's week-old television service "Teilefis Eireann" (pronounced Telefwish) is improving itself a lusty baby.

After a gala opening night Dec. 31, the service served down to a regular transmission schedule of six hours nightly.

Of this, roughly 2¼ hours is taken up with home-produced programs—mostly news, sports and discussion. The rest of the night's viewing is a mixture of packaged programs, many of them American-produced.

Fred Rogers, Flanagan, Hollywood Star Playhouse, Dr. Christian, Lassie, Mr. Ed, Mighty Mouse, Adventures of Rin Tin Tin, Wild West.

Two big man of Telefis Eireann, Ed Roth, has thrown his net wide in his search for programs, and the viewers already seen films produced by Granada, ABC, Rediffusion in Canada and by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

The new service, already keeping up with the wild of a government, can now go on the air in government-appointed boards, is a commercial one.

There are no sponsored programs—all advertising is done by announcers between each such program, which rarely last for more than 30 minutes.

There is no indication that the Irish are pleased with them. On the contrary, there has been no serious opposition to the receiving licence fee of £4. Already 60,000 have been issued.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Trading on slaughter steers was fairly good at steady prices at the Canada Public Stockyards this week.

Heifers yearlings, cows and bulls were in broad demand, with prices strong to higher. Veal calf prices were lower. Hog and lamb prices were lower.

Cattle receipts were estimated at about 7,400 head, about 1,600 more than last week and about 1,600 more than the same week in 1961. Receipts from Western Canada were only 34 cattle and 70 calves. There were no exports off the market to the United States.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers 26.50-27.50 with sales to 28 and a few to 28.50; mediums up to 26.00; good 25-26; medium 22-24.50; common 17 - 21; good heifers 22.50-26; mediums 19-22.50 with a few fancies to 23.50; medium cows 20; common 17-19; good fed yearlings 28-29 with sales to 30; good 24-27; good cows 18-20; canner and cutter cows 13-15.50; good sausage bulls 19.50-20.50 with the future. The owner also suggested that the gravel could be used to fill in the sandstary land fill area. The town engineer and the public works committee will study this offer.

SOME PROGRESS MADE

Mayor MacDonald said that he had attended a meeting recently where area civil defence for Trenton, Belleville, Picton and the surrounding counties was discussed and that some progress along these lines will be being made. Under discussion is a plan to hire an area civil defence coordinator and his staff. Local governments will be assisted financially by the federal government in civil defence costs.

"What about our warning signals?" asked Councillor Graham.

"We've asked them to hasten the installation of our signals," the mayor said. "I understand that they're having trouble with them in cold weather. They freeze up. We haven't had any reply."

Town solicitor Roderick Campbell will study a claim by a local insurance firm for $700, representing the premium on a three-year insurance coverage of a low-pressure boiler installations in town buildings. The clerk-comptroller explained that the firm had offered to have a survey taken of town insurance coverage at no obligation to the town, and had notified him that coverage of the boiler installations had been arranged on a temporary basis until council made up its mind whether to take the insurance or not. Mr. Larry said that a large part of the town's insurance falls due in April and that he should be in a position to make a decision on the boiler insurance could be delayed until that time. Councils in the past have considered that there is very little danger involved with the low-pressure boilers and have not taken out insurance on them.

"The town has got along without insurance on these boilers for years," commented Councillor Burtt, "... suddenly, it's a necessity. There was no motion of intent on the part of council to take out this insurance. Let our lawyer and the clerk decide if we want it when the older insurance falls due in April." WILL STUDY OFFER

A proposal made by the B.E.P. construction company that they work with the town in asking price for lots in the Elmwood sub-division, will be studied by the engineer and the public works committee, council decided on the motion of Councillor James and Councillor Duncan. Four lots in the housing development, designated as the recreational land use allowance, were discussed in a letter from the company. Not requiring facilities for the needs, was "tabled" for future reference. The committee will also study and would conduct surveys aimed at establishing the town's need for recreational facilities and zoning buildings which might be used for theatres, and other phases of protection.

Meantime, J., D. Vanalstine has applied to sell the town's gravel pit, at the north-west end of town to Bell Asphalt, at the price of $7,000 or best offer (suitable terms could be arranged). Mr. Vanalstine suggests that the pit might be used for civil defence purposes in the future. The owner also suggested that the gravel could be used to fill in the sandstary land fill area. The town engineer and the public works committee will study this offer.

Retain Toronto Lawyer To Present Council Views On Annexation Before Bd.

TRENTON — Trenton's 1962 council held its first formal session last night. All council members were present, with the exception of Mayor Harold Macdonald, who was indisposed.

The most important decision to come out of the meeting was that to hire John Weir, a Toronto lawyer, to appear on as being the "foremost authority in the annexation field in Ontario", to represent council at hearings before the Ontario Municipal Board. Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry told the council members that Mr. Weir had advised members of 1961 council from time to time in an informal capacity, but that if he were to represent council officially he must be engaged in a legal fashion. Mr. Larry said that in all probability, Mr. West would meet with council to discuss the town's plan to annex approximately 750 acres in Murray and Sidney Townships.

An offer from the civil defence committee of W. S. Atkins and Associates to advise the town fathers on Trenton's civil defence needs, was "tabled" for future reference. The committee said that they would conduct surveys aimed at establishing the town's need for recreational facilities and zoning buildings which might be used for theatres, and other phases of protection.

Meantime, J., D. Vanalstine has applied to sell the town's gravel pit, at the north-west end of town to Bell Asphalt, at the price of $7,000 or best offer (suitable terms could be arranged). The town engineer and the public works committee will study this offer.

Three Houses Were Razed

TRENTON — A report from H. S. Pane, sanitary inspector for the town, was read at council last night.

Mr. Pane said that during 1961 three houses, deemed as unfit for human habitation, had been demolished. Fifteen complaints issued numbered 154. Complaints about garbage, weeds and air pollution due to the burning of leaves, numbered 600.

Mr. Pane also visits hotels, restaurants, beverage rooms, and dairies regularly throughout the year, insisting that a high standard of cleanliness be maintained. Milk and cream from the town's two dairies are tested twice periodically for bacteria content.

Mayor MacDonald and clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry commented that Mr. Pane had done a commendable job. The mayor he has worked as sanitary inspector and council passed a resolution heartily commending him for his work.

SEES PROBLEM

Commenting on the assessment commissioner's report at last night's meeting of council, clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry said that obviously, commercial development must keep pace with residential growth and that, in his opinion, some of the assessment commercial is a problem. Mr. Larry said that the town has a "tax neck" created by the town bridge. He said that the percentage of total taxable assessment which could be labelled "commercial and industrial" assessment had been going down over the past two or three years and that the tax neck problem which might be considered by the industrial and economic development committee of the council.

Mayor MacDonald commented that Mr. Smith's report was by far the most comprehensive report on assessment he had ever seen and council voted to commend the assessment commissioner formally.

Mr. Smith is assisted by assessor Carl Charlton and clerk-machine operator Mrs. Laura Bowden.

New home construction values were up; figures for 1960 being set at $839,150 and for 1961, $914, 200.

One of the greatest drop offs is in institutional building and repair, the 1960 figure standing at $696,031 and the 1961 estimate being $95,072.

Building inspector William Anderson said that while he did not care to make any rash statements about building in 1962, he thought there were such projects as the technical addition to the high school and possibly the annexation of parts of Murray and Sidney Townships in the offing, building should be in "for an up-swing."

The bullet did not penetrate the bone. Mrs. Stone was hospitalized following the accident.

Lt.-Col. Angus B. Duffy, CO of Hasty Pees, Resigns; Ends Brilliant Army Career

LT. COL. A. DUFFY

Lt-Colonel Angus B. Duffy, outstanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, officially announced today that he is retiring from the Canadian Army Militia. A heart attack, which he suffered in December but from which he is now satisfactorily recovering, has prompted the resignation of the 47-year old veteran of more than 26 years service in the Hasty Pees.

Colonel Duffy also announced that Major Joseph B. Black has been appointed as acting commanding officer pending a permanent appointment for this position by Headquarters, Central Command.

The resignation terminates the active service record of a man who became a legend in the annals of the Canadian Army militia. His career, begun as a private in the Trenton signal platoon, before 1939 he had risen in rank to company sergeant major and had the honor of representing the regiment at the coronation of King George the Sixth in London, England.

In September of 1939 he was the second man in the regiment to sign up for active service and proceeded overseas with the unit to France in the as regimental sergeant major.

It was not until July of 1943 that he received his first RSM Duffy saw action, however. From the beaches of Sicily through the landing in Italy to the advance north through Italy there were many actions and incidents in which both the regiment and its RSM distinguished themselves.

As regimental sergeant major, Angus Duffy was responsible for the evacuation of the wounded, casualties, stations and supplies, delivery of ammunition and a multitude of other duties which he had to carried out at any time all the time.

There were times such as at Assoro when RSM Duffy found the regimental office, after losing short supplies and had to get on foot, together with Capt. William Stockloser of Madoc, through enemy lines to obtain supplies and return with them.

BATTALION NEVER SHORT

Reports coming from the front lines at such places in the Moro River, Ortona and Orsini frequently included such notes as "mule trains were lead across the river by RSM Duffy on foot" or "RSM Duffy —the battalion was never short of ammunition or food."

There was also the time at Valguarnera when RSM Duffy and another NCO crossed and re-crossed an eight-mile valley furrowed with gorges and choked with dense underbrush four times in order to get food to wounded and report on the enemy's strength and activity.

Wounded in Italy, RSM Duffy also saw action in France and Belgium before returning to Canada for discharge from the active force in October of 1945. He was then instrumental in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment reserve as a private. By popular demand he again regimental sergeant major and he was promoted to his commission as a lieutenant. Between then and February of 1958 he advanced through the ranks to be promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel and named commanding officer of the Hasty Pees.

Under his command the regiment firmly established its position as one of the best amongst Canadian Army Militia units, always tackling any command with enthusiasm and a desire second to none.

Colonel Duffy will be retiring, however, without his hat badge, which he removed at lowing the last parade. Lieutenant-Colonel Color from the Armouries almost a year ago. He is moved not to appear until such time as the Color, with the regiment's battle honors on it, are returned to their proper place.

The action is indicative of

MAJ. J. B. BLACK

the intense loyalty and stubborn pride which has characterized Angus Duffy's devotion and service to his regiment.

Colonel Duffy has also been quite active in local public life apart from his military service and his civilian occupation as proprietor of the Clifton Service gas station on Front Street, which he opened following his return from World War II.

SERVED ON COUNCIL

He served on city council from 1947 to 1953, inclusive, and is probably best remembered when he was chairman of the fire committee. It was during this time that the department was reorganized and the city's two fire halls were constructed.

He also served as president of the Canadian Legion, Branch 99, in 1946 and 1946, and worked untiringly to get a better deal for veterans wherever he saw a need for it.

Colonel Duffy was also active in serving the youth of the country. In 1948 he was district commissioner for the Boy Scouts of Canada. He was also an instructor with the 'old' Royal Canadian Army Cadets for some time and was always available to render assistance to the present Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte".

All of these activities as well as the problems of establishing and operating his own service station business, were carried on while he grew most selflessly of his time and energy to what is probably his first love—the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

A Needed Safety Measure

With everyone having been made aware of the need for care and caution when driving in winter conditions and much emphasis having been placed on traffic accident and fatality rates during the past several weeks, it was interesting to note a recent news release by a British motor corporation regarding the multiplicity of safety regulations which had to be met in exporting cars to 136 countries.

There exist at least 24 different regulations on license plates around the world. It was also interesting to observe the variety of colors for different warning lights by different countries. Most unusual, however, was the fact that in no instance apparently is there any degree of consistency or agreement on some safety measure.

There exists, however, one point on which there should be some universal agreement regarding automobile safety. Such agreement does exist to a degree already in the automobile racing field, which has an international governing body to ensure standard rules and regulations. The use of safety belts, is accepted as a necessary safety measure by this point on which a number of years. The automotive industry has, however, been quite slow to install this item as a part of every car's standard equipment.

Other racing innovations such as rear vision mirrors, four-wheel brakes, hydraulic brakes, independent suspension, to name but a few, have been adopted by the majority, if not all car manufacturers. These have resulted in better and safer cars for the motoring public at large but are, in essence, features which result only in a better handling vehicle. They do not offer any protection to the occupants of a vehicle in the actual event of an accident, with the possible exception of padded dashboards.

Safety belts do offer some practical protection. "It has been known for a racing driver to walk away from an accident which occurred at a speed in excess of 100 miles an hour, thanks to his having used a safety belt."

Whilst no manufacturer likes to think that his product is going to be used as a possible instrument of death it should face up to the fact that this is a very real possibility. Highway safety authorities should also realize this fact. The use of proper safety belts in all cars would undoubtedly greatly reduce many minor and medium injuries caused by passengers hitting a car windscreen due to an abrupt halt. In some circumstances safety belts might even prevent death.

We do not suggest that safety belts are the cure-all to end traffic injuries and deaths. They do, however, offer a great enough preventive factor that there should be no delay in their being required equipment in any motor vehicle being sold on the highways as well as on the racing circuits.

If the government is not prepared to pass the necessary legislation to require all manufacturers to provide their new products with safety belts as standard equipment and all owners of cars already on the road to install such in their vehicles then the insurance companies might well set the pattern by offering a reduced rate on the passenger hazard premium of their policyholders when safety belts are installed on their cars.

Air Travel Increases

This is an achievement which certainly comes under the head of what we are accustomed to call progress. The TCA, however, adds a "but" in its announcement of this achievement —the average return per passenger-mile was down to 5.8 cents, compared with 6.25 cents the previous year.

Providing the airline is able to operate at a profit at this lower return per passenger-mile, we suggest that this decline ought not to be considered as offsetting the record of carrying more passengers, but rather that it should be regarded as an even more important achievement. If air travel is to increase, the best way to promote this increase is by decreasing the cost. Indeed, this appears to have been what has happened—the decided trend toward economy-class travel reported by the TCA is probably one of the main reasons why the number of passengers carried increased by 7.6 per cent to 3,700,000. Of course economy-class travel in today's fast, stable planes is more comfortable than luxury accommodations on aircraft of an earlier era. This all adds up to admirable progress for the TCA, providing that, after reasonable allowances for the cost of conversion to jet or turbo-prop aircraft, it is within hailing distance of making revenue match expenditure.

Adversity Brings Out the Best in Us

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Yesterday, for my "Personal Prejudices" column, I wrote a paragraph, read it over and then struck it out. This is what I struck out, because it is a half-truth, which is the most dangerous of all statements to make — for it sounds as plausible that it is easy to forget the other half of the truth which is not expressed.

It is quite wholly true that adversity brings out the best in us, then it would follow as a deductio ad absurdum that when we achieve the maximum prosperity we would have the maximum of virtue; but this is nonsense.

Adversity brings out the best in us by the test of fire. A rich common task, so overwhelming that it seems futile and sordid, us, make us ruthless, courageous, and sympathetic to suffering. Conversely, prosperity often softens and makes us selfish, smug, complacent and indifferent to those less fortunate.

But there is a law of diminishing returns here. A little adversity is adversity as well as in proportion; the more and worse it becomes enough, if the fears and tensions break across our personalities, then the adversity can turn us into beasts, or worse.

People have been known to eat each other during the Great Depression; more than they do in these days of affluence; yet there is no denying that if the Depression had persisted, it there seemed no relief from the burdens of unemployment and destitution, there might well have been bloody revolution in this country — a revolution either of the Bolshevik left; or the Fascist right.

The same is true of individuals as of societies. We say glibly that adversity builds character; sweet work in adversity; that prosperity often softens and corrupts him. Yet, it is equally true that too much adversity — such as suffered by a Robinson or a van Gogh — can shrivel up the soul until the artist is irrevocably insane or prematurely dead.

What we need to learn is the optimum point for societies and for individuals — the point beyond which both prosperity and adversity become crippling rather than challenging. Until we acquire some calculus of opportunities and rewards, the most anything we say on the subject is bound to ignore a truth of the half-truth as the paragraph I struck out.

Every Man a Has Record

Cape Breton Post

The accused man who jumped to his feet in a New York court the other day and tried to set the world criminal record showing 38 previous arrests, responded to an understandable impulse. "I am not going to stand for those papers," he shouted as he lighted a match. And so was everybody amazed at this little matter—sick and tired of his record.

It's a sobering thought that every man living makes a record of some sort and very few are proud of every item on the list. This is a thought for every youth. And to remind the goal in life he is bound to make a record. What sort will it be?

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 5th, 1942.

Whether it is because of the cold weather or increased employment cannot be determined but police station statistics prove there is a decided falling off of transients seeking shelter at the local hostel this year. For the first four nights only eight were given shelter; two on New Year's night and the same number on the night of Jan. 2nd.

Forming a human chain by tying on the ice and extending their bodies sideways, companions yesterday saved three Picton youths from possible drowning in the ice waters of the Bay of Quinte. The three young men, Kenneth Ferguson, and the twins ring and John Hill were skating on the ice in the harbor. At the spot where they crashed through the ice, the water is about seven feet deep. But the lads managed to keep afloat until rescued.

Continuing Ban on Portugal Arms Sums Up Canada's Policy

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada has refused since November, 1960, to ship any arms to Portugal, a NATO ally.

This continuing ban on arms shipments still sums up better than any verbal explanation the Canadian government's policy toward Portugal.

The policy, adopted because of Portugal's denial of any move toward independence in its West African colony of Angola and the suppression of revolt there, may have been tempered slightly by India's invasion of Goa, another Portuguese colony.

But it won't be tempered by such an extent that Canada will give tacit support to Portugal in the United Nations when the General Assembly resumes Jan. 15 with Angola on its agenda.

OPPOSES PORTUGAL

When the Angolan issue arose at the 1960-61 UN session, Canada stood in opposition to Portugal id favoring some UN investigation of the situation in Angola.

It is not yet clear what form resolutions on Angola will take at the current session. Canada would not be in favor of extreme measures likely would support resolutions similar to those passed in the previous session.

Canada and Portugal have also been at loggerheads in the NATO council on the issue of colonialism.

Canada, along with some other NATO members, notably Norway, has complained that Portugal by its policy in Angola is making NATO appear in the eyes of Asia and Africa as an alliance of colonial powers bent on maintaining territories for economic exploitation.

SUGGESTED STATEMENT

This country has suggested that a simple NATO statement about eventual independence for colonial areas get the alliance off the colonialist hook.

The Canadian mutual aid program for NATO partners in Europe was designed a decade ago to help these allies build up their capacity to resist Communist aggression. The assistance has been given on the understanding that it be used only in defence of the NATO area.

Canada has supplied Portugal with $21,620,000 worth of military equipment. The amount in 1960 was only $656,000 up to November when all shipments ceased. Since then, NATO requests to Canada for military equipment for Portugal have gone unheeded.

Premier Antonio Salazar, dictator of Portugal, threatened Wednesday to pull Portugal out of the UN. The Angolan issue in the UN later this month may give him a push in this direction.

Most Brides Look Dreadful Says Milliner

NEW YORK (AP) — Most modern brides who walk down the aisle look "dreadful" at wedding fashions that "should have gone out with the horse and carriage" says a leading New York milliner.

"I went to nine 50 weddings in a year and a half," said the milliner, who goes by the name of William J. "It was pretty much dreadful. I went to observe the fashions and to see what, if anything, should be changed or improved upon."

Weddings should be the most beautiful time in a woman's life and something associated with them should have dignity, he said Thursday in an interview.

But neither bridal dresses nor the hairdos worn by brides impart this dignity, he contended.

"We must do away with the nipped-in waist, the huge full skirt, the massive train, the layers of tulle—the whole cumbersome dress," said William J.

He suggested substituting "terrifically simple dresses that make a girl feel exciting." These dresses would be made of either dull satin or crepe, would be "almost comfortable" and would have ankle - length skirts instead of yards of unwieldy material around the feet.

U.S. May Halt Aid to Laos-Royal Regime

WASHINGTON (AP) — State department officials said Thursday the United States has not stopped its aid program to the royal Lao government, but they indicated such a step is under consideration.

Reports from Vientiane Thursday said the National Bank of Laos had suspended the sale of foreign exchange. Officials here said they could give no immediate confirmation of that action.

Police Capture Four, Kill One After Robbery

MONTREAL (CP) — Police cornered a gang of armed robbers Thursday shortly after a bank holdup in the northeastern part of Montreal, killing one and capturing four others.

The robbers were surrounded by 40 policemen in a new, nearly occupied apartment building about a mile from the Royal Bank of Canada branch at Beaubien E. and Louis Hemon streets where $30,000 was taken in a noon-hour holdup.

The dead man, identified as Campbell Ashton, 33, was killed by a bullet in the forehead. The others were captured and the $30,000 loot recovered when police moved into the five - storey building with drawn revolvers and tear-gas guns for a room - by - room search.

Occupants of the building remained in their apartments or huddled in the basement.

FACED MANY CHARGES

Police said Ashton had been sought for four months for failure to appear on charges ranging from theft to extortion and armed robberies. They declined to identify the four arrested.

Police said three men, one carrying a sub - machinegun, walked into the bank and confronted Mrs. F. M. Prodette, six employees and three customers into the vault. They forced Mrs. Prodette at gunpoint to open the cash - box in the vault.

The robbers fled in a car which they abandoned less than two blocks away. They then got into another car and escaped.

Several sources published reports early Thursday morning that the robbery was a spinoff of a bloody shooting Tuesday afternoon in a north-end Montreal restaurant.

Police said Ashton pulled out a revolver and was shot in the chest.

Start Study Of Pact Signed By Tshombe

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) — The Katanga assembly today approved a commission to study the pact which President Moise Tshombe signed pledging to end the province's secession from The Congo.

The commission split into foreign affairs and political commissions for secret discussions after Tshombe outlined objections to two key provisions of the agreement signed last month with Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula at Kitona.

A spokesman said the commissions will meet in secret for the next day or two.

Only 24 of the 72 members of the assembly showed up for the first session Thursday, and only nine of the 23 anti-Tshombe seat holders from the Baluba tribe were among them. An assembly spokesman suggested that the absentees could bring opposition deputies who had taken refuge in Leopoldville to Elisabethville immediately.

OBJECTS TO CLAUSES

Without asking the deputies in so many words to reject the Kitona agreement, Tshombe objected to the first and last of its eight provisions. In the first, he said, it recognized The Congo's provisional constitution, which makes Katanga a province under the control of the central government. In the last, he pledged to respect and help enforce UN resolutions, which call for an end of Katanga secession and expulsion of the Katanga government's military officers.

Two Papers In Los Angeles Are Quitting

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two Titans among U.S. newspapers —the Hearst family's Examiner and the Chandler family's powerful Times-Mirror—are reported to be at the end of the line.

Neither family, newspaper rivals in the third largest U.S. city for more than 50 years, would comment on the reports.

Several sources published reports early Thursday morning. Examiners would end publication after Sunday and the evening Mirror would cease with Monday's edition.

If the reports are true only two newspapers will serve the Los Angeles metropolitan area of 6,000,000.

The surviving papers will be the Chandlers' Morning Times and Hearsts' evening Herald-Express.

Job prospects of several hundred workers on the Examiner and Mirror are uncertain.

Both have television and increasing post-war labor and newsprint costs. Los Angeles had a half-dozen thriving newspapers.

That was in the 1930s, when the city had only 1,000,000 population and 2,000,000 in the county. But in post-war years, advertising competition became increasingly intense — with seven TV stations and dozens of AM and FM radio stations competing for the advertising dollar.

U.S., South Viet Nam Plan To Improve Lot of People

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and South Viet Nam have announced a broad new government and bringing speedy improvement in the living standards of the South Vietnamese people.

The object of the joint effort, announced Thursday night by the state department and in Saigon, is to rally popular support for the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

A frequently - heard claim is that Communist guerrillas operating in the Southeast Asian country owe much of their success to reluctance of many South Vietnamese to fight for a regime they feel has done little for them.

The 11-point program of economic and social measures means a substantial increase in U.S. economic assistance, although officials here would not disclose how much money is involved. The United States pumped $156,000,000 in economic aid into South Viet Nam last year.

At the same time, U.S. officials reported no significant improvement in South Viet Nam as a result of the increase in American military assistance announced last month.

IS STILL SERIOUS

These officials said the situation remains serious, with guerrilla forces continuing in the southern delta region, the high plateaus area in the north and in the central plains.

Ute Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting, Jr., is due to return to Saigon for 10 days of consultation on the situation with State Secretary Dean Rusk, President Kennedy and Assistant State Secretary W. Averell Harriman.

The program announced Thursday involves a substantial increase in the amounts the Viet Nam government will spend in its local currency to improve economic conditions.

Claims Report On Fruit Belt Is Misleading

HAMILTON (CP) — A noted geographer charged today that the provincial government has planned a deliberately misleading report trying to show no danger to the Niagara fruit belt from urban development.

Dr. Ralph Krueger, head of the geography department at Waterloo University College, said that without government legislation to protect the belt it will disappear as a major fruit tree area long-range by 1985.

By 1985, he claimed, only 500 acres of tender fruit soil will be left for orchards for this purpose.

Dr. Krueger was commenting on a report by the department of municipal affairs on its com. munity planning branch studies in the Niagara Peninsula.

The report came after two years of social, economic and land-use studies carried out in the counties of Lincoln, Welland and Haldimand.

But, Dr. Krueger said, Saltfleet Township was excluded from the investigation and it was there about one-sixth of the total Niagara fruit acreage.

Saltfleet is rapidly being overrun by the suburban sprawl of Hamilton, he said.

Space Agency Shows Drawings Of Moon Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency made public today drawings of the Apollo spacecraft from which man may get his first closeup look at the moon.

The early model Apollo craft may include a three-man crew to select likely landing areas for later versions designed to put human beings on the moon within this decade.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration also released three drawings showing the technique of launching a manner spacecraft into earth orbit, launching a powerful booster rocket and supply vehicles into orbit close behind, and joining them in space for the long journey to the moon.

The huge orbiting booster rocket, starting its motors in the near vacuum of space after boosting itself the Apollo vehicles, would drop away after accelerating the Apollo to escape velocity.

The Apollo craft would proceed around the moon, come back into earth orbit, and then use its engines to re-enter the atmosphere and return the crew to earth.

The sketch of the Apollo showed its three occupants seated side by side in the nose cone.

Mr. Whitesmeyer also touched on agriculture in his speech. He said the industry has got its fair share of provincial income. The farmer was being shortchanged to the benefit of corporate industries.

"We need to attract industry to Eastern Ontario, and to improve the education system of the province so that it is second to none," he said.

Premier Roberts made his first campaign speech in Toronto, some of two of the byelections.

The premier asked the Progressive Conservative Businessmen's Club for active participation in the campaign to keep the two seats in the Conservative fold.

SAFE IS TEST

Mr. Roberts said the elections are a "safety general election" and a true test of the strength of his two-month-old administration.

"We have been left a great heritage by the Frost administration," he said, "and we intend to build upon it."

His speech he emphasized the need for increased planning by the province for business and planning during the next 15 years. "Economic research must go further, then we have ever reached it," he said, adding:

"We need research in education—where it is going, how it will be financed and, what we are going to do with our young people to fit them in industry."

Driver of Bus Responsible for Deaths of Five

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP) — Gerald Menard, 32, a bus driver from Val d'Or, Que., Thursday night was found criminally responsible for the deaths of five persons in a collision between his vehicle and their small European model.

He appeared in coroner's court in this community 30 miles north of Montreal and is to be arraigned today in magistrate's court. The charge to be laid was not disclosed.

The accident occurred Tuesday outside St. Jovite, Que. Menard, alone in the bus, escaped unhurt.

Menard testified at the inquest that the accident occurred after he swung out to pass another car.

Police from Ste. Agathe, Que. said they received a call that a bus was being driven recklessly and a patrol car was sent to investigate. A constable testified he tried to stop Menard's bus but Menard did not stop. Menard said he was not aware he had been flagged down.

West's Nuclear Striking Power Ahead of Reds

OTTAWA (CP) — British Air Secretary Julian Amery said Thursday the West's nuclear striking force is "still very much greater" than that of Russia.

He told a press conference that Russia could "deliver a very nasty knock" but that Britain's and the United States' combination of bombers and missiles is superior.

Mr. Amery arrived Tuesday night to meet senior RCAF officers and to be briefed on RCAF operations. He visited the Canadair plant in Montreal Limited, Montreal, and the Bomarc-SAGE installations near North Bay. He leaves today for Washington.

The minister said he was interested in the SAGE semi-automatic ground environment electronic control system. Britain was thinking of a system along the same lines to control civilian as well as military air traffic.

Focus on Health

"Tanya, the brook! A health tip from the sea, a bad-eyed Bermuda lobster with interesting nerves and the alarm clock in your brain.

SEA WATER FOR HEALTH

Many scientists claim that life began in the sea—and they point to the fact that much of our body fluids are essentially diluted sea water. But Dr. William H. Strain of the University of Rochester, N.Y., goes a step further.

He says dietary intake should duplicate the minerals in sea water. Two of these elements, vanadium and zinc, are deficient in the North American diet.

Vanadium inhibits the body's manufacture of cholesterol. It apparently also reduces the amount of cholesterol in skin and arteries, may slow atherosclerosis or hardening of the arteries and may reduce the incidence of gallstones. Zinc helps reduce skin troubles, aids healing and bone structure.

OLD BAD EYE

A Bermuda spiny lobster with a bad eye was discovered by chance—and passed on to scientists. It may offer some clues to nerves and their growth.

After its eye was injured, the lobster grew a sort of antennae or auxiliary eye—and the nerves grew back from this appendage to connect up with the correct brain cells.

It indicates, scientists said, that each sensory nerve cell may have a chemical label which helps it seek out and connect with the proper brain cell.

SILENT ALARM CLOCK

If you've ever been surprised because you've told yourself you wanted to wake at a certain hour and then did, psychologist Jack Arbit of Northwestern University has an explanation for it.

He calls "set you mind" for a certain waking hour, Arbit writes in the American Medical Journal. It is based on an elaborate set of learned cues that are assembled from infancy.

One such cue is body temperature. When you've established in your mind when you want to wake up, the mind waits for the body temperature associated with that number of hours or the depth of sleep. Then it fires a "wake up" alarm to the wakefulness centre.

sort of equalization grants from the federal government having regard to the respective needs of the provinces to finance education."

Although provincial support of elementary and secondary education had been gradually increasing, the province still pays now averages about 45 per cent of total costs, local support of education through real estate taxes still formed a considerable sum.

"The Canadian tradition would support the view that local control of schools is important a principle to be cast aside on any occasion for a change in the method of financing education," the report said.

Mr. McCordic, commenting that virtually no effort has yet been made to equalize the educational financial load among the local authorities despite the desirability of federal aid. The problem was complicated by the traditional resistance to any form of federal control in education.

"Although it would appear that there is an inclination now even a readiness, for some form of federal aid, it will be necessary to reconcile the two views of those who are opposed to federal aid or to devise some manner by which funds may be distributed which is not inconsistent with the strong commitment in some areas to provincial authority."

Fires Spotted Where U.S. Jet Crashed

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCAF search aircraft has spotted two large fires in the area where a U.S. Air Force jet fighter plunged to earth Thursday night and a voice on radio from the ground crash said at least one of the two men who were aboard was alive.

The RCAF Neptune searching in the interior Okanagan region discovered the fires about 40 miles east of Penticton near Carmi, B.C.

The pilot of the search aircraft said he heard radio signals loud and clear and a voice was picked up several times strong. He said he could not determine which of the crew members was speaking.

A helicopter from RCAF Search and Rescue Centre here left for the area at dawn and an RCMP ground party was organized to attempt to reach the downed plane.

Librarian Finds Profession Is Sometimes an Asset

By Thorne Vaillancourt
Canadian Press Correspondent

ROME (CP)—There's an old joke about librarians who use their holidays to catch up on their reading, but it doesn't apply to Juliette Chabot, assistant librarian of Montreal's municipal library.

Miss Chabot likes to travel, and finds that her profession is sometimes an asset in getting the chance to visit other countries.

Her recent pleasure trip to Israel, Egypt and Italy was made possible by a 10-day business trip to Paris.

Miss Chabot, accompanied by Marguerite Brosseau of the municipal library and Claire Audet of the University of Montreal Library, attended a conference of the International Federation of Librarians' Associations.

She was much impressed, she said in a Rome interview, with the modern Jewish city of Tel-Aviv and with the work of Canadian missionaries in Cairo and Israel.

STRIKING CONTRAST

"Perhaps the most striking thing was the contrast between the Jews and the Arabs.

"The Jews of Israel are an open, hospitable and hard-working people. The love of reclaiming the soil illuminates their whole lives.

"The Arabs, with their security in fatalism, seem to be thinking: Why should we do today what we can put off until tomorrow—or never?"

Miss Chabot described the 1961 Paris conference as an exhaustive study of various methods of cataloguing books.

"It was an arduous task because the specialists from North America, Russia, India and the Scandinavian countries all had entirely different points of view.

"But as well as shedding light on the problems of cataloguing under different conference was an exercise in international understanding."

Miss Chabot, Canada's official representative at the conference, was not unknown to the other delegates.

A collection of English and French technical terms she published five years ago has been chosen by UNESCO to be used as part of a planned five-language technical dictionary.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia government started action Thursday to block the B.C. Power Corporation's bid to have the Supreme Court of B.C. review the expropriation last August of the B.C. Electric Company. The government applied for a Supreme Court ruling on legality of the Expropriation Act before the corporation's case against the government comes to trial in March.

Jacqueline Kennedy Again World's Best-Dressed Woman

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy again has been elected the world's best-dressed woman.

To the surprise of practically no one, the president's wife for the second year tops the best-dressed list issued today by the New York couture group which conducts the annual poll.

More than 2,000 fashion experts, designers and editors throughout the world cast ballots from which a committee of style authorities compiled the official 1961 list of 12 women.

Mrs. Kennedy, who the committee said had inaugurated the "Kennedy era of young elegance," was voted on the list this year by her younger sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and a friend, Mrs. Charles Wrightsman, neighbors of the Kennedys in Palm Beach.

'MOST ELEGANT'

Runner-up to Mrs. Kennedy, who won by a landslide in the popular vote, was Mexican-born Mrs. Loel Guinness of Paris and Palm Beach. Mrs. Guiness, a grandmother with flair, has been called by some fashion publications "the most elegant woman in the world."

Other top honors went to Mrs. Norman K. Winston of New York and Paris and actress Audrey Hepburn, who were elected to the fashion Hall of Fame, and to England's Princess Alexandra.

Only women who have been listed annually for more than three consecutive years are eligible. Princess Alexandra's mother, the Duchess of Kent, was elevated to the hall of fame last year.

The complete list of the 12 best-dressed women for 1961:

Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Princess Alexandra of Kent.

FREIGHTER DOCKS

VICTORIA (CP) — The battered Greek freighter Glafkos Thursday finally reached calm water — a growing dock in nearby Esquimalt — and skin-divers immediately started to assess her damage. The 30,000-ton vessel was towed 100 miles from the west coast of Vancouver Island, where for three days she fought heavy seas after her engine rooms were holed on a reef.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

COURTESY ENHANCES GOOD CINEMA

Movies may be better than ever, but the manners of many movie-goers, I'm sorry to say, haven't improved much since the days of prestereophonic sound.

Producers spend millions of dollars to bring an epic in full, glowing color to a wide-vista screen and the whole illusion is spoiled by the rattling of candy wrappers and the popping of corn into crunching mouths.

Even the charms of Marilyn Monroe or the brawn of Gregory Peck can't compete with the whispering and chattering that goes on, and I've known many sensitive souls who have fled, shattered, back to the comfort of the Late Late Show and the serenity of "Silents, Please."

While admittedly better than ever, movies certainly would be more enjoyable than ever if a certain segment of the movie-going public would just remember a few basics of courtesy.

For one thing, everyone would be happier if the audience were completely seated before the main feature goes on. Newspapers carry a time-clock for local theaters each day, so it's easy enough to check the starting time. Try to arrive before lights are dimmed, and you won't have to tread on toes finding seats and interrupt the concentration of early-birds who are just finding out what the plot's all about.

If you must buy candy and/or popcorn, then the courteous thing to do is open them in the back of the theater so you won't have to rustle wrappers when you get to your seat.

Men should remove their hats, coats and canvas before sitting down the aisle, so they won't have to stand and fidget five minutes of action from the view of neck-craners behind them. Women may remove their coats in their seats and drape the shoulders across the back. Any hat that's large enough to block-out a Vista-Vision screen should, of course, be rejected even before the person behind gets a chance to ask.

If you must wait in the rear of the theatre for seats, then do so patiently and quietly. Loud talking and laughing is most distracting to the people sitting in the back rows. They'd much rather hear what Burt Lancaster is saying instead of getting a rip-down on your morning session at the hairdresser's.

If you have occasion to miss almost the movie, why not store them up and fascinate your friends with your probing review over coffee later. The rest of the audience probably won't appreciate your one-in-a-spot coverage and would just as soon you do your chitterlibbing on your own time instead of theirs.

True-blue movie-goers also prefer that romancing be confined to the screen. They can do without a close-up in the seats in front. If you feel romantically stirred, limit your outward display to hand-holding. Cha-a-ha-checking may be dandy on the dance floor, but in the movies it makes it impossible for poor guy in back to get even a bird's-eye view of the screen. In this case, two heads really are better than one.

Question: I'm to be best man at my son's wedding. I understand that the best man should give the bachelor dinner. But I also understand that the future of the groom never attends. Since I'm both, how do I work it out? — R.K., Pottstown, Pa.

Answer: Nowadays, it's the groom who usually gives the bachelor dinner, so you're off the hook as far as playing host is concerned. As best man, though, you should attend, even though as father of the groom you're not expected to.

Fire Dept. Holds New Year's Party

DESERONTO — For New Year's Eve the members of the local Fire Department were the hosts at a party for the brigade and a number of friends. The event was held in the Lion's Hall and was decided success. The group gathered shortly after eleven in the evening and group singing was enjoyed until the hour of midnight when all joined hands for the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Dancing to records was the main entertainment after midnight until the lunch was served shortly after 2.00 a.m.

The winner of the door prize was Percy Knight. The party continued until three o'clock for a delightful way of greeting in the New Year.

The committee in charge was headed by Donald Kimmett and he was assisted by Albert Fraser, Frank Tinney, Percy Knight, Don Whitton and George Jackson.

RAWDON — On Saturday evening Mr. H. R. Tompkins, editor of the Stirling News Argus and Mrs. Tompkins paid a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Mr. Tompkins presented Mrs. MacMullen with an engraved gold wrist watch, with the inscription, "In recognition of 30 years as correspondent to Stirling News Argus, December 1961."

Mrs. MacMullen thanked the donors for the lovely gift and then in turn expressed best wishes for many more years of enjoyment along life's pathway.

When News-Argus was first incorporated, the late Philo White wrote "Rabbit Hill Notes." Later his daughter, Mrs. Allan Wescott was the correspondent, and wrote under the heading, "Mount Pleasant News."

In January of 1912 her granddaughter Florence May Montgomery, now Mrs. Percy MacMullen (who at that time was a student at the Williams Public School) was accepted as correspondent by the late James Currie.

This surprise gift will be a treasured memento of these 30 years and the recipient deeply appreciated the kindness of the donors.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. D.V. — She should try to win her children over to the idea.

Mrs. H.I. — They're selfish. I'll get married without their blessing.

• • •

Mrs. D.V. — Mrs. L is a dear friend, and I hate to see her storing up trouble for herself. Against the violent opposition of her two children, she plans to marry again. The ceremony is set for next week, and she has neither told nor invited her son and daughter.

Even though her intended seems to be a fine man, I think she should wait and try to win over her children first. When they heard she was keeping company seriously, they raised the roof. And when she mentioned remarriage, they stopped talking to her altogether.

So the poor woman is all alone now, planning to be married without the presence or approval of her children. She should slow things up and make another try to explain her side.

• • •

Mrs. H.I. — My husband died five years ago, leaving me in comfortable circumstances. I have never been a burden to my children, both of whom are now since married. Remaining in my same spacious apartment, I look in another widow both to share expenses and to keep me company. She remarried last year and I'm alone again.

But through her new husband I've met a kind, delightful gentleman, a widower. He has been very kind to me and we have consented. He's not wealthy, but he's refined and cultured. I was proud to introduce him to my children. Their reaction to him was unreasonable and cruel. They said he's too old; that I'm an old fool; that I'll make me forget I have children; that I'd better have him home when I come to call, etc.

There's no reasoning with them. I'll marry Joe without their consent.

• • •

The Council: Mrs. I's plight is that of a woman who has a perpetual right to regard her as a thing, their exclusive property, rather than as an animate, pulsating human with the same needs as theirs.

We'd say to them what the officiating minister proclaims to the world during a marriage ceremony: "If there be any here present who knows any just cause why these two persons may not lawfully be joined in marriage, I require him now to make it known, or ever after to hold his peace."

In other words, have Mrs. I's children any valid objections to this union? Is their mother impulsive, irresponsible, cruel, mean? Is the man an imposter, a fortune hunter? The facts, Mrs. V., get the facts which Against the violent opposition proval, if it's based upon Mrs. I's welfare the best interests, certainly she'll pause and listen. But if it's based upon the children's selfish, egocidic demands — as it appears to be — this mother is wise to heed her own counsel and proceed with next week's ceremony.

When children, or anyone else for that matter, find fault and become antagonized for unreasonable causes, that's their problem, not yours, Mrs. I., nor yours, Mrs. V. Mrs. I's children must examine their own psyches. It is figuratively they're really worried about is the unwillingness to shake their shoulders from a nation that a woman should be satisfied with devotions from her children, and not need a husband's companionship? These blind eyes up to the years folks to handle. Mrs. I. can't banish them alone — not in a wek or a year.

Second marriages are often more successful. If Mrs. I. feels hers can be, too, our blessing herwith!

QUESTION:

Some years ago you gave a recipe for French Onion Soup which was excellent and always a success. Now a sick friend is fancying soups and I cannot locate the recipe anywhere . . . will you be good enough to let me have a copy? — L. R. B.

ANSWER:

I sure will. If I ever compile a cookbook this will be the next recipe in the soup chapter.

Dinner Menu

FRIDAY

FRENCH ONION SOUP:

3 Spanish onions, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 drop Tabasco sauce, 8 cups water, 10 beef bouillon cubes, salt and pepper, ½ cup (or more) grated Parmesan cheese, toasted French bread.

Slice the onions thinly and cover them with 1 quart boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Drain well. Melt the butter in the soup pot and saute the blanched onions in it until they have absorbed it. Boil 2 cups of the required water and pour it over the bouillon cubes, and rub them smooth. Add to the onions and add the remaining 6 cups of water, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco sauce and some salt and pepper. Simmer covered for 1 hour. Toast slices of French bread, sprinkle each generously with Parmesan. Place under hot broiler to melt cheese. Taste soup to see if it needs more salt and pepper. Pour into bowls, top each with toast and serve. Pass more Parmesan cheese at table. This is supposed to serve 10, but it would not be enough for 10 Frenchmen.

QUESTION:

. . . I especially like your recipe for burnt sugar cake. Would you have a recipe for a cake, preferably iced, that keeps well and yet is easy to make and not too time-consuming? — Mrs. W. H. B.

ANSWER:

I think a pound cake would answer all of your requirements.

POUND CAKE:

1½ cups sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup butter (optional), 1 cup butter (do not substitute), 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 medium-large eggs.

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg (if used) 3 times. Separate the egg yolks from the whites and beat the yolks until very thick and light-colored. Cream the butter well and add the lemon juice to it, then add the beaten yolks. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Sift the dry ingredients over in 3 lots, and gradually fold them in. Line a loaf pan (9 x 5 x 2¾") with wax paper and butter it. Pour in batter and bake at 325 deg. F. one hour or until it tests done at centre and leaves sides of pan slightly. Frost with lemon or almond-flavored butter icing, if desired.

Canadian Scientists Check Radiation Threat

Radioactivity — bombardment by invisible particles which can split growing cells and the greatest menace life has ever faced — is the day-to-day study of a group of Canadian health-scientists. Their job: collect facts, isolate dangerous elements, as above, and evaluate health hazards. From a modest start, the program of protection services for industrial radiation workers, plus subsequent analysing of fallout radiation levels in milk, water, air dust and human bone, has been steadily intensified. The Radiation Protection Division in Ottawa obtains data from (1) a constant check on radiation received by 13,000 workers, who use radioactive substances and x-rays in hospitals, industry and research projects, by issuing them with radiation-sensitive badges which are periodically sent to Ottawa for checking; (2) atmospheric fallout observers at 24 stations across Canada who collect samples of dust and rainwater and forward them to Ottawa for radiation count; (3) detection of strontium 90 — potentially most dangerous because of its high radiation, similarity to calcium and long-lived radioactivity — by extracting it from the ashes of milk and bones; results indicate trends in strontium 90 levels of dairy milk and its human absorption; (4) building of two special chambers for measuring radioactivity in a living person; their eight-inch-thick steel walls will shield against natural and man-made radioactivity in the area, allowing accurate readings of the person under test.

Extracting strontium 90 from milk. Samples burnt to a fine ash are passed in solution through ion-exchange column. Technicians tried various resins to find best for collecting strontium particles. It takes 28 years for strontium 90 to lose half its radioactivity — then 28 years to lose half the remainder, ad infinitum.

Fallout from the skies is checked by testing daily air samples collected at meteorological stations across Canada. Rain and snow samples fall into plastic bags which are changed every month and sent to Ottawa laboratory for analysis.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Gar Lunney

Dr. P. G-P. Mar-head of division's radiochemical laboratory, records location of milk and bone sampling points.

Fallout affects all living things from cats to caterpillars, cabbages to commissars — everything that makes up the thin layer of life on planet Earth.

Fourteen and in Love

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—During the summer I was able to go to games or for drives with my friends until a girl my age (18) got pregnant. Now my mother won't let me go practically anywhere except where they go or with a trusted friend of theirs.

Maybe I did start liking boys at an early age. My parents say they never did such things as I am doing, but they come from Europe and see things in a different way.

My problem is I am in love with a boy 18. He is supposed to have contributed to juvenile delinquency so is on probation and can't go with any girls under 18. But he does, all except me.

He's had quite a few chances to see me but he never takes them. I fell in love with him a year ago, but he has never told me he loves me. In April I got my first kiss when he took me home from a dance. That was when I really fell in love.

What can I do about everything? How can I prove he loves me?—L. H.

DEAR L. H.:—Do you want to get into trouble too? If he breaks his probation he has to go...it is at least partly your fault. And you will be to blame.

Regardless of everything else, this boy is too old and too experienced for you—And pardon me, Honey-Chile, but you do not really love him! Next year this time you'll know how right I was.

Do things with your girl friends for a while. Time has a way of helping us grow up and get more able to handle situations between boys and girls. I am sending you the name of a little book that will help you too.

DEAR DORIS:—Being comparatively new to the role of housewife, there are problems that I haven't been able to solve. One that bothers me terribly is tea stains on my beautiful linens.

At dinner the other night I put on a washed tablecloth but, lo and behold, right at the place where my mother-in-law sat, was an ugly tea stain. She stared at it, and that look!

How can I become a good housekeeper again in the eyes of my mother-in-law and get out those terrible stains.—TEATOTALLER.

DEAR TEATOTALLER—If tea is the total of your offence, your restoration should be easy. Javelle water in very weak solution should do the trick (for white linen), or if cream complicates the stain, use a cleaning fluid first. Better still, get instructions from your mother-in-law.

"That look" is just a symptom. Disarm her with some deference to her superior years and knowledge, and with some genuine warm friendship.

Your mother-in-law obviously needs time to cotton to her new daughter.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I am 15 and I like a boy 17 I met this summer. But since school started he has taken me out only three times.

A girl I know told me that her girl friend told her that this boy had told him that I was his girl friend. My best girl friend told me a girl she knows from work told her that I was his girl friend. He never calls me up.

His mother told mine that he doesn't go with girls much. He usually spends his weekends hunting with the boys and his after school hours playing football. He is very athletic and all the girls at his school are after him.

Do you think he says he likes me to keep them off his back or because he really likes me and is too shy to take me out?—IN NEED OF HELP.

DEAR IN NEED:—What about the three times? He wasn't that shy.

He likes you fine, but he has a full, interesting life. And so should you. Join the Glee Club or Girl Guides or an athletic group yourself. Don't mope around waiting for a silent phone to ring. When it does, it will be a happy diversion.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I am the mother of two children. My husband does not live with us and I have sworn out a complaint of non-support against him.

I get other child protection in the care of my sister because that way she can attend school regularly. I have been doing housework where I could find it and taking my youngest one with me.

I would like to find a home in the town where my sister lives and have both children with me, but there are no jobs there. Could I get welfare assistance in order that I could stay at home? This separation is not doing my children much good as the youngest is always asking why he can't be with his sister.—PERPLEXED.

DEAR PERPLEXED:—There is public welfare assistance for the purpose of enabling mothers to stay at home and take care of their families, where the husband is not supporting them.

To apply for this, get in touch with the welfare officer in the district in which you intend to live.

* * *

TO LONESOME—I am sorry but Homemaker is in a completely different part of Canada. Also, addresses of readers are confidential. If you would like information about such a home, ask the welfare officer for your district about it.

Two Institutions to be Built to House Young Offenders Entering Prison

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — Complete segregation of young offenders entering federal prisons may be possible within three or four years with construction of at least two big institutions designed solely for this purpose.

Work will start this year on one young offenders' prison in Quebec and plans are well advanced for another in Ontario. Each will cost about $4,000,000 and each will accommodate about 350 prisoners under 21.

The justice department's aim is to keep young convicts well clear of hardened criminals—an association it now is to have wrecked some of the best efforts at training and reforming the newcomer.

This full segregation has been impossible due to lack of facilities. In the year ended last March 31 nearly 800 persons under 21 were sent to federal prisons and in most cases were left to live with older ones, many of them with only one goal—to get out and return to crime.

MAIN WEAKNESS

This is regarded by correctional experts here as one of the main weaknesses in the new penal program, with its emphasis on rehabilitation.

Segregation already is practised where possible. But in few places is it possible. Younger men occupy the prison training centres at St. Vincent de Paul, Que., and Collins Bay, Ont., but so do older convicts, some as old as 40.

In the medium fortress-type maximum - security penitentiaries such as those at Dorchester, N.B., and Kingston, Ont., wings are used to accommodate young offenders. But prison officials say it is impossible to keep them away from influential veteran convicts.

In 1960 there were 541 youths 19 or under sentenced to federal penitentiaries, including three 16-year-olds. Twenty-six of them were 17, another 328 were in the 18-21 age group, and 184 were 19. About 230 others were aged 20 or 21.

"PROVINCIAL PROBLEM

Those figures, however, only account for young persons sentenced to terms of two years or more. Many young offenders given shorter sentences are sent to provincial institutions.

Segregation of juvenile delinquents is the prime purpose of the 1908 federal Juvenile Delinquents Act, which says plainly that they must not "under any circumstances" be put in a penitentiary or jail "or any other place in which adults are or may be imprisoned."

However, this act can be enforce only in localities—not necessarily whole provinces—which have juvenile courts and separate institutions. These exist in most of the western provinces and Ontario, but in only a few sections of Quebec and hardly anywhere in the Atlantic provinces.

This is one of the situations to be surveyed in a special study of juvenile delinquency from which Justice Minister Fulton hopes for suggested "ways and means by which the federal government can most effectively co-operate with the provinces and welfare organizations" in attacking the whole problem.

MAGNUM SECURITY

Meanwhile, the federal government intends to take care of its own. The young offenders' institution in Quebec will be at either St. Hyacinthe or Cowansville—the site has not yet been chosen. Site of the proposed new Ontario prison has not been mentioned.

Both will be built along the same lines as the medium-security prisons at Joyceville, Ont., and St. Vincent de Paul. In brief, this means strong perimeter fences but the maximum possible freedom of movement inside.

Present planning calls for each building to be surrounded by two 14-foot chain link fences, separated by a 16-foot roadway. Inside the buildings, discipline will be strict—more strict, possibly, than in other federal prisons — but prisoners will have more privileges. The emphasis will be on training.

Sunday School Lesson

Gospel of Second Chance

By ROY L. SMITH

There is an old, and a badly mistaken proverb which declares that "it makes no difference what you believe if you are honest in your belief." But the truth is it makes all the difference in the world what you believe, for what you believe makes you what you are.

IT'S OUR PRINCIPLES

It's the principles that guide our lives that make us what we are, and all of us are at liberty to choose our principles. There are a very great many things in life we cannot choose—our features, ancestors, environment, height, eye-color, etc. Since any of these can be outwitted, they do not become the determinators of life.

But there are a few things we do choose and they make us what we are—the goals for which we live, the methods we use to achieve those goals, the laws to which we put our successes, and the standards by which we measure life.

There were many rules and commandments afloat in the world in which Stephen lived, but the Ten Commandments were principles of life widely accepted among the common people. All these simple rules were handed down to the ages because they established the basis for all their morality.

SECOND TABLETS OF STONE

It is one of the glories of Judaism, as well as of Christianity, that the second chance is considered a second chance. And it is rather remarkable that some of the greatest works achieved for righteousness have been accomplished by second chancers.

There was David, for example, who sinned terribly against the moral law, against an honest and loyal citizen, and against another man's wife. But before he died he had redeemed himself with the help of God and became on of the immortals.

And there was Peter who denied his Lord in a momentary fashion, and before he was 40 days older he had been chosen by the Almighty to preach the most famous and effective sermon in Christian history.

Then there was Jacob, who sinned deliberately, and was given a second chance. And St. Augustine was one of the most licentious of young men who made a comeback under the influence of Jesus Christ and was eventually ranked as a saint.

When Moses came down out of the mountain with the second tablets of the law, having broken the first ones, he was exemplifying the Gospel of the Second Chance. And this is the story of Jesus. He came to redress their secrets, until you have learned your lesson, until the way of magnificence has been made plain.

Do not allow your clouds to frighten you for, as Browning has said, "God is in the dark, too."

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 7: "Laws for Living," Exodus 32; 34; Deuteronomy 5:1-21; Matthew 5:1-20.

Some wise man has commented to the effect that nothing ever grows where the sun shines all the time. A certain number of clouds are necessary if we are to have food.

Similarly it must be that some of our cloudy days become our best days. It was in the midst of one of the blackest days that Winston Churchill predicted that future generations would look back and call it "England's finest hour." And already his prophecy is beginning to be fulfilled.

It was out of a cloud that God spoke to Moses on the mountain. It was out of a cloud that Moses and Elijah came to counsel with Jesus on the Mount of Transfiguration. It was out of the clouds of doubt and fear that the heavenly voice spoke reassuringly to John Wesley, and began the transformation which historians say saved Britain from a French Revolution.

Stay on your clouds until have compelled them to confess their secrets, until you have learned your lesson, until the way of magnificence has been made plain.

DOGGONE, WHAT NEXT. —Science has modernized the problem of dog-catching in the communities of Saltfleet and Stoney Creek new Hamilton. The dog-catcher has been equipped with a rifle that shoots darts loaded with a tranquilizer. Dogs hit by the dart are rendered unconscious and then hauled off to the pound. (CP Photo).

Canadian Companies Will Learn U.S. Techniques In Heavy Water Production

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian companies soon will be able to use American techniques to produce heavy water for atomic power plants of the future, J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, said in an interview after arrangements now are being made with the United States Atomic Energy Commission for the release to Canadian companies of technical know-how in heavy water production.

Any Canadian companies deciding to produce heavy water will be launching into a venture involving capital expenditures in the multi-million-dollar range and an annual output with a sales value ranging upward from some $10,000,000.

Heavy water now used in Canadian-designed atomic power plants and nuclear research reactors is purchased from the United States at $28 a pound.

CHEAPER TO BUY

It has been cheaper for Crown-owned Atomic Energy of Canada to buy heavy water from the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission than to build a plant in this country. The reason is that early U.S. plants of the federal government about $165,000,000 formed part of the American nuclear weapons program.

However, this picture is expected to change as heavy water production techniques have been improved, reducing both cost of plant and the cost of producing the product. The Canadian approach to economical nuclear power installation also is expected to create an increasing demand for heavy water in Canada and other countries.

Mr. Gray said that neither the federal government nor Atomic Energy of Canada is interested in building a heavy water plant.

INDUSTRY SHOULD BUILD

"We are past the stage where the government should have to build such plants. Heavy water plants should be built by private industry as a profit-making commercial proposition."

The Canadian approach involves the use of natural uranium as a fuel in power plants and heavy water to moderate the atomic fission process possible and to transfer heat from the reactor to a turbine to drive electric turbines.

Mr. Gray said that by the end of the year Canadian companies will be in a position to evaluate both the domestic and export market for heavy water. By that time Atomic Energy of Canada hopes to prove that the natural-uranium heavy-water concept will produce economic electricity. Other countries, including India, already are interested in building or buying Canadian plants.

School Teacher Pleads Guilty To Abduction

CAYUGA, Ont. (CP) — Canfield school teacher Charles Richeson, 20, pleaded guilty Thursday to the abduction of one of his pupils.

Magistrate Norman Toray ordered Richeson held in custody two weeks for sentence and asked for a report on Richeson and the Grade 8 pupil, Susan Vermette, 15, of Canfield.

The teacher's 17-year-old wife Darlene, was in the front row of the Haldimand courtroom.

Richeson's lawyer, H. L. G. Westland, asked for a two-week adjournment of a charge of obtaining a car by false pretences. This was granted and Richeson was not arraigned on the charge.

BAIL REFUSED

The magistrate refused Mr. Westland's request to grant bail.

"He has certainly indicated propensity for taking off", said Crown Attorney W. W. Leech.

Richeson has been in jail since his arrest last Monday.

He appeared in Haldimand family court Wednesday on a charge of desertion laid by his wife. The case was adjourned indefinitely pending the outcome of the criminal charges.

Miss Vermette was reported missing by her parents, Dec. 21. Richeson was charged after police found him and the girl in a parked car early Jan. 1 near Cayuga.

The girl told police they had been to Jacksonville, Fla., and ran out of gas on the way back.

Treated Roughly By Police Says Accused

HAMILTON (CP)—A woman told a court Thursday that two policemen from suburban Dundas treated her roughly when they arrested her on a drunk driving charge last October.

Mrs. Anna S. Wright, 42, of Alberton, said Const. Ben Smith asked her for her license while she was getting ready to push a friend's car.

She testified that as she reached for her purse, Const. Smith said, "you don't need your purse — you are coming with us."

Const. Smith then "grabbed my arm and pulled me out of the car," Mrs. Wright said. Another officer came and "he gave me his knee in my back" and the two of them "pushed me into a cruiser."

Mrs. Wright, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, said she had drunk four beers that night, but was not drunk.

Her husband, Lorral, said he asked the policemen to "take it easy" when they were "dragging" her to the cruiser.

Const. Smith told Magistrate John E. Robinson he saw a car make a sharp left turn in front of him, mount the sidewalk and shoot straight for the rear of his cruiser. He said he had to move forward to avoid a collision.

He said the car then continued on the wrong side of the road, crossed the sidewalk and passed between pumps at a gas station.

Judgment was reserved until Jan. 25.

"The Board just voted Charlie the employee they'd like most to fire into space!"

Psychiatrist Says Accused Boy Is Normal

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A psychiatrist at the Ontario Hospital told juvenile court on Wednesday a 13-year-old boy, charged with the murder of a girl, is normal.

Dr. Bruce Peyser testified at the trial of the boy, accused of killing seven-year-old Sylvia Finks was found dead in the attic of a abandoned store here Nov. 13.

Dr. Bryce told the court that in his opinion the boy is "bright normal" with more than average intelligence.

Under cross-examination, the psychiatrist agreed that there could be circumstances in which the boy would not realize the nature and quality of his acts.

Earlier, Dr. John Fisher, pathologist, said a post-mortem showed the girl's death was due to asphyxia caused by strangulation.

Defence lawyer W. R. Poole said the defence would "enter no plea at this stage" when the boy was asked to plead.

Judge W. H. Fox then said he would enter a plea of not guilty for the boy, charged under the Juvenile Delinquents Act.

The trial is continuing.

BANS THE TWIST

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The City of Tampa has opened 1962 by banning the new dance step, the Twist. The city recreation department sent word to its community centres today ordering the prohibition of the Twist, which depends more on body gyrations than it does footwork.

Animal Lovers Have No Liking For Dog-Catcher

TORONTO (CP) — Wilfred Patey, Toronto's dog-catcher, finds he is not a popular position with animal lovers.

"You dirty dog catcher," they jeer at him in the street.

"Catch my dog and I'll punch your nose in," they tell him.

But this is how the hard-hearted man spent his holiday season:

Christmas Eve he was feeding ducks on Ashbridges Bay and saw a big Canada goose fluttering three feet over the ice, struggling to fly with an injured wing.

He couldn't reach it because the ice was too thin. He called a harbor police boat which couldn't reach the bird because the ice was too thick.

On Christmas Day and for six days thereafter he went back to try to help that goose.

Last weekend, as Toronto revellers were getting ready for the new year, Wilfred Patey couldn't sleep thinking about that big injured Canada goose.

TACKLE SUCCEEDS

On his day off, Sunday, he went out again, chased the bird down the beach and stopped it with a flying tackle.

He took the bird to the Toronto Humane Society where it is surrounded by the dogs he catches. It will probably go to the Riverdale Zoo because a gunshot wound in its wing will keep it from flying forever.

Patey is a 30-year-old bachelor from Newfound Land where he fished, sailed, drove dog teams and watched the annual massacre of seals.

He is also the dog catcher who chased a stray canine along the Toronto subway tunnel. He climbed to the top of the bank of commerce building after a racoon on another occasion.

He's been catching dogs for five years and has been bitten only once.

"I just put the dogs and talk to them and they come into the van," he says.

"I like animals. People just don't understand my job."

Former Queen's Professor Dies

KINGSTON (CP) — Dr. H. A. Kent, 81, a founder and leading theologian of the United Church of Canada, died here Thursday of a heart attack.

Dr. Kent, a theology professor at Queen's University for 23 years and a chaplain in the two World Wars, had been living in retirement here since he resigned as principal of Queen's Theological College in 1951.

He joined a leading role in the formation of the United Church in 1925, joined the Queen's faculty in 1926 and remained a prominent figure in the church. Before 1925 he was a professor of Biblical subjects at Pine Hill Presbyterian College in Halifax.

Kennedy Administration Looking to Reduce Huge Wheat Export Subsidies

WASHINGTON (CP) — Confronted by mounting demands on the federal treasury, President Kennedy is seeking some method whereby he can reduce or eliminate the huge U.S. government export subsidies on wheat, estimated to total more than $400,000,000 this year.

These subsidies have been sharply attacked by Canada and other wheat exporters on the grounds the United States is using its huge financial resources to compete unfairly in world wheat markets.

Informants said a shift in the subsidy plan would be a feature of a new long-range farm policy Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman is working out for presentation to Congress soon after it reconvenes next Wednesday.

Freeman will have his work cut out for him trying to convince Congress to accept his ideas. The 1,600,000 - member Farm Bureau Federation plans a sharp attack on the ground the new measures may curtail opportunities for farmers to meet rising costs through increased income.

Federal officials say they don't want to hurt the farmers but at the same time some effort must be made to reduce surpluses and cut federal outlays for price supports in the first year of Freeman's tenure, the target price support program for agriculture was estimated to have risen by about $1,000,000,000 to a total of $2,200,000,000.

Despite the 1961 drought, the U.S. wheat carryover next July is estimated by the agriculture department to total 1,365,000,000 bushels, down just 45,000,000 from a year ago.

Its Crews today, the bureau of statistics said Canada's visible wheat stocks totalled 211,500,000 bushels on Dec. 15, down nearly 43,000,000 bushels from the same date in 1960.

Under the present system, the U.S. government supports wheat at higher than world prices and then provides shippers with an export subsidy so that U.S. wheat prices can be reduced in world markets to a range competitive with Canadian and other wheat.

Curtailment or elimination of the export subsidy would give the appearance of American wheat being more freely competitive with wheat from other exporting countries. But under the Freeman plan, the basic U.S. two-price system would be retained.

American millers buying wheat for American customers would have to pay a special premium on what would be known as "certificate wheat." American consumers would have to pay a higher price for flour than would overseas buyers.

Marketing Agent for Milk Products Essential--Stewart

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Stewart of Ontario said Thursday night creation in 1962 of a provincial marketing agency for milk products is essential, whether or not the idea is popular among all the present producers.

Formation of the Ontario Milk Producers' Co-ordinating Board, without which the present four producer groups are loosely co-ordinated, he said, has brought "almost complete recognition that the four segments cannot operate separately."

The minister was addressing a joint dinner of two of the producer groups, the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board and the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League.

Both organizations earlier met separately to discuss proposals for the over-all marketing agency.

The cheese producers generally favored the proposal, but the whole milk producers decided to shelve a resolution approving the idea until after Mr Stewart had spoken.

Mr. Stewart said he wants to hold preliminary talks on the subject with the four groups, Jan. 9.

He suggested an evolutionary approach to a new marketing plan which would provide for eventual absorption of all shippers of Grade A milk into one prosperous whole-milk group.

He said the marketing plan his department favors would:

Include an industry fund to provide for the export of surplus cheese and manufactured milk products, provide for a balance in manufactured products to avoid surpluses and shortages;

Establish prices based on general economic conditions, rather than on the current basis where downward pressure from buyers had been greater than the upward pressure from the farmers marketing agency.

Apply greater effort in increasing and development the Ontario market for dairy foods, and embrace co-operatives as an integral part of the program.

State Secretary Puts House Seat at Stake

MONTREAL (CP)—State Secretary Dorion Thursday put his parliamentary seat at stake in the growing controversy over a letter he sent to the Quebec Liquor Police in his name following the 1958 federal election campaign.

Mr. Dorion said he will resign from the cabinet and from the House of Commons if it is proved by a handwriting expert that he signed the letter.

"I do not hesitate to put my seat at stake," he said in a statement made to Le Nouveau Journal, Montreal daily, Wednesday night. He confirmed the statement Thursday in a telephone interview in Quebec City.

Mr. Dorion says the letter was written and signed by his secretary, Elisabeth Parent, at the request of an unnamed person. Miss Parent said in an interview Wednesday night she signed Mr. Dorion's name to the letter.

The signature on a photostat of the letter and also Mr. Dorion's signature were being submitted to a handwriting expert. Mr. Dorion did not disclose the name of the expert.

Montreal La Presse said it appeared probable that when the expert's report becomes available, Mr. Dorion will go on television to tell the public of its contents.

QUOTES UN MEMBER

Montreal Le Devoir quotes Lucien Tremblay, Union Nationale member of the Quebec legislature for Montreal - Maisonneuve, as saying he went to Bellechasse federal constituency in 1958 "with a big hand" and found members of the liquor police doing political work.

"There were members of the liquor police in Bellechasse all the time, that's clear," the newspaper quotes Mr. Tremblay as saying in an interview

"I knew they were meddling in politics, but I don't believe it was under Noel's orders.

"After all, the liquor police didn't start their election activities yesterday. They always did. Who gave them orders? That I don't know."

Roy Thomson Says BBG Has Set Canadian Content In Television Too High

TORONTO (CP) — Publisher Roy Thomson said Thursday the rule requiring private television stations to show a high percentage of Canadian-content programs is financially unrealistic, and urged revision of the Board of Broadcast Governors' regulations.

Mr. Thomson, whose newspaper and broadcasting interests extend through a dozen countries, told the Radio and Television Executives Club here about plans for extending his interests in Africa. He touched briefly on Canadian television problems.

BBG regulations require that station programming be 55-per-cent Canadian-in-content after April 1, 1962, and 45-per-cent Canadian content until March 31.

Mr. Thomson, whose interests include Scottish Independent Television and stations in Northern and Eastern Ontario, said British authorities might downgrade Canadian shows there unless Canada raised British program's higher here. He suggested British and Commonwealth shows count as 50-per-cent Canadian content instead of the present 50 per cent.

Mr. Thomson said it is hard for Canadian independents to match high - cost American shows on limited budgets.

The result is that viewers often tune in U.S. television stations.

"With one-tenth of the population how can we possibly have the same talent as the United States?"

Reviewing the expansion of his business empire from a Timmins radio station 30 years ago to a network of more than 90 newspapers, some 50 periodicals and broadcasting interests in Canada, United States, Britain and Africa, Mr. Thomson stressed the opportunities in Africa.

"Africans are, and can be, very able . . . give them a generation of education and they will compete with us anywhere in the world."

Radio and television is an important medium for educating a largely illiterate population, he said. Public communications created in Western fashion can help save Africa from communism, he added.

Referring to his plans for broadcasting and newspaper operations in Ethiopia, Mr. Thomson commented: "We can accomplish more with $1,500,000 then the Russians can by pouring hundreds of millions of dollars into Africa."

He said he has established or is negotiating for radio and television stations in Nigeria, Mauretania, Sierra Leone, Southern Rhodesia, Ethiopia, Aden, Kenya and in Gibraltar to cover part of Morocco.

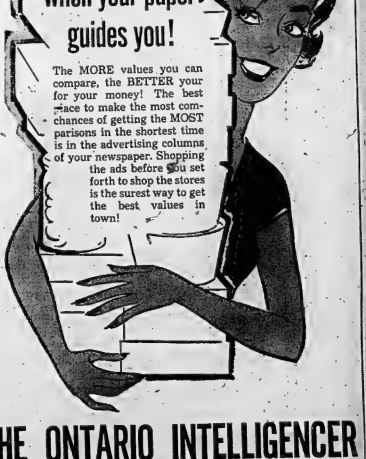
He described the East African countries of Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika as most promising for development.

Deer Population In Provincial Park Reduced

CHATHAM (CP) — Seventeen deer were bagged Thursday in the first day of a shoot in this the deer population in Rondeau Provincial Park, about 20 miles southeast of here.

Lands and forests officers, research biologists and park employees scoured about 1,500 acres of the 5,000-acre park.

They hope to reduce the herd by 200 deer, today.



Robert McLaren, park superintendent, said the deer population has to be kept down to ensure natural regeneration of the various species of trees. It is estimated there are about 100 deer in the park.

The venison will be given to the department of Indian affairs for the relief of Indians in the Pickle Lake area, about 200 miles north of the Lakehead.

Recommend Grid Rules Changes

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Football rulesmakers, concerned over a jump in United States high school football fatalities, will act today on several recommended rule changes, with the emphasis on safety.

High school deaths caused directly by football injuries jumped last year to 15 from 7.

The proposals will go before the National Alliance Football Committee convention. One radical change has an outside chance of adoption.

This is the rule that now allows blocking with one arm held horizontally away from the shoulder. While the hand must be on the chest, the elbow is up and has become a dangerous weapon in the eyes of some officials.

The rule may be changed to require the arms to be kept against the sides.

The alliance represents 14,000 football - playing high schools and 600 small colleges and junior colleges in 49 states.

The Athletic Goods Manufacturers Association announced Thursday that 1962 lines of helmets will have shorter face guards and a soft or resilient section where the back of the helmet meets the neck.

Earlier, University of Michigan neurosurgeon Dr. Richard Schneider blamed present helmets for head and neck injuries.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

It should be fairly obvious by now that neither Bernie Geoffrion nor Frank Mahovlich will come close to the magic 50-goal mark in the National Hockey League this season. They aren't booming in the goals as they did last year.

After the New Year's holiday weekend games, Mahovlich of Toronto Maple Leafs has scored only 15 goals and Boom Boom of Montreal Canadiens has clicked on 13. At this time of the 1961 schedule, Mahovlich was thundering along at a great clip with 34 goals and Geoffrion was next with 26.

Everyone knows that the 30-year-old Geoffrion equalled the record 50 set in 1944-45 by retired team-mate Maurice Richard and that Mahovlich fell two short. The Leaf left-winger went sour in the later stages while Boom Boom was the terror of NHL goalkeepers.

But at this time in 1961 it was figured that if anyone would wreck Richard's record, Mahovlich was the man to do it.

BERNIE INJURED

He was the brightest star of the league. He had the big eight-goal advantage over Geoffrion who had gone on a great scoring splurge from October to the end of December. On December 23, at the halfway mark of the 70-game schedule, Geoffrion had clicked for 26 goals.

Then things went wrong for the Montreal winger.

He was hit by injuries, scored only one goal in January in a game against Toronto, and the spotlight settled on Mahovlich. But the Leaf player went into a slump when his veteran centre and playmaker, Red Kelly, was injured.

That's when people said that Richard's record would not be challenged. But the Boomer was still to be heard from.

He shook off his ailments, scored goals No. 28 and 29 on Feb. 2 against the rattling New York Rangers, and was on his way. Before the month was out, he had raised his total to 40, helped along by a two-goal effort against Boston Bruins and a three - goal night against the Rangers.

BEAT LEAF GOALIE

At this point, Geoffrion had taken over the lead from Mahovlich and it appeared certain he would make it.

In the next 14 days Geoffrion scored eight goals—two against Detroit, three against New York and two against Boston in successive games. In Canadiens' 67th game of the schedule, he made it 49 and in his 69th he beat Cesare Maniago, serving in the Toronto nets for the injured Johnny Bower, for No. 50.

The statistics showed that Rangers were the unwitting patsies in Geoffrion's drive. He collected 16 of 50 at the expense of the New Yorkers. He slipped 13 past Lorne (Gump) Worsley and four past reserve goalie Jack McCartan.

Toronto and Boston goalkeepers yielded 10 each to him. Detroit allowed nine and Chicago five.

Armstrong Draws With Matthews

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Len Matthews of Philadelphia, using only his left hand effectively, rallied desperately in the final two rounds to earn a draw with Eddie Armstrong of Elizabeth, N.J., Thursday night in a 10-round fight.

Matthews, who weighed 127 pounds, aggravated an old muscle injury in the fifth round and could not use his right hand effectively the remainder of the bout.

Armstrong, 141, built up a commanding lead and appeared to be scoring a major upset until Matthews rallied.

Tie-Happy Chihawks Chalk Up No. 12

Fluke Gets Equalizer

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The trouble with Chicago Black Hawks is that they've the team that loves to tie.

The Hawks led the National Hockey League with 17 tie games last season and are doing their best to keep the honor.

Thursday night, when they deadlocked 1-1 with Detroit, the Hawks chalked up their 12th tie in 37 games. They have tied as many as they have won.

They haven't been beaten in seven straight games, but they haven't won in five of them.

Bronco Horvath scored his 10th goal of the season to account for Chicago's only scoring Thursday, and Alex Delvecchio bounced a fluke goal off Black Hawk defenceman Elmer Vasko's leg for Detroit's tally.

The Hawks were lucky to get the tie.

OUTSKATES CHICAGO

Detroit outshot and outskated Chicago all the way and only the reliable skill of goalie Glenn Hall earned a point for the Hawks.

The single point lifted fourth-place Chicago to within two points of the faltering third-place New York Rangers, early-season league leaders, who seem to have lost the magic touch now coach Doug Harvey supplied.

Detroit is now in fifth place four points behind the Hawks, but with a game in hand.

Hall burned away 30 shots while Terry Sawchuk in the Detroit nets also played a fine game but had to make only 15 stops.

Without Hall, it is difficult to imagine how far down in the standings the light - scoring Hawks would be.

They have scored a total of only 97 goals — the last-place Boston Bruins have scored 96 — and only Detroit, with 98 goals scored, has a worse record.

HALL SUPERB

Hall has been superb in keeping down the goals - scored-against record to 96.

About the only positive thing Thursday's game did was enable Stan Mikita, Chicago's potential all - star centre, to take over third place in the NHL scoring race.

Mikita drew an assist on Horvath's goal and brought his season total to 11 goals and 28 assists for 39 points, one more than Montreal's slipping Claude Provost. He had been tied with Provost at 36 points.

Everybody gets a game in this weekend.

Saturday, New York is at Montreal, Chicago at Toronto and Boston at Detroit. Sunday they switch partners, as Montreal goes to Detroit, Toronto to New York and Boston to Chicago.

Old Trophy Found on River Bottom

PERTH, Ont. (CP)—A search is on for the rightful owner of a hockey trophy, apparently about 30 years old, which was given to the now - disbanded Perth Industrial Hockey League.

The trophy was found on the bottom of the St. Lawrence River near Gananoque by skin divers searching for the propeller of a boat—boat. It was turned over to police.

The cup, bearing the inscription, "Tip Top Tailors Perth Industrial Hockey League, donated by F. C. Conway," was darkened on one side, apparently by fire.

Mr. Conway died three years ago, and local authorities have not been able to ascertain who was the last winner.

Defeat Picton 8-0

Macs Win Seven In Row

The Belleville McFarlands chalked up their 7th straight victory in Picton last night by blanking the Picton Merchants 8-0 but they failed to gain any ground in the OHA Eastern Junior hockey league standings battle for first place.

Gananoque Islanders, who tackle thy Macs in a nine o'clock fixture here tonight, also cooped an easy win when they downed Cobourg 8-3. Thus the Macs and the Islanders remain tied for the loop's top spot, each with ten wins and two setbacks.

Belleville got starring performances from goalie Ron Dubrange and winger Gary Duvall as the Macs chalked up their second shutout win in their last three games.

The Macs scored four times in the first period, once in the second and three times in the third. It was a free-skating affair with goalie Dulmage of the Macs earning his shutout by making 42 saves, 22 of them in the third period. Danny Cole of Picton must have felt like a clay pigeon as the Macs fired 61 shots at his cage.

Duvall picked up the first hat trick of his junior career to spearhead the Belleville attack. He scored once in each period. Pug Kellar triggered two goals and added one assist while Larry Mavety, who played a strong game on defence, Pete Weston and Billy McGuire potted a goal each. Graydon Scott earned two assists, Gary Reid, Joe Hunter, Dave Smith, Mavety and Bucky Eshler one apiece.

The Macs took a 1-0 lead at 4.02 of the first period on Mavety's goal. They dominated play in this period, outshooting Picton 25-9, as Kellar, Duvall and Weston scored in that order to make it 4-0.

Duvall made it 5-0 at 16.10 of the second but Picton had the best of it this period, testing Ron Dulmage 11 times while the macs rnanaged only six shots on Cecil Dulmage robbed the Merchan's time and again over the last two periods to earn his shutout.

Referees Keith Stacey and Ron Ramage handed out 18 penalties in all, nine to each club. Hull and Reid of the Macs drew fighting majors at 4.04 of the third while Brown of Picton picked up two majors and a game misconduct at the same time.

Playoff Bowl Saturday

Eagles Called To Defeat Lions

By JACK HAND

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Philadelphia Eagles are slight favorites to repeat their regular season victory over Detroit Lions Saturday when the two second-place teams meet in the National Football League's Playoff Bowl at the Orange Bowl.

The game will be covered by 400 sports writers and broadcasters from coast to coast, kickoff time scheduled for 2 p.m. EST.

Nick Skorich, coach of the Eagles, reports his club in good physical condition. Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and his prime targets, Tommy McDonald and Pete Retzlaff are healthy.

"The boys consider it a battle for third place," said Skorich. "They want the extra money ($600 to each winner, $400 to each loser). We will show them a little more of our stacked deck' formation, too."

In the "stacked deck" formation, three potential pass receivers line up, injun style, in a wide split set.

Coach George Wilson, whose Lions beat Cleveland last year 17-16 in the first Playoff Bowl, says his team considers it has one more league game to go. "We went all out last year," he said. "And we plan to do the same thing again."

Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds Will Stay in EPHL

KINGSTON (CP)—John Urie, president of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, has denied rumors that the EPHL will be moved to the midwestern United States next season.

Several Ontario newspapers have published stories to the effect that the six EPHL teams will be moved to cities not in the International Hockey League.

"I think," said Urie Thursday "on an interview from his Ottawa office, "that if any suggestion had been made by anyone concerning moving any team in the league at this or any other time, I as president would have been informed."

Urie said he first read of the rumor late in December.

NOT APPROACHED

"I can state unequivocally that no proposals of any kind have been put to me," he added.

"The EPHL in its first two years of operation proved itself to be stable organization providing entertainment for its member cities.

"I am confident the league will continue to thrive and the attendance problems in one or two cities, which have been magnified unreasonably, will be resolved in the new year."

Hull, Kingston, North Bay, Kitchener, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie are the league cities.

The attendance problems have been in Kitchener and Sault Ste. Marie.

The EPHL is in its third year of operation. This is Urie's first year as president. He succeeded Elward Houston of Ottawa early this season.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Picton's sports-minded chief magistrate, Harvey J. McFarland, "would like to get in on the fun of the Eastern Professional Hockey League next season."

But Mayor McFarland, "although openly admitting he would like to get into the league isn't pushing matters."

"You have to look at it like a business," he said. "First we'd have to build an arena. We've bought twenty acres of land for one, and architects are working on the plan right now. It will hold from 6,000 to 6,500 fans."

He said he is interested in acquiring the Sault Ste. Marie franchise but doesn't want to be rushed until preparations are made.

"We'd have to form a booster club. That is one of the more important steps. When we had our world championship team, our booster club raised $30,000 to help send the club overseas."

"And we would have to have an exciting, contending team."

Mayor McFarland plans a "complete divorce from the old guard if he acquires the Thunderbird franchise, meaning no connection with personnel from the former world champions. He figures there are 12 or 14 ex-McFarlands living in the Belleville area, including Gordie Bell, the goalie, who coaches the juniors."

The above in its entirety are quotations from a story columned by Doug Martin in the Sudbury Star.

Writes Mr. Martin: "At least these are the impressions I received after interviewing Harvey J. McFarland, the man expected to back the building of a new Belleville arena."

"There's definitely a possibility—almost a good'bet," says Martin, "that the Thunderbirds will find a nest in the moneyed pockets of Harvey J. next season."

The latter paragraph is not in exact keeping with what Mr. McFarland told this reporter last summer regarding the building of a new arena here. He said: "I would have to form a syndicate and I have already approached two or three men."

The Picton mayor has been in Toronto on business the past two days and could not be reached for comment on the story as it appeared in the Sudbury newspaper.

Grapevine and rumors have been filling hockey columns the past three weeks about the Soo either folding or finishing the season in Belleville.

However, Mr. Martin writes, "the Soo Thunderbirds, most troubled member of the uneasy Eastern Professional Hockey League, are not likely to finish the season in Belleville.

We could have told him that three weeks ago. Arena manager Jack Dickens who has never been approached by pro interests regarding playing here, said at the time that present team bookings including two city hockey clubs have taken up one hundred per cent of ice time. They will not be changed for any outside club.

Apropos of that, it was suggested at a meeting of the Eastern Pro League that the shaky Kitchener Beavers, ready to call in the pallbearers, barnstorm the rest of the season "playing games at Belleville and Windsor." Later it was revealed, the suggestion came from those makers of hockey history, Sam Pollock of the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens and Wren Blair of the Kingston Frontenacs.

Incidentally the Soo Thunderbirds are a farm club of the Chicago Black Hawks. Last winter the Hawks concluded a working agreement with the Belleville Junior B club interests, with McFarland taking over the sponsorship from a city firm. The Hawks made no headway in their efforts to "take over" the city's minor hockey association.

I hope Martin's story about McFarland's plans regarding the acquisition of a pro club is more factual than his paragraph in which he states: "When the scandal (hockey) broke many thought it would kill hockey in Belleville. It didn't. Belleville's junior B team is drawing as well as the pros in the Soo."

If such is the case somebody is getting his signals crossed. There's a helluva difference between the 400-500 maximum the McFarland juniors are attracting here as compared to the reported 1,500-1,600 said to be watching the Thunderbird games.

Speaking of that, lack of fan interest has become a serious problem with the Eastern pro loop. So much that it is calling a special meeting some time this month to deal with the situation. Some reports had it, the circuit may seek American entries. If could be. After all, it is not every Canadian hockey hamlet that has a Harvey McFarland.

College Stars in U.S. Bowl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coach Bill McPeak, plagued all season long with inadequate place-kicking on his Washington Redskins, will have two of the best in college ranks going for him Sunday in the U.S. Bowl.

McPeak's nose for Redskins were season-long cellar occupants in the National Football League, got his first look today at the kicking of Gary Cuozzo of Maryland and Don Jonas.

Mather, Navy end, kicked the two field goals that beat Army 13-7, kicked 11 field goals during the season and connected on 22 of 23 conversions to establish a National Collegiate Athletic Association record of 88 points by kicking.

Jonas, Penn State halfback, kicked six field goals and 17 of 22 extra points, some of them after his shoulder was dislocated in the Syracuse game and he was unable to see other action.

The game in D. C. Stadium matches the first choices in the Eastern Division of the National Football League against players chosen by the Western Division. Coach Red Hickey of San Francisco coaches the western team.

Blades Regain Third Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The once - mighty Edmonton Flyers have become just another team to their Western Hockey League opponents.

Seattle Totems showed little respect for the Northern Division leaders in downing the Flyers 6-4 Thursday night.

Thursday's only other game saw Los Angeles Blades regain third place in the Southern Division by edging San Francisco Seals 3-2 on a late goal by Bruce Carmichael.

Ivan Prudiger, Don Ward and Ron Hutchinson the latter into an open net—scored third-period goals to give the Totems their win over Edmonton. Other Seattle goals were scored by Gerry Lamont, Bill Macfarland and Guyle Fielder.

Doug Massier, Forbes Kennedy, Roger Dejordy and Ed Joyal answered for Edmonton.

Other Los Angeles goals were by Willie O'Ree, with two, Ed Panagabko and Allan Hall and the Blades' other goals.

Harry Pahlany with two goals, Al McIlhargey and Buddy Boone scored for the Seals.

Obscure Clubs Eye FA Cup

LONDON (CP)—Every year in the Football Association cup obscure clubs come from nowhere to topple the Giants of British soccer.

The FA cup is the only major soccer competition in England and Wales which gives the smallest outside the Football League a chance to tackle the big clubs. This year three potential giant - killers have reached the third round of the knockout tournament, to be played off on Saturday.

Top of the bill is King's Lynn, a club that plays in the unglamorous English Southern League.

The Nonconformists have been drawn away to Everton, one of the most formidable teams in the first division. Their chances of success are practically nil, but there's plenty of cash in it. Roughly £5,000 will go into the King's Lynn coffers, enough to wipe off the club's bank overdraft and finance a stadium overhaul.

The other two non-leaguers in the third round, Morecambe and Weymouth, have been lucky enough to miss a draw against a big club—they play each other, with Weymouth favored.

So Says President Campbell

NHL Headed For Top Fan Year

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Thursday night the NHL is headed for the best year in attendance it has ever had.

Campbell said in an interview that hockey is making big gains in popularity.

"Actually there are more persons playing hockey than ever before—I'm speaking of the under-20 age bracket — and they are either future players or potential fans."

He gave no figures on NHL attendance.

Campbell said minor league hockey has found the going tough mainly because of television. But they had to learn to live with it and in any event they'll always be there because the majors need a training ground just like baseball and football.

He described Detroit as obviously the most vulnerable spot in NHL hockey because of a relatively limited population and the economic pressures of the auto industry.

Would football ever take over from hockey as No. 1 sport in Canada?

"Not a chance," Campbell said. "Hockey will always head the list here. Football has too short a season in Canada to be a serious challenger."

The Big Seven

Gordie Howe and Stan Mikita each earned an assist during Thursday night's tie between their teams. They were the only members of the National Hockey League's top seven scorers to improve their positions.

Howe, who has collected 18 goals and 34 assists, for 42 points, He is second, trailing New York's Andy Bathgate by a record two points.

Mikita's assist gave him sole possession of third place, one up on Montreal's Claude Provost. The Chicago forward has 16 goals and 25 assists for 39 points.

May Have Closer Shaves Than This

MONTREAL (CP) — Two rookies on the Montreal Junior Canadiens found out this week that playing in OHA Junior A hockey ranks can be a hair-raising experience.

The veterans on the Montreal team visited the rookies individually in their hotel rooms after an exhibition contest in Toronto Sunday and initiated them by shaving their heads completely.

The NHL Canadiens did the same service to their two rookies—Gilles Tremblay and Bobby Rousseau—this year.

The NHL newcomers covered their heads until they were respectable.

The Montreal junior squad has been playing it bare from the shoulder up for the last three games. Their athletic and executive management were 'dismayed but the fans love it.

One victory and two ties have been the outcome of the razor - shaving team's three hairless encounters.

Lou Saban May Coach Buffalo Bills

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Lou Saban, personnel director of Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, reported to be top candidate to succeed Gerard (Buster) Ramsey as head coach of the team.

Ramsey, first to be signed by owner Ralph C. Wilson when the Bills were organized two years ago, was fired Thursday after two losing seasons.

Frank (Pop) Ivy, former coach of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Conference and head coach of St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, who resigned shortly before the end of last season, and head coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Conference, were also reported being considered for the post.

Both said Thursday they had not heard from Buffalo.

Wings Nudge Baby Habs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Red Wings extended their unbeaten string to four games Thursday night to edge within one game of Montreal Junior Canadiens.

The Wings did all their scoring in the first two periods to down fifth-place Niagara Falls Flyers 4-2 while the Canadiens were outplayed in the final 20 minutes and had to settle for a 3-3 tie with St. Catharines Teepees.

The Habs now have 41 points in 28 Ontario Hockey Association Junior A games. The Wings, with two games in hand, have 39 points.

Borden Smith of Guelph and Claude Larose of Peterborough fired two goals each as Thursday night's other game, as the Petes downed the tail, and Petes 5-2 at Peterborough.

The Canadiens, ahead 4-2 going into the third period at Montreal, outshot the Teepees 47-28 but had difficulty beating goalie Roger Crozier. Andre Boudrias, the league's top marksman, ran his scoring streak to 17 successive games with his two goals. Norm Dennis, Ted Houston and Jean-Claude Hebert got the others.

And They Tell You

'Keep Your Eye on the Ball'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — A pretty girl to tote your golf clubs? Why not?

That is the gospel of Francoise, the petite girl caddy from France who has crossed the Atlantic to show American golfers what they are missing.

"Golf is a game played for enjoyment," Francoise Pelissier Mathews, 24, bride of four months, said Thursday, "and a girl caddy can make it much more pleasant."

She is gentler. She has more patience. She has more understanding. She handles the man in the home. Why can't she handle him better on the golf course?"

Francoise has been caddying for seven years at a swank Antibes club and has played clubs for golf notables as Joseph Kennedy, the president's father; Duke Peter of Windsor, Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra.

She was brought to the United States to instruct a group of caddies hired by a club in Miami, Fla.

Almost all the caddies in Japan are female. They are more than half of those in France, Francoise says. America, where male caddies are a deeply-rooted tradition, is certain to swing also to the distaff bag-toters.

A fond of her career for a girl," she said through an interpreter, "it pays well. It is healthy, a chance to work. There's always the chance of meeting a rich husband."

Ah, the romantic club, a girl caddy will receive $6 for each 18-hole round. It's possible to do two rounds a day, meaning a young lady might pick up $12 or more daily, counting tips.

Queen Mother Enters Pair In Big 'Chase'

LONDON (AP) — The Queen Mother entered two of the 17 horses named Thursday for the March 31 running of the Grand National Steeplechase—the race she nearly won in 1956.

That year the Queen Mother's Devon Loch jumped the last fence clear of the field and collapsed in certain victory. But the horse stumbled and E. S. B. went on to win.

This year the Queen Mother's hopes ride on her luck with The Rip and Out of Town.

The race, run over a four-mile, 856 - yard course pitted with 30 tough obstacles, is worth about $56,000 to the winner. An Irish hospital sweepstakes will be based on the results.

Trade Board Lowers Boom On Misleading Advertising

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that the Federal Trade Commission, in its decision this week, has lowered the boom on hanky-panky in advertising, it will be interesting to see what changes occur in some of the TV commercials.

The FTC decision belatedly ordered an end to a shaving cream commercial showing what purported to be sandpaper covered with the product being advertised. Actually, it wasn't sandpaper at all, but plastic covered with sand. That bit disappeared from the home screens about 18 months ago.

The FTC decision, although based on one long-gone commercial, is a broad one applying to the whole field, and mentioned in passing other practices, mostly used in "demonstration" advertisements, that it considers deceptive.

It cited the use of warm red wine in a coffee commercial to illustrate the rich, deep color of the non-alcoholic liquor. It mentioned the use of a blue shirt—which photographs white—to illustrate the way a wash-day product makes clothes white.

BOYS WILL TENSE UP

(This may cause some tense conferences on Madison Avenue. A light blue is usually substituted in television because white knit causes an annoying flare of light and tends to wash out an individual's features if used close to the face.)

Anyway, it will be interesting to note which commercials quietly disappear.

What will happen to the scouring - powder commercials that show kitchen sinks with incredibly deep, ugly stains which disappear as easily as the application of the sponsor's product but remain untouched by what purports to be a rival brand?

What if the dog-actor backs away in distaste from his bowl of sponsor's product?

The Last Refuge, a 60-minute drama about people faced with impending doom will be heard on CBC Stage, January 7 at 8 p.m. on CBL.

The play written by Lister Sinclair is set in a secluded Western Canadian hospital, but symbolizes the panic and despair of all people in this nuclear age.

Starring are Mavor Moore, Henry Comor, Norman Ettinger and Alleen Seaton.

The drama was first heard on CBC radio, November 19. The response on that occasion prompted the current repeat.

In the words of its author, The Last Refuge is, "disturbing and amusing at the same time", and is intended to stress the idea that "one's primary concern is to be a survivor".

Plight of Stars' Children Recurring Hollywood Theme

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The theme this week of Barbara Burns played a tragic note on a recurring Hollywood theme—the plight of stars' children.

Barbara was the daughter of Bob Burns, the bazooka-playing buddy of Bing Crosby on radio and in films. The saga of Van Buren, Ark., died in 1956 when she was 17. Barbara had her first dope arrest when she was 15.

For the next four years, she was in and out of jail into serious trouble to make their actions a pattern of behavior. Why? I sought an answer from Dr. Marcel Frym.

GIVES THEORY

Dr. Frym's credentials are impressive: Member, commission on narcotic addiction; teacher, University of Southern California; staff member, Hacker Clinic. At the clinic he has served as psycho-therapist for many film figures and their children.

His analysis:

"A natrual, unsolvable struggle of every adolescent with a father and mother figure is solved in a satisfactory man, but a so-called normal, healthy people. If one parent figure is especially outstanding or famous, the child is caught in an almost-hopeless dilemma of competition with the parent.

"In the case of the daughter of a famous man, her fight for his love and for position as the preferred child might be intensified."

LIVES CONFLICT

Dr. Fryen pointed out that that there can be a discrepancy between the public and private images of noted figures.

"The glamorous figure of a movie star can look quite different at home. Often he can seem very small to his own child.

"Also, movie stars can be busy, self-centred people. The rearing of their children is often turned over to employed personnel. The children are often shunted off to expensive boarding schools, where they may or may not fall under bad influences."

Some children actually admire their famous parents and try to copy them, Dr. Frym explained. This can be a problem if the children also seek careers in show business, as a large percentage of them do.

They will always have to fight the unfair comparison with their famous parents."

Decimal Currency Likely In Britain This Year

"Jest a Second"

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—When Dutch engineer Simon Stevin invented a simple notation for decimal fractions in 1586 he predicted it would only be a matter of time before decimal coinage, weights and measures were universally introduced.

It has taken Britain 375 years to get the point.

Selwyn Lloyd, chancellor of the exchequer, announced today government has decided in principle to switch to decimal currency and expects to have the final go-ahead in 1963.

Meanwhile, a committee will investigate the form of the new currency, the timing of its introduction and the cost of the changeover — expected to be more than $2,000,000,000.

Lloyd indicated the only thing that could now save pounds, shillings and pence from joining farthings, groats and sovereigns in oblivion would be encountering an unexpectedly high cost for the switch.

MOST IN FAVOR

The plan to abandon Britain's 700 - year - old duodecimal currency has met with surprisingly little opposition. Only one voice rose in Parliament to defend the present system and complain about "wrecking our historic coinage."

The United States was the first to introduce decimal coinage, in the 18th century, and most of the rest of the world followed fairly quickly. After intermittent experiments, the Dominion of Canada issued decimal coins in 1858 and dollars and cents became the official Canadian currency in 1870.

Britain continued to cling to sterling with a proud disdain for simplicity and convenience. Royal commissions came and recommended a change in 1838 and 1841. Those of 1853, 1868 and decided there was no point in upsetting established tradition for the sake of progress. Two commissions since then have reached the same comfortable conclusion.

NOW CHANGED

Now the position is that every country outside the British Commonwealth has adopted a decimal currency and most countries within the Commonwealth have either adopted decimal coinage or are in the point of doing so.

The main problem Britain faces is how the decimalization is going to work. Will there be a single unit divided into 100 pennies or will the simpler reduction to a 10-shilling unit with 10 pennies to each shilling be introduced?

The weight of opinion seems to come down in favor of the 10-shilling unit. Plans was adopted in the Republic of South Africa and recommended by committees of inquiry committees in Australia and New Zealand.

The Daily Mail says it really does not matter what system is adopted so long as "the new coins will be handy, comely in design and worth the sacrifice of our time-honored 'L. s. d.'"

One newspaper says Kindergarten voices of the 1970s may be floating across the suburbs saying:

"Sing a song of five cents,
"Pocket full of dimes,
"Join the Common Market
"And keep up with the times.

Teen-Age Canada

Boys Prefer Cars to Girls At Least in Conversation

By JACK HUTTON

A recent poll of Canadian teen-agers asked them what they talked about most—and came up with an answer that surprised everyone but the psychologists.

Leading the field by a wide margin were cars. Girls placed second, but they were far far back in the field.

Sports placed third. The part-time job was fourth, running almost neck-and-neck with the teacher or the burdens of school-work. No doubt about it, the car topped them all.

Parents, psychologists, safety experts and a great many Canadian teen-agers believe that one important question will have to be studied during 1962; can teen-agers and cars mix sensibly?

Several weeks ago I did a column on the groups who feel that the age of 16 or 17 is too young to start driving. Letters have poured in since then—but NOT ONE writer has defended the teen-agers.

Typical was Mrs. B. Howies of Pointe Claire, Que., who wrote: "Teen-agers seem too anxious to prove themselves either to their own friends or to adults. They have to show just how fast they can start off or how near they can come without braking, instead of proving themselves by plain, good driving."

"They also tend to embarrass elderly or slow drivers by their bad passing or zigzagging in front of them. They will not obey the rules of the book; instead they seem to feel that they know better.

"You've been told that it takes five years of travelling to know how to drive; teen-agers seem to think once they have received their licence, they are good drivers. To be sure it is too bad that the few good drivers share the blame of these bad ones I know very few good ones.

CHAPERONE

"One answer might be that the teen-agers either drive alone, or only with adults. This might eliminate the urge to accept dares and advice from other teen-agers in the same car."

Very strong words. But other correspondents wrote in to say they are just as worried by the fact that the car seems to have become a key to the average Canadian teen-ager.

Their worry, they said, was confined mainly to boys. Well over 350,000 Canadian teen-agers are licensed to drive, but never out of four of them are boys. And girls tend to drive only when their parents are along.

Evidence of the interest in cars is the fact that a best seller among the hundreds of scripts offered for high school dramatic productions is one called A Young Man's Fancy. It deals with the problems of getting a car for dates.

Lloyd Percival of the nationally-known Sports College wrote some time ago that he was a sworn enemy of cars for teen-agers. "Whenever I see one of our young athletes turn up for practice in his own car for the first time, I see trouble ahead," he said.

The Canadian Sports Advisory Council said in a brief to the Federal Government: "We all know what can happen to a strong man's muscles when put in a cart for a few weeks. The mechanical age has been putting Canadians—particularly our youth—into the evil of physical inactivity for too long."

This was only a small part of the evidence which flowed across my desk. But if anyone would care to present the other side of the case, we'd be delighted to hear from you. You have the floor!

TEEN HUMOR

In a lighter vein, we're still receiving samples of teen-age humor from across the country. And several other people have also tried their own surveys.

What song would you think of if someone dropped a bomb down a neighbor's well. Answers, "NO-WELL, Noel!"

Ah well, they're also talking about the girl who bought a book entitled HOW to HUG and discovered that she had bought the ninth book of an encyclopaedia. (Ouch).

An American survey came up with the next one, and please don't read it on me if you don't get this one. It deals with the first man to reach the moon.

The chap found a number of tiny furry creatures scampering about and asked the nearest one: "Take me to your leader." A few minutes later the furry respondent with a giant furry who had a long needle coming from his forehead. "Take me," asked the space traveller. "Why are you so much larger than us?"

"Very simple," replied the leader. "I'm the furry with the syringe on top."

Crippled Beggars Provide Grim Evidence of Plight

By FRIZZELL UNGERAUER

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Every day, crippled Congolese beggars are being driven mercifully through the streets of Leopoldville, providing grim evidence of the economic plight of the Congo.

They can be seen pleading at the doors of butcher shops for a slice of meat or sitting outside hotels and on the steps of public buildings waiting for the alms of passers-by.

Although tens of thousands are unemployed in Leopoldville, begging is still the private domain of cripples and children. Able-bodied Congolese do not plead for charity.

The invariable plea of begging children here is: "I am hungry. I have not eaten for two days."

It is never more and never less than two days, and if they are offered food instead of the expected five-franc piece, they usually refuse it.

But it is the unemployed, not the beggars, who constitute the major social problem. Their number has been swelled to more than 60,000 out of a population of 500,000 by the influx of natives from the bush.

TEN FOR FIVE

Every day, several men will knock at European's doors offering their services as house boys. Others invent occupations, or offer to protect cars parked on public squares.

Some have drawn up elaborate testimonials recommending for themselves, which they unfold in front of a cornered European, demanding at the same time that he provide a fitting job.

With the government unable to offer relief, the Congolese family has absorbed the burden of the unemployed. Those who do work support relatives who earn nothing, no matter how distant the relationship.

Though meat is sometimes rare and expensive in the city, the sight of an undernourished Congolese is rare, at least in the beggars, who constitute the

Motorists Face Second Day Of Bad Driving

Areas Bordering Lakes Erie, Ontario in Trouble

TORONTO (CP) — Southern Ontario motorists faced a second day of nerve-wracking driving conditions today as a snow-bearing storm spread northward in the wake of Friday's freezing rain.

The weather office said it could see no relief until Sunday. It said a storm developing in Tennessee would likely add to driving miseries.

Police in Southern Ontario were kept on the hop Friday checking on an avalanche of highway mishaps.

In Kyanite, where rain turned to snow during the evening, the police department had to call in all its motorcycles because of slippery roads. No serious accidents were reported.

In some sections of Western Ontario, freezing rain was followed in the evening by fog.

Roads in northeastern Huron County were described as "treacherous" because of fog and freezing drizzle.

At London, a truck loaded with 1,500 gallons of furnace oil overturned on an ice-covered gravel road and 82,500 gallons of fuel poured from the damaged vehicle. Driver Jeffrey Clark, 36, suffered only a bruised knee.

All areas bordering Lakes Erie and Ontario could expect the worst today, the weather office said. Most would get a change from freezing fog to light snow as cold weather swung over the lakes, with the snow becoming heavier as the northbound storm moved in.

Northern and Central Ontario were expected to have only a light brush of snow, but with lower temperatures.

Most Southern Ontario traffic was slowed to a crawl Friday by treacherous ice conditions. Plane flights in some areas were either cancelled or delayed, and power and telephone lines were occasionally out.

The Windsor - Chatham-Sarnia climate was hardest hit by freezing rain. The Blue Water Bridge at Sarnia was often deserted because trucks and other vehicles couldn't get a grip on its surface.

No one was injured when a rural school bus in Bright's Grove near Sarnia skidded into a ditch. A tractor-trailer ripped out two steel light standards and 12 feet of steel grating on the Skyway Bridge at Burlington when it went into a 360-foot skid.

Seven schools in the London area were closed.

CHICAGO (AP) — The first major U.S. storm of the new year buffeted an area from Texas to New England with snow, sleet and freezing rain today, piling up huge drifts in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri and glazing roads with packed snow and ice.

Blasts of Canadian air that accompanied the storm spilled into the South as far as Florida, spawning several tornadoes. One twister hit Crestview, Fla., killing one person, injuring at least 60 others and leaving 1,500 homeless.

The snowstorm brought near blizzard conditions Friday to parts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

Kansas City was nearly paralyzed by a 10-inch snowfall that caused huge traffic tie-ups. St. Joseph, Mo., had seven inches of snow and Olathe and Topeka, Kan., had six. Heavy drifts were common in the area, where 50-60 mile winds reduced visibility at times to zero.

The snow belt extended into Texas, where Chillicothe had 12 inches, followed by three inches of sleet and freezing drizzle.

At London, a truck loaded with 1,500 gallons of furnace oil overturned on an ice-covered gravel road and 82,500 gallons of fuel poured from the damaged vehicle. Driver Jeffrey Clark, 36, suffered only a bruised knee.

East German Hockey Team Refused Visas

It said the U.S. step has imperiled the championships, due to be held at Colorado Springs in March.

Russia sent a letter to the International Ice Hockey League demanding urgent consideration of the East German case, the broadcast said.

Father Will Not Give Three Children Up

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Kenneth Robinson said Friday night her husband doesn't want her from Florida and told her she could not have her three children back.

Earlier "Mrs. Robinson testified to search United States Attorney-General Robert Kennedy to appeal for the return of her children, taken to Florida Dec. 10 by her ex-policeman husband.

Pleading from an unidentified place in Florida, Mr. Robinson was quoted as telling his wife: "I hear you want to know where the children are."

The woman said she spoke with her daughter, Dale, 9, who said "no," when asked whether she would like to come home. Mr. Robinson has been hung up.

Mrs. Robinson accused her husband of taking Dale, 9, Kenneth, 8, and Terry, 4, An older daughter, Carolyn, 14, stayed in Toronto.

MONTEITH URGES USERS OF MEAT TO REMAIN CALM

Says Tainted Meat Sales Is Stopped

TORONTO (CP)—The RCMP says a "sweeping" into the sale of tainted meat in Ontario is still in full swing and may spread to other areas.

Commr. R. B. Woods-Johnson said there "has been in quite a bit of undercover work involved and we are still at it."

There was no indication of what areas might be involved in further investigations. The RCMP investigation, which began last August, had two men originally and has since swelled to a seven - man operation.

In Ottawa, Health Minister Monteith urged Canadians to relax worries about the situation and said the sale of meat unfit for human consumption has been stopped.

However, Mrs. Helen Morgan-Powell of Toronto, national food chairman of the Consumers' Association, said the bad meat is being sold all across the country.

"Today it's not as big a problem as the tainted meat," she said.

By late Friday, the RCMP had laid charges against 18 persons in Southern Ontario and five in the Ottawa area, although the groups were apparently unconnected.

COUNTY VET CHARGED

Dr. Ralph Hall was charged under the Food and Drug act in Osmond C. Raymond, a veterinarian with the Lanark County health department.

RCMP said meat from fallen, dead, drowned, diseased or bloated animals was sold to packing plants, where whole carcasses not federally inspected and which were dyed such by covering the meat was good by a "Brantford health department approved" stamp.

Dr. John E. Stearns, Ottawa's director of food control and safety division, said parts of the public alarm which has resulted in unnecessary.

Dr. A. R. Boyd, Toronto medical officer of health, described the tainted meat as distasteful

Tax Revenue Running Ahead Of Forecast

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's new three-per-cent sales tax is likely to bring in revenues exceeding the original forecast, treasury department officials indicated Friday.

The tax was introduced Sept. 1 and it was then forecast that it would be worth $60,000,000 during its first six months and $150,000,000 during its first year of operation beginning next April 1.

Although the six-month figure will not be definitely known until the end of March, returns to the end of November have been well up to expectations and December's receipts are expected to exceed government forecasts.

It is believed revenue from the tax in February will be approximately $15,000,000, or half the total which officials say is the first full fiscal year. No actual figures have been released, however.

Nehru Uses Fists on His Guards Stopping Him From Joining Crowd

PATNA, India (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru said today the reaction of Western powers to Portugal's plan to form an exile government for Goa will be the test of their real attitude on colonialism.

Nehru made the statement in a speech at this northern city to the annual conference of his ruling Congress party.

He described as "fantastic" the plan of Portuguese Prime Minister Antonio Salazar to set up a provisional regime for the territory on India's western coast.

Friday's demonstration, Nehru was not hurt but 26 persons were injured in the mob, two critically.

Twelve persons were arrested, one man with a dagger. But police said the crowd was made up of admirers of the Indian leader who stampeded only to get a closer look at him.

Nehru left in a huff after addressing the convention.

Hard Bargaining Continues On Market's Farm Policy

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The European Common Market today resumed negotiations on a common farm policy with the six member states bargaining hard to protect their national interests.

The second day of the current negotiations in this Belgian capital ended Friday with the Market's chief ministers swamped by technical details of the fruit and vegetable trade.

The produce issue is one of the main hurdles the ministers will have to overcome by Jan. 31, the deadline for the farm agreement.

This date also marks the scheduled end of the Market's transition into the second of its three four-year stages of progress toward full economic unity.

Previously the transition was set for Jan. 1 but the ministers failed to meet this deadline because of inability to reach a farm agreement.

Throughout negotiations the six nations—France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg—have been at stage or another been at odds in attempts to achieve either protection for their farmers or markets for their produce.

The current stand has been taken by France, which has insisted that a common farm policy is a prior condition to the second stage transition.

Underlying the conflict is between France, which wants to keep its agricultural surplus in West Germany and the Bonn government, seeking to protect its farmers from agricultural dumping.

Controversy developed over standards to be used to determine when a market is in trouble. The Germans suggested the danger point should be when average wholesale prices fall below a fixed level.

This proposal was regarded by other delegates as, in effect, a minimum price structure "coming in by the back door."

Giving Odds Britain Will Become Euromart Member

LONDON (CP)—Betting men at the European Economic Community headquarters in Brussels are giving odds of up to 3 to 1 that Britain will eventually be a full member of the continental group.

To them it's no longer a question of if, but of when.

And a few of the more intrepid have even worked out a timetable.

They say the negotiations between representatives of Britain and the community formed by France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, which officially reach a decisive point by Easter.

If satisfactory arrangements are worked out, the way would be cleared for the admission of Commonwealth prime ministers on the Common Market Council, which has the ratification of any ultimate agreement by the British Parliament, to occur before the summer recess.

By Jan. 1, 1963—or as the more cautious predict, July 1, 1963—Britain representatives will sit around the Brussels conference table as full members of a new political entity developing into a United States of Europe.

The governments of Britain and the six Common Market countries are now in the process of negotiating a strong political will to overcome Europe's economic division.

"We desire to become full, fulfledged and active members of the European community in the widest sense and to go forward with you in the building of the new Europe," said Edward Heath, head of Britain's Common Market negotiating team.

The continental countries welcomed the firm British declaration of intent as a turning point in post-war European politics.

Paul Henri Spaak, who usually looked outwards across the sea, had turned her attention to her continental neighbors.

Yet, progress toward a greater European unity is not easily be frustrated. There is a risk of political upset in France. The six conference table tries themselves could fall to pieces over the details of the current sessions in Brussels.

This could lead to protracted delays in the negotiations which may spread alarm in Britain and the Commonwealth countries about the possible impact of membership.

Such a development would strengthen the anti - Common Market movement in Britain to a point where it could discourage the British government's at-titude in the negotiations.

Despite the risks, the mood in Brussels today, negotiators say is one of optimism.

It was the hard fact of a bargaining of a new political across the channel that finally brought Britain to abandon a policy that both dismayed and angered her neighbors.

The Conservative government remained aloof from the European Coal and Steel Community.

The European were just as disappointed with the Conservatives' refusal in 1951 to join. The then foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, said it plainly that the government attached more importance to his Commonwealth ties than to those with Europe.

British ministers stayed away from the 1956 conference in Italy which laid the groundwork for the creation of the economic community.

Electronic Warning System In Arctic Area Turned Over

COLORADO SPRINGS (AP) — An electronic warning system that blankets the Arctic regions of North America is now ready to war as it was turned over Friday to the United States Air Force, which will operate it for the North American Air Defence Command.

Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, commander of Norad, called the flying alarm system "fantastic — a very real strengthening of our armed forces."

"We now have a leg up on the enemy," Kuter said, adding: "We'll know almost instantly when an enemy missile has been fired."

Although only two of three installations are operational, the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System was formally accepted as a brief ceremony by the air defence command. A new unit, the 9th Aerospace Defence Division, was given responsibility for its operation.

Kuter said the warning of an approaching missile — or any Russian satellite — can be given by the installations at Thule, Greenland, and Clear, Alaska. A third site is nearing completion at Fylingdales Moore, Yorkshire, England.

Actually, the radar site at Thule went into operation in October 1960, and the Clear installation last July. The site at Fylingdales will be in use by next year.

More than 2,400 private contractors, headed by Radio Corporation of America and Western Electric, started work on the $1,000,000,000 project in January, 1958.

Their huge radar antennas are housed in 105 radomes, big and some 3,000 miles of Arctic land. They are beamed constantly skyward, it is pointed out, which an enemy missile could not escape.

The elaborate device at each installation can spot track an approaching object the instant it rises above the horizon. Radar data is analyzed by computers which determine the object's position and speed. Its course is plotted through 10 seconds a warning is flashed to the air defence command along two separate routes.

"We relied on this system against a Russian attack for a year now," Gen. Kuter said. "We're not interested in perfect effectiveness. We demand complete assurance against enemy missiles and we're finally getting it."

Gen. Thomas D. Lee, ADC commander, said "tremendous obstacles remain to be overcome." But he said the West has "reliable warning against missile threats."

The primary value of other warning systems such as the Distant Early Warning line in Canada's North is in warning against manned bombers and short - range missiles such as will be the primary target of the English base at Fylingdales.

U.S. NAVY PLANS TO CONTINUE TO BUY IN CANADA

Policy Criticized By 2 Congressmen

WASHINGTON (CP) — Congressional sniping against Canada - United States production-sharing policy has centred on the U.S. Navy, but the navy plans no change.

A qualified authority said the navy will continue to encourage defence subcontracting in Canada despite some congressional criticism that such a policy is causing unemployment in U.S. shipyards.

The sniping began Friday in a closed-door hearing of a House of Representatives subcommittee on imports and unemployment when Vance Hartke, assistant navy secretary, was reported to have informed the subcommittee that Canadian yards are getting only a tiny fraction of navy contracts.

Sharp criticism came from the subcommittee chairman, John Dent, Pennsylvania Democrat, and William Cahill, New Jersey Republican.

They attacked General Dynamics Corporation, a U.S. firm, for placing $300,000 worth of contracts in Canada. General Dynamics, the parent company of Canadair Limited of Montreal, has a $325,000,000 navy contract to build Polaris missile submarines.

Dent and Cahill also attacked the Pacific Scientific Company for subcontracting $300,000 worth of Polaris launching equipment to Canadian firms. Indications are that despite this criticism, the navy will push more defence orders into Vickers.

Cahill said he will ask the House armed services committee to make a complete investigation of navy contracting procedure. Dent said he will decide later whether to launch a public hearing on the whole situation.

While the U.S. places orders in Canada, Canada also places orders in the U.S. Canadian officials estimated that production-sharing between the two countries is "running about neck and neck" at the rate of about $150,000,000 a year each way.

Rescued Pilot In Hospital

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)— Capt. Donald Andrew of Kent-Wash., who survived a United States Air Force jet plane crash in interior British Columbia, was described as in satisfactory condition in hospital here Friday night.

He was in hospital here after being plucked from snow-covered bushland by an RCAF helicopter.

High winds, low cloud and approaching darkness made it impossible for the helicopter to pick up the body of the second man who was aboard the F-86 Sabre Scorpion, which apparently exploded at 35,000 feet and then plummeted to earth.

The helicopter will pick up the body of Capt. Larry Grosse, 25, of Spokane, Wash., a reserve officer, aboard the aircraft today, weather permitting.

Blaze Destroys Farm Home Near Clontraf

CLONTARF, Ont. (CP)—Fire in this farming community 20 miles south of Egnaville Friday night killed four children and their 85-year-old great-grandfather.

The fire killed William Fellaber, the grandfather of Elaid Fellaber, 27, who, just four of his five children in the blaze. The children ranging in age between one and five, are: Debra, Shirley, Jackie and Donald.

Provincial police said early today that ruins of the two-storey cement-block building were still too hot early this morning to enable them to recover the five bodies visible in the debris.

The parents of the children were out for the evening when the fire broke out. Their eldest child, Wilfard, 6, was spending the night at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Florence Mulroy, six miles away.

Elaid Fellaber is employed as a backwoods wagon trail repairer under contract. Clontraf, the nearest neighbor, is more than a mile away.

Mrs. Fellaber, who is pregnant, is being treated for shock at the home of her mother.

New Political Storm Gathers Over Britain

LONDON (AP)—Britain refused Friday to take sides in the feud between Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland and Secretary-General U Thant of the United Nations over UN operations in the Congo's Katanga province.

As a result a new political storm has begun to gather over Britain, whose relations with the Congo have been strained over its Congo policy.

The London office dissociated itself from a souib delivered to Thant by Welensky on behalf of the Central African Federation of the two Rhodesias and Nyasaland.

The secretary - general last week proposed ending UN observers in Northern Rhodesia to see that there was no running of arms and privately-organized soldiers into Katanga.

WELENSKY COUNTERED

Welensky, minister of Katanga's President Moise Tshombe, refused.

Welensky insulted Thant to Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, to discuss the border question with Welensky's own accusations of UN atrocities against Katanga civilians by airplanes. Thant's reply was non-committal.

The government have not expressed themselves one way or another on Thant's precise proposals for the observation posts in Northern Rhodesia. Britain has approved, however, needed because it handles foreign relations for the semi-independent federation.

Indian Mystics Predict Disasters When Eight Planets Get Together

NEW DELHIA (AP) — A Hindu mystic says Prime Minister Nehru's image in Western countries will suffer because of his military seizure of Goa — and it was all the fault of the stars.

Swami Vasudevanand Bharti, 45, said the takeover of Goa and two other Portuguese colonies last month shocked many good friends of India and was a warning shadow of big shape of things to come".

The swami, now serving 700 sadhus holy men and pandits learned men who for the last three months have attended the congregations, prayers on the banks of the sacred Jumna River. They have wide influence in India.

The recitation of sacred verses many thousands of times, ending Friday night, was aimed at averting the evil effects of a conjuction of 8 planets in the sign of Capricorn. Astrologers said the planets will reach the crucial period in the first week of February and predicted the danger of catastrophes around the world that would take many lives.

Bharti announced these predictions and has appealed to Indians to have faith in themselves and not indulge in star gazing.

The forebodings of disaster run so high in some circles here that many families have postponed weddings previously held and other such ceremonies until after the period has passed.

To ward off the evil of the planets' positions non-stop prayers will be held in temples in many Indian cities.

No one has yet predicted the exact nature of the feared catastrophes, except to say there will be deaths on a mass scale from such things as earthquakes, floods, epidemics and famine.

What might be considered a hopeful note is that all are agreed the February conjunction will not cause as atomic war.

Accused Denies Harming Girl Found Strangled

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A detective told a juvenile court Friday of a conversation in which a 13 - year - old boy declined harming Sylvia Finks, 7, found strangled in the attic of an abandoned store on Nov. 30.

Detective Donald Andrews was testifying at the trial of the boy, charged under the Juvenile Delinquents Act with murder in the death of the girl.

Sylvia was found lying partially hidden in an alcove, her head and upper body suspended from an electric light cord, by her own belt, knotted tightly around her throat.

Judge W. H. Fox admitted into evidence notes the detective made from memory shortly after the boy had a conversation with his parents and his minister Rev. Mr.

The trial, in its second day, into a night session before being adjourned until Monday.

DENIES TYING GIRL

According to the notes, the boy admitted being with Sylvia. Asked by the minister if he had tied the girl's hands behind her back, the boy said he put her belt around her, high on the chest under the arms.

The notes stated the boy said he left Sylvia sitting in the corner of the attic where she was found, but did not tie her up in the belt.

Det. Sgt. Lan Elgie testified he and another detective interviewed the boy Nov. 24 and took him into custody.

Two teachers from the school the accused boy attended were also called to identify a library book that was entered as evidence.

In the book, found by teacher after the boy's arrest were several drawings of people on scaffolds.

The boy's home room teacher said in evidence the boy's intelligence, said he considered the boy "average" and was slightly below average.

A psychiatrist said Thursday he considered the boy was above average in intelligence.

Traffic Slowed To a Crawl On Most Roads

Traffic was slowed to a crawl on most highways in the Quinte district last night and this morning, due to the icy roads topped off with a heavy layer of snow.

The truck on Highway 401 moved smoothly but at a snail's pace.

Ontario Provincial Police reported a rash of minor accidents throughout the night. A small amount of property damage was involved and no injuries reported.

A rear-end collision occurred in the city last night on Victoria Ave., due to the slippery pavement. The damages was slight and there were no injuries.

Most roads in the Quinte area are now in good shape and are treacherous in places.

One car was observed in the ditch on 401, just west of the city, this morning, after it skidded out of control on the icy pavement.

Police are urging everyone to drive with added caution as the weatherman predicts more bad driving weather for today and tomorrow.

Centre Hastings High School Board members, together with municipal officials and high school principals have been called to Toronto next Wednesday by the Department of Education officials to discuss the request of Hungerford township and the township of Rungerford to withdraw from the high school area.

A referendum to determine the percentage of taxpayers in the two municipalities favoring the withdrawal from the Centre Hastings High School area is being held on Monday.

The request by the two municipalities to withdraw from the high school area and set up their own district was sparked by the decision of board members to construct a 16-room technical school addition at the Madoc school. The entire cost of the proposed addition, amounting to over $1 million would be paid for by the provincial and federal governments.

The objection of Hungerford township and Tweed village was said to be that they feared the operational cost of the technical school would be too great for them to bear.

At the December session of county council the county body was asked to support the request of the two municipalities by withdrawal from the Centre Hastings High School Area.

Council devoted an entire afternoon to hearing submissions representing both sides of the question and then decided in mid-December over until the January session.

In the meantime arrangements are made in Tweed and Hungerford to hold the referendum.

A public meeting scheduled for Tweed tonight when it was intended a panel answer questions relating to the school question, has been cancelled.

Former Deputy County Clerk To Take Charge

A former deputy clerk at Hastings County Shire Hall will assume the duties of clerk of county business until county council is able to appoint a permanent clerk to replace the late Erle S. Denyes.

Friday afternoon members of Hastings County Council appointed Mrs. Frank Quaile of Marmora as acting clerk-treasurer and at the same time decided not to call for applications for a permanent man to fill the clerk's position.

Mrs. Quaile, who had served in the role of county clerk for 27 years, died suddenly on Tuesday, Dec. 19. Two days ago she was appointed to the dual role of clerk-treasurer.

Mrs. Quaile, the former Ruth Dunning, had worked in the county treasurer's office for many years under Mr. Denyes and prior to her resignation a few years ago had been appointed as deputy clerk. Now living in Kingston, Mrs. Quaile will take over the county clerk's duties in a temporary capacity.

Earl of Snowdon Joining Staff Of Sunday Times

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret's husband, former society photographer Antony Armstrong - Jones, will return to professional photography as a paid artistic adviser to the Canadian - owned London Sunday Times starting Feb. 1, it was announced Friday.

The announcement that the 31-year-old husband of the Earl of Snowdon—was taking a job with the paper headed by Canada's multi-millionaire Thomson, was made by Maj. John Griffin, the secretary at Clarence House, home of Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Griffin said Lord Snowdon had discussed the job with the Sunday Times, with Princess Margaret and with Queen Elizabeth before accepting it.

LOGICAL JOB

Denis Hamilton of the Sunday Times, C. D. Hamilton, described Snowdon's new post as "the logical sequel to Lord Snowdon's earlier photographic career."

Hamilton added that Snowdon would not take any pictures himself in his new post but would "not going to work on the hot line of newspaper work which might be an embarrassment to the paper."

Hamilton added: "We shall not be taking advantage in any way of his connection with the Royal Family by way of asking him to take any royal pictures."

Montreal Roy Thomson said Princess Margaret's husband has been hired as a "full - time executive."

His responsibility within the Thomson publishing enterprises in Britain would be magazine design, planning and picture layout. He would be concerned particularly with a new magazine section of the London Sunday Times but would also be an adviser for other magazines published by Mr. Thomson.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Money Main Thought in Mind Of a Man Nearing Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

This is about retirement money — not about poverty, the present cones, sex or the disenchantment of middle age, but about money, which in the main is the most important single thought in the mind of the person coming up to retirement.

Money is best understood by the fellow who has it. And the fellow whose comments follow, low here in Belleville, has retired in 1959, at the age of 63, with $251,177. His name is William Wesley Mason. He and his wife are living at the moment in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Mr. Williams is living on the income from his $251,177 — $628 per month, or $145 a week, which is less than a good carpenter or plumber earns. Still, he retired with a quarter of a million dollars, which was an important sum in his life. He had only with $100,000 I could have said I was a tenth as wealthy," he says. "That wouldn't matter to anybody. If I had quit with $200,000 I could have said I had a fifth of a million dollars. That's off key, too. But to say you have a quarter of a million — that registers with people."

Mr. Williams is a bachelor. He has only his "quarter of." He has had invested in "tax exempts" — municipal bonds — and such which pay about 3 per cent, and on which he pays no income tax.

EXPERIENCE SPEAKS

Here is Mr. Williams on retirement money:

"There is no question that the country is full of people retired in retirement is the one who has between $50,000 and $100,000 a year income. The husband, while working, would have been making $6,000 a year. In order to warrant this sort of retirement income, he and his wife would have become used to salmads, big cars, clubs and a grade of what the fraternal order calls friends. The maids, cars and clubs serve to impress the friends, and when the friends vanish with the job — but most successful people have learned control to use this — the rich widow usually finds his cupboard bare."

"The couple who retires with $7,500 a year is in for a severe retirement if they move into a community of retired people. Between $5,000 and $6,000 of them if they move next door to the married $15,000-a-year couple....

"The couple getting $5,000 a year in retirement, which is about $100 a week, is usually a couple with $100,000 saved up from a good company pension, plus dividends from $30,000 to $40,000 invested in stocks and savings would be in common stocks or in a good mutual loan association. This couple, if they stay at home or move to a retirement village, live well, as they say, like retired people; but they rarely surrender what they try to live up to the status of the husband's former job of $10,000 or so a year.

THE HAPPIEST COUPLE

"The couple happiest in retirement — and from what I have observed it is the secret of this — is the one getting an income of $3,000 to $3,500 a year. This would be a couple with no large savings and one account, such as $5,000 or so, in a credit union or so. This couple can shave down to a point to become better than anybody who has been making more. They don't want much money.

"The couple retired on $2,400 a year — or $200 a month — gets by O.K., but without any olives in their martinis. You'll never hear them complaining that they have arrived at their $200 a month from a decent standard of living. People generally accustomed to spending $10,000 a year on a big house and pigs if they have to drop to $200 a month.

Mr. Williams' views on investments in retirement:

"The best investment is a good company that pays a liberal pension.

"The second best investment, if you have $10,000 or less to invest is an insured savings and loan association in one of the better cities that pays 4 per cent.

"The third best investment is bonds. Your money lives.

The fourth would be common stocks — conservative ones pay ing 4 per cent or so if you need the income; growth stocks if you don't, paying 2 to 3 per cent; speculative stocks which may pay 6 to 7 per cent, if you don't care what happens.

Council Favors Renaming Reach After Hayward

PICTON (Special) — A motion seeking to change the name of the Long Reach to "Hayward Long Reach" was passed at a meeting of the Prince Edward County Council Monday morning.

Mayor Harvey J. McFarland and his council endorsed the suggestion to change the name to pay tribute to the memory of the late Harry Hayward, world-famous speedboat driver, who lived here and piloted the Canadian Speedboat Limited Supertest III to retain the famous Harmsworth Trophy for Canada in 1960 and 1961. He died in a racing accident on the Detroit River last September.

If won the Harmsworth trophy from the United States for the fifth two-time successful defence ever made on the waters of the county's Long Reach.

Copies of the motion will be sent to the county councils of Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington, to the Department of Transport.

The suggestion to change the name was made by Geo. H. Carver, managing editor of the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer in his daily sports column.

Mr. Carver wrote: "... the Edward's Long Reach created in their tree-bordered amphitheatre, where a beautiful requiem to his memory when the summer breezes carved the placid surface under the sleek, funnel sons."

"I can think of no more fitting tribute to the memory of a great gentleman, courageous athlete and a credit in his sport and country than to name the Long Reach after him," Mr. Carver wrote.

"Hayward Reach would be a splendid memorial to this fine young man."

Company Will Continue Works Over Weekend

In an effort to keep ahead of water seeping into the newly excavated sewer trench, the construction Company Limited will work throughout the weekend on the installation of the sanitary sewer system on the Moira River at the CPR bridge.

Despite an earth coffer dam water has been pumped into the river crossing trench, making sewer installation difficult despite the operation of three eight-inch pumps to keep the level down.

During the past day the water has been pumped intermittently to again allow installation of sewer tile and freezing worsened conditions as much of possible thaw, the contractors are now granted permission to work over the weekend.

Tariff Battle Is Expected When Congress Resumes

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Ending a three-month holiday, an election - conscious Congress goes back to work Jan. 10 to face demands by President Kennedy for bigger, government spending and power to slash American tariffs in exchange for similar concessions by Europe.

With congressional elections scheduled for November, members may be quick to approve higher spending, especially on vote - fatty projects in home states. But bitter wrangling is to emerge on Kennedy's tariff plans. Protectionists are digging in for a battle.

To help pay for the continuing big defence build-up, along with higher price supports for farmers and hundreds of other federal programs, Kennedy is expected mapping out an unprecedented peacetime budget of about $92,000,000,000 for the fiscal year opening July 1.

This would be a rise of about $3,000,000,000 from current spending and would include proposed defence expenditures lopping $48,000,000,000. Kennedy's aides are striving for a balanced budget in contrast to the forecast $5,900,000,000 deficit for this year. But indications were the balance could be achieved only through measures which would mean a rise in postage rates.

WOULD AFFECT CANADA

Both the spending and tariff proposals will have significant implications for Canadian trade and prosperity, fligher outlays by the U.S. administration may help speed up the rate of economic recovery, enhancing the U.S. market for Canadian goods. Canadian exporters also would benefit from any reduction in U.S. and European tariffs.

A number of off-shoot issues may bear careful watching by Canadian policy-makers. One is an impending move by Kennedy to propose comprehensive new civil rights measures after the bitter trimming of surplus production.

Another is an administration proposal to make a start on building 1,000-mile high - voltage hydro power transmission lines in the Pacific Northwest, from a point below the Canadian border down to Los Angeles. A second demonstration of such long-distance transmission may point the way to creation of a national power grid both in the United States and Canada.

Three Hundred Homes Damaged By Tornado

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (AP)— Rescue workers toiling around the clock sifted through the wreckage of a tornado-stricken city today in a grim search for dead and injured.

Only one victim, a six-month-old girl, was known to have died in the twister which spun out of a squall line like a yo-yo and tore a three mile-long zig-zag path through this West Florida Panhandle community.

Fire Chief W. W. Jourdan, directing a highway patrol emergency team, said "there's a possibility a lot of dead people will show up" in the flattened debris of more than 300 homes damaged by the storm.

Approximately 6 persons were injured—five of them seriously enough to be taken to hospital—and an estimated 1,500 were left homeless by the twister which apparently dipped to earth for only three times.

VICTIMS HOUSED

Jourdan said there was "no refugee problem." Many of those whose homes were wrecked moved in with friends or relatives.

A series of squall lines blowing in from the Gulf of Mexico the Gulf Coast states spawned the tornado which pounded Crestview and other communities. Less severe damage elsewhere in northwest Florida and south Alabama. Slight property damage was reported at Destin and Paxton in Florida and at Glenwood in Alabama.

Executive officials estimated the property loss here at $1,000,000 or more.

The dead child was Donna Joyce Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson. A falling wall in their brick home crushed the child to death.

Reds in Paris Protest Attack On Head Office

PARIS (Reuters) — Paris braced itself for violence today as the Communists called for a demonstration to protest against the machine-gunning of their party headquarters here two days ago.

Riot police and gendarmerie reinforcements have arrived in the Paris area to prevent trouble. All police demonstrations have been banned in Paris for some time.

The interior ministry issued a reminder of the ban which said: "In the present circumstances direct demonstrations can only be occasions for disorder and serve subversive purposes."

A demonstration also was called by the Communists in Lille where a plastic bomb exploded early today in the local Communist party office, smashing the front steps, blowing in the doors and shattering windows. There were no casualties.

The Communist move came as sources close to the government said some 2,500 tough police were being drafted for duty in Algeria and that main Algerian towns will be split into security sectors in an attempt to keep Moslems and Europeans from each others' throats.

FIGHTING CONTINUES

The report followed another day of fighting between Moslems and Europeans in Algeria in which 13 persons were killed and 35 wounded.

In addition, 18 French soldiers were killed and seven wounded in an ambush and fire fight in eastern Algeria in one of the biggest battles between French and Moslem and regular troops since the New Year wave of violence began.

In the last two weeks of December the French army said 343 insurgents were killed, wounded or deserted to the French.

Meanwhile, French officials in Algiers announced that police have arrested 237 members of the outlawed right-wing extremist Secret Army Organization in the last few months.

Of the total, 44 are charged with murder, 36 with plastic bomb attacks, 56 for possession of arms and explosives, 19 for being members of an underground network and 25 as army deserters.

East Indonesian Air Space Closed Near New Guinea

MAKASSAR (Reuters) — Air space was closed and the general mobilization of men and women was ordered in eastern Indonesia Friday to prepare for the announced invasion of Netherlands New Guinea, which Indonesia claims as West Irian.

Jakarta radio said Col. Bubiri, East Indonesian commander, ordered the mobilization of all persons between the ages of 16 and 45 in the area.

The air force announced the closure of air space over the eastern part of Indonesia which faces West New Guinea. A naval spokesman said fleet exercises are under way in the Indonesian waters.

With a reported 250,000 battle-ready troops in this area on the alert for the invasion, President Sukarno inspected paratroops at Parepare, 100 miles north of Makassar.

NAMES MAIN BASE

Sukarno has designated this port in the South Celebes as the main invasion springboard to West New Guinea, 850 miles away, because of its harbor and airport facilities.

Brig. - Gen. Roelmit Hendrageral, Indonesian ambassador to Pakistan, flew in to Jakarta from Karachi on urgent summons from Sukarno.

Hendraningrat, former East Indonesian commandant, said the Netherlands has 10,000 soldiers and marines with American-made arms in West New Guinea.

(In Melbourne, Dutch Ambassador J. G. de Beus said Dutch forces would fight in event of an invasion and might "in some circumstances" ask for Australian help.

(De Beus said The Netherlands would be pleased to see a United Nations police force sent to the area.

(Australian Opposition Leader Arthur Calwell has called for government assurances on Australia's position in event of the invasion, describing Sukarno as Australia's enemy and a collaborator with Japan in the Second World War.)

The disputed territory occupies roughly half of an island north of Australia. The other half is ruled by Australia.

Charles Hilton New Chairman Of Utilities

TRENTON — Charles Hilton will be 1962 chairman of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission, Mr. Hilton served as commissioner in 1961. Thursday's inaugural meeting of the commission, he was elected to the chairmanship. Other commission members are Clifford A. Baker, Mayor James MacDonald and secretary James H. Page, who is also utilities manager.

Clerk-comptroller O. W. Lasey administered the oath of office to Mr. Baker, who was re-elected (by acclamation) to the commission in December. As Mayor MacDonald took an oath of office at the inaugural meeting of the council last Wednesday, it was not necessary that he be sworn as a commission member.

In a brief business session, following the swearing-in ceremony and election of a chairman, the commissioners discussed further plans to deepen and widen utilities water supply ponds in Murray Township. Mr. Page was instructed to search old records in an effort to establish the commission's rights in this area.

In a discussion about the town's water supply, Mr. Baker commented that although east-side residents had been supplied with spring water from the west side for months, some claimed that the water was coming from the river. Filtered river water is used to supply the RCAF station, to the east of the town.

Commission members were agreed that the proposal of the federal department of transport to launch a 10-year water surveys improvement program along the Trent canal, would not affect water supplies drawn from the river, as the water intake pipe is on the opposite side of the river from the canal.

RCMP said about 200,000 pounds of the meat appeared monthly on the market in Southern Ontario as rolled roast, bologna, sausage, stewing meat and hamburger.

By late Friday, more politicians than health officials were commenting on the problem, as city aldermen in Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa and several provincial and federal leaders made pronouncements.

DENOUNCES PRACTICE

Ontario Health Minister Dymond said sale of such meat is "a dreadful thing," and promised to bring it up at a cabinet meeting next week.

New Democratic Party Provincial Leader Donald MacDonald said the government's failure to enforce the Dead Animals Disposal Act of 1959 "comes very close to being criminal."

With five crucial provincial byelections coming up Jan. 18, meat inspection showed signs of mushrooming into a campaign issue.

Others arrested and charged were:

Charles Thompson of Brantford, Robert Hooten of nearby Scotland, Ont., both wholesale butchers; and employees of Argyle, Ont., Nick Pecoul, of Peterborough, Norbert Lacey, of Fyfe, of Chepstow, near Owen Sound;

George Gibson and Gordon Johnson of Fergus and Allen Carey of Waterdown.

Berchmans and Raymond Kipp, brothers, of Ottawa; Germain Menard and Jean Paul, of Hull, Regent and Jean Paul, of St. Onge, near Cornwall.

Gibson and Johnson appeared in court in Orangeville, Ont., and were remanded to Jan. 29 on $1,000 bail.

The five Ottawa - area men appeared in magistrate's court in Eastview, an Ottawa suburb, and were remanded on $1,000 bail each. GETS JOB BACK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board ruled Friday that firing a woman employee for refusing to tattle on her husband's union activities is illegal. It ordered Brookside Industries Inc., a shirt factory at Reidsville, N.C., to rehire Mrs. Louise A. Moore and pay her for lost wages since Oct. 19, 1960.

Dear Henry:—I have two children who refuse to take bath at all and ever. How can I get them to take a bath without reaching for the strap?—MRS. S. S.

Dear Mrs. S. S. — Buy some bubble bath. Most kids love it and I think you will have trouble getting them out of the tub.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have a son who is 13 next year. He has changed his mind many times about what he is going to be when he grows up. He doesn't show any strong inclination in any direction. Do you think this is something to be concerned about?—A LITTLE WORRIED.

Dear Worried:—You shouldn't be concerned. Kids change their minds. In high school there are more subjects and he will get more interested in something.

When I was 5 I was going to be a garbage collector and when I turned 6 I wanted to be the general of the army.

A year ago I wanted to be an army engineer who invents big guns. Now I want to be a foreign correspondent and who knows what will be next.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—I've got a library card and I lost a book which I borrowed from the library. I haven't told anybody because I am scared. What should I do?—DAVID S.

Dear David S.:—Tell your parents. They won't hit you they are there to help you. Save up what the book cost and be careful next time.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am a girl of 9 and I have two front buck teeth. I have a brother who sometimes calls me "Bugs Bunny". What am I to do.—BUGS BUNNY.

Dear Bugs Bunny:—Since you signed "Bugs Bunny" that means you don't mind being called that. Don't forget, Bugs Bunny won an Oscar Award. Tell your brother that you are proud to resemble Bugs Bunny and he will think of some other name to call you.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—I would like to buy my 7-year-old boy a ski outfit but he is not interested in this sport. My husband and myself love to ski and we would like our son to join us. How could we encourage him.—SKIING PARENTS.

Dear Skiing Parents:

When I first learned to ski,
On the wooden feet I hated to be,
But I had no choice and came to see
What great fun it is to ski.

Buy your boy a shiny ski set,
Put him on them, and I will bet
He will like the swift rearing fun
And be may, one day, be second to none.
HENRY.

Is Your WILL Up to Date?

Many people review their Will at the beginning of each year. Your executor may have moved away or become ill or become unable to give sufficient time and attention to administer your estate. In view of the considerable changes in dollar values your Estate has probably changed in value.

You may have given too many legacies, or too large in amount, under your Will and have deprived your wife and children of sufficient to provide for their care and keep. You may have to adjust some of the shares going to beneficiaries. Births, marriages and deaths in your family may have made your estate plans obsolete. Increased succession duties and income taxes may affect the estate plans made by you for your family.

Your Will is one of the most important documents you will ever be called upon to sign. If you have a Will, we suggest that you review it now — and if not make your Will now and appoint Victoria and Grey Trust Company as Executor.

It costs no more to have group judgment and financial responsibility.

Colonialism's Future

At a reception in Peking on Tuesday, to mark the anniversary of the Cuban revolution, Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi made a statement that is worthy of close inspection. Imperialism and colonialism, he said, "will not fall unless hit."

If one accepts that hypothesis, the world is in for a continual series of shocks in the next few decades—for there are innumerable places where vestiges of colonialism and imperialism will have to go.

The whole system of imperialism, and the ideas and ideals on which it was based, have been under attack for many decades now, not merely by Marxists but equally, and we think more effectively, by democrats. In spite of this there has been scarcely a nation in which any colonial power has relinquished its grasp on a square inch of land without pressure being exerted. But there have been instances where this pressure has been more akin to a push than to a blow. If the undermining of the foundation of imperialism has progressed thus far, might it not be possible for the coming years to see the remaining outposts of colonialism crumble without so much as a push?

The temptation is to answer in the affirmative. It must be restated, for Chen Yi is not without cases in point which support his view. There is one sign, for instance, of any reform in the viewpoints of Portugal or Spain. Where the imperial power is a democracy at home, it may free colonies without so much as a push, or with a push at most. But where the home government is a dictatorship, there is no good reason to expect it to establish a democratic regime in its colonies, and still less reason to expect it to yield to a another colonial dictatorship without being pushed very hard or hit a solid blow.

This conclusion is in keeping with our contention that democrats have been even deadlier enemies of colonialism than have Marxists. This, however, might not to lead us into the error of maintaining that communists are not foes of imperialism at all, but only of capitalistic imperialism. We ought not to confuse the issue by alleging that the communist states are expanding their new communist empires. This contention, however sound, from the standpoint of logic, but not from the standpoint of practical politics. With the possible exception of the Baltic States, the communist satellites are nominally ruled by native sons. That their inhabitants may enjoy far less freedom than the residents of almost all imperialistic colonies is true, but is largely beside the point. It has not been so much lack of freedom—in many colonies the poor have never been truly free—but the existence of self-evident foreign domination which has been resented. To talk of communist colonies is to talk like a white man. The colored people of communist countries will not understand. Accurate though the comparison may be, it will not be accepted as such by many except citizens of democratic white countries. And it is not these people whom we have to influence or to win as friends.

When Diefenbaker Directs

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA—Whether it makes for good government depends on where you sit politically, but you have to admit that the way Prime Minister Diefenbaker directs the Federal administration often does make for some pretty stirring drama.

Frequently, in the last couple of years Parliament Hill has recaptured something of the cliff-hanger element of the old silent movie serials.

So nothing is more certain than this fifth and final session of the Twenty-Fourth Parliament, opening with the Session's opening days for an end-of-March or first-of-April general election.

Think not?

Look at the Diefenercost.

MAN OF DRAMA

The feeling, the very atmosphere, the air of tension that expectancy in Parliament Hill now duplicate the same pit-of-the-stomach tension of four years ago.

John Diefenbaker had just won his great victory of the St. Laurent Liberals.

But it's not over close.

Anything could happen . . . and plenty did.

An election was in the air.

Remember how close it came? With such drama.

The Prime Minister and Trade Minister Hees left the House of Commons in . . . raced out to Uplands Air Terminal . . . and flew down to . . . to confer and ask the Governor-General for dissolution.

The election was called that day when the Prime Minister flew back to Parliament Hill . . . and he went on to win that stunning election victory in the end-of-March election.

Get the picture today . . . this is the Government's fourth year of office, its year of election destiny . . . Quebec holds for the Liberals . . . the public opinion polls, for whatever they may be worth, are running against the Conservatives . . . and while they may have 208 seats in the House even the wildest optimists among them know that their strength across the country falls somewhere below that high political watermark.

MAN OF IMPULSE

So the business that Parliament does in the next few days will be conducted against a background of the Prime Minister's hopes and plans the last five years.

Never, perhaps, before by lucky political coincidence, or have the Commons been functioning, that the two most important issues he has said will face the Commons in this session—on which he will make his best election pitch—Senate reform and the establishment of a new, universal, contributory social security system—would shove the existing old age pension.

Senate reform is the key.

Until the Senate is either by lucky political coincidence, or otherwise, changed in its

Sukarno Claims Indonesia Shortchanged on Guinea

Signature Not That of State Secretary Dorion

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Montreal handwriting experts agreed Friday after separate studies that the signature on a letter addressed to the late Wellie Cote in 1958 was not that of State Secretary Noel Dorion.

The experts are Dr. Rosario Fontaine, Quebec provincial police medico-legal expert, and Det.-Capt. Armand Morin of Montreal police identification bureau.

Their reports were released Friday by Jacques Marquis, Quebec City lawyer, who is Mr. Dorion's political organizer.

The letter to Cote, which Mr. Dorion denied writing or signing, appeared in the House and members of his staff on the now disbanded Quebec Spoor police force their assistance during the 1958 federal election campaign in Bellechasse, Mr. Dorion's constituency.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Mr. Dorion, now briefly in the prime minister's office Friday afternoon. But afterwards neither would comment for reporters on the letter.

REPORTS IN WAITING

Mr. Marquis said Dr. Fontaine's conclusion in a written report was:

"All these dissimilarities between the disputed signature and the authentic signatures which I had at my disposal . . . permit me to conclude that the signature which is the object of the appraisal is not that of Mr. Noel Dorion."

Mr. Marquis declined to disclose the points of dissimilarities found by Dr. Fontaine, but said they were about the same as those found by Capt. Morin.

Elizabeth Parent, Mr. Dorion's secretary in his law office, has stated in an affidavit she wrote the letter at the request of some unnamed person and signed it "Noel Dorion."

Capt. Morin said in an interview "there is no doubt" that the signature on the letter is not that of Mr. Dorion.

Indonesia's President Sukarno has been described as a politician by instinct.

Now his instinct has led him to the edge of a land of swamp and jungle that is one of the most underdeveloped countries in the world.

The Netherlands, which clung to largely impenetrable West New Guinea and its 700,000 poverty - stricken Papuan inhabitants, pulled out Netherlands India became Indonesia in 1946, looks on the territory as a great liability.

What, then, is the great attraction of the island which the Indonesians already call West Irian?

The word "prestige" pops up time and again as writers and commentators ponder the situation.

On the other side, the Dutch have been sinking up to $30,000,000 a year to keep West New Guinea afloat.

Despite the expense they are reluctant to give up their last possession in the Pacific and see it as an escape for some of the 200,000 Eurasians who might wish to leave Indonesia.

But their main opposition to Sukarno's take - over bid is that Indonesia has no ethnic, linguistic or religious fraternity with the Papuans.

INDONESIAN COLONY

To Sukarno's cry that he seeks to break the grip of a colonial power, Dutch reply that if they handed over the island it would simply become a colony of Indonesia instead of Netherlands.

Also the Dutch, and many Western countries, are reluctant to see a people delivered into the hands of a government that has shown itself to be so reckless — particularly in the handling of Dutch residents of Indonesia following independence.

Whatever happens the country that takes up half the island of New Guinea will need outside help for a long, long time. Australia administers the other half.

American Stock Exchange Under Fire in Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Stock Exchange was accused by federal investigators Friday of permitting "manifold and prolonged abuses" of laws and rules designed to protect the investing public.

The Securities and Exchange Commission released a seven-month investigation of the second-largest stock exchange in the United States in a 127-page report which contended the exchange has been dominated by a four-man oligarchy.

It said the dominant group has included Joseph P. Reilly, who currently heads the exchange as president pro tem.

Reilly was named to that post following the forced resignation as chairman of Edward T. McCormick. McCormick quit Dec. 31 after the exchange directors learned he had accepted a $5,000 favor from a man subsequently convicted on stock selling charges.

Named along with Reilly as the dominant figures in the exchange were Charles J. Bocker, vice-chairman of the board of governors, and E. E. Pyne, chairman of the committee on finance; and John J. Mac, chairman of the committee on floor transactions.

The report said that during the last 10 years these four men have held the key positions in the government of the exchange in rotation.

CRITICISM BROAD

A broad sampling of exchange members—and even the SEC itself—came in for sharp criticism in what was perhaps the most explosive report ever issued by the 27-year-old commission.

At a press conference, Milton H. Cohen, director of the probe, indicated the SEC will take action against some of those held as responsible for alleged abuses.

There may have been criminal violations in the activities investigated, Cohen said, but he had no responsibility for such following under the terms of his investigation.

Cohen declined also to answer a reporter's question whether the SEC had been "remiss" in not moving in on the dealings criticized, but he said:

We point out a few places where the SEC might have done something it didn't do, or might have been more vigilant."

Reilly, who has agreed not to seek re-election as chairman of the 33-man board of governors and as president pro tem, said he had not seen the report and added in New York:

There will be no comment from the American Stock Exchange at this time. We must first receive the report. We must then devote considerable time to a thorough study of its contents."

Reilly said AmEx had publicly welcomed the SEC investigation and added that both he and the exchange as well as the brokerage firms had co-operated with the commission.

The SEC report accused the exchange of tolerating lax management and said that if it does not act quickly to bring broad reforms "the commission must be prepared to exercise its supervisory powers."

The investigation was launched by the SEC finding last May that two prominent AmEx men, Harry and Gerard Re, had engaged in multiple manipulations and illegal stock sales totalling more than $10,000,000. The Res, father and son, were ordered expelled by the SEC and now are awaiting grand jury action on federal criminal charges.

A Collection of House Plants

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Most of us collect houseplants one by one, a gift from here, a slip from there, and then we have a few. If you are just starting a collection consider the following plants. They are more tolerant of dry air than the soft leaf types.

Try climbers for a start. These may frame a window with cheery plants on the window sill with a pleasing picture. Here we find the heart, shaped leaves of the philodendrons. There are large leaf types and smaller ones also one that do not climb, Scindapsus Marble Queen with its lovely mottled green and cream leaves, does not like a south window, nor do the philodendrons. In fact they do well away from the window on a table. Philodendrons like filtered light too. If you must have them near the light, screen them with semi-sheer curtains or venetian blinds. In the same class you will find Fingernail, grape ivy, and Cissus rotundifolia.

Sansevierias with their sword-shaped leaves never seem to go out of fashion. They are also called beside mother-in-laws, tongue and snake plants, the cast iron plant. They demand a rather dry soil to grow well.

Peperomias, Maranta, Rubber plant, Pilea, Dracena and many ferns are not too hard to keep in good condition for many years. They do need a more even temperature and more humidity that the first two groups.

Flowering plants are some, thing else again. They demand more care here than the foliage plants, but with the right treatment they will last for several weeks.

Begonia semperflorens flowers freely and do African violets in the winter. The begonias need strong light and cool window, the violets indirect light and a warm atmosphere.

Many people like to make a collection of one kind of plant. The ivies, philodendrons, geraniums and many others have large family connections and they vary within the same family is astonishing. Many of the plant families have dwarf types which make interesting houseplants. Miniature ivies are an example. Here we find the light green with yellow mottling, variegated and many named varieties.

The ivies have been under the eye and the thumb of the hybridizers too and from cross-ing them with other plants we have a whole new strain called the Fatshedera. Numerous forms in these ivies are now available. They are proving to be handsome and quite hardy house plants.

TRAILING PLANTS

The Hoyes are trailing plants that lend themselves to interesting collections. You can tie them in a fan or arch shaped support or allow them to trail down from a high window. Hoya Bella miniature is a little treasure. It is a slow grower with small pointed leaves and blooms much more freely than the larger hoyas.

Umbrella plant is an old favorite that could well be included in a collection. The narrow grass-like leaves are attached to a central stem and form an umbrella effect. It is very hardy and the unusual leaf form makes a good choice.

Begonia rex makes handsome plants for the home. There are the fancy rex types and the old Beefsteak begonia with its crepe like leaves. The veins and undersides are bright red. Angel wing and many others were developed from Sutherlandia with cuttings, or slips, as they are called given to favorite friends. The peperomia types with small flowers, are not seen often then they are offered in the spring bulb catalogues. Given a good light and plenty of fertilizer they bloom for months in the winter. Begonia Rex stems from Switzerland has big bright leaves, and extremely free blooming. Good plants to cut. B. Sunderland and B. Evansia are exceptional. By good care plants that will furnish you with plenty of bloom.

Market would be formed without Britain, but Government tried to soften the impact by arguing for a free trade area covering most European nations. Neither French President de Gaulle nor West German Chancellor Adenauer were willing to risk losing the more promising prospects of the French, German rapprochement for but a restricted British participation.

After the free-trade area talks broke down, Britain fell back on the peripheral Outer Seven trading area. The Scandinavian countries, Britain, Austria, Switzerland and Portugal banded together to try to get suitable terms from the Six.

Finally, last August Britain abandoned this approach and applied for full membership. Within weeks, Denmark and Ireland also submitted applications.

Three neutrals — Austria, Switzerland and Sweden — applied for associate membership last month. Norway is seriously considering a move towards membership. Portugal is considered a full member, and thought is being given to an easier form of association.

Membership will confront British industry and labor with a sharp competitive threat. The hope is that this will induce a vigorous response from both.

The Commonwealth is proving to be the most difficult problem confronting the Brussels negotiators. Britain, in effect, is being asked to choose between Europe and the imperial preferential trading system.

British has chosen the former and those engaged in the talks now are optimistic. Despite the extent of the task of looking after Commonwealth interests,

Seagoing Tug Now in Port

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) — The 150-foot seagoing tug Commodore Straits, her steel bulwarks and rails bent and twisted came into this northern port under tow Friday after riding out a night of mountainous seas and 100-mile-an-hour winds.

She lost both her tow and her rudder and for hours was at the mercy of the elements.

A survey crew began examining the vessel to determine whether damage was confined to her superstructure, where twisted rails and broken deck gear testified to the fury of the storm.

Meanwhile an aircraft from Prince Rupert reported it had located the big self-loading log barge Forest Prince, which the tug lost in the blow. The plane reported the barge had blown north in the vicinity of Dall Island near Gravina Island off the coast of Alaska.

B.C. Spending $1,250,000 For Convenience of Salmon

VICTORIA (CP) — About $1,250,000 is being spent to change the geography of Vancouver Island for the convenience of spawning and migrating salmon.

A flow-control project on the Qualhorn River, 100 miles north of here, involves diversion of a creek and construction of a 2,000-foot tunnel, concrete flumes and drop structures.

Fisheries experts hope to control the temperature and flow of the river where millions of Pacific salmon and trout are born each year.

The Qualhorn River has always been affected by weather. In times of high water the natural rate of fish going up to spawn has been as great as 18.5 per cent. In times of drought it is as low as five per cent.

One of the most spectacular phases of the project, largest undertaken by the federal fisheries department, is the concrete tunnel eight feet in diameter which will control the flow from Horse Lake to the river.

A 96-foot vertical shaft with three separate intakes from the lake at different levels will provide the means for temperature control.

RAISE LAKE LEVEL

An earthfill dam will be built across the present river channel to provide sufficient storage to raise the lake level.

The lake may be backed up 20 feet above its normal level of 392 feet.

In an effort to overcome flooding a small stream that enters the river will be diverted through an open channel to near the mouth of the river.

The project started last April. When it is completed, in time for the 1962 spawning season, the department hopes it will be able to maintain a regulated flow of 200 cubic feet a second in the river during the Aug. 1-Dec. 15 spawning period.

With stable conditions, it is believed existing spawning areas will be able to accommodate twice the number of salmon—possibly increasing the population to 200,000.

Efforts may be made to clean spawning areas and gravel to create conditions in which eggs can be planted. The spawning area may be increased at relatively low cost. Areas of valley bottom are available adjacent to the river where channels can be built and the controlled flow passed through to meet additional spawning requirements.

Tiny Country of Switzerland Has Assortment of Cultures

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Bern, Switzerland — One of the intriguing things about Switzerland is the checkered assortment of cultures that go to make up the tiny country. It's a kind of mix-and-match proposition about which it is highly unwarranting to generalize, for each borrows liberally from the other.

For example, the capital city of Bern is geographically German Swiss but culturally French. Although German is the main language, nearly as much French is spoken and the German is sprinkled with the "merci," "pardon," and even "ooh la la." And though Germans are supposed to be plodding and comparatively humorless, Bern's outlook on the world has a Gallic twinkle in its eye.

There is a museum here for headsmen's axes, each of which, we are told, chopped off at least 100 heads in its time. One of the most famous citizens of Bern was Marie Grosholz, who modeled heads of French Revolution victims and brought them to London where her gruesome exhibition brought her undying fame. She was better known as Madame Tussaud.

A display in a drugstore window blandly advertises throat lozenges recommended for politicians, public speakers, actors, singers, zodiacs — everybody. A popular gathering place is the Theatre Restaurant, where tongue-in-cheek murals on the walls depict eighteenth-century dandies and ladies leering at each other with considerably more interest than at the performance.

ONLY TWO BOOKS

In the handsome carved oak chamber of the city government's executive council there are only two books on the chairman's desk. One is a beautiful velvet-upholstered Bible, and the other is the Bible, rarely do executive because the Bible is no longer used for oaths in Switzerland. The other one we have, is used all the time. It is a railroad timetable.

Bern's mischievous preoccupation with bears crops up again in the form of the colorfully painted medieval statues atop fountains throughout the city. This zealous work commemorating some sanctified upheaval depicts the statues of Justice standing over the severed heads of the Holy Roman emperor, the Pope, the vanquished sultan of Turkey and the mayor of Bern, to the august contempt for His Honor.

Bern's most famous landmark is the ingenious clock tower that dominates its central square. Its history is that of a succession of the clock itself, an ornate arrangement of figures, a parade with elongated gilt hands, a rare 24-hour clock, an astrological clock and a child's-delight series of mechanical bears that Joyce A. — When I ask my mother a sex question, she tells me to look it up.

Mrs. W.A. — I'm embarrassed to tell you what things the school ought to teach.

* * *

Joyce A. — If I'll years old and I'm trying to find out a few things about myself, I'd love to find them out from my mother. But, she either changes the subject or tells me to look up words in the dictionary. The trouble is I don't understand the dictionary. When I ask her, to explain what it means, she says wait, she'll get me a book.

All my friends seem to know much more than I do. Why? They learn things from their older sisters as well as their mothers.

* * *

Mrs. W.A. — I guess it's my duty to give Joyce the facts of life. But I get tongue-tied and feel foolish. Nobody ever sat down and told me anything when I was her age. It's the sort of thing she shouldn't think about too much. Little by little she'll find out whatever she needs to know. But I'm counting on the hygiene lessons in school to tell it all to the girls in the right way.

The best I can do is at least let Joyce know when somebody has told her something untrue.

* * *

The Council: If a girl's best friend is her mother, a mother's best friend may well be a book, or a booklet.

But books can give only facts, and teachers can't go much further than diagramming. Why? Because they must address Joyce as a statistic — one of millions of 13-year-olds presumed to be somewhat alike. That's why mothers are best. Mrs. A. You know Joyce isn't like the lipsticked teener around the corner who says, just can't wait to date, nor is she like the crushed little creature down the block who won't let go of her mother's skirt. You know her moods when you are on tap and can translate the cold facts into terms which suit her personality.

We hasten to assure Joyce, however, that her personality is quite unique. Few mothers are relaxed enough, articulate enough to communicate things intimately and correctly. Questioning a group of 100 expectant couples in Toronto recently, Msgr. George A. Kelly learned that less than 20 per cent of them had received valid sex instructions from the lips of parents.

Certainly Joyce needs more than the facts of life. She needs attitudes — a sense of awe about the miracle of the plan, a sense of pride in being sheerly a bit of eternity right inside her body! This plus things of self best in the home sell, outlined by mothers for daughters, like religion the best morality lessons. "Don't," not taught. Hailing though-her language be, Mrs. A. can illumine her talks to Joyce with clear indoctrination as to right and wrong, beauty and ugliness. From her mother, in personal intimate terms, Joyce's sex instruction can be intertwined with preparation for happy marriage some day.

British mothers have an 80-minute LP recording to resort to. It's entitled "All About Sex," and costs $5.80. In the U.S., the American Medical Association offers the reacie with a 50-cent booklet for Joyce, "Finding Yourself," and a ditto for you, "Facts Aren't Enough".

WATSON — EDMUNDS

CAMPBELLCROFT — The marriage of Esther Jane Edmunds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Edmunds of Norwood and Kenneth Arden Watson, son of Mrs. Arden Watson of Campbellcroft and the late Mr. Watson, was solemnized at the bride's home on Saturday, December 30th. The Rev. W. F. G. Anderson of Deer Park United Church, Toronto, assisted by the Rev. David Gaik of Norwood United Church, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white brocade gown with short sleeves, panelled skirt in the new length and a basque bodice. Her headdress was a coronet of crystal and pearls with a chapel veil. She carried white roses and stephanotis.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Barbara Edmunds, in a floor length gown of pale gold of three-quarter length brocaded silk trimmed with fur. Her headdress was a petal band with a short circular veil.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Allen.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents and decided their admiration for their accomplishments. Among the most persons would include the first two names, today, as outstanding as the first half century of American history. Few, however, would include Aldrich, Hay or Mellon in the list of Treasury. He's unknown; an example of how difficult it is to deal some men, an unfair, being reward. Fame forgotten.

"Cannot believe have never heard of him. Who was he?" we asked. And we were told:

"Albert Gallatin was a lad from Geneva, Switzerland, whose academic aptitude was such before he was nine, and was revered by a wealthy, domineering, aristocratic family. Under the Calvinistic atmosphere of home and country, down to sense an avid reader of Rousseau, who advocated escape from civilization back to the wilds of nature. A year following his graduation from the Academy, he left for U.S. in 1779, Albert yearned to do so, boarded a ship, arriving in Jans farewell, for the land of freedom.

In my mind, the way Albert wandered about the Maine frontier, teaching French at Harvard, to finally establish himself as a frontier merchant in Pennsylvania, and then become involved in frontier politics which, along with his economics, helped to stimulate economy, ultimately elected him to the Pennsylvania Assembly. Sentatives, is a notable achievement, for a young emigre to accomplish.

But he had just begun his endeavors. There's a saying, that one's flight through life is sustained by the power of knowledge.

Gallatin's knowledge of constitutional law and local legislation served him well in the leadership of the Jeffersonian faction and party. He was destined to be headed the young nation's economy. With States determination, he reduced the national debt from 80 to 45 million by 1810 and only a year or of 1812 prevented him from eradicating it altogether.

"In 1813 he was a delegate for the diplomatic corps. As Minister of France and Britain he played a vital part in settling the northern boundary of the United States. In 1826 he left the government to become an influential New York banker and in 1842 founded what American Ethnological Society, in which he was active until his death seven years later, at the age of 86. His store of writings on ethnology, linguistics and ethnological subjects is incalculable. He rose to a high humane endeavor by flawless character, and because of it, is forgotten. Even his contributions, dreams and legend that immortalized.

"Nevertheless", concluded the young guide, "such deeds and gifts as these powers with the fabric of national history, intact, shining and brilliant as when newly minted and as they are truly lost. Even today, while one part of our national spirit is making history by reaching for the moon, another part is remaking history. Time drawing the line with an asimal as she does with her children."

For one thing, she should insist that a dog's place is on the floor and not on the furniture. She will keep him away from guests when he's shedding. As an extra precaution, she will vacuum the upholstery before company comes.

She should also train herself to refrain from taking her dog into restaurants. No matter how sad the temporary parting, Mary Jane's non-self-conscious baby has missed a heartbeat as she watched her four-legged visitor, out of the corner of the room.

Good manners, in this case, means good training, both for the pet and its owner.

APPRENTICESHIP FOR GREATNESS

"These are thy honors!"—Alexander Pope.

What a variety of names!

We're speaking of all the township names that make up our County of Hastings: McClure, Wicklow, Bangor, Lyell, Herschel, Monteagle, Carlow, Faraday, Dungannon, Marmora, Wollaston Limerick, Cashel, Lake, Tudor, Grimsthorpe, Marmora, Msgog, Elzevir, Rawdon, Huntingdon Hungerford, Sidney, Thurlow, Tyendinaga.

Names of names are most of these, that enhance our own locale with hints of respective achievement obscured by time. Who were they? What did they do? Their deeds are worth knowing interesting listening.

This brings to mind a conversation with a guide for a Montana Rocky Mountain Lodge, where we were guested. In reply to our comments upon the names of the three forks of the Missouri River that rise in that state, the guide, a young University student engrossed in work upon his doctorate in American History, said:

"Well, they were named by Lewis and Clark, the explorers of the west: the Jefferson, the Madison, the Gallatin, and selected their admiration for their accomplishments. Among the most persons would include the first two names, today, as outstanding as the first half century of American history. few, however, would include Aldrich, Hay or Mellon in the list of Treasury. SOCIAL and PERSONAL

The tower was built about 1825 as part of the city gate and was once used as a prison. In 1527 the city-fathers assigned one Caspar Brunner, a master clockmaker, to get things ticking. Brunner moved himself and his family right into the tower, and when he emerged three years later, the city of Bern was confident it would never again have to wonder what time it is.

RAN FOR 300 years

The clock ran for nearly 300 years and then broke down. Brunner was long gone and no one had the slightest idea how to fix the thing. Then like a shining knight came forth a blacksmith's apprentice from Langnau named Blaser, who is allowed us how he might get time marching on again.

After a decade without their beloved clock, in a country where time is the major industry, the Bernese were desperate. Threatening Blaser with dire punishment if he failed, they let him tackle the job, and somehow he got the mechanism running again.

The gamble rewarded him by making him chief clock watcher of all Bern, responsible for tending all the clocks.

Brunner's tower clock has run ever since, with the original mechanism. And for all to see, Blaser, like the Medici, have put their names on it.

The Bernese prefer to believe that their city was named because some Daniel Boone of the middle ages shot a bear over the city. This seems to them more commemorating something sanctified upheaval depicts the statues of Justice standing over the severed heads of the Holy Roman emperor, the Pope, the vanquished sultan of Turkey and the mayor of Bern, to the august contempt for His Honor.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

PETS CAN CAUSE PAIN, SUFFERING

With the footwork of a premiere danseuse of the dog world, Buster sailed through the air and made a fourpaw landing on the guest's lap.

Buster is the smallest dog in the neighborhood and he proceeded to give the poor man a fine demonstration of his ever-lovin' nature.

The man, naturally, started to transfer his attentions elsewhere, this fine furry animal jumped right back at him full tilt with a missile off a launching pad, landing squarely in the center of his affection (and a shrinking coast) in the form of dozens of fine, sharp hairs on the gentleman's fine suit.

Patriotic, but not polite.

The scene reminded me that etiquette applies to the animal world as well as to the two-legged creatures this column usually concerns.

Pets mean almost as much as people, but the same rule of thumb applies — there's a time and a place for everything.

The hostess of the world must learn that laps are for napping and thick clothes, and it's time to their owners to teach them this dismall fact of life.

If you live in the country, you must convince Buster that his place is in the great outdoors when guests are around. If you're an apartment dweller, you have a different problem. But if other dog-owners can do it, so can you.

A well-mannered pet is a joy when others are present. Fog is the time to bring your dog to you and won't shower affection on strangers. He'll appreciate company, but from a polite distance.

Dogs are notorious for the call for dinner does not include him. Table scraps, bones and other animals lurk under the table and nuzzle new-found friends into sending him a handout.

"I don't refuse to suggest that Buster, they don't should know when to retire to a neutral corner.

These and other attributes of a well-mannered pet are achieved by a little training. The considerate pet-owning hostess should spend a little time drawing the line with an asimal as she does with her children.

For one thing, she should insist that a dog's place is on the floor and not on the furniture. She will keep him away from guests when he's shedding. As an extra precaution, she will vacuum the upholstery before company comes.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

THE CROW

To the uninitiated any large, black bird is "a crow". True, the common or American crow is the one we of eastern and central Canada see from early spring until late autumn; and those of us who live in the extreme southern portion continue to see it off and on throughout the winter. However, there are other kinds.

Though not nearly as large as a raven, the common crow is the biggest of its family. Four whereas it occurs from 17 to 21 inches in length, the shorter raven is 23½ inches and the longest, 26½. The common crow may be distinguished from others by both its manner of flight and its voice. The wingbeat is deep and steady; some authorities state that the bird seems to "row through the air". Our phrase "straight as the crow flies" is not be overlooked because a crow does not generally keep a very straight course. The well known "caw" of the crow belongs to the common crow; though it uses a different pitches and is capable of making a variety of other sounds; a squawking call is given by the young ones.

HAVE an Appetite

Arguments over the undesirability of crows are many. Sure enough, they do damage corn crops and eat eggs and nestlings, but they also feed on caterpillars, cutworms, wild fruit, seeds, and nuts. They are actually beneficial in destroying injurious insects. It is safe to say that everything in nature was put here for a purpose, and the less we disturb things the less trouble we have. Each species is dependent upon other species.

The fish crow, with an average length of 17 inches, so seldom enters Canada that unless we travel down the Atlantic coast; from south of our border we are unlikely to see it. The western crow, found in east central B.C. and throughout the U.S., although smaller, greatly resembles our eastern common crow.

The northwestern crow is found only on the coast of the eastern seaboard. It is much smaller than the common crow and ranges from the Pacific Ocean from Alaska all the way down the Canadian coast and well up into the U.S. south of Puget Sound. Noteworthy is the fact that it has a much more rapid wingbeat than the common crow, and instead of the familiar "caw", we cannot help but notice that its voice is more nasal (and unpleasant) and the call a short "ca".

A LITTLE GIRL looks astounding with her hair done up in a bun, but it's sometimes difficult to keep stray wisps from spoiling the effect. Once you've made the bun, pin a fine hair net over it and anchor it securely. Most nets are big enough so you can use double thickness for added holding.

Readers' Saturday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question: At a coffee party I attended Cheese Squares were served. They were simply delicious . . . I did not know the hostess well enough to enquire . . . Would you have one in your collection . . . the ingredients are rich and sort of crumbly in texture . . . Pauline M.O.

Answer: I think the following is it:

CHEESE SQUARES
(Or Cushions)

2-3 cup shredded old Cheddar Cheese, ½ cup butter or margarine, 2 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon red pepper.

Blend the cheese and butter or margarine thoroughly. Work in the flour sifted with the salt and red pepper. Ice water should be added. Mix mixture will be crumbly. Wrap in waxed paper and chill several hours. Roll to ⅛" thickness, folding the crumbs over and over until the mixture is flaky. Cut into squares. Place on cookie sheet, leaving space for them to spread. Bake at 375 deg. F. 20 minutes. Puffy morsels, lovely with salads or as a buffet table.

Question: Once again I turn to you for help . . . do you have any recipe using chick peas (other than for soup) and also a good recipe for Swiss steak? V.E.G.

Answer: I think the most popular way to use them, other than in soup, is

PEAS CROQUETTES

2 cups chick pea puree (see below) 1 beaten egg, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon thyme for crumbling.

Soak peas overnight, cook until they are a thick puree. Measure. Add egg, onion, Worcestershire, Sauce and butter. Mix and spread on platter to chill. Shape into cylinders, dip in 1 egg, beaten with 1 tablespoon water, drain a little, then roll in fine crumbs. Let stand to dry for 20 minutes. Fry in deep fat at 390 deg F. turning when underside is golden and finish other side. Drain on paper towelling. Serve instead of potatoes. Lovely with ham.

SWISS STEAK

One 2-lb. slice round steak, 1 clove garlic, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 6 tablespoons flour, 2 sliced onions, 2 tablespoons shortening, 2 cups water or consomme, 1-3 cup diced celery, ¼ cup chili sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon tarragon (optional), ½ teaspoon thyme (optional).

Rub steak with cut garlic, first amount of salt and pepper. Sprinkle with 4 tablespoons of flour and pound it well on both sides. Brown the onions in shortening in heavy frying pan. Remove and add brown steak well on both sides. Return onions to meat, add water or consomme, celery and carrot. Season with salt and herbs if used. Cover and simmer until meat is very tender — about 2½ hours. Thicken gravy with a little flour and water paste. This is perfect Swiss steak and serves 3 to 6 people.

A Lift For Living

Kindness Is Love in Action

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Successful men sometimes look at the fellow down the ladder and say: "I made my way. If they've got it in them, they can make them." Got what in them? Energy! They may be just as earnest, just as morally good. But they have been created with fewer talents. Therefore, these abler men must put kindness into their judgments.

Peace among nations is the world's most pressing concern. But kindness among people is a close second. While we are pleading for brotherly love, let us remember that kindness is love in action.

Without kindness love becomes paralyzed. Thomas Carlyle loved his wife and was loyal to her, but he made no effort to show it. The brilliant Jane sacrificed her own interests to aid her husband's genius. After her death, Carlyle discovered through reading his wife's journal that her nature had been frozen and starved to death through want of affection. Then he began his pilgrimage to his wife's grave, where in tears he kept murmuring, "If I had only known, if I had only known."

Thomas Arnold, headmaster of Rugby School, once lost patience and soundly berated a boy who was not keeping up in his studies. An hour later the lad came back to him in tears and said, "Why are you so angry? I am doing my best." It is said that this incident aroused in Arnold a new sympathy of understanding which started him on the road to be the great schoolmaster known to history.

And think of kindness to the sick. As the marriage altar husband and wife take the vow, "to love and to cherish, for better for worse, in sickness and in health, until death do us part." By imagination sometimes flies out to picture what that may mean. I think of a home where the wife was stricken about a year after marriage with an ailment that left her rigid, on her bed unable to feed herself for twenty years. But that marriage bond was not broken and I never heard any bitterness of complaint from either wife or husband.

Kindness—the timely act that sometimes so effectively set at ease; the gentle consideration for another's sorrow which checks the voice of a too impulsive pity and gives a silent but recognized sympathy; the sensitive shrinking from anything which might give another pain and yet the willingness to be stern when nothing less will cure; the delicate bestowing of favors in ways which do not hurt the recipient's self-respect — these are some of the ways which the prophet Micah must have had in mind when he wrote that the Lord requires us "to love kindness."

It has been said that little acts of kindness are stowed away in the heart like bags of lavender in a drawer, to sweeten every object around them.

But that figure is hardly sturdy enough. Frederick W. Faber, expert in the treatment of souls, declared that kindness has converted more sinners than zeal, eloquence or learning. And Wordsworth was right when he said: "The best portion of a good man's life is his little nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and love."

Yet these little acts require largess of heart and much effort of mind. It takes so much grace to help without hurting. A tearful mother sat in my study. She so desperately desired to help her son's household, but how could she reach the hearts there? She was humbled by her helplessness and prayed daily to God. She was following Micah's full formula: "to do justice and to love kindness and to walk humbly with your God."

Thumb Down American Rules Import

Editors Casters Vote

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's sports editors and broadcasters have united in an almost solid front against importing American football's 11 - man, four-down game. They don't want any change in the traditional 12-man, three-downs Canadian rules.

Their views were expressed in the 37th annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll announced today. CP asked whether these suggested changes should be adopted.

At a conference of the Canadian Football League in Toronto early in December, Ottawa Rough Riders and the Eastern Conference proposed a switch to 11 men. They also had men suggested adoption of the four-downs system and these matters will be discussed at the Feb. 16-17 CFL annual meeting in Vancouver.

In the CP poll all but one of the editors and broadcasters is for nine football fields from Montreal to Vancouver, who turned in their votes marked against the changes. The dissenter was Doug Smith of CKGM Montreal. TOO MUCH LIKE SOCCER

Smith contended the pro game in Canada "is losing some of its customer appeal due to the increased exposure of National Football League games in this country. In 1961, for the first time, NFL games were televised nationally in Canada.

"There is little chance of Canadian football again corralling top (American) college draft choices and it must come up with ways to make the game easier to play for the imports, and for Canadian players who are not quite as skilled as they used to be," Smith said.

Fifty-one of the 52 who voted came out with an emphatic "no" against a change. Seven didn't fill in their ballots and almost all of the other 15 favored either the back-field 11-man game or the four downs — or both — or didn't want both.

Many of those against a change said that switching to American rules would make Canadian football a second - rate American game.

"Canadian football's only hope of surviving the deluge of television of U.S. football is to remain different," said Milt Dunnell of the Toronto Star.

The sports staff of CFRA Ottawa combined on this: "Canadian football can't afford to allow any more Americanization with NFL teams. If the package is the same, the product will be recognized for its inferior goods it is."

"We have something really good now. The rules don't need any meddling with," said Ken Walker of the Toronto Telegram.

If they ever go this far, let them also throw out the single point, reduce the field and play strictly Canadian rules," said Jack Kofthaus of the Ottawa Citizen. "That would give us the fair catch, which is about as exciting as pitching corn."

Maurice Smith of the Winnipeg Free Press said the 1965 Grey Cup final—a 21-14 Winnipeg Blue Bomber overtime victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats — "was little short of that the Canadian football game is entertaining, providing the competition is even."

Len Taylor of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record said that Canadian football's "one remaining claim to distinctiveness and, if we lose this the game will be a third-rate U.S. pro league."

Ralph Hicks of Montreal said will be an attempt by American interests in the U.S. to start the game down the throats of Canadians," commented Jack Park of the Toronto Free Press.

"Canada hasn't a flag or a national anthem," said Johnny Esaw of CFTO-TV Toronto, "We can't afford to lose this remaining identity."

"Such moves would leave the Canadian league strictly a second-rate league," added sports-caster Ted Reynolds of CBC-TV Vancouver.

Not Producing, Says Coach

Moore, Beliveau, Blake Worries

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens says he is worried.

His chief concern is the failure of big guns like Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore to produce.

But he also feels uneasy about his team's inconsistent play and the peaky Toronto Maple Leafs, who have narrowed Canadiens' lead atop the National Hockey League standings to a single point.

"It's not the end of the world for us", says Blake. "We may still get going the way we should. At one point last season the Leafs were six points ahead of us and we managed to overtake them.

"Then again," he adds wistfully, "if they ever get six points ahead of us this year, we may not be able to catch them."

Blake was particularly displeased about the Canadiens' lackluster performance in Toronto Wednesday.

'AT OUR WORST'

"It was a game in which we should have been at our best," he said. "Instead we were at our worst. Hats off to Leafs but Blake said the margin of victory could have been much higher if goalie Jacques Plante had not been at his best and the Leafs had hit plenty of goalposts.

Blake admits he just doesn't know what gives with Beliveau and Moore.

Considering that Jean was hurt at training camp and had to get into condition all over again when he joined the team, I didn't expect too much from him.

"But I did hope he would play much better than he has so far. I'll admit I'm disappointed."

Moore has been troubled with a limp since. He figures the knee will come around and all he needs is regular duty.

"But," says Blake, "we can't afford to lose four of five games just to get a couple of players into shape."

Canadiens, who have lost their only two starts of the new year, are at home to New York Rangers tonight. Sunday night they'll be in Detroit.

ALL TEAMS BUSY

Other teams also will see action twice during the weekend in tonight's other games, Chicago is at Toronto and Boston at Detroit. In other games Sunday, Boston plays at Chicago and Toronto at New York.

Canadiens, who haven't lost to Rangers in seven starts this season, expect to have sparkplug centre Henri Richard back in the lineup tonight.

Richard missed six games with torn hip muscles. He was injured during the first workout after a team workout Friday.

Canadiens' other casualty, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, is doubtful starter for the weekend games.

The Boomer has been sidelined with a sore left knee—the same one that bothered him during the Stanley Cup playoffs last spring. He was felled Friday but Blake won't know whether he will be playing right winger will be available until shortly before game time.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

We have always found Americans, as a rule, to be blisteriard generous people who believe, generally speaking, that one good turn deserves another.

Take the case of that college football coach—but we'll come to him later.

We have a Canadian Football League which literally tosses thousands of dollars annually into American players' laps. Why it even closed Canadian television in some parts of the country so that we, in the hinterland, could enjoy the good old American game.

The jolly old league, apparently worried about American college graduates, who majored in football being forced to join the ranks of the unemployed, sanctioned its member clubs to send their birdwatchers on safari from Maine to Mexico, Hatteras to Honolulu, and Alaska to Alabama to offer these unfortunates employment.

It has gone so far to suggest that certain Canadian rules be Americanized so these gridiron expatriates will feel more at home on the cold football tundras of this northern clime.

In grateful appreciation, no doubt, of these generous actions, an American rah-rah hockey coach has suggested that Canadian hockey in general and the National Hockey League in particular, improve the game by adopting American college rules.

Canadian-style hockey, says one Lou Cegarski, 33-year-old mentor of the Clarkson College hockey team, winners of a school tournament in New York State, is "a discordant symphony of holding and grabbing . . . There's no real stickhandling, and it concests the ice."

American rules, he says, allow bodychecking by a defending team only in its defensive half of the ice. The NHL allows unlimited bodychecking.

"That means," Mr. Cegarski points out, "the NHL player got rid of the puck fast because he's always afraid of getting creamed. If they adopted our rules you'd see more stickhandling, more plays, more skating and shooting."

He adds, "U.S. college rules not only open up the game but provide an abundance of hip checks, pushing and fancy stickhandling."

An American writer said: "Clarkson College's win over St. Lawrence College by a 6-5 score was as thrilling a contest as any seen in Madison Square Gardens. It featured jumping bodychecks, clever goaltending and continuous rushing. Why at one point in the game play continued uninterrupted for six minutes without a whistle."

So brace yourselves m'lads. If we're going to continue our wood-cutters, etc., with the Americans, by swapping Canadian players for American rules, you'll see drastic changes in our winter national pastime."

Gadsooks, can you imagine Lou Fontinato doing the "twist" in order to hand out a legal "hip-check" and apologizing because he ruffled the "permanent" of the incoming players?

Can you visualize Bobby Hull, Frank Mahovlich, the Boom-Boom and other one trick steamers, getting rid of the puck fast near an opposing blueline because they're afraid of getting creamed?

The American coach says: "U.S. college rules would benefit the NHL in the long run because it would enable many collegians to jump to pro hockey after graduation, the same as U.S. collegians move to pro football."

This might be the answer to a lot of your youngsters who are not definite regarding their future. A lot of them could spurn engineering, medicine, law, dentistry, etc., and major in hockey. Imagine the proud moment on graduation day when they are handed an NHL diploma.

Besides their tender young skins would not reveal the herring-bone scars of stitches. They would have their own teeth. As a sideline they could lecture on the fine art of stickhandling and how to circle those dastardly hip-checks. They could teach their classes that the art of being "creamed" applies only to chicken, turkey, asparagus, cauliflower, etc., and not to hockey players on the offensive.

In serious vein, Coach Rudy Pilous of the Chicago Hawks, saw the above-mentioned American hockey final as played under their rules. His comment? "It's like a girl's game . . . Our fellows are having enough trouble with Canadian rules."

$33,000 In The Red

Soo Brass Blasts Hawks

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Memorial Gardens commissioners criticized Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League Friday for not giving their farm team here enough financial support.

The commission voted to allow Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds to play out the remainder of the Eastern Professional Hockey League season. With the schedule half over, the commission has incurred a $33,000 deficit. It has decided to reduce by cents the price of all but utes.

The most expensive seats for the remainder of the season.

Commission chairman Bob Thomlinson broke a 3-3 tie on whether to continue operating the Thunderbirds, a resolution asking the Black Hawks to take over operation of the Sault club by Jan. 11 was defeated.

FAMOUS FLIGHT

Alcock and Brown's pioneer non-stop Atlantic flight in 1919 took them from Newfoundland to Ireland in six hours, 10 minutes.

Bobby Hull Says Hawks Will Repeat

Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks got a different hockey role last night.

He was a spectator and paid his way — at the Pepsi's-Trenton RCAF game in Trenton.

Bobby was soon recognized. He was surrounded by a crowd of autograph - seeking moppets most of whom had never seen the NHL star in person.

Hull carried an ugly twelve-stitch scar slanting up his forehead from his left eye. "Got one of those things", he smiled.

He received the gash during the Hawks - Wings game Thursday night.

With the Hawks playing in Toronto tonight, Bobby took a swift trip home to see the family. Most of them accompanied him to the game. He left for Toronto this morning.

"How about the Stanley Cup this year?" a newsman asked the Hawk star.

He never batted an eyelash. "We'll take it again, we're just beginning to hit our stride", he said.

"How about the playoffs?".

"We might not win the league title", Bobby said. "But we'll be in there in the playoffs and take the big one".

"Who from? The Montreal Canadiens?"

Bobby shrugged herculean shoulders". It doesn't matter. The Canadiens, Leafs, Wings, Rangers. They're just hockey teams a far as we are concerned".

Win Over Flyers 5-4

Pepsis "Stole" This One

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

TRENTON — Thy unbeaten Belleville Pepsi's practically stole a 5-4 victory from the Trenton RCAF Globetrotters here last night.

It was grand larceny. The Pepsi's were a well-beaten crew until the Flyers Globetrotters had outkazed and outshot the city club. Over 700 howling spectators in the Quinte city at half the time as the flyers went all out to get the victory.

With 89 seconds to go Ogden speared a Peps drive with a gloved hand. He went off balance and the red light flashed. The goal-judge informed Ogden had reached behind the net, picked puck in his hand and the rubber had scored the goal.

Then a Flyers break backfired, Pepsi goalie Turk Barclay grabbed the puck and referee penalty with the clock reading seconds to go.

There was diversion too. Midway through the third period, Flyers behind the Pepsi net started an altercation with the city players. Marinero Ogden MacDonald threw a couple of punches and Referee Ned Vilgard valet play. The "fight" came in and sat himself with the fans and peace was restored.

The Flyers sat the Pepsi's back on their haunches with a swift goal at the 16-second mark of the opening period. They led the first after 5:15 when the Lamirande crew unable to get untracked.

The Pepsi's finally found themselves and struck back quickly with goals by Gover and O'Meara to square the count. They traded goals another before the period end.

The Globetrotters had the big part of the second period play but the teams split the two goals at the midway point, the homesters a 4-3 lead. That is the way it stood until the dying seconds of the final heat when the game was won and lost almost in a breath.

Team captain Orval Gravelle led an inspired Flyers crew with an outstanding effort scoring one goal and assisting on the other three. His linemates, St. Pierre, another standout, and Collins, were in on the kills, the latter getting two goals and two assists. The fifth latter claiming one and two. Lewis drew an assist.

"Weiner" Brown with two, O'Mears, Hull and Gover were the Pepsi goal-getters. Jones had three assists and was beaten three times on clean breakaways by Ogden; MacDonald had two helpers, Rowbotham, Fawcett and Bolly getting one each.

The Pepsi's scored two goals while Flyers were short while the Flyers capitalized on one foeman penalty.

Seven penalties, all minors, were handed out, five going to the winners.

Athletics Win

Terriers Lucky To Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first-place Galt Terriers put more daylight between themselves and Windsor Bulldogs Friday night but only after they had been taken to the gallenders of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series.

Galt's victory seeded their four-goal first period to cushion a late surge by Sarnia Rants and emerge with a 6-5 victory. It was their 17th win in 23 starts and gave them a seven-point lead over the idle Bulldogs.

Woodstock Athletics, their first line clicking, moved within three points of the Bulldogs for third place after trouncing Strathroy Rockets 9-2. Chatham Maroons mauled Waterloo Tigers 10-2 in the other game.

Macs Swamp Ganaonque

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

The Ganaoque Islanders left some 30c local hockey fans wondering just how they reached the top of the OHA Eastern Junior hockey league when they took a sound 15-1 whipping at the hands of the Belleville McFarlands here last night.

The Islanders couldn't have looked worse if they had tried as the Macs walked all over them to the tune of five goals in the first period, five in the second, and six in the third. Belleville outshot the visitors 56-27.

Belleville rests alone on the league's top rung now with 11 win and two defeats. Ganaoque has won ten and lost three.

Ron Dulmage, bidding for his second shutout in as many nights in the Mac net, turned in another top-notch performance. He was finally beaten on a partly-screened shot from the blue-line at 9.52 of the third period after his mates had given him a 13-0 lead. The goal was the first Dulmage had allowed in 111 minutes and 57 seconds, dating back to the Kingston game a week ago.

The pint-sized custodian deserved another zero last night too as he came up with about five or six brilliant saves, robbing Pete Manitrot of what looked like sure goals twice and doing the same to Glen Carpenter once.

In the scoring department, Pete Weston led a parade of ten getters with one goal and a half dozen assists Linemates Moe Hunter and Dave Stewart also collected a three-goal hat trick, the latter adding three assists and Smith one.

"Pug" Kellar had his club's third hat-trick, Larry Mavety earned a goal and three assists, Billy McGuire one and two, Bucky Ethier one and one, Gary Duvall and Gerry Hull two each.

Dave Young potted the lone Ganaoque goal with Bruce McGuire and Winston Liddle drawing assists.

Faced with the Macs scoring penalties wih bthe Macs scoring once with a man advantage and once while playing a man short.

The Islanders' defence was almost non-existent and goalies Millaru Wright and John Brisbane were little better. Brisbane took over to start the third period and was beaten on his first chance at 43 seconds.

GANAONQUE: Wright, Brisbane, Young, Orford, O'Connor, McCarney, Hall, J. McGuire, Liddle, Vincent, Hartley, Rostrae, McGlashan, Mantrop, Carpenter.

BELLEVILLE: Dulmage, Mavety, Boyle, Weston, Smith, Hunter, Scott, Kellar, Duvall, Ethier, B. McGuire, Hull, Zakos, Reid, Rowland.

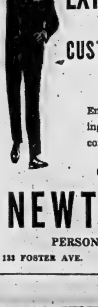
Dietzel To Coach Army Team

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Coach Paul Dietzel, Louisiana State's golden boy who said he'd never leave for another coaching post, got his release Friday to accept Army's glamorous top football job.

The 35-year-old Dietzel, whose Tigers roared to success for the past few seasons, had been the centre of a controversy for a week. But the LSU board of supervisors gave it a unanimously Friday to let Dietzel out of a three-year $18,500 contract which had four years to go.

Some quarters in Louisiana had felt the board should hold him to his contract.



LSU signed Dietzel seven years ago when he was an assistant coach at Army.

At West Point, Col. Emroy S. Adams, army athletic director, said he expected Dietzel to visit the point today or Sunday.

Army, which fired head grid coach Red Blaik after the 1961 season, told Dietzel he'd have to get his release from LSU before it took him on.

By PETER CARVER

Belleville Collegiate Institute's senior hoopsters started the 1962 leg of Quinte COSSA basketball season off on the right foot by defeating a game Trenton squad 4 47-30 defeat.

The triple-header was played last night in the Trenton High School gym.

BCI moved into an 8-4 lead at quarter time although they were hitting on few of their shots. Superior rebounding and ball control upped their lead to 17-6 at the half.

The winners picked up two in the third quarter, as they netted ten points to the Trentonian's four. BCI kept their stride in the last period connecting for eighteen points. They should have scored two more points on the night's play.

Bruce Dowell sparked the Tigers with seven.

Lineups — BCI(30): Adams (3), Campbell (8), McCabe (3), Ragenburg. McKibbon (3), Roberts (5), Burr (8), Williams (3), Souch (2).

The winners pulled away in the third period hitting for ten points to BCI's 6. Both teams exchanged up in the final period although the Trentonians dominated the territorial play.

Harvey Beantrill and Karl Bowman were high scorers for the winners. Both hit for eight points.

Murray Swan hooped four in a losing cause. Martin Bakker had three.

LINEUPS:

BCI(19) — Boomhour, Swan (4), Vaughan (2), Athey, Carver (2), Fuzzen (2), Anderson (8), Smith, Baker, Carmichael, Burster (2), Webber (3).

The Tigers, capitalizing on their height under both baskets, moved into a 22-17 lead at three-quarter time. BCI's tallest player, Don MacCormack was thrown out of the game at this point.

QUINTE AT NAPANEE
By BILL BURLEY

Quinte Sec. School took two games of the three at Napanee D.H.S. last night. The Quinte Seniors and the Quinte Bantams over ran their opponents although the Juniors showed stiff competition.

In the last game of the evening Napanee Juniors reversed the tables and defeated Quinte.

SENIOR GAME

The last quarter, Quinte led by a slight margin with the ball being active on both teams.

2nd quarter, the Saints went into a slump and Napanee soon caught up. But in the 3rd and 4th quarters Quinte stretched out her lead with a quick number of fast moving plays and defeated Napanee 36 to 32.

BANTAM GAME

The usually inexperienced Bantam teams proved their worth in last night's game, although the 1st half Quinte took a quick lead, Napanee fought hard and scored quickly to narrow the gap. The 15 to 8 remained a seesaw between either teams with Quinte keeping on the bare advantage to take the game 32-23.

JUVENILE GAME

In the 1st quarter, it looked as if it would be a quick Quinte victory but Napanee in the 2nd and 3rd quarter caught up to the slowing Saints.

In the 4th quarter both teams led a terrific defensive battle to keep each other from scoring, but Napanee came through to score enough points to take the victories for the night with a score of 23-21.

3 Games Wind Up Bowl Season

NEW YORK (CP)—Three all-star games are on tap for the last week-end of the college football bowl season.

The 13th annual Senior Bowl game at Mobile, Ala., heads the parade with a contest today between 50 of the top senior-class football players in the U.S., divided into North and South squads.

The Hula Bowl at Honolulu, Hawaii, and the first U.S. Bowl at Washington will be played Sunday.

Coach Don Shula says he hopes most of the imports will have joined the club before Feb. 1, when the Terriers leave for a four-day exhibition tour through Halifax, Moncton and Amherst.

Gait leaves Feb. 12 for the west, playing in the Western exhibition in Fort William and including at least two games against Trail Smoke Eaters, last year's world champions.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gaetenne Fel Sabiuk has been a driving force behind a recent upsurge by Calgary Stampeders in the Western Hockey League.

He turned in another brilliant performance Friday night, stopping 37 shots as Calgary won its seventh straight game by beating Vancouver Canucks 7-3.

Edmonton Flyers defeated Seattle Totems 6-3 before 3,400 fans at Edmonton and San Francisco edged Seattle Leo Angelo Hlades to a 1-0 overtime tie at San Francisco.

Ron Stewart and Fred Hucul paced Calgary with two goals each. Norm Johnson, Bert Paizell and George McAvoy added singles. Rookie forward Jim Bedard got both for Vancouver and Bob McCusker the other.

Roger DeJordy, Ed Joyal and Pelle Larsy Walsh, Chuck Holmes and Lou Marcon scored for Edmonton. Gerry Leonard, Howie Hughes and Ray Poirier answered for Seattle.

Vancouver coach Ken Ullyard's third-period goal to force Los Angeles into overtime Rest Wednesday night didn't help the cause any. Don MacCormack was thrown out of the game at this point.

BCI made a daring comeback in the last quarter only to play the Tigers at both ends of the court. They pressed for the win but time ran out.

Vic Wiktiak topped the Tigers marksmen hitting for eleven points while Bill Williams had eight.

Al Mott led the Belleville ragers with 10 points. Dave Hurst hit for seven points.

LINEUPS:

BCI(15) — Mott (10), Drysdale, McKibbon, Walsh (4), Halsey Dennsmiers, Hurst (7), MacCormack (0), Miller (1), Booth, Ragenda (2).

Last Year As Player Says Musial

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan Musial, the bane of National League pitchers for two decades, announced during his comeback spring Friday that he intends to retire as a player at the end of the 1962 season.

"I believe that can't go on forever," said the 41-year-old outfielder-first baseman league batting champion whose entire major league career has been with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Still trim and strong, Musial said he'd like to come back but doesn't want to add to the 37 National League and 13 major league records he already holds. "I don't want to be the oldest player who ever played," he said.

Musial and his bosses indicated he will remain with the club in some capacity in 1963. Musial said he'll have no trouble in the game. General manager Bing Devine said there will be a job for him at baseball, "but there has been no decision what it will be."

"I'm going to try and make this last year a real good one," said Musial, who had a comeback in 1961, his best season in four years.

Rested frequently, Musial went to bat officially only 372 times. He drove in 70 runs, belted .288 and hit 15 home runs, four triples and 27 doubles.

Musial, who joined the Cardinal organization in 1938 at 565 a month, will have earned more than $1,200,000 in the game by the end of the season.

Amerks Snap Out Of Slump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Americans were breathing a little easier today as they hung onto their shaky lead in the Western Division of the American Hockey League.

During the last two weeks the Americans thought they were blazed. After a rushing start, they fell into a slump and went nine games without a victory.

But Friday night they whipped Buffalo Bisons 8-3. The Americans snapped out of the slump just in time because the Bisons were only one point behind them going into the game.

Bruce Draper and Gerry Ehman each scored twice for Rochester, Alex Faulkner and Jim Pappin got the other goals for the Americans. Billie Cliff Schmautz and Wayne Hicks scored for Buffalo.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh Hornets announced they have picked up centre Ray Bennet from Montreal Canadiens of the National League.

Four games are scheduled tonight—Quebec at Cleveland, Rochester at Hershey, Buffalo at Pittsburgh and Providence at Springfield. Sunday's action: Quebec at Buffalo, Pittsburgh at Providence and Cleveland at Rochester.

Soo Birds Will Play Out Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

All the interest centred on the power half of the Eastern Professional Hockey League Friday with Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds pulling a 6-2 win over idle and Sudbury Wolves edging Leonard third place with a timely victory.

The Wolves batted down Kingston Frontenacs and the Aces Tuesday night to give the Iassiface Thunderbirds the right to play out the EPHL season despite a 20-game schedule. The win will reduce most seat prices 25 cents in the hope of drawing bigger crowds.

Four games are scheduled for the weekend. Sudbury Marie visits Kingston while Sudbury travels to first-place Kitchener Saturday night, and Sunday sees Kitchener at North Bay with Sault Ste. Marie at Hull-Ottawa.

Leafs Place Hillman On Waivers

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Larry Hillman has been placed on waivers by the Toronto Maple Leafs, they National Hockey League team announced today.

His nearest competitors, Doug Sanders, Phil Rodgers, Tommy Jacobs and Bob Keiler, were tied at 67.

Well back at 73 were pretournament favorites Gary Player of South Africa and Arnold Palmer.

And even farther back in his first crack at professional tournament play was the 1961 national champion, Jack Nicklaus at 74.

Such familiar tournament names as U.S. open champion Gene Littler, Bob Rosburg, Dan Leonard of Vancouver and Julius Boros were bunched in the 69 bracket for 12th place.

Montreal Canadiens' lead the league with 41 points in 28 games. Hamilton has one game in hand.

Guelph Royals consolidated their hold on fourth place with a 6-0 whitewash of Peterborough Petes in the night's other game. The night on a solo effort that started at his own blueline. He beat Bud Blom on a low backhander while falling to the ice.

Earl Heiskala and Bob Hamilton tallied for the Wings before Martin nailed down the tie. The Wings outshot the Flyers 30-23 but the Falls team drew a fine performance from rookie Jim Pauley, who took over the goaltending job—from Wayne Rutledge.

It has been said that Babe Dye could score goals with his back turned against the nets, or from any angle. This was an indirect tribute to his mother who flooded the backyard of their Toronto home every winter and made Babe practise his shot.

But to the Babe, who died in Chicago on Wednesday, probably his most embarrassing moment came in the 1922 Stanley Cup final at the old Mutual Street Arena in Toronto. He couldn't even find the net from point-blank range.

Dye, right-a winger with Toronto St. Pat's, was steaming in on goalie Hugh Lehman of Vancouver Millionaires when he was hauled down from behind by Art Duncan. Referee Cooper Smeaton, later a Cup trustee, awarded Dye a penalty shot, the first in Cup play.

FIRED HIGH

Babe messed it up. He skated in on Lehman, his drive from about 35 feet and sailed far over the net and St. Pat's, who eventually won the best-of-five series five games to three, lost 5-0. He ended as the series hero, though, scoring nine of Toronto's 16 goals, including four in the final game against St. Pat's won 5-1.

Dye was a slight man, about five feet eight inches and 148 poudds, and a star among super-stars-ers including Howie Morenz of Montreal Canadiens' fame. He was a player along the lines of Nels Stewart of the old Montreal Maroons who usually parked around the opposition's blueline waiting for a pass.

And both had a flair for scoring goals.

Stewart, who died in 1957, still ranks fourth in all-time NHL scoring with 324 goals over a brilliant 15-year career with Maroons, Boston Bruins and, finally, New York Americans. And he played in the years—1926 - 40—when the schedule called for 36, 44 and 48 games.

The only players ahead of him are the retired Maurice Richard of Canadiens and Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings and Chicago, and Gordie Howe, still an active operator with the Red Wings.

Dye hit the NHL a few years before Stewart and when the schedules called for 24 and 30 games and he is one of 33 players with 200 goals or more. He ended an eight-year stint in the big league with 202.

Ted O'Connor of Telegram's Reeve, who has been prowling the sports beat for 30 years or more, says Dye was the best shot he ever saw in hockey.

"That is," says Ted, "it was as fast as any levelled by the great five power players, but he got it away so much faster. But forearms and wrists and that unaccountable art of reflexes some fellows have; there would be a crack like the report of a starter's gun, sort of a short chop motion as the scrambling, skating right-winger let fly. No wind-up such as a slap shot of today.

"It was almost as if he drove down at the inside of the puck. Whatever the cause, that biscuit would be quivering on its way before a goalie could get set for it."

4 Men, Women Arrested in Series of Raids

MONTREAL (CP)—Squads of police, moving with the teamwork of wartime commandos, launched a series of raids on private homes in north Montreal and the Laurentian resort area Friday.

The raids, aimed primarily at solving a bank holdup in which the loot has been set as high as $4,000,000, resulted in four men and four women being detained and the seizure of large amounts of cash, jewelry, a car, household effects and a number of "important papers."

The raids were described by Insp. Joe Bedard as "only the beginning."

Insp. Bedard said charges against at least some of the eight persons detained probably will be laid early next week. No names were released.

Police said that, although they were looking primarily for bank loot, the 40 raiders also picked up about $4,000 worth of electrical appliances and other household goods believed to have been stolen.

FIND NAMES LIST

In one of the homes, detectives found about $2,000, mostly in American coins, and a list of names and a column of figures. Police said the find indicated that several thousand dollars had been divided among the persons listed.

The bank robbery that touched off the raids has been described as one of the calmest, best-planned crimes ever pulled off in Montreal. Bungling smashed their way through four feet of reinforced concrete in the floor of the vault in a downtown bank of Nova Scotia branch early in the weekend of July 1.

They then hammered open 377 safety deposit boxes, taking their pick of cash, jewels and securities before leaving.

Dublin's Mayor Won't Be Home On March 17th

DUBLIN (AP) — "Once is enough," said a Dublin city councillor Thursday in explaining why Lord Mayor Robert Briscoe, a Jew, has run into opposition for proposing to go to sent himself again from Ireland on St. Patrick's Day.

Briscoe plans to leave March 7 for an 85-day visit to the United States, St. Patrick's Day is March 17.

In 1957 Briscoe attended New York's celebration of St. Patrick's Day. That time, the councillor said, the absence was permitted as a goodwill gesture to New York, but ordinarily the lord mayor on such a grand day should be on the scene in Dublin.

As a result of the uproar, two councillors are moving to amend laws and fix it so that the lord mayor may not be out of town for more than three weeks at any time—and never on St. Patrick's Day.

Denies Govt. Tried to Block Britain's Entry

TORONTO (CP)—Trade Minister Hees emphatically denied Friday that the Canadian government ever tried to block Britain's proposed entry into the European Common Market.

Mr. Hees told the Osgoode Hall Progressive Conservative Club that Canada had strongly stated how devastating the loss of present trading arrangements would be for the Canadian economy, but at no time suggested that the decision was not up to London.

Asked by a student whether there is a need for a "Big daddy for Canadian business"—an economic czar, along the lines suggested by Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor — Mr. Hees said there isn't.

Many Things Can Cause Vibration

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

When a troubled car owner asks, "What causes vibration?" it's like trying to pin a tail on the donkey — anything from engine-miss to an unbalanced wheel may be the right answer. For example, the list of possibilities includes such things as loose or worn timing gears, excessive crankshaft or camshaft bearing clearances, an unbalanced or loose fan blade, worn or broken universal joint bearings.

When neglected U-joint bearings are the cause of vibration, you can be sure other symptoms are also likely to develop. One common side effect is noise — and that maddening sound as the car is accelerated and decelerated. Sometimes the noise is a bit more mysterious. Perhaps a downtown bank of Nova Scotia branch early in the weekend of July 1.

They then hammered open 377 safety deposit boxes, taking their pick of cash, jewels and securities before leaving.

From HE: "I have a chance to buy a '58 sedan (in good condition which has only 12,000 miles on the odometer. Think this mileage might be phony?"

(A) It's not always easy to tell. Tire condition might offer a clue. With low mileage such as this, at least three of the original five tires should be on the car and show the same approximate wear. The 12,000-mile figure seems doubtful if the tires are recaps or all different makes.

• • •

L.N. asks: "I know engine oil that is heavy for winter temperatures will cause hard starting — but will it harm the car in any way?"

(A) It causes unnecessary strain on the battery, and since heavy oil won't circulate as well through the system when cold, there's more wear on engine parts.

• • •

B.L. writes: "Does the absence of a cooling system thermostat cause hard starting in cold weather?"

(A) Not really — but the thermostat, in confining heat to the engine in order to speed warm-up, can prevents frequent stalling difficulties in cold weather.

• • •

Keith N.E.: "I have heard that pistons and rings generally require replacing after 25,000 to 30,000 miles. Is this so?"

(A) No, if pistons and rings regularly receive the lubrication they need, twice this mileage is not unusual before wear takes its toll.

Ontario Liberal Leader Attacks Govt. Policies

KILLALOE, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer attacked the provincial government Friday night as "an old government, lacking life" and the desire to progress.

He told a political meeting here that the Conservatives' by-elections Jan. 18 will show a strong indication of popular opposition to the Progressive Conservative government's three-per - cent sales tax and its "reluctance" to act on a crime probe.

Mr. Wintermeyer spoke after a day of barnstorming through Renfrew South constituency in company with Liberal candidate Leonard Quilty.

In 275 miles of fast - paced travelling, he stopped repeatedly to meet and talk with people. Speaking to a number of retail storekeepers, he sounded them out on his proposal for a $25 minimum on purchases subject to the sales tax.

About 12 people in this village turned out to below-zero weather to hear Mr. Wintermeyer say he is "concerned about Ontario."

"The government has lost its enthusiasm, its ideas, its idealism, its desire to break new ground, its desire to get ahead."

Ken Murray Making Old Movie Shots Into Special

BY BO THOMAS

AT THE PARK — Ronald Lewis and Diana Cilento are honeymooners enmeshed in terror in Falcon Films "Stop Me Before I Kill!", which also stars Claude Dauphin, Theodore Bikel and Bernard Braden opening Monday at the Park Theatre. On the same program "The Truth", starring Brigitte Bardot. One complete show starts at 7.30 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Drama is reflected in Falcon Films' "The Truth" as Brigitte Bardot in scenes from her new drama "The Truth", directed by Henri Georges Clouzot. The Kinetiscope International release is opening Monday at the Park Theatre. On the same program "Stop Me Before I Kill!". One complete show starts at 7.30 p.m.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Take good care of your home movies. They might pay off some day.

Ken Murray's did. You can see them on the show of the week Sunday night over NBC-TV.

"When I came out to Hollywood in 1927, I wanted to keep close touch with my parents in New York," the comedian explained.

"So I bought a movie camera and a projector. I left the projector with my folks in the east and I brought the camera to Hollywood with me. I shot all the movie stars I met, even if I just saw them on the street. I sent the movies home."

When Murray's parents died a few years ago, he collected the old films and added them to the ones he had kept. They would have remained in his vaults but for the fact that Murray turned author.

ILLUSTRATED STORY

"I went on the Jack Paar show to plug my autobiography, Life on a Pogo Stick," he related, "I wanted to illustrate some of the things I had written about, so I showed some of the home movies along."

The stunt created a stir and prompted Murray to put some film together for a TV spectacular, complete with musical score. NBC bought it.

Murray previewed Hollywood My Home Town at a party.

What memories the - movie clips evoke . . . a vibrant, handsome John Barrymore at the peak of his powers . . . W. C. Fields clowning on a movie street . . . Dick Powell, dimpled and boyish . . . Maurice Chevalier on the set of his Hollywood career, singing exactly as he does now . . .

Douglas Fairbanks Sr. in an impromptu vault over a railing . . . Cyclops Stone, a marine drill master. . . Marie Dressler, all - time great stage singer. . . And dozens more, right down to Pat Boone showing his kids Disneyland in a bizarre disguise.

"THE TRUTH"
MUCH HONORED

Several major awards have been captured by "The Truth," directed by Henri-Georges Clouzot and starring Brigitte Bardot, which opens today for its local premiere Monday at the Park Theatre.

The Kingsley International release, produced by Raoul J. Levy is the latest example of the French equivalent of the "Oscar." It is Victoire du Cinema Francais. Another of the important French film prizes given to "The Truth" was The Grand Prix du Cinema Francais. Still other distinctions accruing to the much-garlanded film are Le Grand Prix de Meilleur Film de Film and the Argentine Award for Best Direction won by Clouzot at the Mar-Del-Plata Film Festival.

Its director, Clouzot, of course, is considered to be one of France's most distinguished directors. Among his film achievements are, "Diabolique" and "Wages of Fear."

Most recently "The Truth" was a nominee for an American Oscar.

Actress Janet Leigh has been signed to star in Columbia Pictures' release of the Broadway hit "Bye, Bye Birdie."

'Behold the Fisherman'

Quite some years ago some irreverent person, no doubt a self-styled humorist, foisted this canard upon the public. Here it is, as best I can remember it.

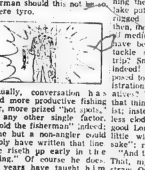
Behold the fisherman!

He riseth up early in the morning.

And disturbeth the whole household.

Mighty are his preparations. And with the fall of eventide he returneth home.

Smelling of strong drink.



And the truth is not in him.

This slander, as I say, evidently was classed as humor by some misguided author, editor and thus found its way into print. Something has persisted down through the years. Quite obviously it was not penned by a fisherman. Only here the wife of some determined angler would have had a hand in its inception, the writing is not that of a woman, and only the writing of a man, a traitor to his kind.

In all justice, let us consider this libel a line at a time, scrutinizing its dark underpinnings as we go.

A DEAD GIVEAWAY

The first line is a dead giveaway — "Behold the fisherman!" If there is one thing in this world that a true fisherman does not wish, it is to be behold! Should some scientist in the atomic age of ours invent a cloak of invisibility, the anglers of the world would beat a path to his door. The fisherman reads his prey like an open book and broadcasts his every movement. Repeated inquiry by the lady of his choice elicits little or no accurate information. Doubtless he has in mind some favored and cherished fishing location; he would be a strange fisherman should this not be so, a mere tyro.

Actually, conversation has ruined more good days fishing than any other single factor. "Behold the fisherman" and surely no one but a non-angler could possibly have written that line. "He riseth up early in the morning." Of course he does. Long years have taught him that the dawn of a spring or summer morning is the loveliest time of day. Should he like any dull office drudge, lie in his bed and dream of glorious hours? Moreover, he knows that the fish, too, are to be responsive at the magic hour of dawn. Naturally he's up and about when he is, for he is not anticipating these delights.

"And disturbeth the whole household." Well, if said household could be schooled (which it never, quite) to show respect for an angler's possessions, there would be less disturbance. Why, I ask you, is a fly rod such a disgrace to the living room? A good fly rod is a thing of beauty, precision-made, with the finesse of workmanship comparable to that of a fine watch. It should be seen and admired, not hidden.

HANDY FOR INSPECTION

And where should waders and socks be dried? Where it is warm, naturally, near a stove or a radiator. And the logical place for a fly box is the mantelpiece where it is handy for inspection and setting. Is it the fisherman's fault if these things are not in evidence when he assembles his gear? Maybe, ferman."

If said household would learn not to hide a fellow's things, there would be less commotion, come time to use them again.

"Mighty are his preparations." Snicker! That's a fisherman for you. When you go on a fishing trip, preparations are important. One little item left at home and the day very well be ruined. "Careful" would be more appropriate. But then, to an unsympathetic, non-angling observer, such meticulous attention to detail might have to be overdone. And by the same, there is no call for him to be a fisherman.

"And with the fall of eventide." The fall of eventide — twilight, in other words — marks one of the day's high spots for fishing. It is during this time that the angler who is ill-advised enough to heed unobtrusive pleas and pay attention to the fishing in order to speed the arrival of the evening's delicacies, does not the title of angler. An angler gets home when he gets home and this vital point should be established, firmly, regardless of any fishing he may do. Inescapably forestalls countless complications, such as being late for social affairs, bridge parties, etc.; such engagements have been made during his absence.

"He returneth home." No need to dignify that one with comment. Where, I ask you, to what place would he return?

TOUCH OF VENGEANCE TO IT

"Smelling of strong drink." Now wait a minute! Let's take a rational view of this thing. After all, a day of fishing can be, and usually is, a tiring process. Finding the unrelenting wash of a trout stream or manning the oars on a windy lake puts a strain on the most rugged of constitutions. What, then, is more natural than a touch of medication after the waders have been taken off and the tackle stowed for the return trip? Smelling of strong drink indeed! How else are you supposed to smell after the admirable exertion of a day's pleasures (ed, unappreciative of the good Lord's gentler gifts to mankind, little wine for thy stomach's sake") remembers?

"And the truth is not in him." Shucks! Phooey! Pshaw! Pshaw! Phoo-ey! Phoo-ey! Phoo-ey

Freezing Rain, Gales Hit Ont., Cause 3 Deaths

Thousands of Dollars Damage in Storm

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gentler weather appeared set for today and Tuesday after a stormy weekend of snow, sleet and freezing rain throughout most of Ontario.

The worst of the weather fell on Southern Ontario where gales force winds left disrupted communications and air travel, damaged fishing tugs and interrupted power supplies.

Three persons died in a result of the storm. At Avonmore, 16 miles north of Cornwall, Roy Wiseman, a district farmer, collapsed and died Sunday after returning from a walk to the bottom of his long driveway through deep snow.

Ronald Stuart Ferguson, 24, of Sarnia, and 10 - month - old John Prudhen were fatally injured in a two-car collision on icy roads near Sarnia Saturday night.

About six inches of snow fell on the Cornwall area during the weekend forcing Ontario's clock snow removal during the winter, since the city has since this winter. Four trains were late Saturday.

In the Simcoe area on Lake Erie township roads were blocked Sunday and Monday and ing students of three district schools the day off. The roads are being cleared of some ice for a return to school Tuesday. About seven inches of snow fell during the weekend.

FISHING TUGS SINK

Two small fishing tugs in Godderich harbor, each worth about $20,000, sank from the weight of ice and frozen waves driven by high winds. A third was damaged. At Erieau, four tugs were sunk from their moorings and one, a 47-footer, capsized and sank.

In the area of Toronto harbor, one tug sank and several barges were torn from their moorings.

The severe weather throughout most of the country kept drivers off the roads, and reduced a possible high holiday count to only seven deaths.

A spokesman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission said considerably more damage had been anticipated than was reported. Only a few power lines in Toronto were brought down by the freezing rain and by falling branches and high winds.

One man, Robert Elder of Toronto, almost touched his car Sunday morning before pushing a live hydro wire grounding through his roof.

The hardest hit area of the province was the northern part of Oakville. 15 hydro poles were knocked down, cut, ting off power for four hours. Most of trouble was caused by "galloping conductors" - power lines caused by wind, ice swinging and entangling themselves in high winds.

There was a lull in power blackout at Malton airport adding to the problems caused by the freezing rain.

Trans-Canada Air lines cancelled flights to London, North Bay, Windsor, Chicago and the Maritimes. Despite seven inches of snow and ice covering runways, flight continued to Montreal, Ottawa, New York and Cleveland.

Freezing rain made streets in the Hamilton area extremely hazardous, injuring 20 pedestrians, while six persons were injured in falls at Windsor.

The freezing rain bypassed most of Northern Ontario but six to 10 inches of snow fell on North Bay, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The storm which moved northward across Ontario over the weekend is centred east of James Bay this morning and is gradually blowing itself out. Winds are expected to continue to decrease in southern Ontario and a slight drop in temperature is expected. Little change is forecast for Northern Ontario.

CHICAGO (AP)—The centre of the first major storm of the new year moved out of the United States and into Canada today, leaving in its wake a great mass of snow that caused scores of deaths and widespread destruction.

Temperatures moderated from the sub-zero and zero readings early in the weekend to the teens and 20s, for the most part. In Minnesota, however, temperatures still hovered around zero in a new weekend. Of the dead attributed to the weather, Wisconsin had 15, of which 12 died because of overexertion. New England had six deaths attributed to the weather.

A snowstorm whipped across Michigan. Hardship accompanied the storm, Michigan's governor said on the first day of the winter.

Six persons, including a suburban Detroit family of four, died in traffic accidents.

An estimated two-thirds of Bay City's population of 60,000 was without electricity for hours because an ice-coated power cable snapped in two.

CALIFORNIA HEAT WAVE

An enviable contrast to the winter over most of the U.S. was Southern California's heat wave.

Thousands swarmed to resorts and beaches as temperatures soared. In the South Bay area of Los Angeles, 15 swimmers were rescued by lifeguards.

The unofficial reading Sunday at Palm Springs and Oasis was 96 in the San Fernando Valley it was 96.

Los Angeles had a record 86 degrees—the warmest Jan. 7 in 59 years.

Further north, warm weather and rain sent rivers over their banks in Western Washington state. Heavy, wet snow fell over Northeastern Washington, causing some damage to property and utility lines.

Thunderstorms and six inches of new snow fell over parts of Montana, Wyoming and Colorado. Temperatures ranged from the mid-70s. Snowslides caused some trouble in the Colorado mountains and in Utah.

In the east, tornado - like winds, heavy rain and sleet caused wide damage and several deaths. Power, farming and telephone service cuts were reported in several areas in New York.

Operations at New York's International Airport were brought to a virtual standstill as fog and rain blotted out ceiling and visibility. More than 100 arrivals and flights were cancelled over the weekend.

The weather bureau forecast a snowfall of up to 12 inches today in Western New York.

ROBARTS WILL TAKE HAND IN SCHOOL DISPUTE

Renfrew Mayor Leader in Debate

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Leaders of all three provincial political parties fanned out across Ontario during the weekend to beat the drum for five by-elections scheduled for Jan. 18.

Premier John Robarts got off to a good start Sunday even before he reached Kenora riding to begin a four - day tour of northwestern Ontario.

The Progressive Conservative premier told reporters at Winnipeg airport that he plans a personal investigation into a dispute between non - resident cottage owners and a school board in the Clearwater Bay area near Kenora.

Spokesmen for the parents, who maintain cottages in the area about 100 miles east of the Manitoba capital, have complained about the administration methods of a Clearwater school board.

Some of the cottage owners claim they should not have to pay taxes in Clearwater Bay because their principal homes are in Winnipeg.

But the Ontario premier said all summer cottage owners pay school taxes.

DEBATES WITH MAYOR

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer Saturday night ended a tour of Renfrew South riding with a friendly debate with Mayor Robert Simpson of Arnprior.

The meeting in the Conservative stronghold was billed as non-political so the largely Conservative members of council and town boards could attend without embarrassment.

Despite the debate, the Liberal leader outlined his party's position on sales tax, northern development and subsidized hydro rates.

Mayor Simpson, who at one time was being considered for the Conservative candidacy in the riding, replied in a friendly way.

GOES TO TORONTO

He questioned the value of subsidized hydro rates as a means of attracting industry.

"We have had one premier after another say industry must go to Toronto, but we still find 40 per cent goes to Toronto," he said. The Liberal program included an integrated rail system that would reduce transportation costs from isolated areas.

Donald MacDonald, leader of the New Democratic Party, opened his campaign Sunday in short - circuit the Liberals' hydro-electric power policy.

Speaking in Red Lake in Kenora riding, he accused the Liberals of shifting the cost of hydro to the burden of power costs from their industrial friends to the average consumer.

80 Die as Trains Collide In Dense Netherlands Fog

OP from Reuters-AP

WOERDEN, The Netherlands —Two trains crowded with rush hour passengers smashed together in dense fog here Monday and some 80 persons were reported killed.

Seventy-five bodies were reported to have been recovered from the wreckage and a Dutch railroad spokesman said some of the twisted cars had not been fully searched by rescue teams. He estimated that the final toll would be about 80.

Scores of other passengers were injured.

Priests, nuns, fire-fighters, police, soldiers and the uninjured passengers helped in rescue work. About 30 doctors were reported to be at the scene.

Bodies were carried in buses to Utrecht for identification.

Early reports on the worst disaster in Dutch railroad history said a speeding Utrecht-Rotterdam train ripped into the Rotterdam-Amsterdam train, then plunged down an 18-foot embankment.

Rescue workers using blowtorches fought to free screaming, moaning passengers trapped in the wreckage of the two trains.

The trains were crowded with a total of 500 morning-rush passengers reported by the fog-shrouded crash broke the quiet of the fog. The president of the Dutch railroad said one train was travelling at 75 miles an hour and the other at 40 miles an hour.

In one first-class coach—telescoped by the smash—only two passengers survived. Nine coaches were completely wrecked. The fire-fighters and crews hauled out bodies that were maimed beyond recognition.

Dutch Premier Jan de Quay raced to the scene as crash investigations began. Dutch radio stations threw out their scheduled programs and replaced them with the solemn music of mourning.

Civil defence workers, all available railroadmen and every ambulance in the area were rushed to the scene where heavy cranes tried to untwist and lift apart the wreckage. Some injured passengers were pulled screamingly out of the coaches on their own.

Strike Call by Secret Army Cripples 2 Algerian Cities

OP from AP-Reuters

ALGIERS — A show-of-strength strike called by the rightist underground army of French settlers fighting Algerian independence crippled Algiers and Oran today.

Thousands turned into the streets of Algeria's two largest cities in response to a call from the secret army for a two-hour general strike.

Shops were clamped down shutters in fears of violence.

Heavy security forces took up positions in both key cities and helicopters flew overhead to keep an eye on the demonstrators.

Troops and riot police barred traffic from Algiers' city centre and the normally turbulent Bel, Belcourt and Bab El Oued suburbs.

Two-aged boy students invaded a girls' school after it failed to obey the strike call. A dispatcher ordered a window down and climbed in, followed by other boy students with a ladder.

He flung open the school doors and admitted a crowd of striking students.

The outlawed secret army called today's walkout to back local hospital doctors. They already were on a 24-hour strike, one of a series protesting the arrest of 1,000 doctors and them.

Police have tightened security measures in hospitals following a sharp increase in suspected bombings, members under treatment.

Earlier today, Algeria's continuing wave of violence claimed another victim. Bakir Ali Lebraba, a Moslem municipal councillor in Blida, south of Algiers, was shot dead by a gunman. The killer escaped.

Eleven persons died and 25 were injured in a series of plastic bomb explosions and shootings throughout Algeria Sunday night.

One of the victims was a policeman shot dead when two gunmen down in a cemetery while on their way to attend his father's funeral.

The secret army made a 16-point "peace" statement over Algiers radio Sunday night, repeating its threats of the strike but the illicit broadcast was so heavily jammed nothing could be heard.

In Morocco, meanwhile, Algerian rebel government leaders held a second day of secret talks on the prospects for peace with France. High sources said there were "definite chances of peace" but one minister said a stubborn refusal not to expect a cease-fire soon.

Concern was evident among the rebel chiefs over the French wave of terrorism.

Algerian rebel premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda told reporters:

"We are always preparing for war, we are preparing peace."

CPR DOMINION DERAILED, CREW MEMBERS HURT

Several Passengers Only 'Shaken Up'

ST. EUGENE, Ont. (CP) — Two members of the crew of a CPR passenger train were under observation in an Ottawa hospital today following the derailment of three-diesel locomotives, eight baggage cars and two passenger cars near this community 48 miles west of Montreal.

Engineer Harold Greenlaw and fireman Frank Alexander, both 46 and residents of Ottawa, were the only persons injured when the CPR Dominion, bound for Montreal from Vancouver, jumped the rails Sunday near the Ontario-Quebec border.

Greenlaw suffered a badly bruised right hip, shock and leg cuts. Alexander escaped with a slight concussion.

A CPR spokesman said several passengers "were shaken up a bit" when the train derailed, chewing up the rail ties for hundreds of yards and felling several telephone poles.

The passenger cars remained upright and the last unit on the train, a sleeping car coupled on at Sudbury, did not leave the rails.

Cause of the accident was not announced officially. Police said it might have been ice on the rails.

Some 114 passengers were brought to Montreal by bus following the accident.

CPR crews were at work clearing the railway's main line between Montreal and Ottawa, but there was no immediate indication of when the service would be completed.

A CPR spokesman said trains were being re-routed through Belleil, near Smiths Falls, Ont.

Company officials declined to estimate damage immediately.

'Pay-Pause' Lloyd Latest Victim Of Postmen's Work-to-Rule Stand

LONDON (Reuters) — British treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd has become the latest victim of a "work-to-rule" campaign being waged by London postmen to enforce their demands for higher pay.

Lloyd's "pay pause" touched off the campaign by 173,000 post office workers and now mail sent to his old address is being returned to the sender marked with the note: "Gone away."

Lloyd moved from his former residence, No. 11 Carlton Terrace, when he gave up his post as foreign secretary to become chancellor of the exchequer.

Until the "work-to-rule" campaign, Lloyd's mail on him there. Now, however, the letters are sent to the dead-letter office.

The postmen say Lloyd has only himself to blame as he should have filled in a redirection form when he moved from his former home. But he says his letters would have been readdressed in the sorting office.

The mail situation was discussed by the cabinet this morning but no exceptional action is expected to be contemplated at present.

The General Post Office reported that the pile-up of unsorted mail was still mounting in London centres. The position was not so bad elsewhere.

Mail coming from abroad and being sent abroad was subject to the same delay as domestic mail.

Meanwhile post office legal experts were considering the legality of a planned pirate post service which a private organization, the London Letter Service for the Defence of Freedom—intends to start on Thursday.

Known as UMD (urgent mail delivery) it will operate from London and 20 other cities, delivering urgent letters and small parcels, anywhere in Britain. Charges will be based on the cost involved. The mail will be carried by road and rail crossengers and delivered by volunteers.

Kennedy and Clay in Full Agreement on Berlin Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy says he and Gen. Lucius D. Clay are in full agreement on how to meet effectively any possible future crisis in Berlin.

The president's statement was issued Sunday after he and Clay, Kennedy's personal representative in West Berlin, talked for an hour at the White House.

Clay came to Washington amid reports he believed the U.S. government was not measuring up to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's challenge. The position was not so bad elsewhere.

Mail coming from abroad and being sent abroad was subject to the same delay as domestic mail.

"This meeting is one more step in the effort to find a peaceful way to settle the present serious crisis. I am glad to be fortunate in having him as the senior American in Berlin."

Salinger was asked whether the statement meant Clay was fully satisfied with the situation regarding authority for the U.S. military commander. Salinger replied that Clay had read in the president's statement and approved it.

Late today Kennedy is scheduled to meet with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West German vice - chancellor Ludwig Erhard. Kennedy's talks with U.S. officials on foreign economic policy.

The Berlin situation was one of the subjects discussed by the Rusk Sunday in a radio interview program (Reporters Roundup) with Salinger.

He referred to new talks between U.S. ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and said French President de Gaulle did not object to the talks but "has some very considerable reluctance about engaging in formal negotiations until it is quite clear that there is an adequate basis for such negotiations."

Would Leave Council Same For Two Years

Fuller Use of Schools Could Reduce Outlay

The inaugural address of the 1962 Belleville city council was held in the council chambers at city hall this morning.

Highlight of the meeting was the inaugural address of Mayor A. M. Haig in which he appealed to council members to do everything possible to hold the tax line this year.

Mayor Haig reviewed past accomplishments of council and looking to the future, urged the formation of a downtown businessman's association and promotion of the greatest possible time of fully-serviced industrial land and a fuller use of school buildings to reduce further capital expenditure in the construction of new school buildings.

Also suggested was the retaining of a full time industrial commissioner and a two-year term for mayor and council, all to be considered by a committee.

The customary annual borrowing by-law enabling the corporation to borrow $2,000,000 until the time of tax payments, and appointing signing officers, was given first council.

Appointments to council standing committees and to civic boards and committees, were also approved at the meeting.

ESCORTED TO CHAIR

Mayor A. M. Haig took his declaration of office from City Clerk Adam Stalker and was escorted to the mayor's chair by Alderman T. Rogers and J. Benjamin Corke.

Council members had previously been sworn in and at the inaugural meeting was opened by City Manager J. R. Reynolds, were invited to take their seats at their desks within the bar, Invocation and Divine blessing was by Rev. H. F. Davis of Bridge Street United Church.

Alderman Alderman who retired from office in December were presented with municipal service pins by Mayor A. M. Haig. They were Ex-Aldermen Lorne Hagerman, Jack Dennis and Leslie Reid. Ex-Alderman John Barlow, who also retired with Chamber of Commerce of service, was not present to receive his pin.

VOTE OF THANKS

Alderman Jack Ellis expressed a vote of thanks on behalf of council to Mayor Haig for his inaugural address.

In his address, Inaugural meeting was attended only by a few citizens outside the city hall staff members. Included among the spectators were a number of former mayors and councillors and a delegation of Girl Guides from the Belleville Collegiate who as a class project, turned out to add to the interest in civic municipal affairs.

Appointments to standing committees and civic boards were as follows:

COMMITTEE APPOINTMENTS

Deputy Mayor: Alderman J. B. Corke.

Finance: Alderman Baller, chairman; members: vice-chairman, Alderman Corke; Aldermen Jarvis, Dunn and Elliott.

BOMB THROWN AS SUKARNO DRIVES TO RALLY

3 Killed, 25 Hurt In Makassar Blast

MAKASSAR, Indonesia (AP) President Sukarno escaped unharmed from a bomb explosion Sunday night while winding up a four-day barnstorming tour to whip up support in the Celebes for his plans to seize West New Guinea from the Dutch.

Seven persons killed three persons and injured 25 others in a crowd watching the president arrive for a speech. It exploded a few hundred yards behind the motorcade. Visibly shaken, he addressed a student rally shortly afterward, but nothing he expected a military base outside this south Celebes city.

There were no indications any arrests after the incident, but military precautions and security were strengthened in Indonesia's two provinces on the point of invasion of Dutch New Guinea.

Until recently, the Makassar area also was a centre of rebels opposing Sukarno's government.

ATTACKS DUTCH

The president attacked Dutch Foreign Minister J. M. A. H. Luns for his statement in magazine interview recently that West New Guinea's Papuan population should not come under Indonesian domination because they are racially different from the Indonesians.

"Luns is always full of lies he knows nothing about it

Montreal Man Beaten to Death, Result of Infamous Racket

MONTREAL (CP)—One man was beaten to death during the weekend in what police believe is a result of the infamous Montreal racket which has long plagued Montreal's taverns and night clubs.

Charles Otis, 42, died in hospital Sunday of injuries suffered when he was allegedly beaten by four members of the racket.

A police spokesman said Otis, a patron of the east-end Belle Humeur tavern, was attacked when he tried to intervene as four men came to collect the weekly "dues" from a waiter.

He was savagely beaten by the men and rushed to hospital, where he died of multiple fractures.

The incident came in the wake of an investigation by the newly-formed police social security squad into a number of cases of vandalism against east-end establishments which have also been linked to the racket.

The most recent of these occurred last month when rackeers smashed up several grocery stores and a pet shop in the area.

Republics' Action Against Dominican Republic Likely To Figure in Cuban Debate

By LOUIS DE LA HABA

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the hemisphere's foreign ministers assemble in Uruguay Jan. 10 to discuss the Cuban question, the case of the Dominican Republic will be in the back of many minds.

It will be present in some fashion such as this:

The Organization of American States was able to clean up the Dominican mess—so why can't it clean up the Cuban mess in the same manner?"

There are many similarities between the two cases.

Under the late dictator Rafael Trujillo, the Dominican Republic was found guilty of an act of aggression against Venezuela. The OAS declared Trujillo personally responsible for a plot to assassinate Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt.

Diplomatic and economic sanctions were imposed on the Dominican government.

Less than 1½ years later Trujillo had been assassinated, a Democratic government had been installed, the Trujillo family had left the country and the sanctions were removed. The United States resumed diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic Saturday.

So the question arises: Why can't the OAS condemn Cuban aggression as it did in the Dominican case and take steps to isolate Cuba from the rest of the Americas?

What could be a preview of the forthcoming discussion appears in Punta del Este was seen Thursday when the OAS council debated lifting of the Dominican sanctions.

Everyone agreed the OAS—when it imposed the Dominican sanctions, while it maintained them—had in no way violated the principles of non-intervention and self-determination.

But there were many distinctions.

Mexico pointed out that when it voted for sanctions in 1960 it did so "without passing judgment in any fashion and making no allusion to internal characteristics of the Dominican government."

It also emphasized that it voted for the sanctions only after the council had determined that the Dominican Republic had intervened in Venezuela.

By parallel reasoning, the Mexican delegate could be expected into something like this when the Cuban question comes up:

Sanctions cannot be imposed on Cuba solely on the ground that its government is not a representative democracy. Further, the proposed OAS foreign ministers discuss "threats to peace that may arise from extra-continental intervention" It poses no concrete charge that Cuba has been an aggressor. Therefore, sanctions cannot be imposed on that ground either.

No Disruptions In Hydro Power In Quinte Area

Despite the high winds and icing conditions experienced over the weekend few serious problems in Ontario Hydro service arose in the eastern central Ontario region and none in the Quinte area, it was reported by the regional office this morning.

There were two power interruptions near Peterborough which affected about 5,000 homes, a period of 71 minutes in one case and three hours in 350 homes for nearly three hours in another.

The high voltage lines on Pleasant Point, near Perkins Falls, broke and shorted out, a local service line due to icing and high winds. The area affected was one of a high consumption of summer residents hence few persons suffered through the power interruption.

Elsewhere throughout the region there were a number of small or short power interruptions which were quickly serviced.

Industrial Curling Loop Holds Spiel

TRENTON — The Trenton Industrial League's first bonspiel was held at the Trenton Curling Club last weekend. Winner of the three-day event was the rink entered by the Trenton branch of the Royal Canadian Legion. Runner-up was the rink entered by the Trenton Police Association.

Curlers in the Legion team were; Leo Lambert, skip; Bill Hazlewood, lead; George Dunn, second, and John Carter, lead.

Playing for the police were: Vic Auger, skip; Bruce Westfall, vice-skip; Roy Miller, second, and Doug Bradshaw, lead.

In all 34 rinks participated. The league was formed in November.

The bonspiel marked the end of seven league games. Another eight of seven will be played and at the end of the series another bonspiel will be held. Annual curling meeting will wind up by April 1.

The curling, the majority of whom are curling for the first time, are more than enthusiastic, says Industrial Curling Club manager-Bruce Curtis.

"They are not complain because they can't get enough time on the ice," said Mr. Curdy. "The League has proven to be very popular.

Freighter Aground

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—The Norwegian freighter Leif Viking ran on to rocks near Watch Hill Point, R.I., Sunday night. Flit efforts to free her were unsuccessful.

There were no injuries reported among the ship's crew of 30. The freighter is not thought to be in danger of breaking up. Its captain, Capt. O. Johanson, said he had no intention of abandoning ship.

Coast Guard vessels stood by throughout the night.

Trenton Curate, Rev. G. Brant, Says Farewell

TRENTON — On Sunday, the Rev Glyndon Brant, curate of St. George's, Anglican Church for the past year and a half, said goodbye to the congregation. He leaves today for Nassau in the Bahamas, where he will serve as curate at the Church of Ste. Mary the Virgin.

Mr. Brant preached at both services on Sunday and, after the evening service, was presented with a gift by the church wardens, on behalf of the congregation.

Mr. Brant was ordained in May, 1960, at Toronto. He is one of two Canadian Methanet Indians to become an Anglican priest. He is a direct descendant of one of the first Mohawks to land at Deseronto when members of the tribe left Brant's home in New York State, following the American Revolution, and journeyed to Canada in 1784. It was visited the Bahamas and became interested in the mission work of the church there. He expects to spend at least two years in the islands.

United Church Key Men Hold Busy Workshop

TRENTON — Approximately 102 key United Church men of the Bay of Quinte Conference gathered on Saturday at King Street United Church, Trenton, for a fourth annual workshop. Despite freezing rain and snow men arrived from points quite distant: from Picton eastward, to the east and Pickering in the west, to Southbridge, Madoc and Madawaska to the north.

Specific programs and resource materials were discussed by three full-time church workers, Don Lawrence, Ralph Wilson and Phil Spence. The major part of the afternoon was devoted to the presentation of sessions or workshops directed to participants in each of the key's work, each man attending the group of most interest to him.

After recess, the meetings were held of the Presbyteries comprising the Conference: Renfrew, Kingston, Belleville, Cobourg, Oshawa, Lindsay and Peterborough. Upon reconvening reports of Presbytery meetings were read and a few liefts of conference business were dealt with.

Rev. Harold M. Bailey presented the men of the church, especially those from the rural districts, with a real challenge to the scope, following the evening meal, on the problems of the church in the small country charge. He said that the rural congregations are necessarily served by only one ordained minister.

Text of Mayor's Address

Fellow Members of Council,
Fellow Citizens:

It is customary at each inaugural meeting of a new city council in this city for the mayor to make some remarks about both the past and the future. Today is the fifth time I have had this opportunity and I would like to say to those many men and women—both friends and acquaintances and others unknown—who have assisted in any way to make this possible, how grateful I am to them. I know that here and there there have been circumstances which have contributed substantially—and even admitting this—without those people who are ready and able to actively participate in elections when they become necessary—this would not be so—and to those especially I would like to express a humble "thank you."

I would also at this time like to thank my own ministers, Rev. H. M. Davis, of Bridge Street United Church, for his presence and his words of benediction, intercession and encouragement —to the two colleagues who escorted me to the chair I acknowledge the courtesy.

Now it is customary to briefly review the council's activities and today this review must really be brief in order that some time may be spent on the future—[applause] and said:

"Nor deem the irrevocable past
As wholly wasted, wholly vain,
If rising on its wrecks, at last
To something nobler we attain."

I believe that council's recent and activities during the past two years are well known, the steps we took, to retire the accumulated indebtedness are now a matter of history—the special levy which still has three annual instalments is now over 70 per cent paid. This is a matter in which we can take some pride.

PUBLIC COST LOWER

Then there is the acquisition of the private bus company and the organization of the Belleville Transit Commission — it would be unrealistic to believe that under present conditions a public bus system can be operated at a profit, but we can claim our service is being provided at a public cost substantially less than it would be by giving public subsidy to private interests.

During the period under review we have witnessed the introduction of one way traffic on Front and Pinnacle Streets. I think most people will agree that the flow of traffic has improved and that on the whole the system has been successful.

The parking authority has contributed greatly to the solution of the overall, and in particular the downtown parking problem. Much yet remains to be done. The creation of more downtown public parking is going to be the challenge to public authority in this city during the next the immediate years to follow. It is imperative that every step be taken to make sure that adequate areas are made available to protect the downtown business community if anything is allowed to prejudice the existence of this business area it could be a disaster that would affect the future development of all aspects of the city and remove or reduce support to religious, charitable and cultural activities without which no municipality can long successfully endure. — I might suggest that the organization of a "downtown business association" in all matters pertaining to the survival would be useful at this time.

During these remarks at this inaugural meeting in 1960, I made reference to the provision of greater budget control. I am glad to be able to report that such has been introduced and the city manager and the treasurer are to be congratulated on the introduction of such methods. Regular reports are now made available to all members of council, and many others interested in showing revenues and expenditures by departments and the various accounts within such departments by comparing to the estimates for the year. This makes it possible for management to know at all times where the corporation stands in its financial progress and to plan for the future.

A WISE MOVE

There is one accomplishment which I feel deserves special mention, because it has been developing over a period of two years. That is the work of the Personnel Committee. Following the advice of our personnel consultants the merit system was introduced and council has brought into being for the first time a comprehensive system of staff rules setting out job evaluations and port descriptions covering the city hall staff and available to other boards and commissions who may wish to use them. It has established salary scales and procedures of reclassification.

It has made it possible for all employees affected to consider themselves members of a real municipal civil service, knowing at all times where they are and what they can do to improve themselves within the scope of their own employment. In other words, they have become masters of their own fate.

A new pension plan has also been recommended and will be introduced as part of it is approved by the Department of Municipal Affairs. All of this establishes the city service in a class which should encourage their loyalty and performance and contribute to a better city administration.

The complete re-assessment of the city is underway under the supervision of the assessment commissioner. The improving somewhat more laborious than at first thought but it should be complete within reasonable tolerance of its planned target date of 1962 to be available to apply to the 1964 tax year.

Our central purchasing department is well organized and functioning exceptionally well. It is hoped that other boards and commissions will make increasing use of these services. In this way it is certain that economies in purchasing will be made which will be of benefit to all availing themselves of the use of these facilities. The purchasing agent also acts as "personnel officer" to apply the policies laid down in the staff rules.

Alterations are about completed to the interior of the city hall which should make much needed space available to certain departments and contribute to their efficiency. Some departments will be re-located in order to make those most frequently used by the public more accessible and more convenient.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

There have been other achievements of this council, but time does not permit and neither is it necessary — the record speaks for itself — however there is one item in which you might be interested —On January 1st, 1960, when we took office our indebtedness at the bank amounted to $714,455.00 — on January 1st, 1962, our indebtedness amounted to $292,027.00, after all allowances occasioned by the special levy already referred to — a reduction of over $422,000.

ENOUGH OF THE PAST —
WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

Some of you will remember that in my inaugural address in 1960, I recommended that council should adopt in a practical way the meaning of the Latin inscription surrounding the city's crest — "Magnum Est — Pertimonis Vestigil," which the late W. C. Mikel, Q.C., in his very useful book on the History of Belleville very loosely translates as "Economy is the Best Revenue." I do not propose to suggest this maxim still applies — our council continue to be guided by it.

I appeal now to council and all city employees to make every effort be made and all talents used to ensure that the tax rate for 1962 be not increased and in fact decreased—even as little—and a result would do much to stimulate interest in the well being of our municipality and increase the scope of confidence which has already been inspired as evidenced by the recent price received from the sale of our debentures. I suggest that this is possible because of the increase in assessment on the supplementary role. The achievement of such a result means that all concerned with the preparation of the 1962 budget must think in terms of dollars as well as in terms of mills.

A GOOD REPORT

We are in receipt of the report from our traffic consultant which outlines a construction program over the next twenty years to make possible an easing of traffic problems resulting from a constant and steady growth in our population both in people and in vehicles. We hope that this will be a permanent record of the city management to ensure that our growth proceeds in the order of the schedule provided as far as the Ontario Municipal Board will allow.

We are in receipt of a most intelligent study of the "Belleville Industrial Development Program" conducted by the Lake Ontario Development Association at no cost to the city. Your council has already taken steps to implement its preliminary recommendations. It is hoped that in the near future should be one of the vital aims of this and succeeding councils. Many factors are involved. The completion of the Bay Bridge access project, to which I will refer in a moment, is a most important factor in the program. It is essential that completely serviced area in the industrial use to be made available at the earliest possible date. To that must be added the cardinal attraction of a well planned community admirably suited municipality which will guarantee to potential industry stability and integrity to assure it a safety of residence so that industry can build in confidence.

I feel personally that to successfully launch an appeal to new industry it is necessary to employ full time and experienced industrial commissioner to advise the industrial development board and to provide it continuity in the application of its program. This I hope to advance at an early meeting of the Commission for its consideration.

STEPS ALREADY TAKEN

Steps have already been taken to create what will be known as "Quinte Emergency Measures Organization Area." We hope and expect that this will consist of the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, the town of Trenton and the city of Belleville. We feel that any municipal council would be derelict in its duty to those for whom it is responsible if all possible protection is not made available in its parks and preparations made for the assistance to others in surrounding areas who may appeal to us for help.

In today's climate of nuclear threats and the possibility of a non-contemplated error on the part of someone in authority, it would be the height of folly not to make every effort to protect our people insofar as it may be possible to do so. The cost of such a program is subsidized to the extent of 50 per cent by senior governments. The plans include the employment of a full time E.M.O. co-ordinator without whom we do not feel that such an organization throughout all the municipalities involved can be successfully brought into being.

Later in today's meeting a recommendation will be introduced, creating a special select committee to be known as the "Sewage Disposal Project Committee." This is that the development of our sewage disposal project is of such a magnitude and such an importance that it should be the subject of a special committee. The duties of this committee will be a liaison between council and management and the Ontario Water Resources Commission, the contractors, the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, through whom federal subsidies are being made available, and all other agencies and bodies having anything to do with the project over the long period of time its construction will be under way. The necessity for the protection of the municipality in this gigantic project cannot be over-emphasized.

FINANCIAL COMMITTEE

Another special committee which will be recommended later in today's meeting will be a "Municipal Air Services Committee". The immediate function of the committee will be to investigate and report back to council on the feasibility of the availability of aircraft landing facilities, in the beginning for commercial travel. As many commercial concerns and institutions are using aircraft for visitation and travel that it is felt that the development of such a facility would be useful and convenient to industry already here and an attraction to others who may be considering moving.

Council will recall that some months ago I asked for, and received, permission to pursue with airport authorities the possibility of remolving the tracks, of the Canadian National railways of interchange and serving the south end of the city. I am happy to be able to report that some progress has been made. Consultation is being held with other parties concerned and a submission is in its final stage for presentation to top C.N.R. management. We would hope for early approval so an application could be made to the board of transport commissioners to have the removal of these tracks would be in keeping with our traffic survey and not only increase flow of traffic, but also eliminate what has been a most serious traffic hazard which has been aggravated by the introduction of the one-way streets.

The difficulties facing municipal financing become greater as the years go by. It is only because of Provincial and Federal subsidies that the present system is able to survive at all. The time has surely come when these must be a new consideration given to tax revenues available to all levels of government. I notice that the Mayor of Ottawa has suggested that regular taxes should apply on all federal and provincial controlled lands, buildings and in-

Bullet Cracks Car Windshield

STURGEON FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A bullet cracked the windshield of store owner Henri Levesque's car as he fled Saturday night after surprising two men in the store.

Police have detained two Toronto men for questioning.

Mr. Levesque said he found two men attempting to break into two safes when he entered the store. He drew out and jumped into his car. As he pulled away a shot was fired at him, cracking the windshield in front of his head.

Provincial police detained one man seen hitch-hiking Sunday near a roadblock on Highway 17. Another man was picked up later in this town 22 miles west of North Bay.

Police said $100 was taken from one safe. The other was not opened.

Statistics. To this suggestion I heartily concur.

MAY BE HELPFUL

I believe also that the review that is being made to our educational curriculum by the Minister of Education should prove beneficial it might be possible to eliminate some of the luxuries which are now apparent and reduce our instruction to a basis that would better recognize various talents which pupils possess. I think also that the time may come when consideration will be given to making our school buildings available for a greater period of use, thereby reducing the existing demand for new capital construction.

I also suggest to council this; thought be given to enlarging the Mayor's term to two years so that perhaps having the entire council go to the electorate every two years, thereby reducing the substantial cost of a municipal election in alternate years.

Finally, I would like to say a word of regret to those members of last year's council who did not return and at the same time a word welcome to those new members of council who are replacing them. I cannot do more than to wish for you the same measure of co-operation and pleasure which has been mine in working with those who are now your colleagues as we part.

I must not close without a word of appreciation to the city manager, department heads and all employees for their loyalty and devotion, not only to the council, but to the municipality.

We are all so proud to serve. I am certain we can look forward with confidence that we will continue to press forward towards the building of a municipal institution that will be the envy of others in Ontario and all happy and prosperous years.

Thank you.

Slippery Roads Cause of Many Minor Mishaps

Quinte motorists battled strong winds, snow and freezing rain over the weekend, and as the result, a few minor accidents were reported by city and provincial police.

Inspector J. McLauchlan, of the city police department, said this morning there were about 12 minor accidents during the weekend and that a fair amount of property damage was involved. Most of the accidents involved rear-end collisions.

Provincial police also reported a few minor accidents on the highways in the Quinte area. They said some were collisions and others involved cars sliding from the slippery roads into the ditch.

It was reported this morning that the highways are still in a hazardous condition. A sheet of ice lies beneath the snow in places. However, most roads have been sanded and are not quite as bad a state as they were earlier in the weekend.

City streets were slushy this morning and slippery at most intersections.

Snowdrifts occurred in some places on Highway 401 over the weekend, but snowplows, graders and sanders kept the double lanes passable.

Progress—Are We Included?

The recent announcement that some $12,000,000 is to be spent on modernizing and improving the Trent Canal system should produce some very hard thoughts locally on just how this major expenditure will affect this community.

This past summer almost 86,000 boats made use of the Trent system. In the years ahead this figure may well be expected to grow. These boats are manned by people who are always on the lookout for a pleasant spot to visit and who usually are not in any great rush to get somewhere; if they like a place they will probably stay there several days.

Belleville, although not directly on the Trent Canal system, is very favorably positioned on the main approach to that canal. This community can, if it has the desire, attract the lion's share of the water traffic passing up the Bay of Quinte on the way to the Trent Canal.

This can only be done by the mutual efforts of local merchants, businessmen and council. To attract this traffic, which quite frankly is the most lucrative, businesswise, of any form of tourist trade

20 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A weekend of snow, freezing rain or slush in many parts of the country apparently made weekend drivers cautious, or kept them off the roads altogether. Only seven traffic fatalities were reported.

A Canadian Press survey taken from 6 p.m. local time Friday to Sunday midnight showed five provinces free of any accidental deaths, six clear of traffic deaths.

The over-all death toll was 20, comprising the seven traffic deaths, six by fire—five in one home in Ontario — and seven more through unclassified causes.

Ontario led with 11 deaths; three traffic, five fire, three unclassified. Quebec followed with six; two traffic, one fire and three unclassified.

There was a traffic death each in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia and an unclassified accidental death in New Brunswick.

The remaining provinces, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia were clear.

This survey does not include natural deaths, known suicides or industrial accidents.

Ontario dead:

Raymond Scott, 30, of Hawkestone, near Orillia, killed Friday night when he was hit by a car while walking on Highway 11;

Fire victims Debra, Shirley, Jackie and Donald Pelhabeb, aged between one and five, and their great - grandfather Wilhelm Pelhabeb, 80, who died in a farmhouse blaze Friday night at Clontarf, 10 miles south of the northeastern Ontario community of Egansville;

Jalmar Salko, 54, and Kauko Niemonen, 48, apparently asphyxiated after leaving a gas stove burning while they slept in a Toronto rooming house;

Gunman Wounds Plant Manager Of Bread Co.

OSHAWA (CP) — Police are hunting a gunman who shot and wounded plant manager Edward Lutton, 51, in a holdup Saturday night at the Canada Bread Company here.

Mr. Lutton was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital after undergoing emergency surgery Saturday night for a bullet wound in the stomach.

The masked gunman walked into the premises shortly before 6 p.m., herded seven route drivers into a wash room and rifled their money pouches. He warned the drivers to remain in the washroom and ordered Mr. Lutton to open the safe.

The plant manager was shot when he grappled with the gunman, who fled in a stolen car. Police found the car six blocks away.

The safe, which can be opened only by the Brinks Express Company, was intact.

Officials of the bread company were unable to give an immediate estimate of the amount stolen from the drivers.

Quinte COSSA Basketball

Picton won two out of three games over Moira Friday in the Quinte District season opener. Picton seniors downed Moira seniors 37-45. Moira's junior Trojans handed their Picton counterparts at 43-33 defeat. The Prince-Edward Bantams defeated Moira Bantams 36-21.

SENIOR GAME

Moira took an early lead in the first quarter and it looked as if they would go all the way. Led by the rebounding of Colin Allenby they led 11-8 at the end of the first quarter. Picton came back during the second quarter and slowly crept up until at the end of the first half the score was tied 20-20.

In the second half Picton's height and advantage began to show and with a good effort by centre Rick Lee and Leon Geron the Prince Edward boys pulled ahead to stay. They led 35.29 at the end of the third quarter and kept the game out of reach of the Trojans.

JUNIOR GAME

The junior game was fast and rough with Moira coming on in the second half for the victory. Moira led at the end of the first quarter 11-7, but Picton came back, led by G. Noural, to go ahead 21-17. Moira took over in the third quarter and with good rebounding by R. Faulkner, and good shooting by Faulkner and Lang they went ahead to stay. Picton closed the gap to four points early in the fourth quarter, but couldn't go ahead.

Junior Trojans put the game on ice, then ran out the clock for the win.

tions or scientific theories about nation," said Sukarno.

"The Papuan people of West Irian (West New Guinea) are part of the Indonesian race. A desire by people to live together creates a nation. Indonesia is of many peoples and the West Irian people are part of it."

Sukarno also attacked Luns' statements that the Papuans are so uncivilized they need Dutch support and training, and that The Netherlands had put more into its colonies than it had taken from them.

CLAIMS PROGRESS

"What have the Dutch done in New Guinea and what have the Dutch given us?" he demanded. "Our progress is not because of their doing. We have developed education and will wipe out illiteracy by 1964. The Dutch built roads here but only to their commercial enterprises."

"The Dutch were here 350 years and left virtually nothing here."

Reinforcements poured into the south Celebes as Sukarno neared the area. A source close to the president said guerrilla "volunteers" are expected to begin hit-and-run attacks soon in West New Guinea, which Indonesia has claimed ever since gaining independence from The Netherlands in 1949.

In a speech at the Bajang village of Bonthian, Sukarno said Indonesia will invade the territory unless the Dutch hand it over and "We don't care about world opinion."

However, he said his policy has the support of the Communist, Asian and African world. "Two billion people support us," he said. "How many people support Holland?"

The crowd laughed in reply.

BERDEES 'PLAN'

At one point, Sukarno said he had learned the Dutch plan to send the 15,890-ton aircraft carrier Karel Doorman to New Guinea waters. She can handle 35 warplanes. The president turned to nine foreign ambassadors in his party and said:

"I want you to tell your governments we are not afraid of the Karel Doorman. What can she do to stop us? If, during one dark night, thousands of tiny fishing craft full of Indonesian fighters creep across the waters to West Irian (West New Guinea) what can the Karel Doorman do to stop them?"

At The Hague, the Dutch Navy said the carrier and two destroyers will leave Friday for a show-the-flag trip in The Netherlands West Indies, Caribbean and South American waters. There was no mention of any trip to New Guinea.

Silk Outpaces Other Fabrics At Showing

NEW YORK (AP)—The silkworm has turned. More than 200 fashion editors attending the New York Couture Group Cotton Press Week found that out Sunday night at the International Silk Association's style show.

Perhaps annoyed at the inroads miracle fibres have been making on their business lately, the silk worms are apparently spinning overtime.

A luxurious silk burlap fare was fashioned into a side-buttoned coat by designer Carmel. Magrejka showed that silk could outpace linen with a slim, raw - textured coat dress that slithered sexily over a silk print surah sheath dress.

Moss crepe dressed were tucked slightly at the bodice, with fluttering skirts touched with ruffles here and there.

There were collarless, sleeveless so - called little nothing dresses, but the sheaths made up for their stark simplicity in design with silk textures.

In contrast to daytime dresses, evening costumes do not billow or flutter at all.

Most models undulated onto the runway in tucked silk chiffon or crinkled crepe wrapped at the bodice and draped close all the way to the ankle. Silk even showed up as an evening shirt by Tina Leser — a kind white affair reminiscent of grandpa's nightie.

High-Fashion Houses Begin Spring Battle

By LOUISE HICKMAN

ROME (AP) — Rome's high-fashion houses begin their spring and summer showings Monday, hoping for a record turnout of customers after an intense promotion drive.

Never before have the organized Roman fashion houses made such an effort to gain supremacy over rival showings in Florence.

Showings will be held here through Friday, Next Saturday, the six-day Florence presentations begin.

A government-backed organization runs the Rome showings. The Florence shows are organized by G. B. Giorgini, a private Florentine citizen and importer - exporter. In recent years he has built up an aura of prestige for Florence, and many top Italian houses have deserted Rome to show in Florence.

The Roman center is determined this year to turn the tide. To attract more buyers, it will show more elegant, ready-to-wear boutique clothes.

HINTS PLENTIFUL

Designers say they are trying to keep their ideas secret; but they cannot help dropping a hint.

Out of the hints and rumors, emerging is a picture of 1962 spring and summer fashions:

Colors will be warm and cheery, with a vast range of greens.

Most designers will show natural waistlines, but several will have raised waists.

Skirt lengths will remain unchanged.

Skirt shapes will be dominated by the flare.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA- LEWIS

THE COURTEOUS APPROACH TO CHILDREN

Are you polite to your children's friends?

This may seem like a silly question to ask. Of course you are. But sometimes a question out of the blue makes you take a fresh look at a situation you may have been taking for granted.

No one suspects a busy mother to rush in to help into the play room then sit and entertain them for hours at a stretch. Naturally, you're expected to greet them at the door, take off their coats and hats and hoods and get them interested in some toy before dashing back to the laundry or dishes.

But sometimes in the midst of housework and trying to oversee the activities of preschoolers, it's only too easy to give short answers to questions or become abrupt when trying to smooth out some childish difficulties. It's largely an unconscious reflex but here are a few questions to give you food for thought.

For instance, do you give young visitors the brush-off when they call for an outing with you? Many youngsters love to tell a friend's mother about a new toy or a party they know many puppies the dog just had. Maybe you don't have time to listen and show it. But instead of turning a deaf ear, why not take a courteous approach and suggest the child save his story until lunch when he can tell you? Many youngsters love to peer peanut-butter sandwiches.

Are you tactful about sharing? This is the main cause of argument among pre-schoolers and their mothers. Why can't they switch. A simple and gracious way to handle it is this:

If two children want to play with the same toy, give each a time limit. Johnny can have it for ten minutes, then Mary Ann can have it for ten minutes and so on. Set an alarm clock so it goes off at the end of each period. This helps settle the argument peacefully, and the youngsters eagerly await the ringing of the bell to take over the desired plaything.

When a youngster gets out of hand, do you take over firmly yourself? Many times you will only get you a sore throat, or if a child starts to fight and really starts up, it's wise to send him home — not because you're a "bad boy" but because "you're tired and maybe you'd like to come back after a nap and play some more." Chances are the child has been playing too hard and could use a rest. By putting it on this basis you help him save face, and he'll probably play back accordingly later knowing he's still wanted and has your stamp of approval.

Do you make youngsters put playthings away before they go home? You should, but don't nag about it. Again, a polite approach eases the way. Make a game of it, and those who can't put the most toys where they belong before the alarm clock rings. Set it for ten minutes and you'll get results in eight. A little prize for the winner also helps speed things up.

WOMEN TRAPPERS

MERIGOMISH, N.S. (CP)—Two housewives of this northern Nova Scotia community each got their quota of five beaver pelts during the fall trapping season. Mrs. Charles Crosby and Mrs. Dorothy Stoneburgh, who went with Mr. Crosby on his trapline last year, decided to try it by themselves this year.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Nancy E. — She never misses a chance to uphraid me for the way I raised my children.

Elaine Q. — I warned her years ago not to go by theories and books, but by common sense.

• • •

Nancy E. — When our children were growing up, my cousin Elaine and I lived in the same neighborhood. Since our cousin seemed constantly at school in the playground, at the supermarket and at church affairs — we spent a great deal of time together.

Now our children are married and we are grandparents. Although Elaine and her husband have moved to a fine apartment in midtown Manhattan, we still talk to each other several times a week. But it's beginning to get me down. She does nothing but flaunt how much better her children have turned out than mine.

The truth is mine live near me. They have usual troubles with jobs and illness and Elaine sees this. Hers live in Europe. They're not married safely. I can't believe they're the happiest couple she says, nor are mine the spoiled brats she calls them.

• • •

Elaine Q. — I can't help feeling sorry for Marianne's good and wonderful daughters I have. Whatever I did when they were small, they accepted. I was not too strict, she said. I was crushing them. I didn't give them money for nonsense. I kept them in public free colleges, even though we could have afforded a private school. I didn't go to the country every weekend. I still only get you a sore throat, and if a child starts to fight and really starts up, it's wise to send him home — not because you're a "bad boy" but because "you're tired and maybe you'd like to come back after a nap and play some more." Chances are the child has been playing too hard and could use a rest. By putting it on this basis you help him save face, and he'll probably play back accordingly later knowing he's still wanted and has your stamp of approval.

factor in successful child rearing. One important study gives the credit to child training, or blame. The others thirds go to the outside world — teachers, friends, policemen, doctors, etc. — and to themselves, their own uniqueness, their inborn, built-in qualities.

So, watch it, Elaine. Being a parent isn't like writing a letter, with a beginning, middle and end. It's more like a prayerful song that goes on and on, long past our own lifetimes. You're in error to regard the tunes — both yours and Nancy's — as over!

Pork Production And Prices Look Promising

By Mary Moore

Economics Division of Canada Department of Agriculture issued a newsletter on the likes of me who work with and talk about Canada's food.

From their advantageous point of view they predict that the price of eggs and broilers and turkeys and pork will continue to be lower than at this time last year.

That is news that we food buyers like to hear for these protein items take a big bite out of our housekeeping funds.

Today I propose to remind you of some mouth-watering and economical pork dishes that will give you January dinners a lift. On Thursday of this week my subject will be eggs — not just ordinary eggs, but recipes to make them into dishes that are a treat to eat.

PORK PAPRIKA

1 1-2 lbs. lean pork shoulder, cut into 1" pieces, 2 medium onions sliced, 2 or 3 tablespoons oil, 2 green peppers cut in strips, 1 tablespoon paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper 1-2 6-oz. can tomato paste, 1 cup boiling water.

Saute the pork pieces and onion in the oil until browned. Add green peppers, tomato paste, salt, pepper and paprika, and just enough water to cover. Put on lid and simmer until meat is tender — about 1 hour.

Serve on or with cooked rice or noodles. If you are a real pepper fan sprinkle some over each one of it and salt and pepper too.

BAKED STUFFED PORK CHOPS

Stuffing: Melt 1-4 cup butter in large frying pan and in it saute until lump 1 tablespoon chopped onion, and 2 cups finely chopped unpeeled apple and 1-2 cup chopped celery. Remove from heat and add 2 cups soft breadcrumbs, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley and 1-4 teaspoon salt. Buy 6 thick (1 1-4") pork chops. Slit them from fat edge to bone to make a deep pocket. Sprinkle them with salt and pepper inside and out, then stuff loosely with above stuffing. Fasten shut with skewers or toothpicks. In hot frying pan brown on both sides, for about 15 minutes. Transfer to baking dish, and bake covered for 45 minutes, then uncover and bake 15 minutes longer or until tender.

FRIZZLED SMOKED BACK BACON

(To serve with Waffles or Pancakes) — cut slices of bacon with our family is frizzled smoked back bacon with waffles, but the secret is to persuade your butcher to slice it thin enough. It should be paper-thin — as thin as his slicing machine can be set. One-half pound will go quite a long way. Dump it into a hot frying-pan any old way and over medium high heat brown it around constantly until the fat begins to turn gold. Serve it in a pile on a hot platter with hot waffles or pancakes and maple syrup.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Not too many years ago a comparative handful of city and district sportsmen met and organized the Belleville and District Fish and Game Club.

They were true visionaries. From the scorn of that small gathering has grown the flourishing "club" that now crams the upper auditorium of the Club Canara once monthly.

Under the able administration and programming of such men as Joe Shortt, Don MacKinnon, Bruce Kerr and Gordon Magee who have filled the presidential chair, the secretarial efforts of men like Kenneth Yorke, and co-operative executives, the club has mushroomed far beyond the wildest dreams of the charter members.

Not too long after the first series of meetings held in a room in the YMCA, the efforts of the club began to make themselves known and appreciated.

It began to develop "growing pains." Standing room in the YMCA meeting place was at a premium. Department of the district applied for membership. The club was forced to seek a larger meeting place.

It secured the lower auditorium of the well-appointed club Canara. Gradually the membership increased. Between some 30 and 40 new members were being signed at each meeting.

The walls of the Club Canara meeting place began to bulge, so to speak, with a membership of nearly 300 men, women and "teen-agers" the club moved to the upper auditorium.

Still they came and as the midpoint in the paid-up membership of the club is 375, about 85 per cent of which fill the club room at every meeting.

The club has done, and is doing, a fine job in the interests of anglers and hunters. Its membership, by the way, represents a large cross-section of sportsmen and sportswomen from Wellington and Picton on the south to Stirling and surrounding areas north of the city.

At the club meetings you will see practically every walk of life represented: doctors, lawyers, merchants, industry and of late a noted influx of secondary school students.

It isn't merely a "social club" in the strict sense of the word. It is dedicated to the interests, rights and well-being of anglers and hunters. The executive studies and acts upon all problems arising from conditions of hunting and angling brought to its attention by members.

To this effect several panels, members of which included fish and game experts from Ontario and federal departments of Lands and Forests, have been conducted at club meetings.

Last year the club took issue with a departmental decree reducing the limit of lake trout from five to three in the district. A departmental representative was called in explain the government action.

On another occasion the "dollar-hungry" duck hunters illegally baited city and district hunting areas resulting in the closing by the RCMP of these wildlife haunts, the club held a panel and took action. The result was that last year illegal baiting was reduced to a minimum.

One of the best achievements of the club has resulted from its efforts in hunter safety and gunhandling. Several members volunteered to hold teaching clinics for youthful hunters and nearly 100 student nimrods qualified for their license last year.

At the moment a project to acquire its own conservation area is under consideration by the executive. This will comprise a piece of club-owned property which will include fish and game propagating among [illegible] things. More will be heard about this later.

The club is holding its second annual dinner meeting at the Club Canara on Tuesday, January 16, starting 6.30. There will be films, door prizes and an address by D. N. Omand, supervisor of Wild Life and Enforcement, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, Toronto. Door prizes and draw awards are "on the house."

Tickets can be secured from any club director, and, this is important, must be secured by 10 a.m. Friday, January 12. Better get them right away.

Big 'M' Leads Pack

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Big Frank Mahovlich was up to his old scoring tricks during the weekend and Toronto Maple Leafs reaped the harvest for two important victories.

The husky left winger scored three goals and helped set up three others — at least reminiscent of the big Saturdays and Sundays he had in 1960-61 on his way to a 48-goal season.

Sunday at New York he retrieved his own rebound and scored on a whirling backhand shot with less than five minutes remaining to hand the Maple Leafs a 4-3 triumph over the slipping Rangers. He assisted on two of Toronto's earlier goals.

Against Chicago Saturday, the 25-year-old hotshot scored two third period goals after having set up an earlier one when the Leafs spilled the Stanley Cup champion Black Hawks 6-3.

The two victories propelled the Leafs to within one point of first place in the National Hockey League.

LUCKY TO LEAD

Actually front-running Montreal Canadiens were lucky to stay on top of the heap. The Habs had an easy time beating New York 5-1 on home ice Saturday night but ran into much tougher opposition at Detroit Sunday.

They needed two unusual goals and a goalie goaltending by Jacques Plante to salvage a 2-2 deadlock with the Red Wings.

Detroit, striving to get out of fifth place, jumped to a 2-0 edge over lowly Boston Bruins in a Saturday matinee game.

But the Habs had much more going for them at Chicago Sunday. They got one goal while shorthanded, another in an empty net and backed by rookie goalie Claude Provost's spectacular netminding blanked the Hawks 2-0.

The standings were not altered by the weekend's play. The Rangers, dropped below the .500 mark for the first time this season, remained tied. The Hawks are still fourth, two points behind the Blueshirts.

TIES FED FIRST

Mahovlich's game winner at New York was his seventh this season, tops in the league. It also was his 18th goal this year and pulled him into a three-way tie for third place in the individual scoring race.

Before getting the winner, he set up tallies for linemates Bob Nevin and Eddie Litzenberger. Bert Olmstead got the other Toronto goal.

Earl Ingarfield, Andy Bathgate and Pat Hannigan scored for the Rangers.

The Maple Leafs got a big scare late in the second period when veteran goalie Johnny Bower fell bleeding to the ice after he was hit at the hairline by a shot off Hannigan's stick. But after six stitches and a 17-minute intermission, Bower returned and drew an ovation from the big New York crowd of 15,265.

Saturday the Leafs lost the services of winger Dick Duff as a result of a charleyhorse. They are without Red Kelly and Eddie Shack, both recovering from recent injuries.

Dave Keon, Allan Stanley, Olmstead and Litzenberger potted Toronto's other goals against the Hawks. Ron Murphy, Eric Nesterenko and Stan Mikita tallied for Chicago.

The Canadiens rapped in four goals in the second period and were never seriously threatened thereafter in their game against the Rangers.

Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore, criticized earlier by coach Toe Blake for lackluster performances, led the way for the Habs. Beliveau scored twice while Dickie Moore got one and set up another for Claude Provost. Gilles Tremblay also scored for Montreal while Ingarfield tallied for the Rangers.

At Detroit, Howie Glover twice sent the Wings into the lead with goals in the first and second periods.

Billy Hicke got the first Montreal goal on a shot that glanced into the net off Detroit defenceman Doug Barkley's stick. Rookie Bobby Rousseau got the tie with a goal while Canadiens were shorthanded.

Saturday, it was Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio who led the way for the Wings against the Bruins. Howe got his 19th goal and Delvecchio had two others. Delvecchio had to settle for four assists, failing to come up with his 200th NHL goal.

Detroit's five other goals came off the sticks of usually weak scorers. Defencemen Warren Godfrey, Marcel Pronovost and Pete Goegan each had one as did forwards Leo Labine and Val Fogteyne.

At Chicago, Charley Burns gave the Bruins a 1-0 margin in the second period and Toppazzini added the game's final minute of play after Hawks' goalie Glenn Hall had been removed for a sixth attacker.

Sault Ste. Marie has a scrappy Eastern Professional Hockey League team that refuses to go the way of the dodo.

Instead, like the legendary Phoenix the team is rising from the threatened ashes of extinction to wreak havoc on its rivals.

The Sault Thunderbirds, who were on the brink of folding last March, if it hadn't been for place Kingston Frontenacs 6-3 Saturday the team moved on to Hull for a 3-3 tie with the third - ranking Hull - Ottawa Canadiens Sunday afternoon.

Meanwhile Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers extended their marathon at the head of the league to four 2-1 victory at North Bay Sunday.

Lopsided 38-10 Triumph

Eagles Clawed By Hungry Lions

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Detroit's rugged defenders manhandled Philadelphia Saturday while Jim Ninowski and Earl Morrall each threw two touchdown passes in a 38-10 victory before 25,612 fans in the second pro football bowl game at the Orange Bowl.

Following the lead of the Packers, who thumped New York Giants 37-0 at Green Bay, Wis., last Sunday, the Lions also boosted Western Conference prestige with this lopsided triumph in the battle of the two second-place teams.

The Eagles finished second in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League while the Lions were runnerup in the Western section.

Detroit turned two interceptions and a fumble into a 24-0 halftime lead as their defensive play gave the Eagles a rough time.

Sonny Jurgensen, the Eagles' fine passer who led a league record with 32 touchdown passes this season suffered a right shoulder separation during that first half rout. J. D. Smith, regular offensive tackle on the Eagles, twisted a knee in the third quarter. Both were lost to the Eagles for the 14 pro bowl game at Los Angeles.

Terry Barr caught Ninowski's two TD passes on 69- and 14-yard plays. Morrall ran five yards for one score and Pat Studstill on an 18-yard TD pass and Sam Williams on a 19-yard pass after a fake field goal try. Jim Martin, who added the first extra point, also kicked an 18-yard field goal.

Philadelphia, a 2½ - point favorite, finally broke into the point column in the third quarter on a nine-yard field goal by Bobby Walston, the NFL's all-time leading scorer.

Bearcats Draw Praise

Says Czechs Club To Beat Amerk Lead

U.S. Denies Visa Refusal To Germans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department denied Saturday a Moscow radio claim that the United States government had refused visas to the East German hockey team scheduled to play in the world championships at Colorado Springs in March.

Robert McCloskey, state department press officer, said the visas had not been refused because the matter had not reached that stage. He said the East Germans first must apply in West Berlin for travel permits because the U.S. does not recognize East Germany.

In Berlin, a U.S. spokesman said East German team representatives had turned in some application for visas "Thursday or Friday" but added no decision on them would be made in Berlin.

In Montreal, Robert LeBel, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said the Moscow radio report was not true.

"If the East German hockey people are having difficulties, they should complain directly to us (the International federation)."

"They are members in good standing, just as good as Canada and anyone else. The Russians don't have to do their complaining for them"

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — A Swedish amateur hockey official, who a year ago blasted Trail Smoke Eaters for unsportsmanlike conduct, had nothing but praise for Port Arthur Bearcats, coach Lee Fogolin said here Saturday night, when the team returned from its European tour.

Fogolin, former National Hockey League star, said he received a letter of congratulations from Rune Eriksen, president of the Swedish Ice Hockey Federation.

"It congratulated us for our 5-3 victory over Djurgarden and said it was a great game without fouls and bad feelings before a record crowd of 21,500, which saved the tournament financially," he said.

The game was the last of 15 played by the Bearcats of the Thunder Bay Senior League during a month - long tour of Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Sweden.

The team won 10, lost four and tied one. Port Arthur sews up a four - game round - robin series in the inaugural Abearne Trophy series for the European hockey championship.

BIG CROWD AT AIRPORT

An overflow crowd, led by Mayor Saul Laskin and other Port Arthur dignitaries, met the team at the Lakehead airport in Fort William. A civic reception will be held in their honor Monday.

Gordon Juckes, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, who travelled with the Bearcats, said in Toronto that Czechoslovakia is the team to beat in the world amateur hockey championships at Colorado Springs in March.

Juckes was interviewed when the team landed at Malton airport on their way to Port Arthur.

"The Bearcats lost two games to the Czech national team by 2-1 and 10-1 scores and Galt Terriers, who represent Canada at Colorado Springs, will beat the Czechs if they play the right style of hockey," Juckes said.

By that Juckes said he meant the Canadians must learn to play the international rules which call for bodychecking only in the checking team's half of the ice.

Juckes said the Czechs and Swedes told him Canada needn't worry about Russia.

Juckes added that Czechoslovakia and Sweden expressed a desire to send teams to Canada next winter.

STILL BEST KEG JUMPER

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)—World barrel jumping champion Jim Waldo of Portland, Ore., sailed over 15 barrels Sunday for a distance of 27 feet, 4½ inches, to defeat his title in the annual international keg hurdling tournament. Yvon Jolin of Montreal was second, clearing 14 barrels.

Flyers Tie Teeps

Baby Habs Crush Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens, highest-scoring team in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, came up Sunday with the biggest goal production of any club this season.

The Habs — place Canadiens crushed Niagara Falls Flyers 11-4. Hamilton Wings edged Oshawa two points off Montreal's pace, although they have a game in hand, by battling to a 3-3 tie with St. Catharines Teepees Saturday.

Ron Ellis, Adrean Richer, Germain Gagnon and Bob Charlebois each got two goals as Montreal where the Flyers batted on something like even terms and were the first period. Jacques Laperriere, Andre Boudrias and Johnny Taylor scored the others.

For the fifth - place Flyers, Billy Kubbos and Gary Dornbusch scored in the first period, Ron Hergott in the second and Howie Dietrich in the third.

The Baby Habs' sharp passing made the difference in the game, which ended in a brawl that cost major penalties to Richard Morin of the Flyers and Jacques Madore of Montreal. Up to that time only four minors had been called.

Mary Breaks Own Records

In the 100 - metre women's freestyle, she lowered her mark of 1:03.1 to 1:02.4 and cut the 220-yard freestyle record to 1:08 from 1:08.7. Miss Stewart was swimming for the Dolphin Club in an invitational meet.

BUBE METERS

In Oslo, Norway's capital, each of the 744 parking meters is used by an estimated 2,000 cars each year.

Brum Holds Hotspurs To 3-3 Draw

LONDON (Reuters) — Tottenham Hotspur, English League champion and cup holder, was dramatically held to a 3-3 draw after being three goals up Saturday in its Soccer Association Challenge Cup third - round game away to Birmingham City.

After Birmingham fought back to equalize, hundreds of fans swarmed on the pitch to congratulate the home team players and the referee threatened to abandon the game unless they withdrew.

Jimmy Greaves, Spurs' £100,000 buy from Milan, scored two Tottenham goals and Welsh international Cliff Jones got the other. Then came Birmingham's magnificent fight-back.

Jimmy Harris thundered in a left-foot shot before half-time, and added a free minutes by Harris and Ken Leek after the interval earned Birmingham a replay.

There were two big-form upsets. There were provided by third - division Peterborough United 1-0 away winner over second-division Newcastle, and second - division Plymouth Argyle, which downed first - division West Ham United 3-0.

Cut Terrier Lead

Bulldogs on the Prowl

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Bulldogs are on the move again and Galt Terriers' occupation of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series appears in jeopardy.

The Bulldogs, 5-1 victors over Strathroy Rockets Saturday, turned back Terriers 4-1 Sunday and narrowed the margin to three points. The Bulldogs have played three games fewer than the Galt club.

Woodstock Athletics, five points back of Windsor, went [illegible] Strathroy Rockets 4-2 Saturday to [illegible] the Tigers 3-2 Sunday in a [illegible] game at Waterloo. Stratford Indians rounded out the weekend action with a 4-3 victory over the luckless Sarnia Rams, who dropped their 10th straight and have won only two of their 20 games.

Two second-period goals by Bob Brown after Galt's Bill Wylie had tied the score at 1-1 finished the Terriers Sunday. Irwin Gross had scored for Windsor in the first period and Walt Pawlyshyn added a clincher in the third. Brown's goals came within 71 seconds.

EASTERN SALT

Indonesia's salt industry produced 300,000 tons in 1960, of which 250,000 tons were for domestic consumption.

To Discuss Belleville Senior Bid

TORONTO (CP)—By mutual agreement, an Ontario Hockey Association hearing of a Woodstock protest about a disputed senior game has been postponed.

OHA President Lloyd Pollock said representatives of the Woodstock Athletic and Waterloo Hurricanes agreed not to appear at an OHA executive meeting here Saturday. The protest will be heard at a future meeting.

Woodstock filed the protest when Waterloo refused to play in Woodstock Dec. 22 in place of the now - defunct St. Thomas team.

Mr. Pollock said the OHA still has not reached agreement with Chatham Maroons over a game St. Thomas was to have played in Chatham the night the team folded.

"Chatham is asking for $1,500 as compensation," said Mr. Pollock, "and we feel this is too high. There will have to be a better adjustment."

Mr. Pollock announced that Ralph Koseveu, Waterloo Tigers forward, has been given a one - year suspension for hitting Hespeler Jerry Hesse of Simcoe in a game in Stratford Dec. 29. He said he believed Waterloo would appeal the suspension. Hesse was hit when he tried to break up a fight between Koseveu and a Stratford player.

REJECT TWO APPEALS

The OHA turned down appeals by two junior players who were given one - year suspensions. They are Ralph Houston of Strathroy and John Black of Simcoe. Houston was suspended a month ago for hitting a referee and Black was suspended last spring for hitting a referee during a playoff game between Stratford and Simcoe.

Mr. Pollock said the draft meeting for Junior A clubs, normally held in March, will not be held this year until early May. No legislation concerning the draft may be introduced at the OHA's annual meeting in April.

"There has been quite a bit of criticism about the draft," said Mr. Pollock.

In other business, the OHA:

Fined coach Hap Emens of Niagara Falls Flyers of the Junior B loop $50 for impeding referee Bill Brethour after a game in Guelph several weeks ago;

Granted Kingston's International Jr. A entry a bye into the OHA playoffs against the winner of the Lakeshore group;

Heard a bid from Belleville to recognize its team, which has been playing in the Lakeshore Intermediate A group, as a senior entry and set a meeting with officials of the western senior group in London Jan. 21 to discuss Belleville's possible playoff role. Pollock indicated the matter probably is to find playoff time without delaying the declaration of an OHA senior winner for the Eastern Canada final.

College Bowls Final—

Strength in West, South

NEW YORK (CP)—The U.S. college football bowl season ended during the weekend showing the same pattern that dominated the early season — the strength was in the west and south.

In the Senior Bowl the South overwhelmed the North; in the U.S. Bowl the West beat the East, and in the Hula Bowl East and West played to a 7-7 standoff.

In the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala., Saturday the powerful running of Ronnie Bull of Baylor and Bart Gros of Louisiana State led the South to a convincing 45-7. Both squads turned professional with the game, the winning players each receiving a cheque for $600 and the losers getting $500.

Halfback Bull and fullback Gros each rushed for two touchdowns as the South shut out the North until the last minute of play.

The North moved downfield from the opening kick-off with a series of plays that gave the impression they would be unbeatable.

But the South stopped the drive on the six and a fourth field-goal attempt was blocked. Then Bull, Gros and company took over.

Bull, who made a 56 - yard scoring burst in the third quarter, carried the ball 16 times and gained 133 yards. Gros, a 220 - pounder, carried 18 times for 124 yards.

Bill Miller, Miami(), all-America end, was brilliant for the South, playing as a flanker back. He caught four passes — half the South's completions — for 87 yards.

The South attack was directed at quarterback by Billy Cannon of Furman, whom Toronto Argonauts drafted.

In the U.S. Bowl Sunday at Washington, quarterback Galen Hall of Pennsylvania State passed for three touchdowns to lead the West to a 33-19 win. The all-star game marked the first choices of the eastern and western divisions of the National Football League.

AFL All-Star Tilt

West Defeats East 47-27

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (CP) — The American Football League staged its first all - star game Sunday. For fans who like plenty of passing and fancy running under ideal conditions, it was a great success.

The Western all - stars pulled off a 47-27 upset win behind the sensational quarterbacking of Cotton Davidson, and put on an offensive work that led to the interception of five passes thrown by Eastern signal-caller George Blanda.

The victory gave the West a measure of revenge, Blanda led Houston Eastern Division champions, to a 10-3 triumph over San Diego Chargers, the Western champions, in the AFL championship game two weeks ago.

Blanda had a good day for the title clash, but he had a nightmare Sunday. Four of his intercepted aerials led to West touchdowns.

The West was getting nowhere, under the guidance of quarterback Jacky Kemp, formerly of Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial, when the son soon fixed things. Cotton, with Dallas Texans, took over in the second quarter with the West trailing 3-0 and led the underdogs to three touchdowns in that quarter.

The 20,973 customers who baked in a hot, 90 - degree weather at Balboa Stadium were treated to a 68 - yard touchdown run on a punt return by Dallas halfback Abner Haynes in the second half.

Another long run was made by Fred Glick, fullback of Oakland Raiders, who intercepted Blanda pass and romped 58 yards for a touchdown. Blanda had six aerials intercepted in the title game but none led to touchdowns.

Davidson, named the most valuable player of the game, buried scoring strikes of 44, 2 and 10 yards to Don Stone, Bob Kocourek and Don Norton, all on the San Diego roster.

Davidson completed 16 of 26 passes for 239 yards.

'Worst Hitter' 61 Homers To Blast

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris has the answer for critics who call him a slugger, not a hitter.

"I'm just the worst hitter in baseball who ever hit 61 homers," the New York home run outfielder said in an interview Sunday. Maris, here on a business trip, said he planned to return to his home in Raytown, Mo., today, probably without talking to the Yankees about a 1962 contract.

"I promised (Yankee general manager Roy) Hamey I'd get in touch with him whenever I was in town," Maris said. "But I'll be back here on the 20th I'll see him then."

Maris made it clear that when he talks contract it will be on the basis of his record-setting homer mark in the American League last season, not his .269 batting average.

The Yankee star is believed seeking about $70,000 for next season, about double his 1961 salary.

Furillo Claims 'Blacklist' By Mayors

READING, Pa. (AP) — Former Los Angeles Dodgers outfielder Carl Furillo said Sunday he is being blacklisted by all major league teams because of his feud with the Dodgers.

In a story in the Reading Eagle, Furillo says he wrote to all major league clubs seeking a job as scout, coach or player-coach and that the replies claimed the clubs had no jobs open.

Furillo says Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) has indicated he will "look into the matter."

Furillo was dropped by the Dodgers in 1960 after failing to report to their Spokane, Wash., farm club in the Pacific Coast League. Furillo said he didn't report because he understood the major league contract would not be honored. He had been interested that year by leg injuries.

Galen Would Like to Join Pros

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I'd like to play pro ball," says Galen Hall. "I hope there'll be some offers."

They should be coming soon. The chunky Penn State quarterback flashed his second sensational performance in United States college football bowl games Sunday as he led the West to a 33-19 victory over the East in the U.S. Bowl.

Hall says he has received feelers from a Canadian team and Boston Patriots of the American League, but no solid offers.

He wasn't drafted by any team in the AFL or the National Football League and emphasizes he shouldn't have been playing in the U.S. Bowl, which matches draft choices of the East division of the NFL against players chosen by the West.

Presumably, lack of interest from the pros is due to Hall's size. He is a five-foot-nine, 190-pounder.

The professionals like their quarterbacks tall, so they can see over the heads of charging defensive linemen. Short quarterbacks, such as five-foot-seven Eddie LeBaron of the NFL Dallas Cowboys, are forced to roll out of the protective pocket in order to spot receivers.

Cleroux, Gray Bout Called Off

OTTAWA (CP)—Sports promoter Frank Tunney announced Sunday night that outside pressure has forced him to call off Saturday night's heavyweight championship fight scheduled for Montreal Forum on Jan. 20.

The fight was to have, brought together Canadian champion Cleroux of Montreal and Cecil Gray of Halifax, second ranked Canadian.

Darwin said he cancelled the fight because of pressure from the Canadian Amateur Athletic Association and Toronto sports promoter Frank Tunney.

He said the association threatened to suspend his licence in Ontario. He read a telegram from Tunney threatening to seek a court injunction if he proceeded with the fight.

Tunney claimed in the telegram to Darwin that he had held a contract with Cleroux to fight George Chuvalo in Toronto.

He said he didn't think anyone would take over the promotion of the fight, which would have been the first Canadian championship bout in Ottawa or Hull.

Tickets went on sale Monday, Darwin said, and reservations had been made for 400 of 500.

Probe Union Fights On CBC Program

The struggles of two rival unions for the allegiance of 17,000 miners and smelter workers in Sudbury is the subject of a 50-minute CBC radio broadcast January 11.

The program, Raid or Liberation, will be heard as part of CBC Wednesday night, on CBL beginning at 7.40 p.m.

Host-columnist Wilfred List of the Toronto Globe and Mail conducts interviews with workers, mine officials and with spokesmen from both unions: the International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), and the United Steelworkers of America (CLC).

At present the mine employees in Sudbury are under jurisdiction of Mine-Mill, an independent union with 45 Canadian locals and a membership of 33,000.

United Steelworkers, in an effort to break Mine-Mill's domination is charging that Mine-Mill is communist-led and that workers themselves are seeking "liberation."

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this imprompte substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In each hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

9 Million TV Contract Main Topic

MIAMI BEACH, Fla (AP)— A $9,000,000 television contract was expected to be the main topic as the National Football League's annual meeting opening today.

All is comparatively peaceful and quiet on the NFL scene this year. When the league last met here in 1960, it held stormy sessions that lasted almost two weeks before Pete Rozelle was elected commissioner to succeed the late Bert Bell.

Final details of the new TC contract are still being worked out. It will be a package deal with a single network (CBS) but lucrative rights to all regular-season games for two years at about $4,650,000 a year. Each of the 14 clubs will share equally at about $320,000.

Action by the United States Congress paved the way for single network contracts by professional football, baseball, basketball and hockey last summer after a federal judge ruled an earlier contract violated antitrust laws.

The playoff bowl, under fire after the small crowd and lopsided victory in the first of the series, is expected to be discussed. Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and tackle J. D. Smith of Philadelphia Eagles were named in the Detroit Lions' 38-10 rout of the Eagles before only 25,612 fans. There's a strong vote to shift to a Sunday spot in the future.

Scott Wins Over Ortega

NEW YORK (AP) — Charlie Scott, swinging from the heels from the opening bell, outpointed Gaspar, Ortega of Mexico in a free - wheeling 10-round boxing bout Saturday night.

The victory probably put the 25 - year - old Scott back into contention in the welterweight division. He was ranked a leading contender two years ago but then lost his right middleweights with no success.

Against Ortega, who had knocked out his last three opponents, Scott was the picture of confidence. He never stopped throwing punches and, although plenty of them missed, he connected often enough to clearly lose some of his enthusiasm by the seventh round.

Referee Harry Kessler had Scott ahead 6-5-1. Judge Tony Castellano gave the nod to Scott 5-4-1 and Judge Bill Recht had the Philadelphian in front, 6-4-3.

In this bout it was just a matter of who would fade out first. Scott's big weapon was a left hook that shook Ortega a dozen times, but both fighters finished unmarked.

WOODLING SATISFIED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gene Woodling has agreed to contract terms with Washington Senators for 1962. The American League club says their top hitter of last season will receive the same as in 1961 — about $25,000. Woodling, now 39, was hampered by injuries but batted .313 in 110 games in 1961.

Moody Girl Upsets Household!

DEAR DORIS:—I would like to know what a person can do with a girl who is always moody. When her mother speaks to her she snaps back at her for no reason at all.

She thinks it is awful when she cannot stay out until all hours of the morning. I have known her to come down for breakfast and go around all day and not speak a word to her mother, who has a heart of gold.

Now she has the bright notion she wants to go to the States for Christmas because her girl friend is going. So she has been after a friend of hers to go also, and he said he could not afford it.

Well, she is so upset about it that she cries in her bedroom and makes it miserable for the whole household. She thinks everyone is down on her. This girl is 16 years old and very smart at school.—TROUBLED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR TROUBLED:—That heart of gold has been too soft. Moody Eighteen gets that way from being crossed —when she is used to having her own way all her life. Being rude to her mother and others shows she is no lady.

My message to Moody is: If you aim for an unhappy life, you will hit the mark dead on with your present behavior. Until you learn the delight there is in giving and good cheer to others, you have little chance of any lasting satisfaction yourself:

"All who joy would win
Must share it—
Happiness was born to win."

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—We have been happily married for five years, with just one disappointment. We have not been blessed with children. At first we thought it didn't matter. However, whenever I visited my friends and relatives and saw them with their families, I can't help feeling we are missing out on something very important.

We have discussed this at some length and have now decided we would like to adopt a child. With whom should I get in touch with regard to this matter, and how much?

I understand they are very strict about adoption and I would like to know whether we would qualify.—HOPING TO ADOPT.

DEAR HOPING—If it is certain that you cannot have children of your own, waste no time in going to the child caring agency in your community. The waiting list may be a long one—they usually are—so the sooner you start waiting, the better!

The place to go in Belleville is the Children's Aid Society, 93 West Moira Street.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I am a widow with two small children. I am in love with a married man with six children, who is separated from his wife and family, and lives in my home with me. He goes to see his wife and children quite often, and I think he would like to go back to them if his wife would have him.

Trouble is he thinks he is obligated to me because I have given him money and shelter and listened to his troubles whenever he quarrelled with his wife. Doris, should I give him up and forget about him or fight for him? I know I am going to miss him if he leaves us. His wife will never divorce him.—TROUBLED NUMBER TWO.

DEAR TROUBLED:—Send him back to her. Those six children need a father. Get him to seek the help of a counsellor in improving his marriage.

And write to me again, enclosing a five-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope, for some reading to help him and you.

Ball-Shaped Water Plants Surface on Sunny Days

By KAY TATEISHI

SAPPORO, Japan (AP)—On a sunny day the ball-shaped fresh water plants lazily plop to the surface of placid Lake Akan, get their supply of air, and sink again to the lake bottom

Known as Marimo (ball-weed," the strange, agile botanical phenomena are found only in one remote corner of Hokkaido's Lake Akan, where they are sliced thousands of visitors annually.

The rare fresh, water plants, which make the elevator - like descent several times a day, are dark and sponge-like with a velvety green color and range in size from a green olive to an unripe orange. They were first discovered by Dr. Kingo Miyabe in 1897.

One of Japan's most popular botanical phenomena, they have inspired many romantic Japanese to name their tea houses, coffee shops and restaurants "Marimo."

Shocked by careless tourists picking up plants from Lake Akan and afraid they might become extinct since they are not multiplying, the Japanese government in 1952 designated them a botanical "national treasure."

Taking the plants from the lake or possession of them now is barred by law.

CAME TO CANADA

In 1956, the Marimo threatened to spark an international controversy. Six of the plants were presented to the Vancouver aquarium as a goodwill gift from Japan. Few Marimo have been given to anyone.

A Canadian deputy fisheries official suggested before the strange ball - weeds entry by labelling them a potential pest to Canada's fishing industry. The Marimo likely were granted a clean bill of health when it was shown they do not propagate outside of Lake Akan and do not thrive in salt water, where the Vancouver aquarium tanks are drained. The plants died within a year or two.

The rare ball-weeds are admired for their rich color, shape and agility. Many persons also believed the Marimo, whatever they plopped to the surface, were forecasting good weather.

Actually their appearance is a sign the weather already is good. Sunlight affects the buoyancy of the Marimos through the process of photosynthesis by which plants convert light energy into oxygen and food.

At night the Marimos stay on the bottom On sunny days they surface When it's cloudy, they linger in between.

Living Costs Reach Record High In Nov.

Food, Housing, Health, Personal Care Higher

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs in Canada reached a record high in November as the consumer price index rose by one-tenth of a point to 129.8 at Dec. 1.

The increase from 129.7 at Nov. 1 was caused by higher prices for food, housing and health and personal care, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The slight rise in the index in November followed a sharp upward bounce in October, boosting the index to the Nov. 1 figure of 129.7 from 128.2 on Oct. 1. This October increase in the index — based on 1949 prices equalling 100 — followed almost a year of relative stability in living costs.

Increases in the indexes for food, housing and health and personal care in November were offset by decreases in the clothing and transportation indexes. The indexes for recreation and reading and tobacco and alcohol remained unchanged.

FOOD IS HIGHER

The food index in November rose a fraction of a point to 124.5 from 123.6 as a result of higher prices for beef, chicken, turkey and most fresh fruits and vegetables. Lower prices were reported for eggs, canned fruit, pork and powdered skim milk.

The November advance in living costs followed a further rise during October in industrial wages. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at Sept. 1, latest date available, was 184.0 compared with 182.3 a month earlier and 173.1 a year earlier. The index is based on 1949 wages equalling 100

The wage index, computed from a survey of firms employing more than 10 persons and covering a wide range of industries, represents an average of weekly wages paid.

The housing index in November increased to 123.8 from 123.6 in October as the cost of household operation components showed a slight higher level.

In the area of shelter, the rent index was unchanged but the home-ownership index was up. In household operation, the index reflected higher prices for furniture, floor coverings and textiles.

In essence, the program is an amplification of the pledge made by the Liberal party in the 1958 federal general election.

Want to Bring Trujillo Jr. Back for Trial

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The Dominican Republic government is reported seeking the extradition of Rafael Trujillo Jr. and two sons to face prosecution with the disappearance and presumed death of the man accused of the assassination of Trujillo's father.

The semi-official newspaper La Nacion published the report. Trujillo, son of the dictator who ruled this country for 31 years until his death last May, was last reported in Paris. The sides mentioned by the newspaper, Luis Leon and Ramfis Rubirosa, also are believed to be in Paris.

In Paris, the French foreign ministry said no extradition treaty exists between the two countries.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Very cold air that has gripped the prairies is gradually edging toward Ontario. While the below zero temperatures of the western provinces will not reach southern regions, a cooling trend is expected as colder air moves across the Great Lakes. Temperatures will range about 5 degrees below normal for this time of year. Little change in the current weather pattern is forecast for Wednesday.

Liberal Party Pledges Itself To Pension Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal party pledged itself today to a national contributory pension plan with benefits also for existing old age pension of $55 a month for all those contributors 70 or over.

Amount of the extra pensions would be related to individual contributions from "a small percentage of earnings." No new taxes would be needed but it would take 10 years to build up the contributions pool to where full pension rates could be paid.

Until then, and within a year after the plan became law, a minimum extra pension of $20 a month would be paid. This would give $75 a month to retired contributors 70 or over and $130 to married couples, the wife still receiving only the basic $55.

In cases of need, married women who had not contributed also would be given the full $75.

The party said in a policy statement—to make plain its federal election platform — that its proposed plan would supplement rather than replace private saving.

The extra pension would be available to all at age 65, but they would wait until they were 70 and take a larger pension. Both contributions and benefits would differ only up to "a moderate level of earnings."

No hint of what this level would be was contained in the statement. But it added: "The Liberal plan will not provide any benefit rich people who do not need government action."

In addition, the statement said a Liberal government in Ottawa would be "careful" to raise the scale of old-age assistance to $75 a month.

This now is paid to those in the 65-69 age bracket; subject to a means test. The federal government pays half, the province the other half. The amount varies from province to province.

The old - age assistance also would be made available to unmarried persons and widows from age 60, if the provinces agreed.

In essence, the program is an amplification of the pledge made by the Liberal party in the 1958 federal general election.

Hit-Run Driver Being Hunted By 200 Officers

TORONTO (CP)—More than 200 policemen were scouring Metropolitan Toronto today for the driver of a car which struck and killed a 6-year-old pedestrian Monday night.

Harris Ira Levy had just stepped from a streetcar in suburban Mimico and was about 100 feet from his home when he bowled over by the car, which sped on its way.

The death was Metropolitan Toronto's first traffic fatality of the year and the first involving a pedestrian in 75 days.

Bitter Cold Grips Mountain States As Big Blizzard Moves Eastward

DENVER (AP)—Bitter cold moved into Colorado and Wyoming today in the wake of one of the winter's heaviest snowfalls.

The storm which blanketed the two mountain states with 12 inches of snow in some areas moved eastward into Kansas and Oklahoma.

Up to six inches of snow was expected in the Oklahoma Panhandle and the north and northwest section of that state were, forecast.

The storm, second in a week, pushed as far south as Amarillo, Tex. Blizzard conditions struck Monday night in the Texas Panhandle. At Amarillo the temperature dropped to 20 Monday night from a daytime high of 40.

More than half a foot of snow fell in Western Kansas.

Some of the coldest air of the season swept across the northeast plains of New Mexico and was expected to spread westward to the Continental Divide in Wyoming, the mercury dropping to 24 below zero at Casper and Laramie and to 15 below at Cheyenne.

Many airline schedules were disrupted in both Colorado and Wyoming as snow covered all major highways.

Two deaths were attributed to the storm and Wyoming is suffering from heart attacks including a 24-year-old man trying to cope with the city's 13½-inch snowfall.

Snow slides blocked two mountain passes, Loveland, Berthoud Pass and Monarch in central Colorado. Monarch was cleared.

Hundreds of schools were closed in Colorado and officials said many would stay closed today. Many stores in downtown Denver closed early Monday.

MEAT CHECKING SYSTEM MAY BE TALKED OVER

Provincial Health Ministers May Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — Willingness to hold talks with the provinces on their meat - inspection systems was expressed Monday by Health Minister Monteith.

He asked for comments from the 10 provincial health ministers on meat-inspection systems outside federal domain.

"If, in the light of the comments which I receive, a meeting would appear in the public interest, I should be very pleased to make the necessary arrangements."

The Monteith letter followed investigations by the RCMP and federal meat and drug inspection which resulted in charges being laid last week against 16 men—five in the Ottawa area and nine in Southern Ontario—for selling for human consumption meat from dead and fallen animals.

The Monteith solution is continuing and will go on in any areas where such action is believed necessary," Mr. Monteith's letter said. There was no reason to suspect that the federally-inspected processors or slaughterhouses — which accounts for about 80 per cent of all the meat and poultry consumed in Canada —

NOT UNDER STRESS

A large number of local establishments, the letter said, do not come under the federal inspection system.

"There is no reason, of course, to think that any substantial number of these establishments may be involved but the evidence would indicate that the system that has been found to exist is essentially through a small number of these non-registered establishments."

Federal meat inspection, applying to plants where products are exported or sold outside the province, comes under the Canada Meat Inspection Act. It is provided for plants selling only within a province if those plants ask for it.

Raise Reward In Effort to Find Girl

KINGSTON (CP)—A reward of $200 for information leading to the rediscovery of Lois Jean Ackerman, was offered Monday by her parents.

A. S. Ackerman, the 18-year-old girl's father, said he and his wife are making the reward hoping to encourage anyone who has seen the girl and a 41-year-old man to come forward where she is.

The missing girl left Ernestown High School 67 days ago with an unemployed carpenter, Raymond Roy Hutchinson.

There is a warrant for Hutchinson's arrest on an abduction issued by the provincial police in Napanee.

Mr. Ackerman said Monday there has been no new leads on the missing couple.

Own Party Rejects Gizenga As Head of Congo Leftists

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Antoine Gizenga's political party today disclaimed his leadership as moderate forces converged for a showdown to oust Gizenga from an active role in the Congolese government.

Felicien Kimvay, vice-president of Gizenga's Parliamentary Solidarity party, announced that Gizenga no longer is president of the party.

Kimvay's announcement followed a resolution by Parliament Monday demanding that Gizenga — a deputy premier backed by the Communist bloc —return from self-imposed exile in Stanleyville to answer parliamentary accusations of secessionism.

Most of the so-called Lumumbist bloc voted for the anti-Gizenga resolution. They indicated clearly that discontentment is growing among even those leftists who once supported Gizenga as the legal head of the Congolese government after Patrice Lumumba's death.

If Gizenga fails to return, observers feel action might be started to oust him from the post of deputy premier he accepted last August in the central government of Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Gizenga has secluded himself in Stanleyville for months, and recently indicated he has lost much of his support.

During the heated debate Monday, deputies accused Gizenga of secessionist activities in Stanleyville and rebuking government demands to return here and take up his post. The resolution was introduced by a member of Gizenga's own party.

As the self-proclaimed political heir to slain Premier Patrice Lumumba, Gizenga was recognized for months by the

USSR Agrees to Release Belgian Airliner in Armenia

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government agreed today to release a Belgian airliner forced down Monday in Soviet Armenia while on a flight from Tehran to Brussels with 27 persons aboard.

First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov told Belgian ambassador Hyppolite de Kerchove de Denterghem the 11 passengers and crew members are safe and staying at a hotel in Gyumri, north of Yerevan, where the plane was reported forced down. Kuznetsov delivered a routine formal protest about the violation of Soviet air space by the Caravelle jetliner.

The safe landing of the plane was reported earlier from Tehran, Iran.

The U.S. embassy, checking on those Americans aboard the plane, said Iran's ambassador to Moscow reported the safe word by telephone to Iran.

In Moscow, the Soviet foreign ministry said the Belgian embassy it still did not have sufficient information about the incident to make a definite statement.

Iran's ambassador to Moscow, Ali Gholi Ardalan, said he was taking steps to obtain the release of two Iranian passengers aboard the plane. Belgians, Germans, South Africans, Lebanese and Greeks made up the rest of the passenger list. There were 19 passengers and eight crew members aboard the twin-jet Sabena Caravelle.

The plane, en route from Tehran to Istanbul and Brussels, landed at the Armenian industrial city of Yerevan after radioing that it was being pursued by Russian MiG jet fighters.

A Sabena spokesman in Tehran said the plane's radio compass went out of order, the pilot asked the Russians for permission to land at Yerevan and the fighters were escorting him in. The airline's Tehran manager contradicted this in a statement conforming with Sabena's announcement in Belgium and Brussels, he said the Caravelle was intercepted and forced to land.

Airport sources at Tehran said the pilot radioed three times that four MiGs were trailing him. He said the pilot was ordered him to follow them down. The plane's route lay near the frontier, and a Belgian diplomat in Moscow speculated the pilot may have strayed across the border as a result of defective radar contacts.

CALLS FOR CURBS ON U.S. NAVAL WORK TO CANADA

Congressman Claims Big Profits Made

WASHINGTON (CP) — The chairman of a congressional subcommittee on imports has called for curbs on the flow of American naval contracts to Canada shipyards.

Congressman John H. Dent, Pennsylvania Democrat, said Monday that the policy followed by the United States Navy for the last two years "amounts to a virtual subsidy to American shipbuilding companies to subcontract construction contracts to Canadian suppliers."

Making public the transcript of a closed door committee hearing last Friday, Dent maintained in a statement that under the Congress-backed Percy-Kennedy change naval procurement rules, the American shipbuilding industry would be reduced to just one or two large yards in the near future.

If he charged that the American navy has practically ordered American contractors to place subcontracts in Canada and that shipbuilders are cooperating because Canadian wages are sharply below those in the U.S. and contractors could make big profits.

The hearing was Rep. Kenneth Belieu, assistant naval secretary, testifying that Canada places more naval contracts in the U.S. than the U.S. does in Canada and that this provides work for American labor. Belieu also warned that if the U.S. governors flow of workers to Canada, Canada might "restrict orders to the U.S.

The Friday hearing concentrated on a $325,000,000 naval contract for 18 Polaris submarines obtained by General Dynamics, Electric boat division, the U.S. parent of Canadian Limited, Montreal.

Carleton Shugg, the U.S. firm's senior vice-president, testified that $3,100,000, worth of work would be done in Canada. About $2,000,000 went to Canadian Vickers of Montreal. A Canadian "sister" company to General Dynamics — present-ly building a $1,000,000 plant to produce a special patented valve for the Polaris — said Shugg.

Shugg hinted he may place more subcontracts in Canada and observed that Canadian shipyard wage rates are about 25-per-cent lower than those in the U.S. The Canadian average was about $2.25 an hour, compared with $2.90 in the U.S.

Wants to Put More Meaning Into 'Day'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Veterans' Affairs Minister Churchill wants to use public relations techniques to put more meaning into Remembrance Day.

Speaking here Sunday for a series of speaking engagements, Mr. Churchill said he is working on plans to make Canada's war memorials abroad better known to Canadians.

"I want to bring home to the Canadian people the sacrifices made by Canada in both world wars," he said.

He said a National Film Board film now being made is a film of overseas memorials to Canadian dead, such as the Ypres and Vimy Ridge.

He said his department is trying to make the presentation annual official Remembrance Day ceremony at the Vimy memorial, where a number of Indian troops are buried. The Indians, he said, "are there just as much a national symbol as the National Memorial in Ottawa."

Mr. Churchill declined to reveal what veterans' legislation would be forthcoming in the Jan. 18 speech from the throne. He said his department is nearing the end of a four-year review of the veterans' charter. He said the aim is to close the pieces of legislation) which affect veterans if all goes well."

He dismissed as impractical the proposal to adjust pensions by means test for war benefits, which has long been urged by veterans' groups.

"If you provided every veteran with a pension when he became 60 years of age, it would be a pretty heavy financial burden," he said.

Navy And RCAF 'Copters Rescue Crew Of Vessel

Freighter Stuck Fast On Rocks Near Halifax

HALIFAX (CP) — Helicopters started removing the crew from the grounded freighter Sueste today through rough seas and shallow water kept tugs from reaching her.

A navy helicopter brought off Capt. Dimitrios Charisis of Athens in mid-morning to discuss his ship's plight with shipping agents and salvage men.

Later they decided to remove all 39 crew members except a watch of three. Navy and air force helicopters did the job in relays, taking the men, most of them Greeks, at nearby Shearwater naval air station.

The 7,326-ton Sueste ran onto a reef about 15 miles east of here late Monday night in fog. She was bound for Halifax from Britain to load grain.

The Halifax salvage tug Foundation Vigilant and the Navy patrol boat Loon stood by the ship while Capt. Charisis sent out a distress call.

There was confusion about the Sueste's registry. Lloyd's of London listed her as Panamanian. The word Beirut appeared on her stern indicated she was Lebanese but her agents here, F. R. Wickwire Co. Ltd., said she is registered in Costa Rica.

The Sueste ran on Monday night on rocks about 500 feet off Shut-In Island near the entrance to Halifax fishing port of Three Fathom Harbor.

Holland's Worst Rail Disaster Takes 87 Lives

WOERDEN (Reuters) — The death toll in The Netherlands' worst-ever rail disaster stood at 87 today as more than 1,000 dogtired rescue workers finished their all-night job of clearing the wreckage.

The toll from Monday's two-train smash was not expected to go much higher. Most of the 87 persons taken to hospital with injuries were reported in satisfactory condition.

The death toll was established by the railway after hours of varying reports in which official and unofficial reports of the number of victims ranged up to 105. Early estimates of the injured placed the number as high as 200.

Investigation of the crash was hampered by the fact that the engineers of both trains were killed. However, the brakemen survived the crash in dense fog.

Monday night the wreck scene almost had a second accident when a heavy crane dropped a high explosive shell in a blight of six feet. It narrowly missed a shed where reporters covering the story were taking shelter.

Netherlands Railways President Dr. J. Lohman said the Rotterdam-bound express was roaring along through the dense fog at 75 miles an hour Monday morning when it plowed into the side of a commuter train coach headed for Amsterdam at 40 miles an hour. Part of the commuter train plunged down an embankment.

ON BUSY STRETCH

The crash occurred on one of the busiest stretches of track in The Netherlands. That part of the track is supposed to be protected by a block of 1½ signal equipment.

Until Monday, Holland's worst train wreck was in 1918 when 40 persons died and 41 were injured.

Working under blazing spotlights, the rescue workers found seven more bodies, including that of a child, as they shifted the tangled mass of wreckage during the night.

ST. BENOIT, Que. (CP) — Three children died early today when fire destroyed their three-storey 15-room farm home near this community, 20 miles northwest of Montreal.

The victims were Monique Dufresne, 9, her sister, Manon, 6, and her brother, Marlo, 4.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jean-Paul Dufresne, were severely burned. Rushed to hospital in Montreal, their condition is "critical."

It was the second tragedy involving children in Quebec during a 13-hour period. Monday night, three children were killed and a fourth was seriously injured when their toboggan slid into the path of an oncoming car near their home at Judd's Mills, 80 miles east of Montreal.

Kenneth Smith, 12, and his sisters Joselle, 8, and Linda, 5, died and another sister, 10-year-old Diane, was taken to hospital with a broken neck and leg.

On Sunday night in the Quebec City suburb of Beauport, three children of Mr. and Mrs. Jean-Paul Cote died in an explosion and fire when 10-feet of snow rolled down a cliff where they had been playing.

FLU SWEEPS ENGLAND

LONDON (AP)—A wave of colds and influenza is sweeping Britain in the wake of the recent cold spell, causing a high incidence of work absenteeism.

One auto plant was forced to shut down assembly lines for lack of workers. A hospital closed its casualty department because so many nurses were off. The ministry of health says the outbreak has not reached epidemic proportions, however, and that only a mild type of influenza virus has been identified.

Low, Husky, Woman's Voice Tells Bomber Pilot Engines Flamed Out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lt.-Col. Henry Deutschendorf and his crew were bringing their eight-jet bomber down at Carswell, Texas, Air Force base.

Suddenly a woman's low, husky voice whispered a warning in his ear. He looked, and sure enough, two engines had flamed out.

His crew heard the warnings in time to trim the ship properly for the landing only minutes ahead. A possible accident was averted.

The voice came from a black box in the bomber's instrument panel.

The eight-pound box, a miniature tape recorder, was hooked up with the panel's system of warning lights. When the engines flamed out, the box began playing a recording of the voice of Gina Drazin, a pretty woman in the Air Research Corporation plant where the box was made.

Why wasn't a man's voice used?

A woman's voice gets more attention in a bomber cockpit. The voice warning system is being installed in all B-58 bombers because pilot attention can be diverted from the panel light by a number of emergencies. He may overlook visual signals but tests show pilot response to Gina's dulcet tones is immediate.

GIVEN TWO MONTHS ON THEFT CHARGE

A Belleville man was sentenced to two months in county gaol on city magistrate's court this morning by Magistrate H. Y. Wills when he pleaded guilty to charge of theft.

Clarence Richardson, age 23, was charged with stealing a portable typewriter from Donald Cross at 103 Front Street.

Inspector McLauchlan said the city police department received a complaint from Cross that a typewriter had been stolen from his room. Upon investigating it was found that this radio had been sold to Wilkinson's Used Furniture store by the accused for $6.

Magistrate Wills said he thought this would be an appropriate penalty.

BIG BROWN OWL HAS NEW HOME

A big brown owl has taken up residence as the home of Mrs. Phillipsa Faulkner on Bridge Street East. Mrs. Faulkner spotted the bird in an old woodpecker hole in a big tree on the property and it did not seem disturbed when a good long look was taken. Since the owl has such a good home, it is not likely that he will be leaving for some time, and it is doubtful he will be well fed and cared for during the winter.

Five Cattle Drown at Stoco, Three Destroyed

Breaking through the ice while being taken to the Clare River near Stoco to be watered on Sunday, five head of cattle owned by Leo Clement of Stoco were drowned and the owner was forced to shoot three more, leaving 16 head of cattle near the dyke down to the river to be watered.

The son of Mr. Clement took the cattle down late in the afternoon and the animals being thirsty rushed the water hole with the result the ice gave way and all fourteen cows were thrown into a hole said to be ten feet deep. Valiant work on the part of the father and son rescued all but five of the animals but three had to be destroyed. There was also a colt mate of the loss.

Area Assocs. Of Committee Being Formed

The Belleville Recreation Committee announce that they are in the process of organizing neighborhood or area associations throughout the city for the purpose of instituting a better and more complete recreational program. Other municipalities have similar organizations however the Recreation Committee thought being an arm of municipal government appointed by Council is not equipped enough to fulfill the needs of the whole community. Neighborhood Recreation geographically located with the increasing numbers involved have proven very successful. It would involve all interested residents in a given area; public schools, separate schools, high schools, parks and playgrounds. Wright Avenue area and Stanley Park Area have taken steps to form such organizations and areas have shown much interest with excellent results in the Stanley Park residents are planning their organization meeting on Wednesday, January 10, 8.00 p.m. at Bayview school and hope are that all residents in the area will be present.

Mayor Advocates Full Time Industrial Commissioner

Mayor A. McLean Haig mentioned a number of items the development of which Belleville citizens could give their support strongly at large range projects in need of initiation in the near future in an address given to his fellow Rotarians yesterday afternoon at the annual dinner given by the Rotary Club of Belleville at the provincial and civic officials.

The possibility of the land fill project at Zwick's Island (but under some other name please) the Bay Bridge, the Quinte Sanitorium and the Belleville Hydro Electric System were mentioned as being one of the finest parks development opportunities in Ontario. Mayor Haig suggested that such a project used generating of much more consideration than has been given it to date.

The appointment of a full time industrial commissioner to get out and bring in new industries is now in order the chief magistrate suggested, especially with the new sewage disposal project offering the prospect of serving new industrial sites in the next few years which have hitherto been unserviced. Mayor Haig indicated that the appointment is strongly favored such a move.

Supporting this move towards the attraction of new industry by Belleville the creation of a new committee in council, the municipal air service committee was formed as also was Jack Ellis, he said. It must also be remembered that air travel in industry is here to stay and to increase and that communities desiring to attract new plants must have adequate plans to accommodate such means of travel. Mayor Haig emphasized. He expressed hope that the new committee would have formulated a positive plan of action by the end of March.

At the same time action must be taken to improve the conditions which currently exist in the community, he noted. The provision of more low-rental off-street parking to maintain the prosperity of the city's downtown area will require attention in 1962, he said.

The improvement of the transportation complemented this situation as well as being a course of action which would be the best interest of the public he added.

INCREASED ASSESSMENT

Mayor Haig promised that city council would do its best to hold the line on the present tax rate. He noted that there would be an increase of $600,000 in assessment for 1962 and 1961 and suggested that this would help to provide for any additional revenue.

He also mentioned Belleville's annual expenditure breakdown with the national average for municipalities. Expenditure in Belleville spent 12.3 per cent of its revenue as compared with 22.5 per cent on the national average for servicing its debts. The city spent 9.6 per cent on the national average of 12.9 per cent in administration while the national average exceeded the national average municipal expenditure on education by 10 per cent. Belleville reported to 26.1 per cent.

Health and welfare costs amounted to 10.8 per cent locally and 14.0 per cent nationally. Police and fire protection constituted 14.8 per cent of Belleville's expenditure costs for 1961 whilst the national average was 11.7 per cent. This left 19.3 per cent for all the municipal costs for other expenditures concerning and 12.6 per cent for the average Canadian municipality.

A question and answer session was held following Mayor Haig's address and a petition period it was revealed that the Belleville assessment ratio between commercial and residential property was very close to the ideal 60-50 ratio following some time at a 45:55 ratio.

Rotarian Jack Deacon thanked the Mayor for his address.

Rotarian Ken Hall introduced which was conducted by president Virgil James, the Rotarians honored the birthday of fellow-member Judge J. C. Anderson. There were 97 present for the meeting.

Macmillan, Adenauer Meet For Talks on Berlin Issue

BONN (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met for important talks here today on the problems of Berlin and the cost of the defence British troops in West Germany.

The talks came in the wake of the publication of a Soviet memorandum to West Germany which Adenauer described as another Russian attempt to "drive a wedge" between West Germany and the allies.

The memorandum was handed over last month to West German Ambassador Hans Kroll in Moscow and proposed talks between Russia and West Germany on the German problem.

Adenauer told a press conference on Monday night that the document was "the oldest thing the Soviets could do." He said it was "without address, without signature and without any indication as to who wrote it." Furthermore, he said, it contained nothing new.

The memorandum repeated that German reunification could only come about through talks between East and West Germany. The West Germans rejected this theme, arguing that the East German regime is only a "puppet" instrument of the Soviet Union.

Although Macmillan was expected to tell Adenauer that Britain was hopeful of a compromise settlement with the Russians on Berlin, Adenauer told correspondents Monday that he had nothing new to report yet in Western contacts with the Russians.

The leaders also were expected to touch on Britain's application to join the European Common Market, and prospects for Western political unity.

"Probably any man in the dormitory knows who the killer is, but they fear their safety if marked men for life if they testify against him," said Chief Nesbitt.

Board to Further Investigate Teaching of Oral French In City Public Schools

Members of the Belleville Public School Board will take a long hard look before teaching of oral French is approved by local supervisory officials.

This was indicated at last night's inaugural meeting of the board as the legality of oral French in public schools was again discussed after being shelved over Christmas.

Following the reported success of oral French classes in public schools at Oakville and at Cornwall, the Belleville District School Board last summer and last year circulated a questionnaire with result that there was a 70 per cent approval for the use of French being taught in the public schools.

But board members feel there are many aspects, which must be considered, before oral French classes can be introduced locally.

Last night a special committee of members, James Ritchie, A. Russell Scott and Mrs. Hazel Pugh was named to still further investigate the matter.

The board agreed that local public school supporters had voted strongly in favor of oral French and noted that there was no place for it in present curriculum.

And if the cost of such classes was assessed directly against the parent's of children taking the course, the attendance no doubt would be the same percentage as it was indicated as result of the questionnaire.

Mrs. Hazel Pugh, however, said such a legality was in her mind in the teaching of French in public schools and moved that the schools superintendent investigate the possibility of setting up oral French classes in at least one grade in each of the Belleville public schools.

She suggested that the board waited too long all available French teachers might be hired elsewhere.

But board members were unwilling to quite that far at present.

It was generally agreed that oral French in public schools might be a good thing, but Dr. Scott suggested where such courses had been introduced there was more French spoken than at Belleville.

He said the Belleville board would have to decide the matter independently and be satisfied.

A motion by Mrs. Pugh for Mr. Kells to investigate the possibility of setting up oral French classes during school hours was defeated when Chairman Townson said he was willing for a special committee to go further into the matter.

Local Slaughtering Houses Inspected by City Dept.

Thanks to action taken last year by the Belleville Health Department, citizens of Belleville need have no fear about tainted meat products (Void) being stolen from animals slaughtered here.

This was indicated at city council Monday following a question raised by Alderman Jack Ellis as to whether there was any danger of bad meat being sold here as there had been in case in other centres.

Alderman Stanley Harrison as chairman of the city health department, said an inspector had been hired to go in to inspect meat at local slaughter houses.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds confirmed this noting that Belleville was one of the few municipalities in Ontario which had its own meat inspector.

"Belleville is to be congratulated," he said.

Mayor A. M. Haig, however, disclaimed any credit for council on the inspector's appointment, noting that the recommendation had come from Medical Officer of Health Dr. Mitchell Metcalfe and the city health department.

SCHOOL BOARD HEADS — 1962 chairman of the Belleville Public School Board, and standing, committee chairmen are seen above at Inaugural meeting held last night. Seated is board chairman William Townson; standing are Morley Lovelace, finance; F. P. Clarke, management, and J. N. McKibbon, property.

William Townson Is Chosen Public School Bd. Chairman

Member of the Belleville Public School Board since November 1957, Mr. William Townson, was named chairman at the boards inaugural meeting held Monday evening. He succeeds Lyle Langabeer who headed the public school body last year.

Mr. Townson was appointed late in 1957 to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of the late Fred Jones and has served continuously since. Last year he was vice-chairman of the board and chairman of the finance committee and the year previous he served as chairman of the management committee.

The new finance committee chairman is Morley Lovelace, while F. P. Clarke is chairman of the management committee, and J. N. McKibbon chairman of property committee.

Mr. Townson in his inaugural address welcomed the two new members of the board, Mrs. Hazel Pugh and Donald Bacon, and at the same time expressed regret that two of last year's members, Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Valcamp did not seek re-election.

Last night board members took their declarations of office from Scho's Superintendent L. A. Kelly, while invocation was pronounced by Rev. T. F. Townsend.

The new board chairman briefly reviewed last year's school matters and noted that 1962 would see local public school enrolments continue to increase.

Increased enrolments would be taken care of by the construction of the new Parkdale School and the addition to the H. J. Clarke School, which, he said, was expected to be the extent of the board's building program for this year.

He expected there would again this year be salary negotiations with the teaching staff and trusted the board members would meet these discussions with an open mind, ready to listen to any reasonable demands on the part of the staff.

Another same time he urged that the board keep in mind the general salary situation throughout the province and reminded members that the board was spending the taxpayers' dollars.

Preliminary surveys of expenditures facing the board had not been completed but Mr. Townson noted that the budget figure would be approximately $60,000 on salaries this year. Additional grants and assessments were known to be available for the assistance of the board.

"I know that your thoughts are the same as mine," he said, "and we shall try to keep our costs down all we can, while not sacrificing the one thing we are here for — to give our children the best education in pleasant surroundings so we may continue to be proud of each and every student graduating from our schools".

SEEKING HELP

LONDON (CP)—Rt. Rev. Harold Beardmore, Anglican bishop of St. Helena, is here to seek help for the 4,800 inhabitants of the South Atlantic island whose livelihood is threatened by news that ocean liners will soon stop calling there.

S.D. Hagerman, Former City Resident, Given High Promotion

CHICAGO — Retirement of James D. Sturgis as director of export sales for Stewart-Warner Corporation and the appointment of Stanley D. Hagerman to succeed him were announced today by Bennett Archambeault, chairman and president of Stewart-Warner. Mr. Hagerman's appointment is effective January 1; the day following Mr. Burke's retirement.

Mr. Burke is vice-president of Stewart-Warner since 1953, and has headed export operations almost all of the more than forty-five years he has been with the company. He has twice served as president of the Export Managers Executive Club, and was founder and first president of the Automotive Export Association of Chicago.

Mr. Hagerman joined Stewart-Warner in Canada in 1952. He was sales manager of the Canadian subsidiary prior to his appointment as managing director of Stewart-Warner Instrument Company, Limited, which manufacturers Alemite lubricating equipment for the United Kingdom export markets. He became Mr. Burke's assistant in 1960.

STANLEY D. HAGERMAN

NATIVE OF BELLEVILLE

Mr. Hagerman is well known in Belleville, having been born and educated there. He spent several years in the employ of the C.N.R. divisional office in the city and he joined the Stewart Warner in Belleville. In 1951 he was transferred to London, England, where he remained until the summer of 1960 when he was moved to Chicago.

WELL KNOWN SPORTSMAN

Stan is well known to the sporting fraternity of this city. He was a member of the CNR Nationals, who won a provincial championship in senior baseball, playing in the outfield and catching. He was a good hitter and splendid gloveman and he probably hit the longest ball ever seen at the fair grounds. His homer that day cleared the centre-field fence around the race track.

He was also an excellent hockey player being a member of Eddie Thomas' junior and intermediate teams. Above all Stan was a sportsman in every sense of the word and he enjoyed the respect and admiration of members of many organizations.

Robert Temple Tells Rotary Of Moscow Visit

TRENTON — A picture of the city of Moscow as "a city of contrasts" was presented for members of the Trenton Rotary Club on Monday night by Robert Temple of Belleville. Mr. Temple visited Moscow two years ago, from the driver's seat was taken down a predetermined route to the heart of the city, a route lined by sight and story modern apartment buildings.

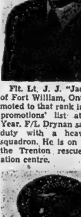
"Obviously," said Mr. Temple, "that's what they want the visitor to see."

However Mr. Temple said that by staying the route of sitting to see a hockey game while he was in the city, he managed to form his hosts to allow him to see a part of Moscow rarely seen by westerners. He said that within two minutes' driving distance of Red Square existed "the worst slum conditions" he had ever seen. Log cabins stand side by side with run-down apartment houses.

Mr. Temple said that he had met with "wide hospitality" while he was in the Russian capital. He said that his knowledge attitude seemed to be fair, unprevalent, but that on two occasions he had encountered what seemed to be a certain "coolness" towards members of the Chinese race.

"This may be only wishful thinking on my part," the speaker warned.

'RIDDLED' BY HOSTS



Mr. Temple said that he had been intrigued when his hosts arranged an impromptu visit to the city's large circus arena, "kidding" him in a good-natured way that he would be riddled by questions by the mayor of Moscow and the mayor of the city of Belleville and his known fondness for strawberry shortcake.

Touching briefly on his impressions during a visit to Prague, Czechoslovakia, and Vienna, Austria, Mr. Temple commented on the "nervousness" in Communist-held Prague, the high "fences to keep living in the neutral (but pro-western) city of Vienna. Mr. Temple said that the "traffic problem" had been solved in Prague; there are scarcely any cars in that city.

The speaker said that if Britain joins the European Common Market, Germany, France and England would "grow closer together" and that the standard of living in Western Europe would increase.

"Western Europe, the United States and Russia will be spoken of as the world's three major powers," he prophesied.

Rotarian Temple was introduced by Jim Holmes and thanked by Eric Alderney

Careless Driving Charge Brings Fine of $20

Magistrate T. Y. Wills found Howard Ferrill of Belleville guilty on a charge of careless driving and he was fined $20 and costs. His licence was suspended for a period of six months.

The charge arose from an accident which occurred on Bridge Street at the intersection of Dundas when a car owned by his car and a school bus, driven by William Strickwood were involved.

Const. Strickwood testified that he was driving the bus when the accident occurred. He said he was almost through the intersection when a car passed his car and a school bus, driven by William Strickwood were involved.

The witness said he was proceeding west on Dundas Street when he noticed the traffic lights on Bridge Street were changing from green to amber. He said he slowed down and brought the bus to a stop

Domestic Help Needed

Premier John Robarts will receive a formal request to establish at Sudbury a special school to train domestic help.

We predict that, if such a school is established, its graduates will be in great demand and that many other centres will seek similar schools.

Domestic help is almost a novelty in Canada today. The need for help was greatly diminished a generation or so ago by the development of labor-saving devices, by the trend towards smaller families and by the eradication of the belief that it was beneath the dignity of a man to assist his wife with the heavier housework.

Since that time, though, circumstances have changed. Labor-saving devices are more numerous than ever, but an ever increasing proportion of wives now work outside the home. The birthrate has risen. Many children are not receiving the attention which is their birthright.

Under these circumstances, there is a great need, for women who have time-making to take over this task in homes where the wife and mother is a person who is happier working in a business or a profession. It is not surprising that the Sudbury request is being sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club of that city.

"But, if the need is to be met, more than a school to train domestic help will be required. A graduate will undertake work just as demanding as that of many women who work outside the home. She should be paid well—the working wife will have to reconcile herself to limiting her rewards to the pleasure derived from work which she likes and for which she is fitted, and not expect to add the major portion of her salary to the net family income after the expenses of paying her substitute in the home are met. And graduates of the type of school sought by the Business and Professional Women's Club ought to be considered eligible for membership in the club. They will be doing work just as important and just as demanding as that undertaken by many of its present members.

Reading Habits

Hi and Lois, whose family life is displayed to the public eye six days a week on the "funnies page" of The Ontario Intelligencer, had a little trouble getting to sleep the other night. They were both reading in bed—one of those double beds with a single bed lamp attached to the headboard — and had difficulty in synchronizing their chapters so that they were agreed as to when the light should be turned off.

Few couples, we suppose, actually face this problem in quite such an acute form, but reading in bed is nevertheless often accompanied by tribulations. One cannot smack or sip without danger of causing discomfort from crumbs or slop. Some find reading a soporific, but in others reaction denotes something amiss either with the book or the reader. If one must read abed, it is much more enjoyable in the morning, upon awaking, than on retiring for the night.

Only an incurable optimist or a chronic bookworm would attempt morning reading of a work day. Undertaken on a day off, it is an excellent way to await the rousing of other members of the family or if they are up and about, to avoid sharing in necessary chores. One can read until the aroma of perking coffee and grilling bacon indicates that breakfast is prepared. The only hazard is that one may find the book too interesting, and the stomach less insistent than its welfare requires, and read right through breakfast. There is then a terrible temptation to read until lunch, or, if breakfast is early, until brunch. We find just a few paragraphs more, with the result that it is mid-afternoon before the sluggard leaves his couch.

Much preferable to bed is an easy chair, preferably in the shade of a friendly tree on a summer day but almost equally good if under a strong light in a living room where the television set is comfortably out of order. One should come to the chair prepared—a nearby table should be provided with a tall glass of something cool and with "munchables" which can be safely conveyed from table to mouth without wrenching the eyes from the page. If the reading is done outdoors and if the family has left for the beach, so much the better. Indoors reading is best embarked upon at a late hour, when others have gone to bed, perhaps with their books. In that event, though, it is preferable that the next day be a holiday, otherwise the morning sun and the last chapter, instead of making a welcome twosome, may be the occasion for vain regrets and unprofitable speculations as to whether the game has been worth the candle.

Ottawa Offbeat

Ex-Senator Loses Fortune

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Just about any way you figure it, that $800,000 which former Senator Henri Courtemanche says he accepted as legal fees in helping secure government grants for Montreal's Jean Talon Hospital, has cost him many times that not inconsiderable amount.

At 46, he had a life expectancy of another 34 years, and at a Senator's annual $10,000, he stood to have collected $340,000.

Plus for some strange reason, never medically determined, but due perhaps to the lack of life's ordinary financial stresses and strains, Senators seem to live longer than ordinary taxpayers.

In fact, under Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposed "Retirem ent Bill, the official "life" of a Senator, like that of a judge, will be limited to 75 years. After that time he will be forced to be retired, though probably drawing a substantial pension.

So, under the Senator's own favored "mortuary tables," Courtemanche had 29 years or $229,000 still to go.

And nothing, almost, in this world is more smug and safe than the Senate. It is a haven for income. Through boom and bust, war and peace, it pays its $10,000 annual $10,000, and for it, is required to appear for a rock bottom minimum of one day sitting in any Senate Session.

PRICE IS HIGH

Of course, the good Senator, who, when his health broke so completely as to leave him partly crippled, had to forfeit his claim staked to that annual $10,000 by having himself retired, bodily, on a stretcher, into the Senate, for the one required day in Parliament.

Should Courtemanche not have accepted those additional 29 or even 24 years of income of $10,000 a year in annuity form? That's the going price (at the age of 46 for a Federal) Government annuity, paying 5%.

At $229,000 or $240,000 or even $175,000, that $80,000 former Senator Courtemanche has been accused by a Royal Commission of Inquiry into Railways a "rake-off" of hospital grants was a mighty high price to pay.

The cost to the former Senator of his "fees" or "kickbacks," whatever they actually were, likely will be negligible compared to the cost the Government very probably will find itself paying in the coming election.

Courtemanche was a Conservative MP a member of the Federal Cabinet and also one of the party's supporters in the Senate — and part of the Government moved to disassociate itself, he and his record remain to confront and confound it.

He was a liability and an embarrassment to the Administration long before he belatedly got the boot, and the Opposition can justifiably ask why the Conservatives waited so long before showing him the door.

PARLIAMENTARY PATTER

The eggheads of the External Affairs Department have become an incurable optimist, Prime Minister Diefenbaker that some of them actually have begun to conceal a shrug of distaste when speaking of his participation in the disarmament conference and foreign policy . . . a few even go so far as to openly say that the whole department undoubtedly holds its breath when the Prime Minister takes a hand in its operations . . . and it could be that this ill-considered attitude has developed as a well-advertised claim of the Political and Economic Intelligence of the "colonies" in London and at the United Nations that Canada's present Government is chock-full of the stuff.

Diefenbaker is to be that the Prime Minister with small patience for diplomatic double-talk, often hostile, to the dismay of External's eggheads, in calling an international spade a spade.

Some quick thinking, straight - walking opposition member (we put Montreal Capital's biggest natural "millboner" to spectacular use in his footwork on the Senate white snow of the two-block square lawns of Parliament Hill has been issuing from the loudspeakers: "Vote Liberal".

For the first time in four years, the Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker have kept their summer residence, deep in the Gatineau Hills, open in winter . . . the lodge at Harrington Lake, 15 miles north of the Capital, in the pine woods of the Laurentians, is being used as a weekend retreat . . . there the PM and his wife find silence and solitude, free from every-ringing phones and the busy official round of Parliament Hill.

Legion Gets Tax Refund

Hamilton Spectator

We are glad Premier John Roberts intends to turn the sales tax money the Royal Canadian Legion paid on Remembrance Day poppies and that the money paid on the poppies from sales tax in the future.

When tax regulations are drawn up there are bound to be inequities which call for modification. The sales tax on poppies was one of these and perhaps the Remembrance Day poppy sale RCL would have been content to pay it if an important principle had not been at stake.

The proceeds of poppy sales are devoted to relieving hardship among needy veterans and their families. As we commented in March, when this was a case for which tax regulations could be relaxed without fear of making an unjust exception. Premier Robarts' action should win general approval. No government could, with a clear conscience, derive benefit from a tax collected for alleviating distress among those who had fought for their country.

'Cold War' Confusing

Wall Street Journal

A local school board in Connecticut recently advised its teachers not to discuss the cold war dilemma with their students. Perhaps a number of youngsters had complained to their parents that classroom discussions of world affairs had succeeded only in confusing them.

Well, this student reaction is hardly surprising.

Consider the Congo crisis as just one example. A year and a half after the chaos that came with independence, the Congo is in chaos. For most of this time the United Nations has been trying to bring order to the country but things have been going from worse to terrible. The Turnerd civil war between and Swedish troops somehow mixed up in the civil war between opposing groups of African natives.

But far more incongruous is the fact that it is largely U. S. military and diplomatic power that supports the U.N.'s feeble attempts to establish Congo province. For Mr. Kenyatta to probably the most pro-western, anti-Communist area in the Congo. And somehow the State Department's special clarifying statement yesterday didn't seem to clarify much.

No wonder those students in Connecticut are confused. But maybe they're not the only ones confused as the Congolese and Western grown-ups.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

VITALITY OF BELIEF

Let us never forget that creeds have their place in the life of faith.

There is a disposition on the part of many today to scoff at creeds and confessions. Sometimes this arises from the fact that people profess much in matters of belief and do not conduct themselves and their business in a manner that scandalizes man and constitutes an affront to God. Hence many point to such persons crying "hypocrite" and declaring that all believers are of this variety.

But this is not true. Belief in God's revealed truth must lie at the basis of all the faith we have. If our creed is sound and if we try daily to live up to its moral and spiritual requirements, then this creed is like an angel which walks beside us furnishing us with help and counsel.

Do not be afraid to believe much. The biggest and best mind in the world cannot take in all the glorious teachings of God's word. And if our belief is vital, it should shine with a heavy light and cause our hearts to sing songs of gladness.

G.K. Sudden Chesterton has written, "If your creed is dull, it is dead, or you are dead, and either one or the other of you must be made alive again. Either you must change your creed or your creed must change you."

There may be light-lingered gentry who delight in examining parked cars for possible lost and again there may not be. Meanwhile the car, he found all doors locked with the exception of the one nearest the driver's seat. No keys were in the vehicle; but the officer's eyes opened wide with surprise when h discovered a full bottle of Christmas cheer, with seal unbroken, in the glove compartment.

Parent Nature Is Said to Be 'Square'

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Last night at dinner I suddenly caught myself saying something to the children that I would never have said myself. Barbara was being picky about her food, and finally I snapped, "There are lots of hungry children in the world who'd be delighted to have what you've got on your plate."

Isn't that the silliest thing a parent can say to a child? What does a child care how many hungry children there are in the world, and what does their presence have to do with her distaste for the food?

Parental remarks, like that a bit, are just as square as they can be — and richly deserve the hoots and jeers they were greeted from the child, who becomes more than ever convinced that the parents are some kind of ogre.

But we forget...we forget... that is the awful part of growing up. We adopt the postures we hated as children, make irritable remarks, and have severe criticisms and totally fail to understand why our children's acts and reactions we ourselves shared when young.

"I will never become like that," we solemnly swear to ourselves, and the miracle is that we do, slowly, inevitably, irrevocably.

We worry about our children just as our parents worried about us; and we forget how wearisome, boring and tedious their worry was to us — and how it would have saved us from making mistakes, and being contrary and resenting their good advice, if we were children.

This is the part of parenthood that is handed down from generation to generation. We actually do forget, that it was like to be a child, and suddenly we have the most ridiculous echoing the detestable phrases that we so recoiled against in childhood and vowed would never pass our lips.

Age brings wisdom — or it should — but it also brings a kind of sublime stupidity. One part of us dimly knows that our parents accomplished no good with their endless lectures or harangues about the starving children in India — but another part is blind to reason, and makes half-witted phrases, empty moralities and silly admonitions our guides.

Of course, our children, in their turn, will grow up and be fit and adequate. This is why there is rarely any real communication between the generations; by the time they are old enough to understand why we were the way we were, they themselves have snapped the magic thread of childhood and are making noises like pompous papas or martyred mamas. We should have just wrapped the plate of food in a package and sent it to the starving, better still, I should have saved my breath to cool my porridge.

To Your Good Health

Blood-Thinner Drugs Can Cause 'Bruising'

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been taking blood-thinner pills, but I now seem to have many black and blue marks. Could this be from thinning my blood? — Anxious."

Yes, it could be. I think it's more accurate to think in terms of the blood "clotting more slowly" than "thinning." But that's a technical quibble, I admit.

A black and blue spot, or a bruise, is simply the visible evidence that some bleeding has occurred under the skin. A bump breaks some of the tiny capillaries, or sinuses inside the small branches of the blood vessels.

If the tiny break closes over quickly, there is little or no bruise. If the break closes slowly, then somewhat more blood seeps into the tissues and that makes the "black and blue."

I urge you to see your doctor promptly to have the dosage of the drug adjusted. (A persimmon tree" or "clotting time" is the technical word often used at intervals to avoid this sort of "bruising." While the "blood-thinner" drugs are in use.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Over the past year I have suddenly become conscious of a 'stomach.' I am 50, I have gained some weight and I certainly am not happy over the matronly look it gives me.

"Do certain foods cause fat to center on the stomach and bosom? — Mrs. P.W."

My maternity medium, allow me to say that I am as fond of you as I know how, that fat (and calories) are stupid old chemicals that have no discrimination whatsoever.

If we eat 'em, they go where calories usually go. There's some modest difference from one person to another, but the hips, the abdomen, and the bosom are likely places (I'm not sure where excess calories for excess weight) prefer to settle. After that — other places.

There are no special foods you can eat that will settle in one place rather than another.

And since foods are so stupid, I guess it's up to us to do the thinking for them. They have no artistic talents as to where to go — we'll just have to stop eating too much of the foods that turn into fat.

• • •

"Dear Dr. Molner: My mother is 78 and says she read that people over 70 should eat cold meat for lunch. Also, she will not eat eggs. I don't think one a day will hurt her. — Mrs. P.W."

Of course an egg a day won't hurt her, and she has been misinformed about the meat, too. The real reason may be that she finds lunch meats easier to chew. Perhaps cutting up her meat for her may settle this issue.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain Laennec cirrhosis. Is there a known cause? Could it be the result of ruptured esophageal varices? Can this be cancer? — R.S."

Laennec's cirrhosis is the medical terminology for so-called cirrhosis of the liver or portal cirrhosis. There is a scarring and shriveling of the liver.

While chronic alcoholism is regarded as a common cause, there are others not involving alcohol at all — an infection, or repeated injuries to the liver, poisoning of the liver, and often sufficient others.

Because circulation within the liver is impaired, varicose veins can develop in the lower part of the gullet or esophagus, and these can bleed. These esophageal varices"—a result, rather than a cause. No, cirrhosis is not cancer, although cancer can develop in a liver that is affected by the disease. But it can also develop in livers that don't have the disease.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It would be interesting to know how the population of the world is divided as far as good nature is concerned. Do the cheerful outnumber the sour and thoughtful constitute the majority? Or is it the mean, selfish, moody and grasping who dominate society?

Look at the airport the other evening this question came forcibly to mind. There seemed to be a conspicuous number of pushing, dead-pan, entirely self-interested people in the throng, both men and women. One self-important man of about forty attempted several times to elbow other passengers from the counter with an air of great authority. A blue-eyed, well-dressed and undoubtedly wise woman of that age called the managing lady's bluff, however, about with not the slightest show of consideration for others and got her ticket and baggage saw to the luggage, broke in on the passengers at the information desk.

An airport is a good place in which to come to a wrong conclusion with regard to the human race. Surrounded by the pushers, we are liable to overlook the patient majority sitting quietly and understanding in the waiting room foyer.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TIRED

To become honestly tired is an achievement.

It is good to get tired. It drives one to needed rest and meditation But tiredness should never go beyond the ability of the body to renew quickly. Tiredness should not encroach upon the hours of sleep and rest.

Sleep is for renewal and pleasant dreams, if dreams come at all. Then when morning comes, the day opens with nothing but promise and a full hope for greater achievement and a happier experience.

How experience backgrounds life anyway!

I have noted that tired people are rarely calm and comforting. If they are not, something is the matter with the tiredness.

Tiredness that draws upon the nerves and energies that are needed for emergencies is the wrong sort of tiredness.

I like to meet tired people. I like to talk with them. I like to get their viewpoints. To get honest reports on their work. And work is the healthiest stimulant in all the world. Work will cure nearly every disease.

The heart beats on and on for a century sometimes. But it rests between every beat. We can learn much from nature. Nature is not best tired.

There are those who boast that they never get tired. But this is a bad sort of boast.

Tired folks are the builders no matter where they are found.

No Harmful Effects From Lipstick Use

OTTAWA (CP)—Ladies, next time you choose a new lipstick the main thing to worry about is whether your husband or boy friend will go for it.

Unless you are a hypersensitive individual, who shows allergic reaction to cosmetics, the federal health department assures you that ingredients of various colors will cause no harmful effect.

This assurance is given in an article in the official 1961 Year Book just published by Dr. A. C. Morrell, head of the department's food and drug directorate whose activities include assuring the safety of cosmetics.

"Colors used for lipsticks have received special attention but there is little likelihood and no evidence that, in the amounts these colors are ingested, they create any harm" he says.

However, Dr. Morrell warns that the dangers from cosmetics appear to be in the use of hair dyes containing p-phenylene-diamine dyes. Strict warning against allowing these preparations to come in contact with the eyes are required on all labels together with instructions for carrying out patch tests.

"The basic ingredients of cosmetics have been established as long and extensive use to be safe."

As for advertising cosmetics, Dr. Morrell has this to say:

"It is assumed that much 'puffery' is expected by the public for products intended to improve personal appearance and that they are not really deceived by it."

The bride attired in blue street-length dress with a corsage of white roses and blue accessories was attended by Miss Dorothy Hall of Frankford and the groomsman was Mr. Ronald Woodcox of West Huntingdon, brother of the bride.

The reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents where the room was appropriately decorated for the occasion, and the bridal table attractively arranged with white damask cloth with an artistic centrepiece of white roses and red roses, flanked by tall white candles in silver candelabra.

Serving the guests were Mrs. Clara Seamon and Mrs. Hazel Shandrow. Out-of-town guests were present from Hamilton and West Huntingdon.

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Shandrow, where the bride was the recipient of many lovely gifts. Members of the community of West Huntingdon gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Woodcox and at this time, the young couple were presented with a chromcore suite. Jean and Gilbert both expressed sincere appreciation.

Johnston. The Reverend J. P. Hommersen, minister of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, officiated before a beautiful Christmas background and beneath an archway adorned with Yuletide evergreens

Miss Grace Pittman, of Stirling, provided the traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride wore a floor-length gown of Ming blue chiffon over nylon taffeta with fitted bodice having a scoop neckline short cap sleeves, and full skirt. Her matching headdress was designed in the fashion of a large cabbage rose, and she carried a bouquet of pale yellow roses.

She was attended by Miss Carole Burgess, as maid of honour, who was in beige brocaded taffeta fitted with fitted bodice and bell-shaped skirt. Her headdress was of matching material, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. William Dewberry of Belleville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held, with the bride's mother, and the bridegroom's mother, in the receiving line. The former chose a brown sheath with beige hat, dark brown accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

The wedding dinner was held at the Inn on the Mountain, Foxboro Road, where the bride's table was appointed with the wedding cake set into the French directoire wedding cake topped by white bells and two white doves. Tall white candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquet completed the bridal setting.

Guests attended from Belleville, Bowmanville, Toronto, Trenton and Peterborough.

Previous to her marriage, a miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Miss Carole Burgess, of Stirling.

Eileen D. Shares Her Perfected Smothered Chicken

By Mary Moore

". . . thank you for helping me with my recipe for Smothered Chicken. Remember that I complained of the fat curdling the milk? You suggested adding a tin of mushroom soup, which I did, with much better results, but not perfect until today when it was 'super.' I am now passing on the perfected recipe in hopes someone else will enjoy an economical and thoroughly delicious dish.

(Courtesy Eileen D.)

Take a boiling fowl (or 2 fryers) and cut in serving pieces. Shake in bag containing 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon garlic powder (optional). Brown chicken pieces in 4 tablespoons fat. Put in stew pan on fold of paper towels. In the same fat brown 3 chopped onions, ½ cup chopped carrots, 3 stalks chopped celery. Put chicken in large casserole, add vegetables, and pour over all 1 can of mushroom soup, undiluted. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 2 to 2½ hours, covered. If you want to make it even more special add some extra sauteed mushrooms during the last 15 minutes. We love this with mashed potatoes, because the gravy is so good. I serve a green vegetable with it.

Eileen D. goes on to say " . . . is an inert spring. It will take a dish I concoct when I have a piece of leftover ham is solage. I

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Anyone invited to a wedding immediately wonders whether or not to send a gift, and, if so, when, to whom and where to send it. The answers to these and related questions helps smooth the way when a familiar ceremony colored envelope arrives in the mail. See if you can make a perfect score.

1. Should a present be sent if a person is invited to the reception but not to the ceremony?

2. Does acceptance of an invitation to the ceremony and reception mean that a gift is a must?

3. Suppose a person who is invited to a reception cannot attend. Must he still send a gift?

4. To whom should the wedding presents be sent?

5. If a friend of the groom does not know the bride — or her address — can he send his gift to the groom, instead?

6. If it's impossible to send a gift before the ceremony, may it be sent afterwards?

7. Can a guest bring his gift to the wedding reception and give it to the bride at that time?

8. Should the donors of a wedding present put his return address on the package?

9. What sort of card should accompany a wedding gift?

10. How should gift cards be signed?

Answers:

1. Anyone who is invited only to the ceremony is not obligated to send a gift unless he wants to.

2. Yes. It's customary for anyone who accepts a bid to a reception to send a wedding present.

3. Properly, he should.

4. To the bride, and they should be sent to her home before the ceremony.

5 No, it should still be sent to the bride. The groom or a member of his family can supply the address.

6. Yes, in which case it should be addressed to the bride and

7. He shouldn't. It's awkward, and someone has to take charge of the gifts and see that they get to the bride's former home or her new one. If it can be sent before the ceremony, then it's better to send it later.

8. If the bride or her bride can index it immediately for a thank-you note.

9. Preferably an engraved personal card, but a plain white card will do. The name should may be written above the signature.

10. On a hand-written card, a friend of the bride should sign her full name, such as Mary Smith, in case the bride knows a number of Marys. A young couple would sign "Peter and Mary Smith," and an older couple "Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith." An engraved card, of course, would be enclosed "as is."

Emancipation of Women Cause of New Trend Says Wife of Canada's Minister

WINNIPEG (CP)—The emancipation of women has been the cause of a new trend concerning public affairs, says the wife of Canada's minister of north, resources and national development.

Mrs. Walter Dinsdale says she thinks younger men are taking public office because it is expected that their wives want to stand at their sides and help.

Her husband agrees. He told Manitoba Progressive Conservative Association meeting here that old-style politicians now is no heavy that "you can have social secretaries and the like, but they don't do as good a job as your wife."

Emancipation won't even allow the wives with younger children to stay home, says Mrs. Dinsdale. However, she describes herself as a full-time mother and homemaker for her husband and four children. She has part-time help.

"If don't go on trips or to conventions unless there is a satisfactory arrangement at home," the minister's wife said in an interview.

The family does a lot of travelling together, mostly from its "shelter" in Ottawa to home in Brandon, Man. Since Mr. Dinsdale's appointment, travel has become a regular, seasonal, New Year's was spent in Yukon territory and Easter in the Northwest Territories.

Wives who don't travel with their husbands miss a great deal, and so do the husbands, she feels. "My husband has been a great emphasis on my coming with him."

Mrs. Dinsdale enjoys public speaking, especially to women's or welfare groups. She holds a degree in social work from the University of Toronto, and still is interested in her profession. She is president of the board of directors of the Ottawa branch of the Mental Health Association, and is on the provincial board of that organization.

The minister's wife has done special projects for the welfare council of the Community Chest of Ottawa, and research and planning for better co-ordination and integration of hospital services when hospital insurance was started in Ontario.

Both attended Brandon College, an affiliate of the University of Manitoba, but met later at a college function. Following their graduation and after they had met, they moved to Toronto where both continued studies at the University of Toronto.

Born in Erickson, Man., as Leonore Gaudet, Mrs. Dinsdale also has teaching experience. Before attending Brandon College she was a personal teacher and replaced many ill teachers for those who got married before the school year was over.

Five New Dress Houses To Be Opened in Paris

By PEGGY MARSH

PARIS (Reuters)—It should be an exciting January in the Paris fashion world.

Five new dress houses will open in the Parisian capital—including two run by designers who have already attained worldwide recognition.

The established personalities are Pierre Cardin, whose creatures are Roberto Capucci and Yves St. Laurent—two of the golden boy of the fashion world.

St. Laurent, now 25, took over the Christian Dior house of fashion after the famed designer died in 1957. When he went into the French army and suffered a nervous breakdown, he was replaced by Marc Bohan as head of Dior.

GOOD IN FALL

Bohan's success in showing his fall collection last year confirmed him in his new post and St. Laurent now has opened his own house.

The other three designers whose names are Paloma Picasso Yenet, Jean-Marie Armand and Michel Vollbracht.

Picasso was once right - hand man to Hubert de Givenchy; Armand is assistant to Nina Ricci and Madeline de Rauch and Madeline de Rauch and Vollbracht was well-known assistant designer in Paris.

Finally, experts in the couture syndicate and leading buying offices here already are speculating whether there is enough business to support five new Dior houses in Paris.

Before the war, the major turnover of the couture houses came from the custom of private clients. Today, professional buyers from all parts of the world of women who can afford to buy original models in the famous Paris dressing houses.

SMALL SCALE

Lloyd Crawford, of the Lordship of Christ in the lives of those who have committed themselves to Him. The evening message was centred through the parable of "The Marriage Feast of the Lands" in Matthew 22-14 Torrance Crawford teaches that those who would escape themselves from accepting Jesus Invitation Chamber. Him will not enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

At the reception after the evening service, friends spoke of the pastor's blessing during the past 4½ years under Mr. Snyder's ministry. The congregation then presented Mr. and Mrs. Snyder with a record player and chosen as a token of appreciation for their ministry and fellowship. The pastor and his wife thanked the friends for their gift and coupled their prayers for the future pioneer work to which they have been called.

Congregation Honors Pastor, Wife With Gift

Last Sunday the pastor of Rhodian Baptist Church received

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Katherine G. — She is completely spoiling our little Mr. J.G. — When I look at Brian, I simply dissolve.

Katherine G. — We have three children — boy of 11, and two little girls, 7 and 6. The problem is with my mother-in-law who idolizes Brian. She showers him with gifts and treats, and hardly notices the sisters. That spoils the boy, makes the girls envious and gives me no end of difficulties in training the youngsters.

She's almost like a member of those ancient tribes where girl babies don't count. To her, the girls are just extra baggage. But Brian! He can do no wrong. She says he's the image of her late husband. Once she even suggested he call her Mom and me, Kitty! It was for fun, of course, but I want Brian to grow up normally, not feel like a little god. His husband doesn't speak up. He feels his mother gets enough and comfort from just looking at Brian.

* * *

Mrs. J.G. — I know is that when I look at this child, something happens to me. I melt. The years seem to fall away. I see my own son, Brian's father, standing there as a child. And I see the shining eyes of my husband. Brian resembles them both.

He was the first grandchild, and the only one for three years. Of course, I bought his toys and clothing. But Kitty must admit that I buy them for the girls, too. The difference is that I make the boy's gifts a surprise, all of Brian's wardrobe, from the day he was born. But I can't blame Kitty for a fuss over the three grandchildren. On the other hand, that's definitely stop giving Brian expensive presents and substitute the sort of gifts I make for the girls.

The girls get their finery from their parents and other relatives.

The Council: Someone, preferably, a psychological counsel, or, mum, talk to Brian. "Baby talk" to Mrs. G.: "Look. You had your baby boy, Brian is not your baby boy. Kitty's baby and your son's baby boy. Snap out of it, or grandma is going to little ones. Now, act like it — not like a sleepwalker in nevernever land."

Katherine is right in taking a strong stand before Brian grows her to enlist her husband's aid. While indulging her own maudlin emotions over Brian, Mrs. G. is harming all three children and is setting up a destructive factor in the home.

The girls are getting the idea that girls are second class, that males are inferior. At the same time, Brian is living with a distorted puffed-up concept of the male as a creature set apart. And, unless Mrs. G. protests may be trying their darndest to be right fussy about among the siblings. If it matters standoffish that — thanks to Mrs. G.'s coddling — Brian will grow up — Brian will lord it over his sisters, while they resent his favored rung on the family schelch.

It might set Mrs. G. on a more wholesome course, as well as perk up the spirit of the little girls, for Katherine to talk to them all on the great schism-in-reverse and certain limitations of women. Seize any opening,

Canadian Museum Houses 40,000 or So Relics, Pictures Of War Involving Canadians

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — A small building here bulges with the memories and weapons of war —from pictures of long - gone heroes to a spunky First World War biplane.

The one-storey building on Sussex Drive, less than a mile from Parliament Hill, is the Canadian War Museum. . .

It's so small that the displays have to be changed once a year to get into public view some of the 40,000 or so relics of war otherwise stored in warehouses in Ottawa, in neighboring Hull, Que., and at Camp Borden, Ont.

But an advantage of its size is that visitors — there were more than 130,000 last year — get an intimate glimpse of the weapons with which Canada has fought. Sprinkled throughout are weapons of other nations, some won by Canadians in combat.

At one end of the middle aisle is a Sopwith Camel, one of the First World War biplanes that destroyed 1,281 enemy aircraft.

HISTORIC COACH

Nearby is the once splendid coach used by Lord Dorchester, commander of the British forces in North America nearly 200 years ago. The Constitutional Act of 1791 which brought representative government to Canada was introduced during his second term as governor-in-chief of British North America.

Scattered through the museum are pictures of Canadians at war. Uniforms, guns, sabres and medals take you from the Fenian raids of 1866-71 to the Korean War of 1950-53.

A pamphlet recalls that the first Canadians to serve officially outside Canada as a separate force helped plot the Gordon relief expedition of 1884 up the Nile to The Sudan.

Relics provide a link with the Canadians who served in the South African War of 1899-1902, and other weapons recall the supreme sacrifice of 60,661 Canadians in the war of 1914-18. Models of ships and aircraft, like the Lancaster bomber, bring to mind the more than 1,000,000 men and women who donned uniforms for the Second World War.

Other displays are in the main warehouse a few blocks from the tree-shaded museum.

Across the river in Hull, in a building where washing machines once were manufactured, are stocked tanks, big guns and such relics as the command car used by Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, when he was supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean theatre of the Second World War.

A collection of 400 rifles—believed the largest in Canada—includes guns that go back to the year 1500. Some are the same type that Champlain used when he came to Canada. There are drawers upon drawers of pistols, stacks of bayonets and sabres—all kept in their original state of repair.

There is a prototype of the original machine-gun, and remains of First World War barracks equipment including spoons and kettles.

There's a tank - like mine carrier devised by the Germans before 1939; flame throwers; rocket launchers. Second World War variety; a camouflaged gun carrier; a Japanese aircraft gun; grade models of the Dieppe raid; a German search light; a First World War Nieuport biplane and a Heinkel 162; a German Second World War jet; an Italian tank. . . .

Boating Tragedy At Christmas Claimed 8 Lives

SEATTLE (AP) — A Christmas season boating tragedy which apparently claimed the lives of a former Seattle-area couple and their pet children was pieced together Sunday.

Missing and listed by the U.S. Coast Guard as presumed drowned are James W. Henderson, 32; his wife, Frances; three daughters, Beth, 14, Nancy, 10, and Jean, 8, and three sons, Jim, 5, John, 3, and Jeffery, 1.

The family disappeared after setting out Dec. 26 from Stuart Island, in the San Juan group of northern Puget Sound, in a 16-foot dory with a 7½-horsepower outboard motor. Their destination was Roche Harbor on San Juan Island, about seven miles.

On Dec. 27 a 16 - foot boat, burned to the waterline was found on Vancouver Island on the northeast of Victoria. The next day the body of a small boy washed ashore in the same vicinity.

The discovery was not linked to the Hendrons since their sabin, sence was not reported until Saturday when a teacher told the coast guard the children were not in school and fears were felt for the entire family.

A check Sunday led to the identification of the burned hulk on Vancouver Island as the Hendron boat. The coast guard said it has not been learned whether the child found on the beach was one of the family.

Head of Wig Firm Wants President to Start Fashion

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Max Miller has a simple goal.

"I want President John F. Kennedy to wear a fashion wig," he said.

That would start the ball rolling, the same way it did with George IV of England and Louis XIII of France.

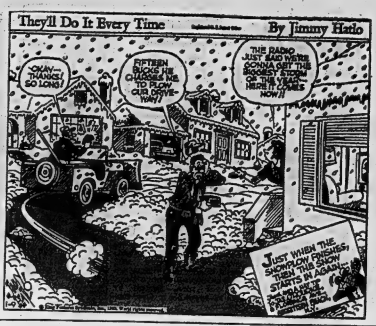
"Soon millions of red-blooded American men would be wearing beautiful high fashion wigs. Their wives would fall back in love with them. The wholesome loving atmosphere in all those homes would put an end to juvenile delinquency, alcoholism and the television habit."

Miller, at 43 the owner of a flourishing mop of hair that makes him his own worst customer, is the dynamic head of the Joseph Fleischer wig firm, one of the oldest and largest in the world.

The hairpiece business now is about $50,000,000-a-year industry in the U.S., and getting bigger all the time.

The bald truth of the matter, according to Miller, is that some 3,000,000 American women now wear fashion wigs and some 400,000 to 600,000 men protect their scalps from sunburn, rain, snow and ill—"natured laughter with toupees, also known in the trade as "toppers."

Miller feels sure that in another five to 10 years these figures will be trebled or quadrupled.



It is his opinion—well, anyway, his hope—that the fashion wig again will become a status symbol among men, as it already is among many women. According to Miller, people have been wearing wigs for 10,000 years or so. He says both Hannibal and Nero wore them for purposes of disguise, and that the first Queen Elizabeth, whose hair was scant and thin, had 80 wigs in her wardrobe.

A modern woman's wig today costs from $300 to $700, a man's topper from $125 to $250. They last from two to three years, and can be sent out to be cleaned and dressed for $4.50.

Feminine wigs contain from $20,000 to 300,000 hairs, male toupees about 140,000.

The world hair buying centre is Palermo, Sicily, and the greatest source of supply is the Italian woman peasant. The price ranges all the way from $50 a pound for straight black hair to $400 a pound for pure white or red hair, the colors in scant supply.

Warmer Climate May Mean Few Extra Years

OSAWA (CP)—A three-year-old Oshawa boy will be taken to California next week on the chance that warmer climate may mean a few extra years of life for him.

Mark Hawkins, a victim of cystic fibrosis, has only a 50-50 chance of living beyond adolescence. But he may not survive the winter if he contracts pneumonia in Oshawa.

By next Sunday, when Mark turns four, the family will be on the road, driving 3,000 miles "on a shoestring budget" to San Jose, California, where Mark's father, Donald Holmes, a salesman for an office supply firm in Oshawa, hopes he can find similar work. The household belongings have been sold to help pay for the trip.

"We know the disease is incurable," Mr. Holmes said, "but he will stand a better chance if he lives in the warmer climate. We are hoping it will ease his condition and make him a little more comfortable."

DISEASE HEREDITARY

Cystic fibrosis, a hereditary non-infectious disease attacking about one in every 800 to 1,000 children whose parents have affected Mark's lungs and pancreas.

During the trip Mark will sleep in a high-humidity mist tent—a gift of the Lions Civitan Club of Oshawa—as he has every night since December when he last caught pneumonia.

A medicated mist is pumped into the tent to thin mucus in Mark's nose and help him breathe without constant coughing.

Mark's mother has slept on the floor beside his crib for two weeks watching his breathing. She now has an ulcer from worry.

The Holmes have another child, Penny, seven.

Mark has not been out playing since December.

"We couldn't possibly let him outside and get wet in the snow," Holmes said. "It'll be came down with pneumonia again we could very easily lose him overnight."

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Department

Under taxable benefits which appear in line "O" on the T4 slip will appear an amount that your employer has determined to be a benefit you have received in other than cash. This could represent free board and lodging use of a company car or anything paid for you personally by your employer.

If your agreement with your employer is one where you work for a certain sum plus your board and lodging, then the value of this board and lodging becomes taxable in your hands. Such contracts of employment usually occur where the employer has a construction or similar camp in a remote district and has eating and sleeping quarters in the camp site. It will also apply to waiters and waitresses who obtain meals in their place of employment. A taxable benefit is also applicable where your employer has a company car on company business all week, but has permission to use it occasionally on weekends.

Whatever the employer determines the value to be of such benefits received from him, and shown in Box "A" on your T4 slip, must be added to your income on the return opposite the line indicated as "Taxable Benefits Received from Employer."

In case you do not agree with the amount shown on your T4 slip as "Taxable Benefits" you should take the matter up with your employer. If you complain about this to your Income Tax office they will tell you that they do, as they are obliged to accept what the employer has shown. The employer is the only one who is in a position to determine the value of such taxable benefits. If you fail to have this amount "Box 0" on your return, the assessor must add it to your other income to complete the assessment.

Question: I work in a construction camp which supplies meals and lodging. We are charged for this and it is deducted from our pay. Our T4 slips show as income the full amount of pay before any deductions for meals and lodging. Can we deduct on our tax returns the cost of meals and lodging?

Answer: No. Board and lodging is a personal expense in this case and is not deductible.

• • •

Question: I am a waitress in a restaurant. I receive free, my noon meal and the odd snack. I think my employer has shown the value of this on my T4 slip in excess of what I get. Can the Income Tax office help me in this matter?

Answer: No. Your dispute is entirely with your employer.

• • •

Question: I work in a cosmetics counter and sell lipstick, powder and other cosmetics. I receive a commission on my sales. Can I deduct the cost of cosmetics I buy for myself?

Husband Has Girl Friends!

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My husband and I are 51 years of age. We live next door to two unmarried girls. Last week one of them came to see me and said, "Why does your husband come in every morning with my sister, when they think I'm asleep?"

I said it was news to me, but I watched from where I work (across the street) and sure enough, she pulls down the shades, waits at the door. He comes out and she opens the door before he gets to the steps.

A few years ago my closest friend saw him going into a house regularly at noon hour. I couldn't believe her but found it true. And there are other times he has lied to me about.

I'd like your advice please. I don't think he has any need to do this. I've never slighted any way at home. If I told our son or daughter, their father would say, "She is crazy. I don't"—UNHAPPY.

• • •

DEAR UNHAPPY — Search for the cause. For some reason your husband feels he needs sexual satisfaction outside of his home. He may be abnormal—but there is a chance that your failure to understand his need has made you fall short in response to it.

This is very late in marriage to repair the strains caused by emptiness where love should have filled the gaps. There are times when affection, and words of friendliness and approval, are food and drink to a man As they are to a woman.

So I would say, look to your own laurels first, even though he is definitely not playing the game with you. I am sending you the name of a fine book which will help you to understand this important part of married life.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—My age is 22 and my fiance's is 20. We have set a date for the ninth of June. We have been going together for about a year and a half and have been engaged for a year.

Doris, I love her very much and I know she loves me just as deeply, but why for about the last month have we been bickering over the silliest things? Do all couples face this before marriage, or am I an exception?

Her parents attribute this to her low blood, which she does nothing about, and has been told several times about by her doctor. She takes her pills for a day or two and then they are forgotten in the medicine cabinet.—LOVING NUTS.

• • •

DEAR LOVING NUTS—You and thousands of other engaged couples get on each other's nerves at times. This comes of too much proximity and too little satisfaction.

It is human to be impatient for fulfillment, but when people are young, there is sometimes not enough self-discipline to take care of the situation in a civilized way and still keep cheerful all the time.

Of course you have an added problem if your girl will not take care of her physical health. Where's her good common sense? Certainly poor blood can mean an out-of-sorts condition.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—I really enjoy your column, with its sound and bright advice.

However, I was sad to see your use of the incorrect term, "Rev. Brown." As you are no doubt aware, you should have said "The Rev. Mr. Brown," or "Rev. George Brown." You would not say "Honorable Brown," but "Honorable Mr. Brown."—MR. V. L.

DEAR MR. V. L.—Thank you. I hope your own "Reverend" will still speak to me!

• • •

(Your own dilemma may not be as hopeless as it looks. Write to Doris for help.)

Dutch Remain Calm in Face Of War Threat

By HENK KESTING

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The Dutch people kept calm last week in the face of a war threat over West New Guinea.

Both Dutch citizens and the government were hoping for negotiations. Even anti-Indonesian diehards did not come out openly for a military showdown. Some people saw no other way out than handing over the island territory to the Indonesians. Others, admitting that the eventual long - term outcome will be the same, say that negotiations will lead to a transitional period under international auspices.

West New Guinea (called West Irian in Indonesian) is one-half of a poor, swampy, tropical island in the southwest Pacific. The rest has represented a real Netherlands interest. The Dutch government annually covers its $30,000,000 budgetary deficit, in addition to spending an equal sum on the defence.

CREATES COUNCIL

The Dutch government last year cut into economy, in the year development plan and created a council of elected and appointed Papuan members with a view to leading the people to self-determination.

Australia controls the eastern half of the island. There have been suggestions that the two halves be combined because the island's people are mainly Papuans of the Melanesian race, not particularly linked with the Indonesians.

West New Guinea is a lelover issue from 1949 when the Dutch surrendered their East Indies colonial empire to Indonesia. No date can't was reached on the West New Guinea area.

This was partly because the Dutch government considered it too undeveloped to make it at that time a federal part of Indonesia. There are only about 2,000 Dutchmen in the administrative personnel and a few planters, in the area.

Behind - the - scenes international considerations, in which the United States government is playing a leading role, may show the way out for both sides.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Casey Stengel, as is known, will swap the trim business suit and homberg of a California bank owner, for the more familiar uniform of a baseball locsenitive some spring. The Old Perfessor is returning to the scene of his Yankee triumphs, and Brooklyn failures, this time as boss monster of the brand new Gotham Mets.

Casey, as usual, had the serfs of the typewriters al, most rolling in the aisles at a sports dinner on the west coast the other night. He said he's known the "lean years" before his golden era with the Yankees. After all didn't he manage the Boston Braves and the Dodgers when they were the footballs of the National League.

With the Yankees, Casey said, he had pitchers who could let him sleep nights. But "in Brooklyn, I had a clown who kept me awake screaming. Ever hear of Walter (Boom-Boom) Beck?

He was called Boom-Boom, it is said, because the first boom sounded when the batter hit the ball and the second boom was heard when the ball hit a distant fence.

Casey said Boom-Boom was pitching for Brooklyn, a club that had the famous Hack Wilson playing in left field. This is the same Hack that hit 56 homers for the Chicago Clubs, still a National League record.

"This day," said Ole Case, "Beck had a 4-0 lead by a combination of rare miracles. Infielders snared line drives. Outfielders saved Boom-Boom by nolling new heights to make desperate catches. Among the busiest was Hack Wilson who was sweating off a load of beer taken on the night before. Continuous action kept Hack's eyes open."

By the seventh, Casey said, the age of miracles was over. Line drives sailed through for base hits. The "Bums" 4-0 lead had disappeared and Mr. Stengel trudged to the mound to relieve Mr. Beck of further work and further worries, not to mention further enemy runs.

"Gimme the ball," said Casey.

"No," said Mr. Beck, hostedly.

"Look," said Casey, "You done well up to now, but that 4-0 lead you had—it's gone. Now just gimme the ball and we will bring in another pitcher."

"No," repented Mr. Beck, getting a little angry. "I will just pitch to a couple more hitters right now and you'll see I still got my stuff."

"Stuff," growled Casey, bristling. "Listen you, gimme that ball right now or I'll take it away from you with a bat."

While this discussion was going on, out in left field Hack Wilson took the chance to rest. He dozed, his head down on his arms.

On the mound an angered Casey was yelling at Beck. "For the last time," he shouted, "gimme that ball."

"Okay," said Boom-Boom, spicing his words with profanity, "here's the damned ball!"

With that he turned and threw the ball against the left-field fence. It landed against a tin sign with a clatter. Hack awoke and jerked up his head at the familiar sound. He turned to see the ball bounding off the fence, chased it, whirled and made a perfect throw to second base where past experience told him the four-man relay would arrive.

It was the best throw Wilson had made all season, but no one was ready to take it.

Later back in the dugout an angry Boom-Boom was giving vent to his feelings. He kept kicking at a water fountain. "Stop kickin' that thing!" Casey shouted.

"Why?" Beck sneered, "You afraid I'll bust it?"

"No," Casey said, quietly this time. "I'm afraid you'll bust your foot and then I can't sell you."

50,000 For Five Years

NFL Retains Rozelle

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pete Rozelle, a compromise choice as commissioner of the National Football League after a stormy pro-week session in 1960, was re-elected by unanimous vote Monday for a five-year term at $50,000 a year.

Rozelle, 35, moved up from his job as general manager of the Los Angeles Rams to succeed the late Bert Bell. The original three-year contract would have expired in January, 1963, but the league club owners gave him a new five-year term as an expression of confidence.

Although Rozelle said the sal, ary would be the same $50,000 a year, it was expected that adjustments will be made later.

"It is quite possible we will have expansion in the next five years," said Rozelle. "However, n new clubs. We want to to the league allegedly were in Dallas and Minneapolis about $200,000.

Leafs Try Chuck Luck This Season

Sign Dressen As Manager

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the triple-A International Baseball League announced Monday they had slipped a new card into the personnel file.

Name: Charles Dressen.

Position: Manager, sometimes percarious.

Age: 63.

Birthplace: Decatur, Ill.

Nicknamed: Charlie, Chuck, Napoleon and others less complimentary.

Dressen, long one of the most controversial figures in major league baseball, has been signed to a one - year contract the terms of which were not immediately disclosed.

It was believed, however, that the agreement gives Dressen the highest salary being paid any individual in the minor leagues this season.

BIGGEST DEAL?

General manager Frank Pollock, in making the announcement, said the signing of Dressen is the biggest thing in a baseball way, to hit Toronto in modern history."

Dressen, hired as manager of the National League Milwaukee Braves last Sept. 2, sealed the deal in telephone conversation with Leaf owner Jack Kent Cooke.

A five-foot, six-inch dynamo, Dressen said by telephone from his' Los Angeles home: "I feel just the same as if I was going to manage Milwaukee or the Dodgers. It don't make no difference. I give the best wherever I am."

He said he had been given chances to remain in the majors in capacities other than field manager, but "I want to manage."

He has managed Cincinnati Reds, Brooklyn Dodgers, Washington Senators and Milwaukee in the major leagues. Dodgers won the pennant in the last two years of his 1951-52-53 trick with them and Dressen finished second in his fling season with them and Goofy lost that year.

Pollock said Cooke, now living in Pebble Beach, Calif., played a major part in signing Dressen, who has spent 42 years in baseball.

Dressen succeeds Tim Thompson, who took over Leafs last year when Billy Hitchcock-Lipon was fired. Thompson is expected to remain as coach.

Phil Rodgers Shoots a 268

Rookie Wins LA Golf

LOS ANGELES '(CP)—A rookie with only six months seasoning on golf's tough tournament trail captured the $45,000 Los Angeles Open Monday turning back a corps of veterans with a record nine-under-par 62 on the final round.

The strapping youth in 23-year-old Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., whose brilliant windup gave him a 268, another record for the tournament, and a nine-stroke edge over his closest rivals. He won $7,500.

The final round by Rodgers, a red - haired former United States Marine, smashed the tournament mark of 63 set by Tommy Bolt in 1956 and matched by Ken Venturi in 1959. The 268 erased the 72-hole score of 272 established by Lloyd Mangrum when he won the event in 1956.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver led Canadian entrants with a final - round 69, good for 282. He ended up in 14th place and won $900. Al Balding of Toronto fired a 71 Monday and finished in 36th place at 287. He won $155. George Knudson o' Toronto picked up $111.62, shooting a 71 for a 288 total and 42nd place.

TIE FOR SECOND

Fred Hawkins and defending champion Bob Goalby were deadlocked for second spot at 277. They each pocketed $3,325. Jackie Burke was fourth with 278. Hawkins had a 71 on the last 18 holes, Goalby carded a 69 and Burke 68.

Rodgers was as hot as the sun that beat down on the Rancho Golf Club, with its par 36-36—71.

He started out with a perfect approach shot on the first green and sank a stiff to the pin and he tapped the ball in from about six inches for a birdie. He added three more birdies on the front nine and rammed home five birdies on the back nine.

Such big - name players as Arnold Palmer and Gary Player were well back. Palmer had 283 for $825; Player 287 for $155.

Jack Nicklaus, 1961 United States amateur king making his pro debut, carded 289 for $33.33.

Dont Appreciate Success—Selke

Montreal Fans Hard To Satisfy

By LAURENT CHIASSON

MONTREAL (CP) — Sport fans, as a rule, are hard to satisfy and will settle for nothing short of a winner. But Montreal hockey goers are even more fussy.

Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens, says they just don't appreciate success.

"Take a look at the teams that finished a few years ago with since the Second World War," says Selke. "All of them have been strong.

"Yet these teams have been booed more often on their own ice than the Bruins are this season at Boston Gardens.

Montreal hockey fans generally are patient with a French-Canadian player. But they show much less tolerance towards Anglo-Saxons."

To illustrate his point, Selke cites the case of Ab McDonald, a big Winnipeg born left-winger whom he was forced to trade to Chicago Black Hawks two years ago.

McDonald was considered a big prospect when he joined the brass but developed a kingsized inferiority complex with the Canadiens because of boos fans threw hasty jeers at him almost from the start.

"If he had stayed here the fans would have ruined his morale," says Selke. "He would have been no good to anybody, including himself."

NOW THEY CHEER HIM

McDonald, 25, is turning into a big scorer for the Black Hawks in his second season, National Hockey League campaign.

When he scored the winning goal at the Forum in a 4-3 Chicago victory with less than two minutes to go several weeks ago, the fans gave him a good hand.

Bill Durnan, considered one of hockey's finest goaltenders, heard them in the early 50s. So did his successor, Gerry McNeil. Now it's Jacques Plante.

Plante never has been popular with the fans. They never really approved of his wander, his habit of leaving his crease, his wearing of a protective face mask.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion has been another victim. In 1956-57, the fans feared the Boomer because he edged their idol, Maurice Richard, for the league scoring championship by one point.

Geoffrion has regained their loyalty since the Rocket retired and they cheer him now. And goal last season each time he scored to inch closer to one of Richard's most cherished records—50 goals in one year.

Pepsi's Defeat Napanee

NAPANEE; Special—With a near full-scale brawl featuring the affair, the Belleville Pepsi's raced to their eleventh straight victory here last night defeating the Napanee Comets 5-2 in Lakeshore Intermediate hockey.

Keith MacDonald and Don Senior, fleadits from way back in the old senior "B" days apparently haven't forgotten nor forgiven.

Senior drew a minor highsticking penalty at 13.12 of the third period, and he picked on MacDonald as the recipient. The fireworks started when the Prince Edward "hardrock" piled into Senior.

The battle was joined and team-mates flocked to the scene of battle. When peace was declared the fisticuffers drew major and misconduct penalties.

The Pepsi's were at full strength for the first time this season with Goegan, Brown and Lamirande getting the official nod from international organizations.

The Pepsi's fired home a pair of goals in the first period. MacDonald scoring at 10.28 and Duke Doran getting his first goal of the season with 23 seconds to go.

They added another answered pair in the second period. Mac-Donald firing home his second goal at 4.50 and Davy Jones adding his contribution a minute later.

Pat Gilmour broke the "egg" at 1.56 of the final frame but Ron Hull got that one back ten minutes later. John Green whittled the Pepsi lead to 5-2 scoring at 14.56. That's the way it ended.

MacDonald's two goals and assist paced the Pepsi's with Ron Hull getting one and two. Gary Goyer had three assists and Fiori Goegan a pair. Jones and Doran scored singles with Bolley and Rowbotham having helpers.

The teams clash again in Memorial Arena 10 m o r r o w night.

Galen Hall Denies Pro Plans

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Galen Hall, Penn State's little quarterback, denied any deEnite plans for playing professional football Monday night.

Hall's remarks came on the heels of reports from Hamilton that he had indicated he will sign with the Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League.

"I listened to their offer but made no promises," the five-foot-nine Hall said. "I've also received feelers from Baltimore Colts and Washington Redskins of the National Football League and Boston of the American Football League."

The partly bald signal caller said he will make no decision until after he finishes playing baseball at Penn State next spring.

But Handy Andy Still Tops

Mahovlich Climbs Points Ladder

MONTREAL (CP) — Big Frank Mahovlich of Toronto Maple Leafs continued his climb up the National Hockey League scoring ladder last week, picking up a fat six points in three games.

The brilliant left winger, who celebrates his 24th birthday Wednesday, scored three goals and drew three assists to increase his point total to 40, good enough for a share of third place.

Bathgate scored one goal and helped set up three others bringing his league-leading assists total to 27 and his total points to 54.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings matched Bathgate's performance and held on to second place with 40 points, 18 of them goals.

Mahovlich is tied for third place with Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks. Last week Mikita got three points.

PROVOST FALLS BACK

Claude Provost of Montreal Canadiens, Bathgate's most serious challenger over the first half of the season, got only one goal and one assist and fell to fifth position with 39 points.

Provost's goal was his 22nd, tops in the league.

Alex Delvecchio of Detroit also had a big week—scoring one goal and assisting on four—and moved up six notches to sixth place. Delvecchio has 13 goals and 23 assists for 36 points.

Dean Prentice of the Rangers collected two assists and pulled into a tie for seventh place with Don McKenney of Boston Bruins. McKenney had only one assist. Each has 35 points.

Johnny Bucyk of the Bruins was held pointless and dropped to ninth spot with 34 points, 25 of them assists.

Earl Ingarfield of the Rangers scored three goals and Ralph Backstrom of Canadiens got two assists and moved into a three-way tie for 10th spot with injured Bernie Vboom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal with 33 points.

PLANTE NARROWS GAP

Masked goalie Jacques Plante of Montreal continued to gain ground on Toronto's Johnny Bower in the race for the Vezina Trophy—awarded to the netminder who plays the most games for the least scored upon team.

Plante gave up six goals in three games and reduced his goals-against average to 2.36, best in the league.

Bower has allowed 62 fewer goals than Plante, 91 to 93, but Toronto has played two fewer games and his average is 2.46.

Last week Bower was credited seven goals in three outings and Glenn Hall of Chicago still laid in shutouts with four.

Chicago took over as the most penalized club with 452 minutes, Detroit is second with 433 while Montreal, leading in this department since almost the start of the season, now is third with 430.

Drop 6-1 Verdict

Macs Bow to Kingston

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

The Kingston Frontenacs outhustled and outscored the Macs to the tune of 6-1 in Kingston last night to snap the Belleville Macs's winning streak at eight games.

The Macs played far below the form they have displayed in climbing to the OHA Eastern Junior hockey league's top spot. They scored the game's opening goal at 11.47 of the first period but thereafter failed to click with the fast-skating Frontenacs.

Kingston knotted the score 1-1 before the end of the first period; surged ahead 4-1 after two frames and added two quick ones early in the third to put the final result out of doubt. The Macs had plenty of good scoring chances but they shot wide of the net time and again and just seemed to lack the drive and finish they needed for the occasion.

Lady Luck turned her back on the locals, too, as when Billy Reid walked in alone on Kingston goalie Kurt Demmler, pulled him to one side neatly, and bounced the clear shot off a post. The winners outshot Belleville by every period, but Dubmage made a number of top saves but it wasn't enough to spoil the win-hungry Frontenacs.

The same two clubs clash in a return tilt here Friday night at 8:00 p.m.

Gary Duvall fired the lone Belleville goal, completing a nice pass-and-shoot play with Graydon Scott and Bobby Boyle. Kingston tied it three minutes later when Gary McMillan sank a 30-footer.

Chuck Convery completed a pass play at the goalmouth with Robertson and Curran at 2.46 of the second period, accoming for the game-winning goal. Bob Rawson poked one home from a goalmouth scramble at 11.13 to make it 5-1 while Garry Lavalle scored with the Macs a man short to complete the period scoring at 16.20.

Fred Curran triggered two goals, just 14 seconds apart, early in the third to wrap it up. He snapped home a corner pass-out from McMillan at 1.42 and gunned home a 35-footer at 5.09 to end the scoring.

At 8.11 of this period Moe Hunter was assessed two minor penalties and when Mac coach Gordie Bell protested too long and too vigorously, throwing his hat on the ice, he was given a minor bench penalty and then thrown out of the game. With just 42 seconds left in the game, Hunter and Kingston's Ron Reid tangled in the losers' goalcrease and each drew a high sticking minor while Hunter also picked up a misconduct.

All in all, referees "Whitey" Walton and Art Casterton dished out 16 penalties with the Macs getting nine.

Belleville played without high scoring Pug Keller who found a charley horse received in the Picton game last week too painful to allow him to skate. Garry Hull took off his equipment at the end of the second period after announcing he was "too tired" to continue. Thus the Macs finished the game with 13 players and no coach.

Crawfords Top Lightfoots In Overtime

Belleville Crawford Metals, fighting an uphill battle all the way, scored two points in the final minutes of regulation time to force a tie, then went on to register a 60-51 overtime victory over the Belleville Lightfoots in Bay of Quinte basketball league action last night.

The Lightfoots held a 22-13 lead at half time and were ahead right up until the dying minutes of the fourth quarter when Crawfords tied it 49-49. The winners entered the Lightfoots 11-2 in the five-minute overtime period.

One of the best games of the season, the tilt featured fine ball handling by Mike Caswell of Lightfoots and a strong performance by Phil Bennett of Crawfords.

Bert Faulkner and George Parkhurst of Crawfords and Don Smith of the losers fouled out late in the fourth quarter. Smith was paced the Lightfoots with 23 points, was badly missed in the overtime heat. Paul Newsome, with nine, and Gary Davis, with seven, were the next best scorers in the defeat.

Scoring leader Teddy Batchelor was once again the big man for the Crawfords. Batchelor hit for 20 points, exactly half of his team's scoring output. Parkhurst was next in line with 11 while Faulkner had nine.

Belleville Lightfoots (51) — Davis 7, Reynolds 2, Langabeer 4, Caswell 5, D. Smith 23, Dever, Newsome 9, Durrant.

CAMP HAS 6 DATS

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson, his patience ready to decide whether to defend his world heavyweight title against Sonny Liston during the first week of March, sports editor Dan Parker says in his Daily Mirror says in his col' umn.

Patterson and Liston would meet in Miami Beach Convention Hall under the auspices of Championship Sports, Incorporated, with the bout to be televised on closed circuit television to theatres in the U.S. and Canada, Parker says.

The house would be scaled for a $700,000 gross, with top prices set at $150 a seat.

Canadian Football Needs

Imports Unlimited, 2-Game Final

MONTREAL (CP) — Mervyne (Red) Dutton of Calgary, one of Canada's most colorful sports executives, said Monday Canadian Football should allow unlimited imports and stage a two-game Grey Cup playoff if it is to survive.

"Unlimited importation has to come," he said in an interview. "It's no secret that the most successful teams in Canada are the ones with the best depth, the most homebred players. But we're not developing them first enough. The supply source is limited."

The said football clubs like Winnipeg and Hamilton have the edge. "Other clubs try to devise ways and means of catching up. They hunt dual citizen players. They send Canadian boys to U.S. colleges for advanced training. But it's a slow process. Too slow."

Dutton, here on a business trip, has been connected with Calgary Stampeders as a football executive since he retired as president of the National Hockey League to operate a contracting business.

He said the Grey Cup "one-shot show is ridiculous."

"Hockey has made its playoff conscious. Without them it couldn't survive. And football should go for at least two games—one in Vancouver, one in Toronto on successive Saturdays—for the Grey Cup before it's too late.

Dutton said Canadian football rules should not be altered.

"I'm not speaking for the hypocrites on this, but as a football fan," he said. "Our coach, Bobby Dobbs, is for limit on teams. Not me. Perhaps we could do with better protection or blocking for the punt receivers.

Frick Says Furillo Is Off Base

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Ford Frick and New York Mets of the National League said Monday Carl Furillo was off base for claiming he is being blacklisted by all major league teams.

"There is no such thing as a baseball blacklist," Frick said. "The only time I received an appeal from Furillo was 14 months ago. He wanted to receive his salary from the Dodgers after they sent him to Spokane and he refused to report. I turned down the appeal."

Furillo charged Sunday he was being victimized by the Dodgers in a dispute over being sent to the Pacific Coast League in 1959. He said he had written personal letters to manager Casey Stengel and general manager George Weiss and appealed to Frick and Sen. Estes Kefauver (Dem.-Tenn.) after being turned down for a job as a player, coach and scout by every big league club since the close of the 1961 season.

Furillo also said the Mets had hired four new scouts and had received a letter from Weiss in which he wrote "We have enough players and our organization is filled up."

"We reserve the right to hire our own personnel," Mets' spokesman said. "There's no blacklist. After all, Furillo is going to be 40 years old, so how much could he have left as a player. And don't forget he hasn't played for a couple of years."

Rams Dump Rockets 5-2

FOREST, Ont. (CP) — The lowly Sarnia Rams exploded with four unanswered goals in the second and third periods Monday night to beat Strathroy Rockets 5-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association senior game.

George Spencer's first of two goals opened the scoring for Sarnia at 6:42 of the first period, but goals by Don Emms and Paul Oliver gave Strathroy a 2-1 first-period lead.

Bob Crawley and Doug Sanglikt scored for the Rams in the second period to send the Rams into a lead they never relinquished. They sailed the game away in the third session on goals by Spencer and Joe Clark.

Even with the win, the Rams, outlaw-drivers in the eight-team league, were left six points behind the seventh-place Stratford Indians and 11 points from Chatham Maroons, in sixth spot.

Strathroy remains in fourth place, one point ahead of Waterloo Tigers and three behind third Woodstock Athletics.

Tennis Star Quits Int. Tourneys

TORONTO (CP)—Susan Butt, 23, of Victoria, ranked No. 1 Canadian amateur woman tennis player for 1960-61, has quit international tournament tennis.

Miss Butt, declined invitations to play in Yugoslavia, Casablanca, North Africa and India. She said:

"I figured now that I have played on the centre court at Wimbledon last June, played all over Europe, the Middle East, the United States and the Caribbean, I'll call it quits while I'm ahead of the game.

She plans to intern as a clinical psychologist in Vancouver in May.

Wings Defeat Farmhands 4-1

HAMILTON (CP) — Detroit had little trouble Monday evening as they downed Hamilton Red Wings, 4-1 before a capacity crowd of 3,160.

Gordie Howe paced the National Hockey Leaguers with two goals. Len Lunde and Vic Stasiuk got the others.

In the first game of the exhibition doubleheader, Hamilton Red Wings of the Central Junior B League, edged Detroit Junior Wings, runners-up in the Junior B Border Cities league 4-3.

AFL Owners Briefed on Big Suit

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — American Football League owners were briefed Monday on their $10,000,000 anti-trust suit against the rival National Football League. It was the first item of business at their annual meeting.

Baltimore lawyer Warren Baker gave the briefing. The suit is scheduled for trial in Baltimore Feb. 19.

The league league commissioner, told reporters: "You don't discuss a case like this when it's so close to trial."

The suit was brought after the National League organized the Dallas Cowboys in 1960. It was a move the suit charged, aimed at putting the American franchise out of business.

Fans Break Record In NFL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Booming National Football League attendance hit a record high of 3,986,159 in 1961 with an average crowd of 40,674 at each of 98 regular-season games.

We are enthusiastic about about the general balance of our attendance," commissioner Pete Rozelle said Monday.

"From 1952 to 1959, Los Angeles was very successful with big crowds of 70,000 and 75,000 accounting for a good share of attendance. Although the Rams were not successful their biggest stadium in the league to full capacity, our attendance still went up. That is a healthy trend. We are sorry we missed by only 674 not hitting the 4,000,000 mark."

Jim Kensil, league public relations chief, did not give club breakdowns when he released attendance figures. He said the average crowd in 1961 was 40,675 compared with 40,106 in 1960.

Unofficial Associated Press figures show Cleveland had the largest single turnout was 80,- 455 at Cleveland for the Browns' Nov. 26 game with New York Giants.

E. Germans Apply for Puck Permit

BERLIN (Reuters) — The East German Ice Hockey Association posted written applications to the three-power Allied travel - affairs office in West Berlin Monday for permission to send a team to the world hockey championships in Colorado Springs in March.

On Saturday the Soviet Ice Hockey Federation claimed the U.S. state department had refused visas for the Soviet team to remain visas. However, a state department spokesman in Washington said the East German team had not yet applied for visas.

The spokesman said because East Germany was not recognized by the U.S., the team must first apply to the Allied travel office in West Berlin.

The spokesman added that since this had been done, the state department would judge the applications on merit.

AFL Prexy Backs Up Officials

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Club owners, managers and coaches in the American Football League will be fined up to $1,000 if they complain in public about officiating, commissioner Joe Foss said Monday night.

He said he will not fine coach Sid Gillman of San Diego Chargers for griping publicly about officials in the 1961 championship game, but added: "If they complain in the press or at league meetings in the future, I'll give them the axe."

Foss said he told club moguls at Monday's annual AFL meeting that the league has the best game officials "money can buy."

Elizabeth Taylor Real Fan Of Eatery in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The urgent cable came from Rome: "Dear Dave: Please send me 10 quarts of your wonderful chili in dry ice." It was signed: Elizabeth Taylor Fisher.

Dave Chasen quickly whipped up a batch of chili, froze it, and patched it to Rome at a shipping cost of $102. He received back an affectionate letter from Cleopatra and consort, Eddie Fisher:

"We cannot tell you what your chili has done for us all the way over here. Like that Jewish song, Sure and a Little Bit of Heaven Fell out of the Sky One Day."

Like Jane Wyman, Kirk Douglas and Walter O'Malley, Liz Taylor is fanatical about Dave Chasen's chili and a fan of the Chasen eatery on Beverly Boulevard.

FAVORITE EATING PLACE

The list would also include virtually every big name in the movie world. Dave Chasen is now marking his 25th year as a restaurateur, and he's still running Hollywood's favorite eating joint.

He's a little guy with curly hair and flat stomach ("I watch the cholesterol and I'm not reluctant to push away from the table"). His manner is always affable, and he claims never to have had fights in the house, though Humphrey Bogart and third wife Mayo Methot used to do some pretty good sparring.

Dave started in 1936 and the bit of the place was his chili, then as now.

Chasen's grew from 50 seats to its present 250, and the legends mounted with the years. I asked Dave for the times at Chasen's he remembered most fondly.

BIG DRINKING SESSION

"There was the night we held a wake for W. C. Fields," he recalled.

"Jack Dempsey was here, and Gene Fowler, John Decker, Bogart, Peter Lorre and Nunnally Johnson. We all got stiff and had one of us ever mentioned Fields' name.

"I remember that Dempsey spent two-thirds of the evening under the table — giving hoofs."

A night Dave recalls with some pain was when Fields, Bogart, Johnson, Charles Macarthur and James Thurber gathered for a wild, wet evening a few months after the cafe opened. Thurber went to the men's room two-thirds of the evening and returned with a bruised jaw, somewhat bawdy markings which would now be highly valuable.

"The charwoman came in the next morning and scrubbed the walls," Dave said sadly. "Then she quit. She said she wasn't going to work in such a wicked place."

WAGNER'S WORK

Richard Wagner began work on his music-drama "Siegfried" in 1852, and it was not completed until 1871, but he worked on other operas in the meantime.

Jackie Cooper Owner, Star, Director of Hennesey Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Cooper, who has been a star since he was three years old, keeps in performing trim carefully as he keeps in physical shape.

When he appears Saturday night in CBS' adaptation of The Paper Lion, it will be a combination holiday from Hollywood and exercise in acting for the busy performer.

Cooper, who will be 40 in September, is owner, star and director of the successful comedy series Hennesey, now in its second season. This is enough to keep the average man in a state bordering exhaustion but Cooper frequently takes time out to direct a show for some other series.

"I've been working with my own crew since 1956—I decided to direct my shows so I could get them the way I wanted them to be," he explained during a break in Four-Poster re-

PC Member Will Make Full Statement

TORONTO (CP) — John A. Fullerton, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Algoma - Manitoulin, said Monday he expects to make a full statement "within a day or two" on his account books against him at the fall sitting of the legislature.

His statement had originally been expected more than three weeks ago. Mr. Fullerton said he has been ill at his home in Thessalon with influenza and a blood ailment.

Elmer Sophe, Liberal member for Sudbury, said in the legislature Dec. 14 that Mr. Fullerton was a partner in a firm which did at least $236,000 in business with the government in 1949-50. Mr. Sophe said he believed the Legislative Assembly Act had been violated.

Premier Roberts promised to bring the matter before the legislature's committee on privileges and elections, but he praised Mr. Fullerton's reaction to the suggestions.

Mr. Fullerton told the legislature the next day he categorically denied Mr. Sophe's accusations and promised a full public statement the following week after consulting his lawyers.

Minister Sends Letter to All Councillors

TORONTO (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Fred W. Cass Monday issued one of the pleasantest warnings ever sent from his office in connection with the "increasing frequency" of municipal officers who do not display enough interest in town, civil business.

The letter was sent to all councillors across Ontario. Mr. Cass deplored the tendency of some municipalities to make per capital expenditures, "even to erect buildings and works without first having made certain that the full requirements of the law have been met."

Mr. Cass said from his Chesterville, Ont., home he had received 200 letters reminding municipal leaders of their responsibilities as they start a new year.

He said no specific incident prompted the letter although they follow a year during which a number of cases of conflict of interest were reported in Ontario municipalities.

'Substantial Increase' In OPP Traffic Force Is Recommended in Report

TORONTO (CP) — An independent study of Ontario provincial police patrols has recommended a "substantial increase" in the size of the traffic force and a stepped-up enforcement program, Attorney-General Roberts said Monday.

The attorney - general also said consideration will probably be given to setting up an "institute of criminology" to study the root causes of crime in Ontario police forces.

His remarks were made at the ceremonial opening here of the 1962 sessions of the Ontario Supreme Court.

He introduced three men from Northwestern University in Illinois — Bernard Caldwell, Hudson Hamm and Clifford Fernstrom — who have been conducting an investigation into the OPP traffic force for the attorney - general's department since last July.

SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE

Mr. Roberts said their report "studies and recommends the increase over a reasonable period of time of uniformed and other personnel and the following weekend after consulting his lawyers.

traffic records indicates they are most needed."

He said the report also deals with organization, higher standards for officers and examinations.

In addition, the report deals with magistrate's court accommodation and recommends that the increased workload which can be anticipated by a stepped-up program of this nature, a stiffening of enforcement . . .

He said the OPP traffic investigation will continue with ADDITIONAL RESEARCH

The attorney - general said a long - discussed policy college for Ontario can be anticipated "in the near future." Previous indications were that a site for Aylmer was being considered for the college.

"Looking to the future," he added, "an institute of criminology — perhaps to be established in one of our major law schools to provide additional research and teaching facilities to aid in the great labour which has been and will be undertaken by the forces of law and order in a large division" commanding — as something to consider seri-

Milestone in Canadian Foreign Relations Slips By

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A milestone in Canada's foreign relations slipped by quietly unnoticed in the dying days of 1961.

The announcement that diplomatic ties were to be established with Sierra Leone and one of 18 countries with which Canada established formal relations last year.

What gave the move significance, in the thinking of Ottawa observers, was that Ez Salvador was the last of the 20 Latin American republics to enter into relations with Canada.

Diplomatic quarters see no direct connection between completion of the process of establishing diplomatic ties with Latin America and the question of whether Canada should join the Organization of American States.

They concede, however, that the move into the hemispheric association could be the next step, until such bonds had been established.

The concensus in Ottawa is that it likely will be some time yet before the OAS has a new delegate and "joins the hemisphere." She now is the only independent nation in the hemisphere not a member of OAS.

External Affairs Minister Green has said he personally thinks it would be a good idea if Canada joined OAS, but that he first wants Canadian public opinion on the matter to crystallize. All of the Commonwealth major-opposition parties favor membership.

Establishment of diplomatic ties with El Salvador completed a process begun in 1941 when Canada set up relations with Brazil. Argentina, Chile, Guatemala, Honduras, Bolivia, Ecuador, Paraguay and, finally, El Salvador.

Closer ties with Latin America have been one of the keynotes of the present government's conduct of foreign affairs.

Mr. Green is known to feel strongly that in the part Canada has neglected Latin America. Concerted diplomatic and economic ties was one means he took to remedy this situation.

Pleads Guilty To Charge of Wilful Damage

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A construction worker who was "caught loosening bolts on the framework of a new building Monday pleaded guilty Monday to charge of wilful damage.

Douglas Montgomery, 36, originally charged with causing damage dangerous to life, was fined $100 and $45 costs on the amended charge.

Montgomery was arrested Oct. 25 on the site of Towers Maris of Canada Limited. Constable Wilson testified that he saw him loosening nuts on bolts holding the framework of a service station project Two of the nuts had been removed.

In a psychiatric report said Montgomery's action was dangerous. The weakened building would have collapsed in a high wind.

Lawyer Frank J. Keenan claimed Montgomery had only been "mischievous" and the psychiatrist's report of the police department was "not borne out by the facts."

Montgomery, of Grimsby, was described by a brief sketch as a Bachelor who is a part-time bank movie studio.

Hamilton Will Ask About U.S. Food Stamps

OTTAWA (CP) — United States progress in a food-stamp plan for needy families will be investigated this weekend at Hamilton by Canada's welfare officials on trade and economic matters.

Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton said Monday he is sending Deputy Minister Gordon Earl, Orval Freeman, on how the U.S. pilot project is working.

The U.S. program was started in four areas, including West Virginia, Illinois received 14 towns and is being expanded.

Mr. Hamilton some time ago was delegated to explore the possibilities of a comparable scheme in Canada to improve the diets of legitimately needy families who otherwise would be forced to buy foodstuffs for better health and nutrition.

He has had three proposals in his files for some months including a system of distribution using food stamps.

Canadian and U.S. ministers begin a two-day meeting here Friday, the first since last March in Washington and the second with members of President Kennedy's cabinet.

The problem here and in the U.S. is the annual farm surplus. Its the same that bobbled previous attempts to parcel out a more balanced diet to needy families. It's a question of getting through to recipients without the stigma of a means test, and still avoiding abuse of the program by those who do not need any aid, Mr. Hamilton said.

Will Refuse Appointment Queen's Council

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Lawyer R. A. MacDougall will refuse his New Year's appointment as Queen's Counsel.

Mr. MacDougall said Monday night the speecial letter today, deputy provincial secretary, to receive his QC appointment.

"I have no desire to lead a crusade, it won't be official until the letter arrives," he said.

He said he does not believe in the indiscriminate practice of appointing Queen's Counsel.

"I'm very sincere about not making a song and dance about it," Mr. MacDougall said. He said the letter makes only one in the United Kingdom. In Britain relatively few lawyers become QCs while one out of all Ontario lawyers carry the initials behind their names.

The Singing Cadegans Push Toward Broader Horizons On Inspriation of Mother

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—The Singing Cadegans, pushed toward broader horizons by the inspiration and guidance of their mother, are fast making a name for themselves in Canadian entertainment.

The family sextet, ranging in ages from 10 to 15, got its start in school music festivals and has made strides in radio and television since moving to Toronto with their mother and three younger children last September.

Mrs. Cadegan's experiment in moving her family to a big city to provide wider scope for their talents appears to be meeting success.

Since they arrived in Toronto where they were immediately signed to appear in the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand show, they have occupied guest spots on several TV shows and have cut three records.

TOPPED FESTIVAL

Shortly before they left Toronto to spend Christmas with their father and brother Paula, 15, Elaine, 14, Karen, 12, Ernest, 11, Colleen 10, and Donna 10, video-taped a guest appearance on the Juliette Show.

The acclaim accorded the Cadegans by Ontario audiences was no surprise to Cape Breton admirers. Consistent winners at annual music festivals their achievements reached a climax last spring when they received an unprecedented 92 points in the junior folk song chorus class.

The group, which won extravagant praise from adjudicator Timothy Turner, a British authority on choral technique, was awarded a trophy for top performance in the entire festival.

The Cadegans have made three records during their short career, the latest of which was released recently and features most of their more popular numbers.

Through it all, Mrs. Cadegan makes sure the children's school marks don't suffer. All boast high grades. Chaperoning her singers and looking after the youngest children, Timothy Allen, 3, and Marguerite, 2, leave her for idle moments.

She has already begun to encourage the three youngest children to participate in group singing at homegatherings for the day when they may follow in the footsteps of their brother and sisters.

Defence Counsel Asks Charge Be Reduced

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Queen's Bench trial of a Thorndell boy charged with murder in the strangulation Nov. 13 of Sylvia Ann Kent, 7, ended Monday as defence lawyer W. R. Poole offered no evidence.

Mr. Poole asked that the charge be reduced from one of murder to manslaughter. Mr. Judge W. H. Fox then remanded the boy to June 5 for judgment on the charge and the application.

Judge Fox earlier had admitted as evidence a statement the boy gave to detectives when he was arrested 11 days after the girl's death.

The statement, read in an attic alcove of an abandoned store on Dundas street, her head and upper body were suspended from an electric light cable by her blue dress belt, knotted tightly around her throat.

She had died apparently several hours earlier when her mother sent her to buy a newspaper.

In the statement, the boy said he helped to place the girl in the alcove, with the belt around her neck, but he denied that she was dead when he left the attic.

According to the statement the boy told police he spoke to the girl and she volunteered to go into the abandoned store with him.

Later, the boy said, they conspired to provide an excuse in case of discovery. He said he asked the girl for the money she had to buy the newspaper and he placed it on the floor near the entrance of the room.

He said he told the girl to lie down and dragged her by the belt-string to the corner, asked by police if he had put the belt around the girl's neck, he replied: "Well, I helped."

He said he placed the girl's shoes beside her and put two storm windows in front of the alcove to partially hide her from view.

He denied that he tied the loose end of the belt to anything. He said the girl was alive when he left and told him that she would leave later.

The boy is charged under the Juvenile Delinquents Act.

At the beginning of the trial, Judge Fox instructed newspaper men that names of any witnesses called, other than professional personnel, were not to be used.

Testimony which would indicate the identity of the accused was not to be used. No undue publicity was to be given to the case.

Civil Service Assoc. to Fight Latest Edict

TORONTO (CP)—A member of the legislature demanded a judicial inquiry Monday and the Ontario Civil Service Association said it will "fight to the bitter end" in connection with the dismissal of two Don Jail guards and the suspension of a third.

Kenneth Bryden, New Democratic Party member for Toronto Woodbine, said jail authorities have persecuted employees "trump up" cases against the three guards.

The dismissals and suspension followed a hair-dyeing incident at the jail. Brennan Keatinge, a former London bobby who darkened his prematurely white hair, was suspended for 10 days.

James Keatings, president of the Don Jail branch of the Civil Service Association, was dismissed, along with Tony Simpson.

Orville Jones, association organizer, said Keatings was dismissed because he declined to reply to questions of a team investigating the hair-dyeing incident, and Simpson was dismissed because he talked to the press about it.

Mr. Jones said none of the guards has the right of appeal.

At an emergency meeting, the association decided to send telegrams to Premier Robarts, cabinet ministers and other members of the legislature asking for the "restoration of the right of appeal for all jail employees."

Tweed, Hungerford Voters 90 Per Cent in Favor of Leaving School District

TWEED (Special) — Results of the two municipalities of Tweed village and Hungerford township have voted overwhelmingly in favor of withdrawal from the Centre Hastings High School Area and to form their own high school district.

In a referendum held Monday, Tweed ratepayers voted 668 to 69 to withdraw from the Centre Hastings High School Area, while in Hungerford township the vote was 817 for withdrawal, with only 93 nay votes cast.

While yesterday's vote indicated the overwhelming desire of ratepayers to withdraw from their high school area, the withdrawal still has to be approved by members of Hastings county council.

Area high school board officials, together with reeves of Tweed and Hungerford and principals of the three high schools in the district are being called to Toronto this week to confer with Department of Education officials on the matter.

MARKED BY ANNOUNCEMENT

The move by Hungerford and Tweed to withdraw from the Centre Hastings High School Area was sparked more than a month ago following the announcement that the two senior governments were prepared to pay the cost of a million-dollar technical school addition to the Madoc school.

Ratepayers of Tweed and Hungerford opposed the move on the grounds that operational and maintenance costs costs of the proposed school would be too high. It was also suggested that construction of the Madoc school addition would eventually mean the closing of the Tweed high school. Centre Hastings school board members say withdrawal of Tweed and Hungerford would jeopardize construction of the proposed technical school addition at Madoc. The minimum enrolment for such a school is 1,000 students and the withdrawal of the two municipalities would mean the enrolment requirements could not be met.

Arguments both for and against were heard at the December session of the county council when that body was asked to approve of the requested withdrawal.

At that time, however, council laid the matter over until its January session with the suggestion that a referendum be held to determine the wish of the ratepayers.

Snow Squalls Close Schools, Block Roads

Bitterly Cold Winds Whip Across Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Bitterly cold winds whipping across the Great Lakes today continued to torment blizzard conditions in parts of Ontario while the rest of the province was enjoying clear skies.

The snow squalls closed schools, marooned school-children and blocked highways Tuesday. They were most severe in the Niagara and Bruce peninsulas and Prince Edward County.

The snow started Tuesday morning, continued into the night, and likely will persist until the winds change from the present westerly direction. The weather office says little change is expected for two days.

Provincial police warned motorists to stay off highways between London and Fort Erie because of drifting snow and gen. erally poor visibility.

SAVED BY FATHER

Two young men trapped in a towboat amid loose ice on Lake Erie were rescued when a fish. ing tug smashed its way to them through the ice.

John Payne, 21, and Raymond Hoyda, 20, became trapped about a mile off Port Stanley when the ice surrounded them. Three fishing tugs worked more than an hour before Harold Payne — John's father — got his tug, the D and B, through to the boat.

Two school buses were stranded in Milford, southwest of Picton. The pupils spent the CHICAGO (AP) — A mass of bitter cold weather held wide sections of the United States in an unyielding grip today.

In some sections, the cold weather was accompanied by heavy snow—up to 34 inches in a continuous fall.

Hundreds of schools were forced to close because of the weather.

The drain on overtaxed heating facilities—mostly by natural gas—was astronomical.

Scores of deaths were attracted to the weather. Some of the deaths were caused by overexertion and others in traffic accidents resulting from iced, snow-covered surfaces.

Few sections of the country were outside the freezing cold. These included the extreme western portions of Oregon and Washington, most of California, southern sections of Nevada and Arizona, sections of Georgia and the Carolinas and Florida.

By contrast, southern Florida early morning temperatures were mokily in the 70s.

Chicago's 11 below zero at 2 a.m. was the lowest reading for the date in 74 years. Dakhart, Tex., had two below. Cincinnati threw below, Louisville one below and St. Louis six below.

Most of the Midwest already was covered by snow, ranging up to 30 inches in Michigan. New snow Monday and Tuesday added to the difficulties of transportation and utility services.

Heavy snow and continued bitter cold forced the closing of schools in Michigan from the Mackinac Bridge to the Indiana line.

Western Pennsylvania got a little snow, but temperatures ranged around the zero mark. A wide section of the South was under snow that ranged up to eight inches in spots. Heavy snow forced closing of roads 100 miles from the Gulf Coast in Alabama and in Mississippi, northern Georgia, the Carolinas and Tennessee.

Flames roll through upper storey windows during the height of this morning's East Bridge Street fire which caused up to half a million dollar loss.

Destroyed in the blaze was the four storey Ben Safe block, containing stores, offices, apartments and a six-lane bowling alley.

Loss Up To Half Million As Ben Safe Block Gutted By Flames This Morning

Half Dozen Businesses, Alley, Office and Apartments Affected

Fire loss estimated at between a quarter and a half million dollars occurred in Belleville's downtown district this morning as flames swept through a four-storey East Bridge Street block.

Damaged or destroyed in the blaze, which was discovered shortly after eight o'clock were a half dozen street level businesses, a lawyer's office, the Recreation Bowling alleys and two apartments.

Two families living in second and third floor apartments lost practically all their possessions in the blaze, which was fought by three fire departments in close to zero temperatures.

Scene of the blaze was the Ben Safe block midway between Front and Pinnacle Streets on the south side of Bridge Street.

Firemen brought the blaze under control following a three-hour battle.

BOY SMELLED SMOKE

The teen-aged son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hinks living in one of the apartments of the Safe building smelled smoke at about seven this morning.

He ran down to the street and saw smoke coming from one of the stores on the ground floor. He ran to the nearby Black Bros. Market from where the alarm was turned in.

Belleville firemen fought the blaze with all available equipment and when the fire got out of control equipment was rushed in from nearby Trenton and Frankford. The blaze was under control by shortly after eleven. The roof of the four-storey structure had fallen in in several places and firemen expressed fear that the walls might collapse.

MASS OF ICE

Tons of water poured into the blaze from a half dozen or more lines of hose and from three aerial pumpers, quickly turned ice over the entire front of the doomed structure was soon a mass of ice.

Hydro wires in front of the building hampered the operation of firemen with their aerial ladders until hydro crews were able to cut off the power and cut the wires.

City police diverted traffic around the scene of the blaze as hundreds of spectators watched the fire from the safety of the opposite side of the street.

No firemen were hurt or overcome by smoke but a dozen or so spectators got treated with ice cold water as a coupling was disconnected from a pumper truck and sprayed the nearby watching crowd.

Through traffic along Bridge Street was diverted throughout the morning.

STARTED IN FURNACE

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said it was believed the fire started in a furnace either on the ground floor or basement of one of the stores.

The blaze quickly ate its way up through partitions and spread rapidly in both directions among all four floors of the building.

Ground floor businesses burned out included Bata Shoes, Bell Barriere has no fire - fighting equipment of its own.

William Allen New Chairman Metro Council

TORONTO (CP) — Controller William Allen was unanimously elected Chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Council Tuesday night, while at Queen's Park a caucus of Conservative MPP's from his new constituency heard the future of the system he has to administer.

Mr. Allen, a 42-year-old lawyer who has never been defeated in a municipal election, took the top job on a vote of 14 to 10. He received 13 city and four suburban votes to win over his only official opponent, Reeve Norman Goodbrand of North York.

Harry Bradley, a perennially unsuccessful candidate for municipal office, strode into the chamber before council convened and accused the council of being riddled with fascism and communism. The "self-made man by profession," who says

TRENTON MAN FACES CHARGE IN HOTEL FIRE

Grand Central Hotel At Brockville Burns

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Police today charged railway conductor P. L. Davis, 48, of Trenton with arson as the result of a fire which destroyed the Grand Central Hotel this morning. He will appear in Magistrate's Court today.

None of the 34 guests in the 50 room hotel was injured. Many fled the building in their nightclothes. The temperature outside was along zero.

A strong westerly wind threatened at one stage to carry the fire to other nearby buildings but firemen had the blaze under control and confined to the hotel by 9 a.m.

The hotel was destroyed. Loss was estimated unofficially at $500,000.

J. O. Anderson of Brockville, who was in the room next to where the fire started, said he heard a lot of yelling and thought someone was having a nightmare.

He went into the hall where he met Cpl. Gerald Curtis of the Brockville police department and they knocked on the door but got no response. They then broke the door down and discovered the fire. Both grabbed fire extinguishers and tried to had the blaze under control when the extinguishers became empty. By the time they obtained others from another floor the fire was out of control.

HEARD MAN SHOUTING

Cpl. Curtis said he was patrolling downtown Brockville when he heard a man shouting from the top floor of the three-storey brick hotel and noticed what appeared to be flickering lights. "I thought it was a party and went to notify the hotel's desk clerk," the officer said.

Desk Clerk Roy Monahan rang the hotel's fire alarm system then knocked on the door of each room.

EXPORT SALES REACH RECORD IN OCTOBER

Imports Were Also Up 27 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Exports of goods valued at a record $649,200,000 in October as shipments to the United States and non-Commonwealth markets showed sharp gains, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The preliminary estimate—15 per cent higher than the $562,700,000 of exports in October, 1960 — was just a shade under the month's imports which also reached a new peak.

October imports, valued at $568,000,000 were 24.7 per cent higher than the year - earlier level of $447,400,000.

The small $2,800,000 trade deficit for the month still left the country with a $52,100,000 trade surplus — excess of exports over imports — for the first 10 months of the year. In 1960 there was a $70,000,000 trade deficit during January - October.

The big October gain in ship.

Bail for Eight Set at $400,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bail totalling $400,000 was set Tuesday for eight of 23 persons arrested here as alleged members of a heroin "distribution ring which police said is the largest ever uncovered in Western Canada.

Two separate conspiracies are alleged.

The first, said Special Prosecutor Russell Twining, involved 16 of the suspected traffickers and the distribution of 46 ounces of pure heroin worth an estimated $250,000 in the illicit drug

Berlin Wall 'Too Horrible' Says Lord Home After Tour

BERLIN (Reuters) — British Foreign Secretary Lord Home toured the Berlin Wall today and described it as "horrible."

Home flew here Tuesday night from Bonn, where he and Prime Minister Macmillan got Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's agreement to take steps to plug the drain of foreign currency reserves caused by the maintenance of a British army in West Germany.

He toured the wall with West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt.

"It is too horrible," he said. "One can hardly believe that this is the 20th century."

In a speech at West Berlin's city hall, Lord Home declared that Western allies "care passionately about liberty" and intended to preserve three liberties for the West Berliners:

"1. The right of Berliners to live the life of their own choice, and

"2. The right of Berliners to uninterrupted contact with the world outside.

"3. The right of Berliners to receive and be hosts to any of their friends and allies with their own city."

In Bonn Tuesday night, British sources said the decision reached in the talks to set up a British-German committee to oversee West German arms purchases in Britain has put a real push behind long-standing efforts to get German help with the foreign exchange problem.

The communique issued after the Macmillan-Adenauer meeting said the new arms committee will be made up of junior cabinet ministers and senior officials from both countries and will sit for the first time Jan. 22.

The communique said Adenauer suggested increased arms purchases "on a considerable scale."

If all goes well with the new committee, there were several predictions that the West German might double the £300,000,000 they now spend annually for British arms.

Elderly Bewdley Bachelor Farmers Robbed Five Times

BEWDLEY, Ont. (CP) — Elderly bachelor farmers Fred and Fontaine Maybee have been robbed five times in eight months. They blame their latest loss early Tuesday, on too much talk about what the robbers missed on their previous visit.

Phoney Canada Academic Laurels Used to Get Academy Fellowship

NEW YORK (CP)—Frederic Wichtermann, a Swiss who all boaxed the New York Academy of Sciences into electing him a fellow, was reported today to have claimed phoney Canadian academic laurels to get the fellowship.

The Times says Wichtermann, who has passed as "recipient and regular professor in medicine, philosophy and psychology at the National University College in Toronto,"

However, Dr. Walter Weinert of the West German government, who has made a study of degree mills, described the "National University" in his report as one of a number of "factories of doctorates" throughout the world, the story says. Its charter was revoked in 1946, according to Dr. Wienert.

The academy says Wichtermann's name apparently got on its fellowship rolls inadvertently. He also described himself as a professor at institutions in London and Paris.

Canadian-Born U.S. Envoy Quits Exclusive Club as Negro Barred

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith resigned today from the exclusive Cosmos Club in protest against the club for intellectuals, with him his nomination for President Kennedy to become a member.

The reason he quit, the Canadian-born Galbraith told a reporter, was that the club turned down the membership application of Carl Rowan, a Negro who is deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs.

Rowan's rejection also prompted Edward R. Murrow, director of the U.S. Information Agency, to withdraw his membership application. There were other resignations too.

Galbraith, U.S. ambassador to India who is being treated at the Bethesda Naval Hospital for a throat condition, said his action automatically cancelled his nomination of Kennedy for membership.

The co-sponsor for Kennedy is Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Harvard University, but Galbraith said he did not know what Conant would do.

Galbraith telephoned his decision to White House officials,

213 Recruits Start Special Second Course

The second special six-week militia training course is now well underway with 213 recruits taking part, Major Alex Cunningham, officer in charge of the course said yesterday afternoon. The second of the four such courses scheduled for the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment was well over-subscribed with applicants being turned away after 300 had been received.

The current group have settled quickly into their training and Major Cunningham stated that he felt the recruits had every potential of bettering the record of the first course, which was the best militia training group in eastern Ontario.

The first group will leave its mark on the second, however. Five of the top candidates have been taken on the instructional staff and will be teaching the new crop of candidates.

The present course also differs from the first in the ages of the candidates. Whereas there was a large number of men between 37 and 50 years of age in the first group, the majority in the second are from 16 to 23 years old, Major Cunningham said.

Transportation, which posed a problem for some candidates on previous courses following the compulsory withdrawal of army vehicles for such operations, has been replaced by the formation of car pools for those from Madoc, Trenton, Ivanhoe and other communities in the district.

Already there have been 55 applicants for the next course which commences on February 27th, recruiting officer Captain Al Pinder advises. Any person wishing to sign up may do so at any meeting of the local armouries. Applicants will be treated on a first come, first served basis, and be considered by applying for the course are urged to be medically examined as soon as possible since a great many were disappointed to be unable to accepted for the current course because of delaying their application, Capt. Pinder said.

Macmillan Completes Fifth Year As Prime Minister, 68th Birthday Coming Up

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Five years ago today Maurice Harold Macmillan kissed hands with the Queen and formally took seals of office as Britain's 42nd prime minister.

Few thought he would last long. He inherited the ruins of Sir Anthony Eden's Middle East-Suez policy; gasoline was rationed; an economic crisis threatened; and Britain was often lined up to emigrate to Canada, Australia and other Commonwealth countries, seeking a brighter future for their children.

Today Harold Macmillan survived. He became Supermac, the "unflappable man" who could stand up to Russia's Nikita Khrushchev, who could ease Britain's apartheid right into segregationist South Africa and who could shop his figures and dismiss the resignations of senior colleagues as "little local difficulties."

He emerged as one of British politics' most resilient men, regularly setting aside suffocating routine for winter journeys that took him to every corner of the Commonwealth except Malaya and gave him a judgment based on practical experience that none of his cabinet colleagues could match.

SECOND LIKE IT.

Today, with his 68th birthday just around the corner, this is the most remarkable milestone who conceals an unexpected weak. No plans were taken.

HAD LONG INDICTMENT.

Police were armed with a seven-foodstuffs indictment for warrants for the arrest of 36 persons when they began their raids.

The indictment named all suspects as conspirators, and contained 32 substantive counts of possession of narcotics for trafficking purposes.

Police said the arrests concluded three months of investigation in which three pounds of heroin were seen cached in one, ounce holding in windrooms of service stations and in coin laundries.

As more of the arrests crowded drug squad officers said the price of a $5 cap rose steadily until it was $10 by Tuesday evening.

MARKET ISSUE VITAL

Perhaps the biggest decision Macmillan has taken during his five years involved opening negotiations for Britain's entry into Europe, an historic move for an island nation. He will probably want to see the Commonwealth negotiations through to a conclusion, one way or the other, before retiring to his country house in Sussex.

Macmillan never enjoyed overwhelming popularity. In the early months he was described as the least-liked prime minister since Neville Chamberlain; then came brief periods as "supermac" when he acted as a kind of "headwaiter" in international relations.

Recently the government has had some awkward moments, mainly in the House of Commons, but Macmillan undoubtedly remains firmly in control. Perhaps the most frequent criticism is that he has somehow failed to offer to the country any special ideal or sense of where it is going in an era of declining imperial power, other than the age-old one of material prosperity summed up in his own phrase: "You've never had it so good."

trade since 1957.

Seven suspected traffickers are involved in a smaller ring which Mr. Dunlop said the Crown alleges dealt in caches of heroin ranging from 36 to 75 ounces.

STILL SEEK 11 . . .

Two suspects were arrested in Victoria, B.C., and two arrested earlier in Calgary, were said to be connected with the conspiracy. Eleven others are sought in the Vancouver area.

Magistrate Gordon Scott set bail for Alexander Robert MacDonald, 41, a Vancouver taxi driver, and Michael Petrowski, 42, a roomhouse operator, at $100,000 each.

The prosecutor described the two as the "brains" in the case for conspiracy, along with Ronald Edward Hill, 31, auto sales man, who did not ask for bail.

Hill's wife, Mavis Eileen 32, is also charged with conspiracy. Bail for John Pogash Singh, 32, a trucker, was set at $50,000, the Crown told the court.

asked for "those in the major conspiracy group outside the ringleaders."

The cases were remanded a week. No plea were taken.

THE RAID.

A week after the convictions, the brothers say, two men posing as plainclothes policemen turned up at the farm and made off with about $700 which they found in a bag in a bedroom closet.

Neighbors of the brothers reported $200 stolen from a Belleville store while they were away from the house.

Cpl. Lyle Erskine of Cobourg, who is heading the investigation for the RCMP, said the brothers told him today they would ask police prosecutor Jack Long at Belleville and for instructions on how to use it.

March of Dimes Endorsed by Mayor Haig

Mayor Haig announced today that he had given his official endorsement to the March of Dimes campaign committee. "This is a worthwhile project" he stated, "and I urge all citizens to make the "Marching Mothers" welcome when they call at every local home on the night of January 30th."

Over 500 mothers will be calling on a dozen of their neighbors in Belleville that night to raise funds for the March of Dimes.

The March is scheduled to start at 7 o'clock, and will be over by 8 o'clock. The city will be divided into 500 districts, each under a captain. Mrs. James Baker, Chief Marching Mother for the Belleville area, stated that each volunteer will be asked to call on 20 homes in her own district and will be completing her calls in one hour or less. Volunteers in the Belleville area are asked to call the "Chief Marching Mother" Mrs. Sisler at WO 8-6786.

Labor Council Wants Minister Dismissed

OSHAWA (CP)—The Oshawa and District Labor Council voted Tuesday night to ask Premier Robarts to dismiss Health Minister Matthew Dymond, and severely reprimand former agriculture minister W. A. Goodfellow for their "dismal failure . . . to prevent the sale of diseased meat for human consumption."

The move was recommended by Thomas Edwards, first vice-president of the council's political action committee.

ferring heavy fire, smoke and water damage included the Dawson and Dawson insurance and travel office; Better Home Improvement; Supreme Hair Styles; Ruth's Hat Shop, Bel-Mode Ltd., ladies' clothing store; Slack's Meat Market and Ed. Lozan's jewellery store.

The downtown law office of Ormonde Dutler on the second floor of the building was gutted.

CARRY OUT GOODS

Store owners and volunteers worked hurriedly to save goods from the ground level stores. Employees of Slack's Meat Market carried sides of beef and other meat stocks to safety.

Records from a finance company in a building behind Dawson's also carried to safety as the fire threatened to spread beyond the Bridge St. E.

Fire-walls at the end of the block prevented the blaze from flames to the building occupied by Patrick's Barber Shop and the Upper Central Board store.

ONE OF OLDEST

"I smelled smoke just as I got up at eight o'clock," stated Mrs. Vincent Lovett of 20 Station Street.

She went to the street and saw smoke seeping from the front window of one of the stores.

Vincent tried to drag the wounded detective back down the stairs and was shot himself in the back.

He is in critical condition.

Rouleau died under a hail of bullets as he tried to climb from the second to the third floor.

Say GM Sales Set Last Quarter Record

OSHAWA — Sales of General Motors passenger cars and trucks during the final three months of 1961 set an all-time high for a year's fourth quarter. Retail sales of 55,807 vehicles in the period represented an increase of 5.8 per cent over the fourth quarter of 1960.

Sales in November, 1961, were at a record high for the month, but December sales fell behind to 15,454 units from 17,106 in the previous December because of a strike at the company's Oshawa and Windsor plants. Sales figures for the final 10 days of December, however, were four per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1960.

Total retail sales of new GM cars and trucks in Canada during the 1961 calendar year totalled 227,432
